

Examiner Finds Probate Judge's Office "Clear."

Not a Single Dollar of Shortage Found in all Transactions of the Office.

For the past three weeks Hon. J. H. Craig, special state examiner of public accounts, has been engaged in examination of the books and records in the office of Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds. His investigations were completed Tuesday, and he states that he finds everything in excellent condition. He did not find a single dollar of shortage in the public funds which have been handled in the office, and at the end of his examination he gave the Probate Judge "a clean sheet."

While Mr. Craig has been very courteous and nice in his treatment of the officers whom he has examined, it is worthy to note that Judge Reynolds admits that he has been really and truly "examined." As special examiner for the state, Mr. Craig has gone into the details of every transaction of the office since Judge Reynolds took charge, and the fact that he puts a clean O.K. on the records is indeed a high compliment to the Judge and his office force.

Commenting on the matter Wednesday Judge Reynolds stated:

"I appreciate the kindness and courtesy which the examiner has shown in dealing with the records of my office. But you may say that I have certainly been 'examined,' from the beginning of my office acts to the present."

W. H. GOODGAME,
APPOINTED CITY MARSHAL

When you see Bill Goodgame coming down the street now, you had better look out how you behave, for he may be up to something besides just going to the market to get some "cow" for his hotel dinner. Everybody knows that Bill put up the Exchange Hotel here a few months ago and has made a fair success of the venture; but everybody may not know that for the past few weeks he carries under his coat the police badge of the Town of Clanton, and if things should get too lively he might have a club stuck in his pocket somewhere.

Mr. Goodgame has been designated as Policeman by the Town Council since the resignation of former Marshal Joe Gore.

WADE'S WEEKLY LETTER

New Year Resolution

Whereas, the United States of America is at war with the Imperial Government of Germany and the Dual Monarchy, Austria-Hungary; whereas, American soldiers, guns, munitions, money, and food must be the decisive factors in winning the war for the liberation of humanity and the permanency of Democracy; and whereas, the brave young men of America will constitute the invincible soldiery; American manufacturers will supply the guns and the wealth of America will supply the money.

Be it resolved, that I shall use all my energy, talent and influence and urge all farmers of Alabama and the United States to join me in this resolution to plant and cause to be planted, cultivated and harvested an abundance of food in 1918.

Be it further resolved, that we implore that great God of the Universe to give us health, favorable seasons, and protect us from disasters to the end, that our civil population may be prosperous and contented, our soldiers and Allies well fed. May those who have not been producing but have had knowledge and experience return to the farms during this crisis. May every farmer work one more day each week and one more hour each day. May they add one more cow and one more brood sow to their herds. May they plant one more acre to corn and may they harvest one more bushel per acre in the new year than they did during the year that has past. May their acreage and yields of all crops be increased in the same proportion and more, if necessary.

May our soldiers and Allies have health, courage, and clear minds. May they speedily conquer the war lords who menace humanity and civilization. May the Crown Heads of Prussia be made to feel humble and dependent as the Belgian child whose country has been devastated; whose home has been burned; whose father has been slain; whose mother has been outraged, and who itself has been deported into slavery. Let every man know and do his duty. The cause is a just and righteous one. David said, "I have been young and now am old; yet I have never seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

God speed the victory is the New Year prayer, resolution and best wishes of your humble servant,
J. A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agri. and Ind.

RED CROSS NEWS

We keenly regret that Chilton county did not come up with her quota in the Red Cross drive. 165 members were annexed making our chapter contain 265 in all, largely composed of townspeople. It is the earnest desire at headquarters to interest friends in the rural districts. 299 was our apportionment so that we are behind 134 members. This is vital to us all that each one belong and that each one do his bit toward making our soldiers comfortable. One thing absolutely necessary to their comfort is sweaters. These are not furnished by the government so the Red Cross has undertaken it. Ours are the best equipped soldiers in the world. They wear better clothes, get better salaries—all furnished by "Uncle Sam." Would anyone of us hesitate to add to this by furnishing wool to be knit into sweaters for these boys in khaki who are shedding their life's blood for us? My dear friends in the country you can do this by buying a Red Cross membership for one dollar. Prominent citizens from several communities have refused. Do they realize that we are at war? We should not only have 134 join but twice that number. I leave it with you. Even now the Red Cross is calling for 50,000 sweaters to be distributed at Montgomery, Anniston and Alexandria. Our chapter should furnish at least 50 pounds of wool. We have money for 25 pounds. We need your help to get the money and then your help to knit the sweaters.

Give your name and dollar to Miss Lurline Harper our untiring chairman or leave it for her at either drug store. We urge you to do your patriotic duty.

SOLDIERS HOME

Cold weather has arrived. The old Vets are hovering over their respective fires, trying to keep warm.

Death claimed one of the veterans Saturday morning at 6:45. Name: Moses Wright, aged 81 years. Was born in Monroe county Ga., and was a member of the Western Army under Albert Sidney Johnston.

Christmas has passed into the great beyond, and the dawn of another year is hastening on—A year promising many possibilities and dangers threatening the United States and her Allies. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel of progress, and help our President, Woodrow Wilson, pull off "one grand stunt" vs the Kaiser and his evil designs and followers, thus making 1918 one glorious triumph of armies over her enemies, soon and forever.

Our little village Marbury is as still as a mouse these days, yet busy as a "bee" within. Attending her own business. It is a great pity that "some people" don't emulate the virtue of this little town.

The Red Cross here is a decided success. Hurrah for our good women.

J. C. CHRISTIAN, M.D.

GET CITY LICENSES

"The time have arrived" wherein it is proper, altogether appropriate, and entirely desirable on the part of the city officials that everybody doing any kind of business in Clanton secure a franchise license for the conduct of the same for the year 1918.

City Clerk, H. M. Simpson, has yours ready to pass out to you upon delivery of the requisite cash. Pass up to the window and let him perform delivery of your license. Your old franchise expired on Dec. 31 and is good for nothing now except to stick on the wall and show what it once stood for.

WHO SAID IT WAS COLD IN SOUTHLAND?

Reports From Alaska Make Thermometer Readings in U. S. Look Like "30 Cents."

Dawson, Yukon Territory, December 31.—Eighty-six below zero is the record for this season for the recent cold which began several weeks ago. This was at the mouth of Pelly river, 150 miles up the Yukon river from here. At White Horse, 72 below has been registered.

Thermometers in Dawson have registered between 50 and 60 degrees below for a month. Hospitals are crowded with pneumonia cases and many deaths have occurred. No funerals are possible until the weather moderates.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

This is to remind you that the Teachers Association for Chilton county will meet at Clanton at the High School Building next Saturday, January 5th, 1918 at 10 o'clock A.M.

An interesting program has been arranged, and it is hoped that every teacher in the county will attend.

Teachers will receive their salaries for December on next Saturday.

HOW THE DEMOCRATS ARE FORGETTING POLITICS

The Seattle Times says: "W. D. Jamieson, of Washington, D. C., assistant treasurer of the Democratic national committee, who was in Seattle recently, advised local bourgeois and the state committee to prepare for a hard fight next year to elect a Democratic Congress to support President Woodrow Wilson and his cabinet."

"Jamieson discussed the war in general and party organization plans more extensively. He told the Democratic leaders that the party was keeping in touch with precinct committeemen throughout the country for the first time since the party was organized and would expect a hard fight to be waged in the 1918 campaign. He did not outline the probable issues."

"Mrs. George Bass chairman of the woman's national Democratic committee, also conferred with local Democratic leaders among the women. A group of women was summoned by Mrs. A. Jeff Nelson to meet Mrs. Bass and with them organization work was planned for the future."

"Jamieson has been making a swing around the country since the adjournment of Congress, hitting the high spots and feeling out party leaders. He told the Democratic leaders here that he had found the country as a whole united behind the President in his war policy, and that he had found Democratic organizations, as a rule, in position to make a new campaign."

"State chairman John B. Fogarty and Jack Coleman came down from Everett to attend the meeting, which was held in the New Washington. Both the state and federal office holders and prominent Democrats from out of town were represented at the conference."

Wish We Had More Like Him

Monday our friend Bernie L. Cobb from Jemison was a visitor at the Union-Banner office. He brought with him the money to pay three subscriptions. He stated that he constantly talks for the paper among his friends and neighbors. This is the kind of friends that a newspaper needs. If every friend of ours would do like Mr. Cobb—boost the paper—we would be able then with the added co-operation it would bring, to give our readers even a better paper than we are now giving them. If you are a friend to the Union-Banner, adopt the plan of Mr. Cobb and get your next door neighbor to subscribe. We will thank you for every word you say.

CHATTANOOGA WOMAN, AGED 117 YEARS, DIES

Chattanooga, December 31.—Mrs. Sarah Sealf, who, according to relatives, was 117 years old, died here to night after an illness of two weeks. Born in Pulaski county, Virginia, in 1800, Mrs. Sealf was the mother of 12 children, all of whom are dead. When 9 years old, it is said that Mrs. Sealf was lost in the mountains of Virginia during a storm and roamed the forests for six months before being captured, having developed a fear of human beings and hiding at their approach. Following her capture she had to be confined for six months before regaining her normal faculties.

GENERAL PERSHING REPORTS DEATH OF SIXTEEN MEN AND ONE NURSE IN FRANCE

Washington, December 31.—General Pershing today reported the deaths of 16 soldiers and one nurse. They included: Sergeant Welby N. Crang, aero squadron, pneumonia, Clinton, Oklahoma, and Private Garland E. McCoy, aero squadron, pneumonia, Portsmouth, Va.

Estimates show that the Government Printing Office will use 100,000,000 pounds of paper, costing about $4,000,000, this year.

FARM LABOR PROBLEM IS A DIFFICULT THING.

Admission of Chinese Farmers Is Under Consideration

At the instance of Republicans in the Senate the Committee on Agriculture of that body has been directed, by unanimous resolution, "to make careful investigation into the advisability of recommending legislation that will permit the importation of Chinese farmers into the United States" for the duration of the war. The resolution was no sooner adopted than enthusiastic endorsement of the idea began to be heard from all parts of the country, especially from the Pacific Coast.

The Board of Trade of the city of Pasadena, California, has passed a resolution favoring the proposition; the 50th Annual Convention of the California Fruit Growers' Association has taken similar action; and the press of the State is giving wide and favorable publicity to the movement. Letters and telegrams from individuals also attest to the impending disaster to our food supply if the labor shortage is not met before the next harvest season.

In the East the matter is being taken up and the press of New York City is giving it prominent notice. Word has come from Connecticut that that State has been "positively combed clean" of laborers of every description, and thousands of valuable farms in that section of the country are lying idle as a consequence.

It is not the intention of the proponents of the resolution so to amend our immigration laws as to permit the importation of what are known as "coolies," but to admit only farmers. The efficiency of the Chinese farmer is of the highest. It is said they can raise more produce from a given area of land than any other people in the world, and their general intelligence is far above that of the coolie. Cuba and France already have drawn upon China to relieve their labor shortage, and it is reported by the Congressmen who recently visited the war zone, that there are in France at the present time, or en route to that country, about 100,000 Chinese farmers. They receive a daily wage of twenty cents and their board.

Official figures show that already the United States has within its borders about 17,200 Chinese farmers, 760 of whom own their own farms. About 12,000 of the number are in the State of California, and have so favorably impressed the agricultural interests of that state that they are anxious to have the number increased.

It is not anticipated that the movement will excite the antagonism of the labor interests, as the Chinese, if brought to this country, will be sent only to those places where there is no labor of any kind to be had. They will be kept here probably not longer than six months after the close of the war, and then returned to their own country, giving way to our soldiers who will have come back to their homes ready to resume the tillage of our farms.

Sentiment in favor of the suggestion is expected to increase during the winter, among Democrats as well as Republicans, and it is hoped that by spring well formulated plans can be put in operation to give practical effect to the proposal.

Another One Came Back

Mr. M. O. Culp of Route 4, who has not been taking the Union-Banner for some months past, came in Monday and renewed for another year. He said: "A fellow out in the country who once gets used to the Union-Banner just simply can't get along without it."

Alfred L. Robinson and son, Oscar, of Corinth were visitors to Clanton Monday.

UNION SPRINGS

The holidays were unusually quiet here. Too many sad hearts for any mirth.

Tom and Oscar Waldrup of Herron, Ill., visited their parents here last week.

Jerome Burnett one of the soldier boys was buried at Shady Grove, just across the county line near the Southern Railroad, Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Waldrup of Randolph visited the latter's parents Christmas day.

What promised to be a serious run-away just before the holidays was when E. G. Glass' team became frightened in front of Brown's store in Randolph and ran four miles to their home without injuring themselves or wagon. They ran into a little negro's wagon enroute and demolished it but did not hurt the negro. The driver followed them in a car but failed to overtake them before reaching home.

On the 18th day of Dec., Mr. A. J. Eshleman of Maryland delivered two sermons in this community. He held his audience spell bound from start to finish. His first subject was "Faith," Second "Sowing and Reaping." He is a young man of fine learning and ability. His rhetoric and fluency of speech were charming. In line with that great reformer of the 20th century, Pastor Russell, it would have been a treat for all our ministers to have heard him. In speaking of the present crisis he said this was only the beginning of sorrows. His talks were jubilant of the beautiful golden future.

Mrs. Amber Russ of Florida visited her parents here last week.

Miss Leon Scott of Free Springs visited here last week.

1917, one of the most eventful years of our history is gone, its troubles were pointed out nearly thirty years ago by the great logician, Chas. T. Russell. Many of influence and knowledge are corroborating his predictions, while great numbers in private life say he was correct.

As we go the untold way of 1918 let us still look at the silver lining of the cloud, because gladness is coming to stay. The Dial of the great clock of the ages points to the glad tomorrow.

Happy New Year to the Editor and his readers.

The New Methodist Preacher

We say "New" Methodist preacher because he is new to Clanton, and not in the sense that he is a novice in his "line" of work. The person referred to is the Rev. E. C. Maye who has recently come here to take charge of the Methodist church.

Mr. Maye paid The Union-Banner a call Monday just to get acquainted with the quill-pusher, and our impression of him is indeed most favorable. If we are not badly mistaken by the "look" of his eye, we predict and expect that he will prove a very vital and fighting force in the church work.

One rather unique feature that this new preacher sprung on us was his "card." He explained after a bit that the card was one which he had prepared for his "lukewarm" and "chloroform" church members, and stated that it is his purpose to give the cards out at his church services. Of course we did not tell him, but we doubt if he will need such cards in Clanton, for there are not any such church members here as he referred to. But we didn't tell him this. It might have interrupted his well-laid plans, and rather than do that we chose to let him go along, as we know the cards can do no harm, even if they be placed in the hands of members who are not of the "lukewarm" nor "chloroform" class.

Hereafter the Union-Banner will carry a special church notice for Rev. Maye each week. Notice it and keep in touch with the activities of the church and assist in the service, and show him that we are right about there being no "lukewarm" church members in Clanton.

Now if you don't go and warm the benches for him he will conclude that this editor told him a story to start with. And you know it would break his young tender heart if he found a newspaper that made a little misstatement.

We welcome Brother Maye to our town, and trust that his stay with us may be productive of much mutual benefit for himself and the people of our city.

COL. HOUSES SUGGESTION

Col. House arrived home just in time for the Crozier revelations, the Harris resignation, the Gorgas report, the different investigations which Congress has entered upon and all the other incidents which the lively first weeks of the session developed. The Colonel's powers as the sole and only adviser to the President must have been severely tested—and we wonder if in the course of his duties he reverted to the counsel which he is reported to have given to Mr. Wilson when the war broke out—"Change the Cabinet."

H. B. Oliver, the w.k. and j.f. citizen of Verbera, was in Clanton on Monday.

Chilton Boy Writes from the Navy at New York

Edgar Barrett Tells About the Fine Dinner he had in the City of Brooklyn on Christmas Day.

Editor Union-Banner:

Now the first thing is whether these few lines will miss the waste basket or not; but as the Editor is a very good friend of mine he may let it slip through.

Not that these few lines will be interesting to any of my friends or readers; but I just want to send in a line or two to my home paper.

I guess I had better tell you where I'm at before I forget that part. Am on Long Island, only a few minutes ride from New York.

Finding that it was more my duty to serve my country than any thing else, on June 6th I marched up to the naval recruiting office in our dear southern city of Birmingham and enlisted in the medicine corps immediately being sent to Pensacola, Fla., where I remained until a few weeks ago was shipped to New York.

New York is a great city and more than that it has some—not only some but thousands and thousands of good people. If you don't believe it ask any enlisted man that was in the city during the holidays dressed in a uniform. Nothing seemed to be too good for Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors. We've often heard and spoken of the southern hospitality; of course that is true and we won't deny it. But I want you to remember there's northern hospitality too. I'm now about to get down to the main and principle thing I was to tell you.

A few days before Christmas my Captain came to me and asked me if I would accept an invitation to Christmas dinner in Brooklyn. Of course I told him I would. Later myself and sailor friends from Philadelphia received a written invitation from the popular family (whom our Captain had formerly informed us of) Mr. F. B. Ogilvie of the large Ogilvie Publishing Co., herein New York.

We arrived at the home about 2 o'clock p.m. I say we; I mean "Jack" and myself. A few minutes later two more "Blue Jackets" from the Brooklyn Navy Yard arrived. One of them was from California, the other from New York. "Jack" being from Pennsylvania and myself from Alabama, we had quite a scattered collection. Now here comes the good part. About 4 p.m. we were informed dinner was ready and it hit my key note, also think it did to the other boys too, especially my friend "Jack" for the poor boy hadn't eaten any breakfast or supper the day before preparing for this great feast. But he wasn't quite as bad as I was for I hadn't eaten anything for 5 meals. I was in good shape more than that was in a hungry shape. But when I left that dining room I felt like I wouldn't need anything to eat till the night before embarking the "Kaiser Bill" which we will do, as we want his body as a relic.

Let me get back to the subject now after we had this great feast we attended one among the largest Theatres in New York. As long as I live I'll never forget this Christmas day and there will be a warm spot in my heart for this New York family as long as my name is Barrett. And on top of all this we were loaded down with presents.

Well I expect I had better close down this gas machine of course this one isn't as costly as the most of them as I use free gas, but there is such a thing as worrying any one's patience, and taking up too much space.

So I will wish you, Mr. Editor, and all my friends a happy New Year and prosperous future.

I am, A Southern Boy,
J. EDGAR BARRETT.

NEW SECRETARY A BROTHER-IN-LAW

From the Official Bulletin we learn that Dr. Stocton Axson has been tendered and has accepted the position of national secretary of the American Red Cross. The Congressional Directory does not list this position among the officers of the Red Cross, though a secretary general and an assistant secretary are named. Consequently, we cannot tell whether Dr. Axson takes an old place or a new one. Neither is it stated whether he is a dollar-a-year man or will receive substantial compensation. Dr. Axson is a relative—a brother, as we recollect—of the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER NOW FOR 2 YEARS.

The county Registrar is now at the court house to Register voters. If you are not properly registered on the voting lists of the county you have from now till next Saturday to get yourself fixed up properly. Better do this, for there will be some things coming up next year which you will want to vote on.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

The Clanton Press wants the Representative in the Legislature from this county to be a Democrat "simon-pure," and also favors giving him "a season ticket to wallow in the mud with the biggest hogs in Montgomery."

Now there you have it. We presume that statement will hit some Democrats of the county about as hard as it hits us Republicans, and in fact harder; for the Democrats will be asked to vote for such a candidate. Maybe they can do it by holding their nose.

We have just found out what the Clanton Press wanted us to do when they set forth to us those high-sounding and beautifully worded propositions of their editorial a few weeks ago entitled: "Shaking hands Across the Chasm." They wanted the Republicans of Chilton county to agree to vote for a Democrat for the Legislature. If they had made themselves plain on this point at first, we could have saved a lot of time and trouble by just telling them instantly that we wouldn't do any such thing.

The Democratic party at it was built by our forefathers, and the principles which it promulgated in the years of the past are entirely inadequate to meet and properly solve the questions of government in the present day. This inefficiency has been made plain to the eyes of observing men in Alabama for the past few years. It seems that it is a matter of impossibility to make over the depleted wreck and cause it to be capable of proper service again. And when a house becomes so shattered and torn that it will not shelter us any further from the storms and the rain, and it cannot be properly repaired, then and there is the time to build a new house and move into it.

THE SOLID SOUTH A MENACE

It has for a long time been our profound conviction that the "solid south" as exemplified by the prevalence of the Democratic party in its unmolested sovereignty over the southern state, is, has been and will ever be, so long as it exists, and unmitigated menace to the civic, moral and political well-being of the states that are held under its sway.

Every day that passes over our heads brings to us some transaction that strengthens us in this belief. We have had brought to our attention many instances of corrupt practices that are the fruits of a one-party condition. We see example after example of instances where the extreme allegiance which the one-party plan demands of its followers to "stay in line" precludes them from honest participation in issues where moral rectitude demands their parting from the way the party calls them to go.

Is not this contention strengthened by the fact that the Democratic party in Alabama has become divided into two factions which are bitter against one another than ever Democrats were arrayed against Republicans? And the bitterness all grown out of an issue that should never have been admitted into the sphere of politics in the first place.

In the next campaign in this state the Democrats will "bust their hides" over an issue that belongs no more in a campaign for the election of county and state officers than does the question of what is a man's religion.

We believe it would be far better if we had in this state two contending parties as there are in many of the other states, for the settlement of political differences. Then this would leave every man a free mind too act on moral questions and personal privileges in the way his conscience might dictate, and with no ruling political hand ready to lash him because his morals happened not to conform to the standard adopted by the "party."

Some good day, although we may never live to see it, when men cease to be fired by the envy and prejudice instilled in them by the civil conflict of 1861, and turn to the searching out of things that vitally concern them as they pass through their existence in the world, the whole south is going to wake up to the utter fallacy of one-party domination. Loud will be the declaration of the people that will then put politics in its proper place, and choose out from the chaos those things of moral aspect which belong to be dealt with separately and apart from campaigns where men seek to establish themselves in public offices.

AND LIKEWISE WE ARE CAUSED TO WONDER

It is nothing more than natural for us human beings to sometimes wonder what causes things to be thus and so, one way or the other. And even in particular is it a most undeniable attribute of our natures to marvel why everybody in the world cannot see everything as we do. Adherents of the different churches ponder over the thought of why it is that a neighbor across the street does not interpret the bible as he or she does; men of one political party assail the ideas of opponents, and seemingly fail to understand why those on the other side do not interpret the principles of government as those of their own party.

This is of course natural, and gives rise to numberless questions of one kind and another in the course of the expansion of the human mind along the many channels which it pursues in the process of reasoning on these two-sided subjects.

Only last week while the Clanton Press, our esteemed local contemporary in the newspaper field of Chilton county, was remonstrating on the subject of Republican politics, and seemingly at a loss to understand why we cling to the Republican party, it had the following to say in its closing paragraph:

"...in the bottom of our heart and soul we often wonder what potent dream has lulled the memory of such splendid, lovable fellows as you and a number of others we know, to forgetfulness, and what siren song has steeped your bright chivalrous minds with the dangerous fallacies of Republican centralization. How can consistent law-abiding people make up their minds to spurn the hand that has time and again saved them for themselves?"

This is the way our good friend The Press editor, wonders how in all the wide, wide world, people can have little enough sense to hold themselves aloof from the Democratic party in Alabama. And now do you know that it is a fact that we are just as much lost in wonder as to how men who believe in the rendering of the best government to the people of a commonwealth can content themselves to hold allegiance to such a frail and unworthy bark as the Democratic party has come to be in the days of the present generation.

The Editor of the Union-Banner is not prepared to discuss the situation from a standpoint of first-hand information gained in times of reconstruction, as The Press did. If disposed to try either to justify or tear down the foundation of political faith by the recounting of things which happened so long ago, we could only do so at the hands of the historians of the past, all of whom we ever read have been as poisoned and prejudiced against the Republican party as is the editor of the Press. But we know that it is a fact that men who deal with the question of politics in the broadest and most logical sense of the word in America to-day, be they Democrats or Republicans, would not go back as far as the civil war and rake up again the prejudice of those times and try to inveigle men of this age of the world into giving any prominence to it in the judging of political parties, and the fruits of political parties, viz: Our government and all its subsidiary activities.

Men of to-day should govern themselves in politics according to their views of transactions of those parties which touch them and their own welfare. The man who is haunted by a ghost of the past into some kind of imaginary trust or distrust of a thing just for what it may seem to have been years before he himself existed can not hope to reach a conclusion that will help him in solving the problems which he will have to meet in his own life. It is not the part of wisdom and justice to apply as a test to either of the old parties the transactions that lie covered in the shades of the dead and ancient past. Matters that concern progressive government are moulding everyday and they apply to the situation only during the period of their vitality. A hallucination with the center of its existence buried in the days that were half a century ago cannot possibly be relied upon to solve problems of state that are formed in the present day and which do not bear and relation to the conditions of other years.

A party that cannot claim the support of the people of to-day on the ground that it is serving them efficiently and sufficiently certainly stands a poor "hack" in going back half a century and appealing to the vilest prejudices that human memory is capable of perpetuating in order to establish itself in security with popular favor.

And just such is what the Democratic party does every time you get them out in an effort to justify themselves.

We hold then, to the idea of political party judgment as it comes to us from the light of the party activities in the state during the years in which we have had occasion to note and form ideas of the efficiency rendered to the citizenship. When you insist that a man of the present day endorse the Democratic party you should be prepared to show some tangible reason why that party merits his endorsement and allegiance.

Now here comes our turn to wonder. What has the Democratic party in Alabama got to show me or you or anybody why it has a right to demand our support? How is it going to put down before me in the tangible terms of good government in black and white, the reasons why I should be one of them? Should I be a Democrat because that party has been distinguished and meritorious in its financial management of the state? Should I be a Democrat because that party has gained such renowned honor by the reduction of useless offices in the state, and the creation of such splendid and ennobling bodies as the Board of Equalization? Should I be a Democrat because "Pa" was? Should I be a Democrat because that party enacted such a renowned and cussed system of election laws for the state in the last Legislature? Should I be a Democrat because of the many and untold infamous practices which were the revelations of the investigations conducted by the committees of the last legislature, which were proven to be the rotten and unjustifiable practices of the solid Democratic machine in Alabama?

Get a copy of the report of those investigating committees of the last legislature, and see if you can find therein anything which tells "the bright and chivalrous mind" that it should endorse the Democratic party of Alabama? And after these rottenest of rotten government practices had been stripped of their last vestige of secrecy and laid bare to the eyes of an innocent and unsuspecting people, did the Democratic party, which was the daddy of the whole infamous layout, do anything about rectifying the mess that would commend the support of the people who want to see the best results come from the proper administration of the affairs of our state?

These and thousands of other things which we could mention, are some of the things that occur to our minds when we begin to wonder how such splendid, lovable fellows as Ero. Corley and many others we know can make up their minds to follow the hand which they think has time and again saved them, but which in reality has shoved them deeper and deeper every turn of the road, into the mud, mire and slime of the utter hopelessness which is the part of every people and every government which is at the merces of such an unconscious greedy and unrelenting system as is embodied and held out to us by our recent and ever re-curring examples of the "solid Democratic South."

Well, you may say that we have no reasons to turn away from the Democratic party, and endorse the Republican.

In this respect we would say that such action is purely the taking of a chance by the one who does so. And for our part we feel assured that no one, repudiating the Democratic party and taking up the Republican, on the merits of the two parties in promulgating good and equitable government, would be at all worsted by the change. Anything in the world would make us as good a government as the Democratic party in Alabama has made.

We suppose that if the people of Chilton county choose a Republican to sit in the next Legislature of Alabama (which of course they will do) the Clanton Press will just have to content itself with not having any representative in the Legislature at all. And by the way that brings us to the reason why The Press contends that a Republican in the Legislature is equal to having no representative there at all. When a Republican sits in the house as the Representative of Chilton county, and it has long been the custom, the element of the Democratic party in this county who want to deprive the people of their God-given rights really and truly have no representative. When they were attempting to put the infamous bills through the last Legislature abolishing our commissioners court and appointing a board of revenue, the very fact that the Representative from Chilton county was a Republican placed that gang without representation there. But the people of the county were represented all right. And when they openly demanded the continuance of their rights to elect their own officers, and backed up their demands by their personal appearance before the legislature they succeeded in overcoming the efforts with which their adversaries here in the county had assailed the privilege of the free exercise of the ballot. If the enemies of the county had had a representative there they would have carried out their evil designs to deprive our people of their rights.

The Federal Farm Loan system finds itself in straits much earlier than any of its critics had anticipated. Confronted with a falling market for its own bonds and lacking the services of the underwriting syndicate which had at first come to its relief, the Board has, nevertheless, gone ahead making engagements to furnish money to farmers without knowing where the funds were to come from. In this plight, the natural haven of refuge for a perplexed government institution is Congress; and to Congress the Board has gone, asking that the government shall buy its bonds, to the tune of a hundred millions a year to enable it to make good its word to the farmers to whom loans have been promised. The Farm Loan Board has followed the historic example of Daniel Webster in drawing his will. Friends having promised the great statesman sums of money, he took pains to make bequests in equally large amounts.

THEY DIED FOR THEIR COUNTRY

The cantonnments at which the men of the National Army are being trained were advertised to the country as the last word in site, sanitation and construction. The surgeon general of the army, however, does not subscribe to so sweeping a characterization of them; and, in a report to the chief of the general staff, he points out an excessive sickness and death rate, due to insufficient heating and sanitary arrangements, overcrowding and other preventable evils of camp life. Surely these cannot be the results of penuriousness in providing for cantonment construction. Money has been poured out without stint upon these establishments, labor and material have been provided regardless of price, and nothing has been left undone which the most lavish expenditure could suggest. Yet money without foresight is a vain expenditure, and the sorrowful sequel is now being read in the gruesome figures which the surgeon general presents of preventable disease and preventable death in cantonment. These youth have as surely died for their country as though they had fallen in battle with the Hun. Yet no action of the foe has brought them to their death.

Theaters for Use by Men in Camps Are Now Completed

The Government "Liberty" theaters at the 16 National Army cantonnments are all completed, and in a few performances have been given. The buildings, which are supervised by the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, are 120 feet wide and 179 feet long, made of pine boards, unpainted, but faced with heavy building paper, which makes the sides air-tight. Complete ventilating systems have been installed and heat is supplied by steam and small stoves.

There are five large entrances and 15 exits, and the theater, seating 3,000 men, may be emptied in about one minute.

The stage is 65 feet wide. The floor of the auditorium is saucer-shaped and sloping, so every seat provides a clear view of the stage. The seats are benches fitted with comfortable backs, and sections will be reserved so tickets may be purchased in advance. The "smilage" books, soon to be placed on sale, will be good for all these theaters, as well as chautauqua tents.

The motion-picture booth, housing two machines, is asbestos lined. The stage has an asbestos curtain. Light-effects are similar to those of standard city theaters.

The theater is placed on the highest point of ground in each camp, and in many camps the post office, main library building, and hostess houses are nearby, making a sort of town center where large numbers of men gather each night.

The tower on top of the stage loft, about 75 feet from the ground, serves as a signal tower for flagging.

Lame back may come from overwork, cold settled in the muscles of the back, or from disease. In the two former cases the right remedy is BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It should be rubbed in thoroughly over the affected part, the relief will be prompt and satisfactory. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Many in New York Can Not Buy Bread In Pound Lots

The Food Administration changes its rule prohibiting bakers selling less than a pound of bread to consumers, to prevent working a hardship on the poor of New York. These people, many of them foreigners, buy bread from big loaves by the penny and two-penny slice, and have not the money to buy in larger quantities. The weight requirements for baking are not changed.

Rolls are limited to not less than 1 ounce nor more than 3 ounces each.

Cured At A Cost Of 25 Cents

"Eight years ago when we first moved to Mattoon, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill. "I had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable. Every morsel of food distressed me. I could not rest at night and felt tired and worn out all the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

TRAINING A YOUNG FARMER

By L. N. Duncan, Superintendent Junior and Home Economics Extension, Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.
During the season of 1916 there were enrolled in Alabama 3,870 boys as members of the corn club, 4,062 as members of the pig club, and 571 in the four-crop club, making a total of 8,503 boys. Each of these boys was engaged in a definite agricultural home project upon which he received specific instructions from his county agent and from the general club agents at Auburn.

In addition to the instructions above mentioned, a series of county short courses was held by counties. The boys were called together in groups and a regular school of instruction was organized. These schools usually lasted for a period of three days. The program was divided into three divisions—one of lectures and demonstrations in corn and pig raising, one of practice organization, and one of recreation and social activities.

The county agent was the local leader and was assisted by men from the Auburn office. Most of these schools were held at the same time and place as the county teachers' institutes. Teachers and superintendents co-operated in arranging for boys to attend. During the school one joint meeting of boys and teachers was held. Great assistance was given in this work by the representatives of the State Department of Education. In most cases the boys were generously entertained in the homes of the people, where the schools were held.

During the winter of 1916-17 these schools were held in twenty counties with a total enrollment of 796 boys. There were present also at least one session 3,000 teachers, superintendents and visitors.

What a vast opportunity this is for bringing together in one united effort all of the educational forces of the county and state for instilling into our boys, the future farmers of Alabama, the new ideas of agriculture and country life. If your county has not had such a school for your young farmers, co-operate with your county agent in operating for one.

Naval Aircraft Factory Covering Three Acres Now in Operation

The recently completed naval aircraft factory covers three acres, the building being 400 by 400 feet. The keel of the first flying boat was laid 90 days after building work was begun. The plant, with equipment, cost about $1,000,000.

There is opportunity for employment at the aircraft factory for 2,000 skilled workmen from almost every trade. Women can sew covers on the wings and perform some of the lighter wood-working operations, and it is expected that several hundred women will be employed.

Chamberlain's Tablets

When you are troubled with indigestion or constipation, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Indigestion is usually accompanied by constipation and is aggravated by it. Chamberlain's Tablets cause a gentle movement of the bowels, relieving the constipated condition.

Keep Well

Do not allow the poisons of undigested food to accumulate in your bowels, where they are absorbed into your system. Indigestion, constipation, headache, bad blood, and numerous other troubles are bound to follow. Keep your system clean, as thousands of others do, by taking an occasional dose of the old, reliable, vegetable, family liver medicine.

Black-Draught

Mrs. W. F. Pickle, of Rising Fawn, Ga., writes: "We have used Theford's Black-Draught as a family medicine. My mother-in-law could not take calomel as it seemed too strong for her, so she used Black-Draught as a mild laxative and liver regulator. We use it in the family and believe it is the best medicine for the liver made." Try it. Insist on the genuine—Theford's. 25c a package. E-75

Engineer Students May Stay in School to Complete Courses

The next examination through which graduates of approved engineer schools may apply for commissions as provisional engineers, corps of engineers, will begin January 21. Another will probably be held about the middle of the coming summer.

Students in approved technical schools who are considered as rating in the upper third of their classes may enter the enlisted reserve corps, and so enlisted will be permitted to remain on the inactive list until they have completed their college courses. When they leave their colleges these students will be called for active service in some branch of the engineer service of the Army or will be discharged to take their chances under the selective service law.

Cattle relish the sweet odor of wet Buckeye Hulls

BUCKEYE HULLS, after being wetted down for ten or twelve hours, acquire a taste or odor similar to the succulent ensilage odor that cattle like so well. Simply feed properly and your stock will like them better than any other roughage. Once they are accustomed to them, they will not be satisfied with anything else.

COTTONSEED
LINTLESS

There is every reason why your cattle should relish Buckeye Hulls. They are all roughage; no lint that is worthless as forage; no dirt, trash or dust.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls cost much less per ton than old style hulls. They take less space in the barn. Buckeye Hulls allow better assimilation of other food. They are sacked—easy to handle. They mix well, when wet, with other forage. Every pound goes farther.

Mr. L. R. Farmer, Louisville, Ga., says:

that he has used no other hulls but Buckeye for the past year and gets good results. Cows have not been bothered with cough since using Buckeye Hulls.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Test Plan to Deliver Army Trucks to Ports Under Their Own Power

Army trucks for use in France are being delivered to the Atlantic seaboard from interior storage depots under their own power.

If the plan is successful, the delivery of the 30,000 war trucks under construction under their own power will release 15,000 freight cars which would be required to transport them by rail. It will also provide adequate opportunity for the training of an effective corps of transport drivers and officers, who will reach France with a minimum of training to be required. Wear and tear on the trucks will be slight compared with the benefits derived from their use.

How Does a Soldier Feel in a Life-and-Death Crisis?

He was caught—like a rat in a trap—with only one chance in a million of coming out alive. He thought of—

What does a soldier think of in a life-and-death crisis? How does he feel? What does he do? What is the millionth chance that he takes to escape?

While trembling and hot from the experiences they have gone through, over two hundred men—airmen, trench raiders, submarine commanders, grenade throwers—have told what they saw, heard and felt. To read these stories of personal adventure is to get an entirely new viewpoint of the war.

A Close-Up of the War

Newspapers and magazines treat the war along broad, general lines—they speak of nations and armies. But these stories tell you about the most daring, audacious and heroic deeds of MEN—individuals. They tell of exploits which even now you think never could happen. No professional author in the history of literature could tell such stories, for no man's imagination could think them up. Yet each of these stories is true—and so startling that the mind simply stands aghast at wonder. They would thrill a man with blood as cold as a fish.

"True Adventures of the Great War"

6 Volumes Free!

The Review of Reviews has collected these two hundred and more stories in six handsome volumes, containing altogether 1800 pages, profusely illustrated. Every one of these stories is absolutely genuine as to the facts related; every one of them is told in the words of the person who is the hero or heroine of the exploit. And now, for a limited time, you can secure these six volumes free, with a two-year subscription to the Review of Reviews.

Now, and during these next few years, as never before, every intelligent American will need the Review of Reviews. The world is on the verge of it in the throes of social, industrial and political changes that are cataclysmic. One cannot form opinions on these revolutionary events, one cannot base his acts intelligently upon them—unless he understands the real war situation, unless the facts, all the facts, are known. It is genuine patriotic duty in these coming days of trial for every citizen to know comprehensively what is happening in the world around him.

Send No Money

The subscription to Review of Reviews is offered at the regular price. The six volumes described above will be given in addition, absolutely free. So that no one may act in the dark, the books will be sent first for examination, all charges prepaid, and if they do not come up to expectations, they may be returned within five days, and the subscription cancelled. Only the first edition of this set will be offered free with a two-year subscription. Immediate acceptance of this offer is, therefore, advised if you are at all interested. Mail the coupon now.

Personal Privilege.

Union-Banner,
Clanton, Ala.

I wish to say a few words on the much used subject of "Personal Privileges."

We have personal privileges, it is true, but not to the extent that our privileges infringe on the rights of others. It has always been the personal privilege of the strong to suppress the weak; but right interferes with such personal privileges and protects the weak.

I have been taught and I believe that the people who founded this American government intended that it should be a free government; that is a government of free people, and that idea was hedged about with another great principle to-wit: That no man or set of men should use their freedom to oppress or make slaves of others.

We are desirous that all men be free as to their religious, political and other personal rights or privileges, and that they should worship God according to the dictates of their conscience; and at the same time we demand the same rights and privileges. I believe in free speech, and I also believe in the speaker being held to strict account as to the truth of his speech.

We all know that a certain amount of our personal rights are of necessity surrendered to the government. This principle is well established in the laws of our country. For instance, by authority of law a citizen surrenders a certain portion even of his real estate for the public good. And this is done whenever and wherever public highways are established. The citizen may have paid his money, yes his personal money, if you please, for the land, but the law looking to the greatest good to the community, says to him: "You must part with your real property for the good of the public." This principle is also recognized in our tax laws. We pay taxes out of our own personal earnings, which is intended to secure a government looking solely to the public good. This principle is again recognized in all institutions of learning in order that the people may be better morally, religiously, and therefore better qualified to serve, not themselves so much, after all, as to serve the public good.

This howl of "personal privileges" by a few politicians of Alabama, is a noise. It is a sound without real merit. Indeed it is like sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal; no real good in it, if any liberty at all.

If this personal liberty so much talked about by certain politicians in Alabama, was pressed to its ultimate limits, there would not be a church nor a school nor a public highway nor any other public institution looking to the uplift of humanity in the state. The surrender of personal liberties is too well established and understood by the people to need further argument. Indeed all public institutions grow out of the sacrifice of personal privileges and selfish interests. We are to-day engaged in the most gigantic war the world ever saw, and multiplied millions of personal rights and privileges are sacrificed for the good that is to accrue to the people in after years. In other words, the greatest good for the largest number of the people is the true idea, and not the "personal privilege" idea as it is presented by the so-called local politician in the state. In fact, every man knows that there is no such thing as localizing liquor. You may put it in the mountains of the remotest rural districts and it will find its way into every home for hundreds of miles around. And these local politicians know that the local politician doctrine cannot be applied with practical results for the good of the country to the sale of liquor.

The counterfeiter has a personal right to counterfeit money, but it is best for him, and best for the community, that he obey the laws. And hence, he is taught to surrender his personal liberty. Our health laws teach us that men must surrender their personal liberty for the good of the community. It may look a little hard for a man with small pox to be taken from his home and lodged in a pest house, but the law, looking to the greatest good to the largest number, has said he must go if he needs be.

And after thinking over the matter, I believe with all my heart that a hundred cases of small pox in a thickly populated community would be less injurious to the public than one retail liquor saloon.

Very respectfully,

S. M. ADAMS.
Clanton, Ala., Dec. 26, 1917.

AUTOMOBILE TURNED OVER

Car Driven By County Treasurer, Bice, Turned Over and Hurt Him Slightly

On Christmas day as Mr. J. Bice was driving his car down the highway at Thorsby he lost control of the machine and it turned over, trapping the five passengers underneath. The fact that the top and curtains were up made it impossible for them to jump out. Only Mr. Bice, who was driving, was hurt. He sustained a cut on his face and right hand, but no serious injuries. It was a lucky escape for the occupants, who were rescued immediately by persons who witnessed the accident.

The Present Fertilizer Situation

By J. N. Harper, Director Farm Service Bureau, Atlanta, Georgia.

J. N. HARPER shows his patriotism, but an opportunity to acquire wealth at the same time.

Offsetting Labor Shortage

In view of the fact that farm labor is scarce and high, every effort should be bent towards securing maximum yields per acre, with fertilizer, which is one of the best ways to conserve man power.

Unfortunately, no industry has been more directly affected by the war than the fertilizer industry. The government is commandeering materials important to this industry for the purpose of manufacturing munitions of war and hence has greatly reduced the possible tonnage to be used in fertilizers. In other words, while the nation is calling for the largest possible crop yields, there is, at the same time, a great demand for gun powder. Some one has aptly said, "Plants and cannons eat the same food." Of course, under present conditions, the cannons must be fed first.

There is a considerable shortage of fertilizer ingredients, and the prices of these ingredients are correspondingly high.

Fertilizers Relatively Cheaper

In consequence of high prices of materials, due to their scarcity, and because of higher labor and transportation costs, fertilizers will be higher this spring than ever before.

While the prices of fertilizers have advanced, fortunately for the farmer, the prices of crops have advanced still higher, so that fertilizers are relatively cheaper than before the war. A bale of cotton with its seed will buy more fertilizer today than ever before. The same is true of a bushel of corn; a bushel of wheat; a bushel of peanuts; a bushel of potatoes, etc.

Why Fertilizers Are Scarce

The causes of the shortage of fertilizer materials may be summarized as follows:

Previous to the war, most of our potash came from Germany. The potash now on the market is produced largely in this country, but it is far short of the demands. This American-made potash, however, is just as valuable as the potash salts that were formerly obtained from Germany.

Acid phosphate is scarce, due to the fact that there is a shortage of sulphuric acid—a necessary compound in the manufacture of acid phosphate. Sulphuric acid is scarce, because pyrites, from which most of it is made, has been coming from Spain and ships are not now available with which to transport it.

The fertilizer manufacturers have been compelled to turn to the domestic pyrites, and readjust their manufacturing plants to the production of sulphuric acid from brimstone obtained from Louisiana and Texas. The government is requiring of the fertilizer manufacturers sulphuric acid in large amounts to be used in the manufacture of explosives.

Then, too, there is considerable difficulty in obtaining supplies of rock phosphate, because of the transportation shortage.

The supply of nitrates has also been curtailed because large amounts of sulphate of ammonia are being taken for refrigeration purposes, and the manufacture of munitions. Cotton seed meal, a valuable source of nitrogen, is being used more and more for feeding live stock. Tankage, another splendid source of nitrogen, is also being used for the same purpose; consequently cotton seed meal and tankage are high in price.

Nitrate of soda is more expensive at the Chile mines, and shipping rates have increased enormously, and munition requirements are heavy.

The fertilizer manufacturers find it hard to secure bags for shipping, since there is a tremendous shortage of burlap.

Thus it can be easily seen that it will be very difficult to obtain necessary fertilizer materials, and the farmer must take due notice and act accordingly if he would make sure of getting his plant food.

Order At Once

The farmer must not overlook the fact that transportation difficulties are increasing daily. The railroads are literally overwhelmed. They have, therefore, been compelled to rule that fertilizers and freight in general must move in full car load lots, which means cars must be loaded to their maximum capacity.

Therefore, Mr. Farmer, order your fertilizers NOW! order PLENTY of them; use them liberally and judiciously, and thus secure maximum yields of crops, and so do your part to supply the crying needs of the world, while at the same time you increase your bank account.

DESTROY WEEVILS IN CORN

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist Alabama Experiment Station

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

There are several kinds of insects that injure stored corn. All of these start their work in the field as the corn matures and continue to work in the cribs to which practically all of them are carried by the present practice of storing corn with the husk on.

When present in abundance these insects may cause a loss of half or two-thirds of the feeding value of the corn. No farmer can afford to lose 50 to 75 cents per bushel on his corn when he can easily prevent it at a cost of not more than 1 cent per bushel.

The best treatment is to fumigate in the crib with carbon disulphid (commonly known as "high life.") This can be poured directly on the corn without injuring it for feed or for seed. Even in tight rooms at least 10 pounds should be used per 1000 cubic feet and in ordinary cribs from 20 to 25 pounds will be needed. Use it on warm days only and do not allow fire near until the odor has disappeared.

Much good can be done by treating large masses of corn in the shuck even in cribs that are not tight, but most economical and satisfactory results are obtained in rooms which are made as nearly gas-tight as possible.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

A happy New Year to you.

Just a few words of comment on this expression of good will to our friends as we meet them these days. When our friends wish us health and prosperity for the coming year they indicate that they are concerned in our well-being, many write to us the season's compliments and tell us so. Let us then remember that we hold the happiness of others in our grasp as well as our own. How shall we attain to the measure which we wish for ourselves and others wish for us? Only by pursuing the truest and best philosophy of life. "Happy are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for, they (alone) shall be filled," or get their desire without bitterness. "Happy are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." "Set not your affections upon earthly treasures, which moth and rust corrupt and thieves break through and steal." You will be bitterly disappointed, and your loved ones will share your bitterness. No man can walk apart from God and be truly happy, or give true happiness to his friends. "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near; let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts." "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

To fulfill then our own highest hopes and to bring to pass the good wishes of our friends let us start the New Year with a closer walk with God and His word, and a truer intimacy with His spiritual children in church and Sunday school. Has the old life of indifference to God brought happiness to you? Surely it has not. It never has and never will. Forgive where you may have been wronged, and God will fill your soul with the joy of personal pardon and worship. "For if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will God forgive your trespasses."

Let the Lord's house be a place of regular communion between your soul and Him, and the world cannot hurt you to any great extent. But if you forsake the Lord He will forsake you.

MR. FOSHEE WRITES ON TICK ERADICATION

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 31, 1917
Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed a call by the Commissioners court a few weeks back asking the citizens of this county who were in favor of tick eradication and those who were opposed to it, to meet with them on a certain date to enable said courts to know what the majority wanted to do about the above matter. I watched with much interest and so the "It" lost.

Now for myself, I have been dipping my cows with good results and I intend to continue. But now let's stop and look around and see for a moment how many families we know who have no cow to dip. There are hundreds of families in Chilton county who cannot own a cow. The fact is we haven't enough cattle in this county to supply the demand, so we have just what we need in this county for a few years at least. A law to prohibit the sale of many cattle. Meat is a high price. Butter will take the place of both meat and lard, so if the farmer can live and sell his cow and calf he can live better and keep them. Now the price of cattle is high and many little children cannot have milk and butter because they can't have a cow, whereas if those who have cattle for sale in this county could only sell to their neighbor for only 18 months or two years it would be a great advantage as I see it. And at that time the male stock raised during that time would bring about as much as the whole business would sold as the owners would sell if the people had access to a foreign market, but if on the other hand we could not sell a cow out of Chilton county for two years, we would save thousands of dollars.

As matters stand anyone who wants to dip his cattle can do so at very little cost to himself as the Commissioners court will furnish cement to any community. Our community took advantage of this opportunity and built a vat and there is more woodland in Beat 1 than in any other Beat in the county and very probably more ticks, and we kept them off our cattle, that is all that was dipped regular.

My only argument is that we need our cattle at home and we need no market outside of the county until we can raise some cattle for Chilton county's own use. There are people everywhere who if they owned a cow for sale and a St. Louis man came along and offered them $50.00 and a poor unfortunate was standing by with $49.50 in his pocket and wanted the cow he would loose.

Now if what I have said interest the public and they so wish it I think I can plan a way by which we can raise the quarantine and at the same time vote tick eradication.

Wishing the Union-Banner and its loyal force and its many readers a happy New Year, I beg to remain,
Very truly,
E. H. FOSHEE.

Additional Clerks Required to Distribute Checks to Dependents

Distribution of allowance and allotment checks to dependents of enlisted men of the United States has required an extra night shift of clerks and typists in the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. The first checks represent allotments made by enlisted men from their November pay, together with stipulated Government allowances.

Every enlisted man in the military and naval forces of the United States who has a wife and children dependent on him is required to allot for their support at least $15 a month, but not more than half his pay. To this the Government adds monthly allowances.

Commissioned officers are not required to make allotments, and the Government does not provide allowances for their dependents.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

Army Regulations Urge Cordial Relations Between Officers and Enlisted Men

The following paragraph of Army Regulations is the only rule now existing regarding the relationship between officers and enlisted men:

"Superiors are forbidden to injure those under their authority by tyrannical or capricious conduct or by abusive language. While maintaining discipline and the thorough and prompt performance of military duty, all officers, in dealing with enlisted men, will bear in mind the absolute necessity of so training them as to preserve their self-respect. Officers will keep in as close touch as possible with the men under their command, will strive to build up such relations of confidence and sympathy as will insure the free approach of their men to them for counsel and assistance.

This relationship may be gained and maintained without relaxation of the bonds of discipline and with great benefit to the service as a whole."

Hoarding, Not Scarcity, Responsible for Present High Wool Prices

In a recent statement the War Trade Board declares that no wool shortage exists, either in the world's supply or in the amount on hand in the United States, notwithstanding the increased consumption for military purposes. The clip in most countries has steadily increased since the outbreak of the war.

"The price of wool has advanced in the United States by a percentage greatly in excess of such price advances in other countries," says the statement. "The price in the United States has advanced 200 per cent above the prewar level. The price in England is fixed at 55 per cent in excess of prewar prices.

"Cloth manufacturers (in the United States) have been impelled by fear to carry abnormal stocks of wool, and to contract with dealers and importers for unusual quantities for far-ward delivery. Manufacturers of clothing have been infected by a like dread, inciting the purchase of cloth exceeding in volume their reasonable needs.

"The consumption of wool during 1918 will be little if any greater than it was during 1917."

109 German Ships Damaged by Crews Now in Service for the Nation

Sailing under American names in the service of the United States are 109 German ships damaged by their crews prior to their seizure by the Government when war was declared. They add more than 500,000 gross tonnage to the transport and cargo fleets in war service for the United States.

There is evidence that a German central authority gave orders for damage to these ships, so that none could be operated in less than 18 months, and documentary proof that the enemy believed much of the damage to be irreparable. In less than eight months all the ships were in service.

The former German liners sailing under distinctly American names, are now fitted as troop and cargo ships. Each is convertible to a completely equipped hospital ship for return-voyage service.

IMMIGRATION

POPULATION—

Men and women of integrity, and ability to create and develop—is essential to the prosperity of every country.

Realizing this, the L. & N. has maintained for a number of years a thoroughly equipped and efficiently managed Department of Immigration and Industry.

No section of the globe is more pregnant with rich natural resources than the balmy, fertile South. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended by the L. & N. to induce immigration of the highest type to come to the South to develop and increase property values, and create those social and community interests which make life worth while.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD CO.

The Old Reliable

AFTER these immigrants come South the L. & N. supplies men expert in every line of farming, cattle and poultry raising, fruit and berry culture, mining, manufacturing, merchandising—in fact everything from tick eradication to locating a factory site—to confer with and advise the immigrants in the best uses of Southern facilities and opportunities.

This L. & N. service is not confined to new arrivals, but demonstration cars and excursions are conducted throughout the entire L. & N. territory and all interested may attend and gain the benefits.

The service, which is free to the people, is cheerfully paid for by the L. & N., because the L. & N. knows the development and prosperity of the South means the development and prosperity of the L. & N. The interests of the L. & N. and the interests of the South are mutual.

SPRAY ALL THE FRUIT TREES

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist Alabama Experiment Station

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.
Our most deadly fruit tree enemy is the San Jose scale. The full-grown scale is only about one twenty-fifth of an inch in diameter, so it is usually overlooked, even when abundant. It may kill trees in three years or less.

The best known treatment is to spray thoroughly during January or February, while the trees are dormant. The most commonly used material is what is known as Lime-Sulphur wash. This material may be purchased in concentrated form of reliable insecticide manufacturers or dealers and needs only to be diluted at the rate of 1 gallon in about 8 gallons of water to make the winter spray. The wash may also be made at home at somewhat lower cost by boiling together for an hour about 15 to 18 pounds of rock lime, and 15 pounds of sulphur flour or flowers, then diluting this mixture to make 50 gallons of spray. Another material that is widely used with good results is an oil known as Scalecide. This mixes readily with water and is more pleasant to use than the Lime-Sulphur.

The good effects of this spraying are so marked that all fruit trees should be treated, even if the scale is not present. It improves the health of the trees, controls several other insects than scale and some fungous troubles as well. It is of more than usual importance at this time that we should be preparing for the best fruit crop possible in 1918 and this winter spraying is essential to a good yield of first-class fruit next summer. Do it now, or before buds start next spring. After buds start it will be too late.

SAVE ALL THE WOOD ASHES

By D. J. Burleson, Agronomist For Extension

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Many years ago, before the discovery of the great potash fields in Germany, wood ashes constituted our chief source of potash for fertilizer. When kainit and other forms of potash became cheap, the fertilizer value of wood ashes was to some extent overlooked. The present price of all commercial potash is so high as to be prohibitive. We have tried growing a few crops with practically no potash in the fertilizer, with the result that many fields have shown need for this element. We should, therefore, consider the value of wood ashes.

The Massachusetts Experiment Station analyzed fifteen samples of fresh, unleached wood ashes from farm homes. The average of all samples shows 9.63 per cent potash and 2.32 per cent phosphoric acid. The potash is in a form highly desirable for plants. Wood ashes are about one-third lime.

It should be remembered that the above figures are for pure, fresh, unleached wood ashes, mostly from hard wood which gives ashes richer in potash than does soft wood, such as pine. If water soaks through ashes it dissolves most of the potash and carries it off. Hence, carelessness in handling results in a much lower quality.

Wood ashes should not be mixed with stable manure, since the lime in the ashes would cause the nitrogen in the manure to pass off as ammonia gas. Neither should ashes be mixed with acid phosphate, since the lime would change some of the available phosphoric acid to a less available form.

KEEP COTTON ACREAGE SAFE

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist Alabama Experiment Station

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Do not be misled by fluctuations in the price of cotton into planting a much larger acreage than has been planted in the hope of reaping great profit from high prices. The result is quite likely to prove disastrous rather than fortunate. Follow reasonably safe acreage and improve yields through better farming and weevil control methods for greatest and surest profit with cotton in the long run.

No man should attempt to raise more acres of cotton per plow than he is reasonably certain of being able to give all of the extra care that will be demanded under weevil conditions, even if there should be a little more than the average rainfall that is due in his section. Therefore, in counties with 16 to 18 inches of summer rain, it is not wise or safe for the average man to try to raise more than five acres of cotton per plow. Between the 16 inch and 14 inch lines we would advise not more than 6 or 7 acres per plow, where the weevil has been present for more than one year. In the 14-inch zone 7 to 8 acres is fairly safe; and this area may be increased gradually for sections where the summer rainfall is still less. It is far better to reduce cotton below the acreage that can be handled successfully and then increase it gradually after the best methods of weevil fighting and control have become well known. Only where a man has cleaned up his cotton stalks early the preceding fall or has available an unusually large number of children to help with the summer weevil fight should the foregoing estimates as to safe acreage be materially increased.

The Constipation Evil

There is no ailment to which the body is subject that is so far reaching in its injurious effects as constipation. It means a congestion of the bowels and usually causes sick headache, pains in the back, sour stomach, salivary complexions, offensive breath or loss of appetite. When you suffer from any of these ills, take a few doses of Granger Liver Regulator. You will be surprised how quickly it restores your normal health. Granger Liver Regulator contains no calomel and produces none of its distressing effects. It has, however, all the corrective value of calomel, and may be freely given to children as well as to adults. Granger Liver Regulator is also free from alcohol. A box of it lasts long, and a few doses relieve ordinary cases of biliousness. Granger Liver Regulator is sold by druggists everywhere at 25c a box. Refuse all substitutes as there is no other medicine just like Granger Liver Regulator.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 16

Editor Union-Banner:

Please let me have space to say a few words through your paper.

The health of our community is very good. Our Sunday School is doing very well at present. Think we, as churches, should be thankful for the blessings we have received in the good old year 1917, and more closely unite our efforts for the year 1918; for as I see the situation there is as great need of the servants of God being consecrated to His service than ever before. Let's strive to make the next year the most successful year for our master of any year in our history. To do this the churches must take hold of the Sunday School and let those that can teach teach and the others receive the teaching with open hearts. We must open our hearts and minds to hear the teaching of the spirit in whatever way the Lord sees fit to teach us. We must not go to be taught with a fixed opinion but we must be students anxious to receive instructions. Then the Lord can teach us and we may be benefited thereby. Let us as professed followers of Christ take courage, and let our light shine more brightly than ever before for the world seems to me to be in as dark a state as I ever saw it. The world must be saved, if saved at all, by the light of the servants of the Lord, then we cannot afford to be slack concerning this all-important question. Let us organize more prayer meetings and more Sunday Schools and attend them better. Let's not study too much about Germany, for the Lord has said "first seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all things will be added to you."

A SUNDAY SCHOOL BOY.

Property Will Sell for Payment of the Taxes

STATE TAX BOARD CALLS ATTENTION OF TAX COLLECTOR TO REQUIREMENTS OF THE LAW.

Tax Collector J. D. Collins is in receipt of the following letter from the State Board of Equalization. We publish it in full for the general information of the public.

"County Tax Collector: Dear Sir:

"We respectfully call your attention to Section 157 of the Revenue Act as follows:

"After the first day of January of each year, the tax collector must proceed, without delay, to levy upon personal property of delinquent taxpayers for the payment of their taxes, and after having first given ten days' notice of the time and place of sale, with a description of the property to be sold, by posting the same at three or more public places in the precinct of the residence of such delinquent, either at the time of such assessment or of the levy, or if he is a non-resident of the county, in the precinct in which the levy was made, he must sell the same or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the taxes, fees and expenses of sale, including expenses of keeping property and moving the same to place of sale, in front of the court house of the county or at the voting place, or, in case the amount of taxes does not exceed five dollars, at any other place in the precinct in which such notice was posted, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash; and the property so sold shall not be subject to redemption. For making such sale the collector shall be allowed a fee of one dollar, to be collected out of the property. But such taxpayer may, at any time before the sale, pay the taxes, interest, fees and expenses, including the collector's fees for the sale, the same as if it had been made, and thereby discharge the levy."

"You will observe that it is your duty to proceed without delay with the matter of tax collections, and we desire to request your co-operation to the end that the list of insolventcies usually allowed may be cut down."

"Yours very truly,
"STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION"

INTERNAL REVENUE MAN TO BE AT COURT HOUSE

According to previous announcement in The Union-Banner, it is now stated that a representative of the U. S. Internal Revenue Collector will be at the court house from January 14 to 18, for the purpose of aiding individuals in making out income tax returns to the revenue department. Reports must be made by all unmarried men who have an income of $1000 or over, and by married men who have an income of $2000 or over. The reports must be made between January 1 and March 1st, 1918. It is the duty of all persons to voluntarily make the returns. The government will hold all persons responsible for doing this, and if they fail to do so a penalty will be assessed against everyone who is subject to make the return.

VINSON AND EASTERLING VISIT BOYS AT NORFOLK

A. P. Vinson and Dave Easterling are back from a visit to the Chilton county boys at Norfolk, Va., where they are in the naval training station. The Chilton county delegation there includes Leonard Harris, David Vines, John Wyatt, John Cox, Walter Vinson and DeWitt Easterling.

They state that they found John Wyatt and DeWitt Easterling in a critical condition at the hospital with pneumonia, but they report that they are past the danger stage and on the road to recovery.

David Vines and Walter Vinson have been sick but are now up and going about.

John Cox has not been sick since he went there, and has gained 15 pounds.

The boys who have been sick are expecting leave to come home for a while as soon as they are able.

Mr. Easterling stated to the Union-Banner that the boys are as well cared for as they could possibly be, have good places to stay and are pleased with the situation. The pneumonia is caused by their sudden change to the colder climate than they have been accustomed to down here.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, and especially those of Liberty Hill community, Dr. Johnson and the Masonic Fraternity, for their help and sympathy so kindly extended to us in our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father, Rev. B. H. Vickers.

MRS. B. H. VICKERS AND CHILDREN

DAVID NORRIS, PRESIDENT OF CORN AND PIG CLUB, URGES BOYS TO ATTEND JAN. 26.

That the young man, David Norris, who is President of the Boys Corn and Pig Clubs in Chilton county, is wide awake to the movement which the boys are engaged in, is witnessed by the following letter which he sends us:

"Verbera, Ala., Jan. 7, 1918
"Dear Editor:

"Please allow me space in your paper to say, that there is going to be a meeting of the Corn and Pig Club boys at the High School Building Jan. 26, 1918.

"All club boys and men interested are requested to come. Mr. Conway says he is going to try to have some men from Auburn there.

"Yours truly,
"DAVID C. NORRIS,
"President."

This young man was chosen President recently by the boys of the club. Now those who voted for him to be President should listen to what he says and come to the meeting here on Jan. 26. The Club certainly made no mistake when they elected him as their President.

DR. STRICKLER BACK FROM A TRIP TO HOME IN NORTH

The friends of Dr. D. B. Strickler in Clanton and Chilton county, are glad to see him back here again after a trip to his home in Illinois for the holidays. He says we think down here that we have been having some cold weather, but that it is nothing compared with what they have "where he came from." He told a big yarn about a stunt he pulled off up there in a flivver to show us how really cold it was; but we refrain from telling it because we fear you would be ready to put the doctor in the class with the fellow who told that one about the frozen conversation.

MARRIAGES

Chamberlain's Tablets

When you are troubled with indigestion or constipation, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Indigestion is usually accompanied by constipation and is aggravated by it. Chamberlain's Tablets cause a gentle movement of the bowels, relieving the constipated condition.

PEOPLE ARE URGED TO HELP MAINTAIN ROADS

COMMISSIONERS ISSUE AN APPEAL TO OVERSEERS, AP-PORTIONERS AND THE CITIZENS.

Clanton, Ala., January 8, 1918. To The Overseers and Apportioners: We have closed a very successful year on our Public Roads, considering the chance we have had; but we hope to do much more during 1918.

We urge every apportioner and overseer to do his duty and see to it that every wagon where a license is required pays the license, and has a tag on the wagon. We know the people hate taxes and license, but how could we work the roads without money? If we had not had this wagon tax where would our roads be today? The Public Roads of this county cannot be kept up without money. Stop and think of the sixty miles of Highway that we owe over Two Hundred thousand dollars for, and what an awful fix we would be in to owe the money and have nothing to show for it.

We want to do all we can for the country roads. We beg all the people to help us. We hope each overseer will try and get every person that is not subject to road duty to give two days on the roads this year and get all that have teams to give two days work with them. And do you know if this could be accomplished we could fix every bad place in the main country roads this year? Who would miss the two days work?

We have passed a law that prohibits anyone from running water from its natural course into the public roads or to obstruct the public roads in any way.

All that want to pay the $5.00 fee and not work must pay it before March 1st, or work the five days.

We have had some trouble in getting the overseers to understand the financial condition of our county. We have not got any road money, neither will we have except the wagon tax and what the hands pay.

We have had to discontinue several overseers because they were too extravagant, and we could not get them to understand the financial condition of the county.

Now we want every apportioner and overseer to fully understand that they must not make any bill against the county this year until they have had permission from the Commissioners or Judge of Probate. But if their hands pay in the place of working, then they can hire hands or teams to this amount but no more. Remember the five days or the $5.00 must last for twelve months.

We wish all a happy and prosperous year, and we hope to see the roads greatly improved this year.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate

S. E. WALDRUP
R. J. WILLIAMS
W. T. HERROD
A. P. VINSON,
Commissioners.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express to the good people of our community and neighborhood, our sincere thanks for their kind and tender sympathy and assistance rendered us during the sickness and death of our wife and mother.

C. REESE MULLINS, Agent, to buy your Insurance. He represents several of the largest insurance companies in the United States, With millions of capital.

Mr. L. G. Posey and son of Beat 14 were in Clanton Monday. Mr. Posey sold a six months old calf in December weighing 366 pounds. Mr. Posey is one of the most successful farmers in the county.

CIRCUIT COURT WILL CONVEENE HERE ON MONDAY, FEB. 11TH.

Grand Jury Will Sit—New Solicitor, Tucker, Will be on The Job.

The next Circuit court for Chilton county will be held at the court house beginning Monday, February 11th. This will be the jury term of the court and will take up criminal and civil cases. Circuit Clerk, M. D. Foshee states that he already has his docket set and is now issuing summonses to the witnesses.

The grand jury will be called together for the dispensation of such duties as is usually incumbent on them.

The newly appointed Solicitor, Mr. Tucker, a lawyer from Prattville, will be here to look after the duties of his office. He takes the place formerly held by Mr. F. L. Tate.

MRS. MARCUS DEAD

The death of Mrs. G. W. Marcus occurred Saturday night at the home of her son, Posey G. Marcus, about two miles north east of Clanton.

The deceased, who was getting old, had been in very bad health for over a year, and for the past month her condition had been indeed critical.

Funeral was held at the residence Monday by Judge S. M. Adams, after which a large number of sorrowing friends followed the remains to its last resting place in the Clanton cemetery.

ALFRED DUPREE BURIED

A few days ago Rev. S. M. Adams went down to Coopers and conducted the funeral services for the remains of Alfred Dupree, who died last week somewhere up in the mineral district. The deceased was one time a resident of Clanton, but has been away from here a number of years. He had relatives who live here now.

SAYS HE WILL VOTE

Ben Brown, a prosperous negro farmer who lives out west of town, came in to renew his subscription to the Union-Banner Monday. Among other interesting things Ben said was this: "Boss, I've a nigger all right, and I stays in a nigger's place. I've registered but I don't never vote—but when his here tick business come up, I've gwine to go vote agin it."

WAR ECONOMY IN FOOD

Let us remember that every flag that flies opposite the enemies is by proxy the American flag, and that the armies fighting in our defense under these flags can't be maintained through this winter unless there is food enough for them and for their women and children at home. There can be food enough only if America provides it. And America can provide it only by the personal service and patriotic co-operation of all of us. The soldiers need:

Wheat
Butter
Lard
Sugar
Bacon
Beef
Mutton
Pork

The folks at home can use:

Instead of wheat, Corn, Oats, Barley, Rye; instead of Butter and lard, Cottonseed oil, Peanut oil, corn oil, drippings; instead of bacon, beef, mutton and pork, chickens, eggs, cottage cheese, fish, nuts, peas, beans.

Start off the new year right—take some insurance. C. REESE MULLIN, Agent.

Bring your chickens and eggs to Taylor Bros. Will pay 40c a dozen for eggs, the highest price for chickens, $2.00 bu. for stock peas, 5c per pound for peanuts, the highest price for sorghum syrup and sorghum seed.

L. & N. RAILROAD TO PUT ON CAMPAIGN OF INSTRUCTION FOR FARMERS

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad is planning an extensive campaign of education and instruction for the farmers along their railway line, and Chilton county is in on the program for a good portion of the benefits that are to be distributed in the campaign. And there will surely be some benefits if the farmers will take the time and interest necessary on their part.

Mr. William James, the advance agent of the scheme, the man who goes ahead and kindly "blazes the way" for those who are to follow, was in Clanton Monday. While here he gave The Union-Banner a brief sketch of the plan.

There are to be sixteen meetings held in the county, which will be attended by experts furnished at the expense of the railroad. These experts on various and sundry farm subjects will go out and lecture to the farmers on lines that are of vital interest.

In conjunction with the county farm demonstrator this work will be carried to every corner of the county.

The dates and exact plans, together with the itinerary of the speakers will be announced in this paper in due time for every one to have a chance to attend the meetings.

This is one of the many ways in which the L. & N. displays its interest in the country traversed by their lines. Farmers should get after this plan, and go to the meetings when they happen and take notes of the things that are said.

Look for more about this in the paper from week to week.

PETITIONS FOR ELECTION ON TICK ERADICATION

Petitions have been sent out over the county by the advocates of cattle dipping, to be signed by those who desire the calling of an election on the question.

Some of the petitions have already gone their course and come back to the Probate Judge with a long list of signers. It is not yet known though as to whether or not there will be enough petitioners to call an election.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The first Sunday in the New Year was marked by two good services. Quite a number took special pains to attend in order to start the new year right, and the pastor tried in his sermons to encourage the cultivation of the church-going habit. He emphasized Sunday night the idea of "Looking to Jesus" for strength, example and encouragement to endure. The prayer meeting is the place to recuperate. Some Montgomery soldier boys seemed to appreciate the morning service very much—they are always welcome.

Owing to inclement weather the Sunday school was not as large as usual, but the quality was good. The teachers are doing well.

Six members of the Sunday school are away, either teaching, at school, or visiting camps with relatives.

Three men of our numbers are enlisted in the army.

Our Young Peoples Union, under the leadership of Pres. J. L. Johnson, is doing excellent work, and is broadening its organization.

The ladies societies, as usual, are regularly on their jobs, meeting on Monday afternoons of each week.

Lame back may come from overwork, cold settled in the muscles of the back, or from disease. In the two former cases the right remedy is BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It should be rubbed in thoroughly over the affected part, the relief will be prompt and satisfactory. Price: 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

U. S. INTERNAL REVENUE.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 1, 1918
Hon. H. A. Harris, Sheriff Chilton County, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:—No U. S. Internal Revenue licenses were issued to your county in December, 1917.

I hereby certify that I have examined carefully the record of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the above is complete and correct.

Yours very truly,

SAM P. JONES.

Cured At A Cost Of 25 Cents

"Eight years ago when we first moved to Mattoon, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill. "I had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable. Every morsel of food distressed me. I could not rest at night and felt tired and worn out all the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

Cyclone Damage to Property is Extensive

RESIDENCE OF J. W. P. MURPHY COMPLETELY DEMOLISHED AND DAMAGE DONE TO OTHER FARMS.

The cyclone which passed through this section of the country last Saturday night did extensive damage to property on the edge of town and on a string of farms to the north and northeast.

The first evidences of the damage were seen on the west side of town in the negro quarters. A number of houses there were to some extent disfigured. Chimneys were blown down, roofs were torn off, windows were broken in, and one or two houses were set off their pillars. The property of Joe Gray was damaged.

The path of the wind seems to have extended in a northeasterly direction. The next place where any considerable damage was done was at the farm of J. W. P. Murphy, a mile north of town.

The residence of Mr. Murphy was as one fellow expressed it, literally converted into "stove wood." The result was that after the wind had passed over, the house, was with its contents, just a pile of debris. The family were in the house at the time of the wreck and it is no small wonder that they escaped without a single scratch.

Further on to the northeast in the path of the wind were the farms of M. A. Gore and R. F. Wyatt, where considerable damage was done to barns and outbuildings. The tin roofing of a barn at W. J. Miner's was scattered all over a forty acre field; the roof of a barn at Wyatt's place was completely torn away. No damage was done to human life in the whole course of the storm. And there has been no report of any damage to cattle.

The wind was accompanied by severe thunder and lightning and considerable rain.

J. BICE RE-ELECTED TREASURER OF CHILTON COUNTY

At the meeting of the Court of County Commissioners on Tuesday, the matter of electing a Treasurer for the county resulted in the retention of the former incumbent Mr. J. Bice. Mr. Bice was appointed to the position a year ago and has made a good officer. The commissioners felt that his conduct of the affairs entrusted to him entitled him to remain in the office another year, and they therefore retained him. There were some other applicants for the place.

TO ALL CLUB MEMBERS:

It is with genuine pleasure and the highest appreciation of your excellent work of the past two years that I come to be associated with you for another year. I ask your co-operation as in the past, that we may make this year's record surpass all others.

We are laboring for a common cause—the building of homes and communities—that we may add the best to our great commonwealth.

The poultry club members are urged to begin keeping their records at once. Canning club members to make preparations for their tentacles. Co-operation of teachers in the organization of clubs will be appreciated.

For five weeks I will be actively engaged in a campaign of cooking demonstrations in the use of meat, wheat and sugar substitutes. The demonstrations are given for the benefit of the whole county, and everybody is asked to attend.

I am here to serve you in any and every way that I possibly can. Bulletins on the various subjects will be found in my office. Write or call for them if I haven't what you want, will be glad to get them for you.

LIDA JONES.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

If you are a single man and had an income of a thousand dollars or over, during the past year, or if you are a married man and had an income of two thousand dollars or over, you had better hunt up that internal revenue man who is to be at the court house from January 14 to the 18, and get him to show you how to fill out your income tax return which you will be required to make to your Uncle Sam. If you fail to make the report, the government will put collectors on your trail after March the 1st, and when they have to run you down to get the return, then you will have to pay the income tax with an added penalty for failure to make the return in due time.

The county commissioners at their meeting Tuesday reached a settlement of their differences with the county equalization board in the matter of the payment of the salary of the latter. The commissioners had for the past few months refused to pay out of the county funds, the salary of six dollars a day, which had been contended for by the members of the equalization board. The terms of the settlement fixed the salary at $4.50 a day for the time they had been refused payment, and also for future services. It is gratifying to know that the settlement was reached, as it will save further complications which would have arisen out of the controversy.

In their survey of the road situation the county commissioners find just cause for gratification in the workings of the county road laws which were enacted during the past year. Their earnest appeal, which is published in this paper, calls upon all overseers, apportioners and citizens of the county, to lend a helping hand during the coming year in making the provisions of the law more effective, and more productive of the results desired. We can never have roads in the county unless we work them and build them with our own efforts, or else pay the real cash for somebody else to do the work. By co-operation of all citizens the present road laws of the county will go far towards establishing for us a good system of roads. Let everyone co-operate and help, and not hold back and hinder.

MISSISSIPPI RATIFIES.

Mississippi has the distinction, and we might also say the honor, of being the first state in the Union to ratify the proposed federal prohibition amendment to the constitution. The Governor, Mr. Bilbo, urged such action in his address to the law-making body Tuesday, and in fifteen minutes the resolution ratifying the amendment was passed. In the lower house the vote was 93 to 3 in favor of the amendment, and in the upper house or Senate, the vote was 32 to 5, in favor of ratification.

In the Maryland legislature Representative Dowel, Republican, has offered a resolution favoring ratification, and the anti-saloon league will offer a bill to make the state dry by legislative enactment.

CULLOP CONFESSES.

A pearl of logic slipped from the lips of former Congressman William A. Cullop (Democrat) while in Washington recently. Mr. Cullop was trimmed last year by Oscar E. Bland, Republican. In an interview given out to a Washington Post reporter Cullop says: "There is no doubt that the Republicans were helped to success last year by the German vote, and it looks in the light of recent city elections that the Germans are still supporting the Republican organization. Indiana has a considerable German population and with very few exceptions, I think, this vote is loyal to the United States." We have Cullop's word for it, therefore, that the best proof of loyalty to the United States is a vote for the Republican party. But it must have pained the Democratic National Committee to read such a statement.

LOCAL PASSENGER TRAINS TO BE DISCONTINUED ON SUNDAYS IN THE FUTURE.

Hereafter the four accommodation trains between Birmingham and Montgomery are to be discontinued on Sundays. This order affects the two trains which are due at Clanton at 8 and 8:45 in the morning, and at 5 and 6:30 in the evening. They will not run any more on Sundays as long as the present war emergency order is in effect.

ELEMENTS OF WORLD PEACE.

The President of the United States has stated to Congress the terms under which he holds that this country can afford to make peace with the Central powers. The elements of the peace mentioned by Mr. Wilson are as follows:

- 1.—Open covenants of peace without private international understandings.
- 2.—Absolute freedom of the seas in peace or war, except as they may be closed by international action.
- 3.—Removal of all economic barriers and establishment of equality of trade conditions among nations consenting to peace and associating themselves for its maintenance.
- 4.—Guarantee for the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety.
- 5.—Impartial adjustment of all colonial claims based upon the principle that the people concerned have equal weight with the interest of the government.
- 6.—Evacuation of all Russian territory and opportunity for Russia's political development.
- 7.—Evacuation of Belgium without any attempt to limit her sovereignty.
- 8.—All French territory to be freed and restored, and reparation for the taking of Alsace-Lorraine.
- 9.—Readjustment of Italy's frontiers and on clearly recognizable lines of nationality.
- 10.—Free opportunity for autonomous development of the peoples of Austria-Hungary.
- 11.—Evacuation of Rumania, Servia and Montenegro with access to the sea for Servia and international guarantees of economic and political independence and territorial integrity of the Balkan states.
- 12.—Secure sovereignty for Turkey's portion of the Ottoman Empire, but with the other nationalities under Turkish rule assured security of life and opportunity for autonomous development, with the Dardanelles permanently open to all nations.
- 13.—Establishment of an independent Polish state including territories inhabited by indisputably Polish population with free access to the sea and political and economic independence and territorial integrity guaranteed by international covenant.
- 14.—General association of nations under specific covenants for mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to large and small states alike.

"For such arrangements and covenants," said the President, in conclusion, "we are willing to fight and continue to fight until they are achieved, but only because we wish the right to prevail, and desire a just and lasting peace."

The President expresses the belief that such a program as is included in these elements of peace, would, if enacted by all the nations of the earth, remove the chief provocations for wars.

MISMANAGED MAILS

On Christmas day, in Washington, it was announced that the post office was up to date with its mail and that there would be prompt delivery of Christmas packages. On the same day that this announcement was published with the apparent authority of some postal official, postal clerks declared that there were 50 carloads of mail on the sidetracks in Washington. What the real condition was is indicated by the fact that on December 28 it was announced that a car carrying a million dollars worth of securities from Savannah to New York City got lost and was found after a nine-day delay, in the railroad yards in Washington.

There is a very strong suspicion that this condition was not by any means limited to the National capital, and that not only at Christmas time but at other times there is great delay in mail transmission, due to the inefficient management of those higher up in control. There is no suspicion that the clerks themselves are falling down in their part of the task. As a means of learning the exact truth, it has been suggested that in every city in the country Chambers of Commerce or Boards of Trade appoint committees to send test letters both locally and for long distance transmission, making record of the dates of mailing and receipt, so that the real situation can be determined. It is suggested that these committees be bi-partisan so that it will be a purely business matter, with no suspicion of partisan politics.

CORN AND PIG CLUB BOYS TO HAVE MEETING

Announcing a meeting of the corn and pig clubs of the county at the high school building at Clanton on Saturday, Jan. 26, Mr. Conway writes the Union-Banner as follows: "There will be a meeting of the corn and pig club members of Chilton county at the High School building in Clanton on Saturday, Jan. 26, at 10 o'clock. We want every member in the county to be present as we expect to have some of the Auburn forces there to give them instructive lectures on the preparation, cultivation, fertilization and balanced rations for growing pigs."

We would like to have all the farmers that possibly can to be present.
W. H. CONWAY,
County Agent."

THE ULTIMATE COST

In connection with the lamentable weakness of our preparedness in small arms which the Crozier revelation has exposed, it is well to recall that the Rock Island arsenal, upon which we had largely relied for the supply of Springfield rifles, lay idle for the better part of the first three years of Mr. Wilson's first term. Faced, as the Democratic party was, with an insufficiency of revenue as a result of its ill-considered tariff policy, Congress was compelled to cut appropriations in order to shrink the deficit which, in spite of all efforts, rose to an alarming figure. But instead of cutting appropriations for rivers and harbors improvements upon some insignificant creeks and for similar valueless projects, the majority in Congress cut off appropriations for the Rock Island arsenal, among other things of national importance, and a well-equipped factory, with a normal daily capacity of at least 250 rifles, produced absolutely nothing for nearly a thousand working days. A little arithmetic will show what the ultimate cost was to the country when the day came for "springing to their guns," as Mr. Bryan has so often pictured the free men of America—only there were no guns for them to spring to.

B. GUY SMITH MARRIED TO MISS JIMMIE B. LYNCH.

County Solicitor, B. Guy Smith, went down to Montgomery Wednesday, apparently on legal business, as he is accustomed and more than likely to do most any time.

But Thursday morning when he came up town telling everybody he had a wife down at the house, it began to look like he must have gone to Montgomery on legal business indeed, but not as he has been doing heretofore. The rumor reached the ears of this newspaper, and after "running the story down" so to speak, we have the following account to give of the "legal business" which the Solicitor went to Montgomery to attend to:

The ceremony which united for life the happy hearts of Mr. B. Guy Smith and Miss Jimmie B. Lynch, was impressively performed at the home of Mrs. Herbert Harris, on Capitol Heights, in the city of Montgomery, at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon, by the Rev. W. G. Frazier. Attendants upon the happy and most interesting occasion were only a few relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties.

The bride is a popular and accomplished young lady of Havana, Ala., a graduate with distinction from the Alabama Normal College at Livingston.

The groom is a young attorney of Clanton, the county Solicitor, and a promising prospect for a high place in the realms of his profession.

Both the bride and the groom are well known among a large number of friends over the entire state, and their popularity makes the occasion of their marriage of wide interest.

After the ceremony the happy couple returned to Clanton by auto, and will be at home to their friends, in the Gowan Addition.

Congratulations are now in order, and we feel sure that Mr. and Mrs. Smith will receive their full measure of such.

Here is a bunch of good cheer from the Union-Banner.

Mrs. Grady Broadhead and her little son, Hal, and Mrs. Heath, left on Thursday for Macon, Ga., where they will remain as long as Dr. Broadhead stays in the military camp there.

DO YOU EXPECT TO USE ANY NITRATE OF SODA?

Meeting of Farmers is Called to Determine Soda Question by Mr. Conway.

Do you intend to use any nitrate of soda on your farm this year? If so, how much do you want? Better begin to figure on this question and get your money ready.

Mr. Conway has called a meeting of the farmers of the county in regard to this nitrate of soda business, on Jan. 19, at the court house.

Following is what he says in regard to the matter:

"There will be a meeting of the farmers at Clanton on Saturday, Jan. 19, in the court house at 11 A. M. to ascertain the amount of nitrate of soda that the farmers want to use, as the Government is going to have about 1800 tons at the ports ready to be delivered in this month and I want all that want nitrate of Soda to have their money in a bank or make arrangements with a bank by that time, the price delivered on cars at the ports will be about $75 and the farmers will have to pay freight and charges to get it delivered here which will make it not greater than $80 per ton. I would like for all the farmers to be prepared by that time."

W. H. CONWAY,
County Agent."

Any little wound or abrasion of the flesh needs help. HERBINE is a flesh occurring in cold weather that is not promptly treated becomes a bad sore and is difficult to heal. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT at once when such accidents happen. The wound heals promptly and soon does away with the annoyance of a bandage. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

We are Prepared to fully Supply the Farmers.

Let us furnish you what you need in Making your crop this year. We have a plan to do it.

Farmers who are interested in securing provisions and implements with which to carry on their work on the farms this year will do well to consult us, and let us submit the propositions which we are able and prepared to make them for furnishings.

Horses, Mules, Wagons, and Implements.

We have everything they will need to carry on operations during the entire year, from a horse and mule and wagon on down to the very smallest items. And the plan upon which we are prepared to sell these things is very suitable indeed.

It will pay you to begin your operations for this year by trading with us. If you are interested we want you to come in and have a talk with us about it.

WADE ANNOUNCES HIMSELF A CANDIDATE FOR SOMETHING.

His Platform is one that Everybody, Both Democrat and Republican, White and Black, Will be Glad to Support.

In putting his proposition before the people, Mr. Wade has the following interesting things to say:

"I have the pleasure of announcing to my friends that I am a candidate for the largest food crop that is possible for Alabama to produce in 1918. Last year you were asked to produce a big food crop and you delivered the goods. You received more money for it than has been received for any previous crop in the history of the state. In fact you received better prices and more money than you expected. The same condition that made last year's crop necessary, still prevails, and will continue to prevail as long as the war lasts and for one or two years afterward. My advice to you, if you want to continue to prosper and help win the war, is to do the same thing this year that you did last year, except do a little more of it, and do it a little better, if such is possible."

Introduce a Bill.

"I want to introduce a bill among the farmers for a hundred million bushels of corn. I mean the kind of corn that hogs eat, not the kind that 'hogs' drink. I want a million and a half tons of velvet beans, and ten million bushels of peas grown in the corn. To do this you will have to plant half your crop in corn, beans and peas. You did not do much fall plowing, and for that reason it will be necessary for the land to be plowed this winter, and plowed and harrowed again in the spring to make cultivation easy and the yield best."

Hay and Peanuts.

"I want a million tons of hay and forty million bushels of peanuts. You should plant one-fourth of your crop in peanuts, if you have sandy loam. Do not use heavy clay soils for peanuts. Use one or two tons of ground limestone per acre on peanut land, if you want larger yields. This is not absolutely necessary, as good fertile well-drained loam soils will make a good yield of nuts without lime. The peanut industry is safe and profitable during the war and for a few years after the war ends. You should increase your cows, pigs and poultry to take care of the waste ends and pastures left from these crops, and to supply the deficiency in meat and fats that are becoming scarcer and higher daily. I want plenty of potatoes and other vegetables produced to supply the farms and local demands."

Some Cotton.

"Plant about one-fourth of your crop in cotton. Select well-drained upland, plant early varieties moderately early in the season. Prepare the soil well and fertilize it liberally. Cultivate shallow once a week and sometimes twice a week when showers come and crust tries to form. Pick and destroy all weevils when the plants are about six inches high, just before the squares form. If you see any yellow squares on the ground at about the time blooming sets in, pick them up and burn them. Quit fighting weevils after that date, except with shallow frequent cultivation until August. You can make a bale to the acre if the seasons are at all favorable and you do it right. You will not need many acres to make lots of cotton. The whole south wants to turn back to cotton. Don't lose your head."

A Big Appropriation.

"I want to appropriate a half billion dollars out of the products of the soil into the pockets of the farmers of Alabama this year. If you like my platform and can give me your active support, begin now to stir the soil every pretty day between now and planting time. Save the money you now have and stay out of debt as nearly as possible. Do not waste any time that can be used in preparing for another crop. If you idle away your time and money and arrive at planting time without any preparation, and dead broke, oh well, just as usual, my wants will be defeated; my bill advanced, and the big appropriation I wanted you to have will be materially reduced. If I win, you get the money, and we all working together will get the Kaiser's 'goat' in 1918, and we will call it a success. Let everybody try."

CARING FOR THE HUMAN MACHINERY

The human system is the most intricate piece of machinery, and your health—your very life, in fact—depends upon each of its parts faithfully performing its functions. If as a result of improper food, lack of sufficient exercise or some indiscretion, you become bilious, the human machine gets all clogged, and serious consequences follow. It is your duty to keep your body in good condition, particularly your liver. This can be easily done by taking a dose or so occasionally of that standard proprietary medicine, Granger Liver Regulator, which acts directly on the sluggish liver and bowels and quickly cleanses the system of the fecal elements which clogged the machinery. Granger Liver Regulator contains no calomel nor alcohol and is used in thousands of homes daily, with most satisfactory results. Try a box of it—25¢—sold by all druggists. Accept no substitutes.

POPULATION—

Men and women of integrity, and ability to create and develop—is essential to the prosperity of every country.

Realizing this, the L. & N. has maintained for a number of years a thoroughly equipped and efficiently managed Department of Immigration and Industry.

No section of the globe is more pregnant with rich natural resources than the balmy, fertile South. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended by the L. & N. to induce immigration of the highest type to come to the South to develop and increase property values, and create those social and community interests which make life worth while.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD CO.
The Old Reliable

AFTER these immigrants come South the L. & N. supplies men expert in every line of farming, cattle and poultry raising, fruit and berry culture, mining, manufacturing, merchandising—in fact everything from tick eradication to locating a factory site—to confer with and advise the immigrants in the best uses of Southern facilities and opportunities.

This L. & N. service is not confined to new arrivals, but demonstration cars and excursions are conducted throughout the entire L. & N. territory and all interested may attend and gain the benefits.

The service, which is free to the people, is cheerfully paid for by the L. & N., because the L. & N. knows the development and prosperity of the South means the development and prosperity of the L. & N. The interests of the L. & N. and the interests of the South are mutual.

CONTROL OF HOG CHOLERA

By J. C. Ford
State Pig Club Agent, Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.
Hog cholera is caused by a germ. There is only one kind of germ that causes hog cholera, and cholera germs will not cause any other disease. Sleeping in dust will no more cause hogs to have cholera than it will cause a child to have measles.

Cholera is spread by sick hogs prowling about and by hogs dead of cholera being eaten by other hogs or by dogs, buzzards, 'possums, etc. Those animals then track the germs wherever they go. Rain may wash the germs into a stream that will carry them for miles and infect herds that drink from such streams. People frequently carry cholera germs on their shoes from one hog pen or lot to another.

It is not always possible to tell positively whether a sick hog has cholera. The most dependable symptoms are a fever, an inflammation of the eyes, with possibly a gumming of the lids so that the eyes will not open, and the fact that the disease spreads from one hog to another or from one herd to another. Reddening of the skin back of the ears and on the under portion of the body also indicates cholera. Be suspicious of cholera if hogs are sick.

By making an internal examination of a dead hog, cholera can be positively recognized. Veterinarians sometimes kill sick hogs to make post mortem examinations. The spleen or melt, the lymphatic glands, the kidneys and bladder should be examined. When a hog has cholera the spleen or melt is frequently enlarged, soft and very dark. In health the lymphatic glands are light gray in color. In case of cholera they are usually very dark, sometimes almost black. If cut across with a sharp knife, blood red spots the size of a pin point to larger than a pin head are usually found. Two large glands that are easily found lie just under the skin between the hind legs. When a hog has cholera these blood-red spots are frequently found on the surface of the kidneys and inside the bladder. One hog is not likely to have all these symptoms, but will most certainly have some of them if it has cholera.

Another symptom frequently found when hogs have been sick with cholera for several days or two or more weeks is the presence of button ulcers in large intestine near its junction with the small intestine. This is a sure symptom but they are not present when hogs die quickly. There are many other symptoms but they may also be caused by other diseases as well as by cholera.

There is little chance to cure cholera, so every effort should be made to prevent it. If the germs are kept away from the hogs, there will be no cholera.

When a hog dies of disease the carcass should be completely burned. Buzzards should be shot on sight. (There is no law to protect buzzards.) All dogs should be confined when there is an outbreak of cholera in the community. Owners of well hogs should keep away from places where there are sick hogs, and owners of sick hogs should stay on their own premises or thoroughly disinfect their shoes and clothes before leaving home.

When one hog in a herd gets sick, the well hogs should at once be removed to another place and confined in close quarters that can be easily cleaned if the infection spreads. Plenty of pure water should be supplied, and hogs should not be permitted to drink from or wallow in streams that may bring the infection from miles above.

If hogs are permitted to run at large cholera cannot be easily controlled, but the serum treatment, if used regularly, will hold it in check reasonably well.

Such remedies as sulphur, copperas, turpentine, etc., will not cure cholera though they do good by keeping hogs free from worms and in good health. If cholera breaks out the only safe thing is to treat all exposed hogs with hog-cholera serum. It will not cure many sick hogs but will prevent well animals from becoming sick. This serum is made from pig blood that is highly charged with an anti-toxin which destroys cholera germs. When injected in the hog in the proper quantity, it will prevent the hog from having cholera for from three to six weeks. Cholera virus contains the living germ of the disease. A little virus injected into a hog will cause cholera, both serum and virus injected into a hog usually cause a mild form of cholera and will protect the hog from cholera for the remainder of its life. Virus is very dangerous, however, and should be used only when advised by the County Agent or a veterinarian. Serum can be ordered from the State Serum Laboratory at Auburn, Alabama. A letter or telegram giving the number of hogs and their total weight will bring the serum by the next express.

After an outbreak of cholera the premises should be thoroughly cleaned. All rubbish, trash, loose boards, etc., about the lot where the sick hogs have been should be burned, and all manure and loose top-soil should be scraped up, carefully composted with lime, hauled to a cultivated field and plowed under. All fences, troughs and hog houses should be thoroughly sprayed with a strong disinfectant. The County Agent can give valuable assistance in directing the cleaning of such premises.

COUNTY COURT HELD ON MONDAY BY JUDGE REYNOLDS

A heavy docket of cases in the county court was disposed of Monday by Judge Reynolds and county solicitor B. Guy Smith. The following cases were acted on except those which are dated otherwise:

Leonard Boyd, grand larceny, trial and discharged.

Lige Jacks, larceny, fined $5.00 and cost, and 10 days in jail.

O. T. Cox, false pretense, nolle-pross on payment of cost.

C. D. Collins, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost, Dec. 27, 1917.

S. W. Littleton, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost, Dec. 27, 1917.

W. L. Jackson, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost, Dec. 27, 1917.

J. E. Mims, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost, Dec. 27, 1917.

Jane Williams, vagrancy, nolle-prossed and committed to asylum.

Richard Mims, vagrancy, nolle-prossed and committed to asylum.

Orman Headley, permitting stock to run at large in stock law district, fined $10 and cost. Appeal taken and bond fixed at $250.

W. A. Gore, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost, Dec. 27, 1917.

Albert Gore, violating prohibition laws, fined $50 and cost.

Vernon Northcutt, disturbing women in public place, nolle-prossed, discharged.

Will Carter, assault and battery, fined $20.

Robert Carter, assault and battery, discharged.

Robert Carter, abusive language, discharged.

COOPER-EDWARDS

Mr. Tap Cooper and Miss Myrtle Edwards were happily married on last Friday at Talladega Springs.

Mr. Cooper is a prosperous young man of Talladega Springs and Miss Edwards is a lovely young lady of Pletcher.

Mrs. A. R. Cooper of Clanton went to Talladega Springs to be present at the ceremony.

Since coming to Clanton B. Guy Smith has pulled of several stunts for which he is to be congratulated. Now he has added another one, and the best one of all, to his list—he got married Wednesday.

Men are fond of the great American game. But they would rather see an artist's model display her curves than to see a baseball pitcher display his.

A preacher rests up between Sundays, but old man satan is on the job 24 hours every day. No wonder the world is so bad.

It often happens that a man will kill himself making a fortune so that his son will kill himself spending it.

Women who are proud of their hair usually indulge in false pride.

What has become of the old-fashioned town cut-up who, when he saw someone carrying a valise would ask: "Are you traveling or are you just going about?"

There are two sides to every case. When a married woman bestows all her affection on a poodle, maybe she has that kind of a husband.

Cattle relish the sweet odor of wet Buckeye Hulls

properly and your stock will like them better than any other roughage. Once they are accustomed to them, they will not be satisfied with anything else.

There is every reason why your cattle should relish Buckeye Hulls. They are all roughage; no lint that is worthless as forage; no dirt, trash or dust.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls cost much less per ton than old style hulls. They take less space in the barn. Buckeye Hulls allow better assimilation of other food. They are sacked—easy to handle. Every pound goes farther. They mix well, when wet, with other forage.

Mr. L. R. Farmer, Louisville, Ga., says: "that he has used no other hulls but Buckeye for the past year and gets good results. Cows have not been bothered with cough since using Buckeye Hulls."

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Mullins & Moore

Clanton, (Successors to W. I. Mullins) Ala.

J. H. Popwell of Route 6 was here Monday. He said he had been sick and the doctor said he had small pox. He seemed to believe though that it was just a case of where the doctor didn't know what it was and called it small pox "for short." The editor had got about a half a block away from him by the time he told us he was well of it.

J. B. Northcutt, of Jemison Route 2, the county President of the interdenominational Sunday school work, was in Clanton Monday. He paid The Union-Banner a visit, and consented to write us a few articles from time to time in regard to the Sunday school situation. There is to be an important meeting at Clanton in the near future concerning which Mr. Northcutt has an announcement to make right away.

Will F. DeShazo of Mulberry was here Tuesday. He has been busily engaged in working on the Maplesville highway for several months.

NOTICE

I take this method of saying to the public, that, hereafter I will not be in shape to extend credit and carry accounts until Fall as I have been doing heretofore.

My business will be run more on a cash basis. All accounts made with me will be due and payable on the first of each month.

Conditions in the mercantile business have altogether changed. Goods that was sold a few years ago to the retail merchant with four to six months dating, have to be paid for now in thirty days, and a large percent of staple goods are shipped bill of lading attached. And with the short terms that I buy goods on I don't feel that the little amount of operating capital that I have justifies my undertaking any further to do a supply or advancing business.

I want to extend my sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that my business has had during the past.

I shall keep my stock of merchandise more replete, and by paying cash will be in a position to give better values. I heartily solicit a continuance of the liberal share of cash business that I have enjoyed, and assure my customers that they will be, at all times, treated courteously, and given a square deal.

Those having past due accounts with me will please arrange to make settlement as early as possible.

Very respectfully,

W. A. KEMP.

TAXES COLLECTED IN CHILTON COUNTY FOR 1916 AND 1917

The Union-Banner has obtained from Tax Collector J. D. Collins, a statement of the amount of taxes collected in this county for the year 1917, and also the taxes for 1916.

Following are the figures:

State taxes for 1916—General taxes $7677.03; soldier tax $3070.73; school tax, $9216.19. Total state taxes for 1916, $19963.95.

County taxes for 1916—General taxes $15354.06; road tax 7677.03; school tax, $3070.75. Total county tax for 1916, $26101.82.

Total taxes, state and county for 1916, $46065.77.

State taxes for 1917—General, $11303.01; soldier tax $4521.21; school tax, $13563.65. Total state tax for 1917, $29387.87.

County taxes for 1917—General $22606.07; road tax $11302.98; school tax $18084.76. Total county tax for 1917, $51993.81.

The county paid in 1917 $35,315.91 more taxes than it did in the previous year.

This increase is accounted for in more than one way. The tax rate has been increased on account of the three mills levied for schools in the county. The increase in assessments due to the work of the Equalization board has begun to take effect. And the general condition of people makes them more able financially than heretofore to pay their taxes.

REV. B. H. VICKERS DEAD

Rev. B. H. Vickers, aged 75 years, died at his home near Liberty Hill at an early hour last Sunday morning. Pneumonia was the cause of his death.

The deceased was born in Marietta county, Ga., and removed to Alabama when young. He was a life member of the Masonic Lodge of Clanton. His funeral and burial ceremony were conducted by a delegation of his brothers of the order. Interment was made at Liberty Hill cemetery.

Mr. Vickers was a well and widely known Baptist preacher. He was for a number of years Moderator of the Weogufka Baptist Association of Coosa and Chilton counties.

THORSBY ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Horn of Clanton spent Friday of last week here, packing their household goods, preparatory to moving to Clanton, where they expect to make their future home.

Miss Clara Soberg, who has been in Chicago training for the profession of nursing, at Augustana hospital for the past eight months, has returned to Thorsby. She has been elected as Principal of Thorsby Public School to succeed Prof. J. L. Harris, recently joined the navy.

Mr. Ashby McCormick, a student of Thorsby Institute, left on Sunday of last week for San Antonio, Texas, to join the aviation corps.

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer has accepted a position with the Tennessee Coal Iron and Railway Company at Ensley. He left Sunday, Jan. 6, to take up his work there.

A new well for the Thorsby Light and Water Company is being sunk. It has already been drilled to a depth of 120 feet, where it has reached the rock. The plan is to carry the drill some distance into the rock, whereby it is hoped to reach an inexhaustible supply of water.

Miss Fay L. Smith, a teacher in the Thorsby Institute, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Lois Conant, of Toledo, Iowa, has just returned from a week's visit to Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and other points in Florida. Miss Conant is spending a few days with Miss Smith at the Teachers' cottage before returning north.

Mrs. S. E. Norton, who has charge of the sale of Christmas seals this year, in and around Thorsby, is very gratified to state that the sales for this year have almost doubled those of last year. A number of school children deserve credit for the assistance they gave Mrs. Norton, and among those especial mention should be made of Miss Anna Nelson, who sold the greatest number.

A business meeting of the ladies aid was held on Thursday, Jan. 3. Mrs. Chas. Rogers was elected President, Mrs. J. M. Graham, Vice-President, Mrs. E. W. Butler, Secretary, and Mrs. Carl C. Peterson, Treasurer.

A stereopticon lecture on "Mission Work in Mexico," will be given at the Congregational church, Sunday night, Jan. 13, at 7:30. Everyone is extended a cordial invitation.

Mrs. May Hastings Nottage, of Boston, Mass. arrived in Thorsby last week to take the position of Music Teacher in Thorsby Institute. Mrs. Nottage has studied both vocal and instrumental music at the New England Conservatory in Boston, and also under Dr. Jules Jordon of Providence, R. I., and has had wide experience as a teacher and musician. She has already won her way to the hearts of the students of Thorsby Institute and gives promise of filling a large place in the life of the school and community.

A Red Cross rally was held at the Bates Hall on Friday evening, of last week in the interest of the Red Cross Chapter in Thorsby. The number of members which is required, which is fifty, it is hoped will be reached within a short time. Mrs. Splawn of Clanton gave a very interesting account of the Clanton Red Cross Chapter and its work.

It will be interesting to the customers of Mr. G. D. Edwards and Mr. J. R. Parnell, who are dealers in groceries notions etc. to know that Mr. Edwards now occupies the store formerly occupied by Mr. Parnell, and Mr. Parnell occupies the store formerly occupied by Mr. Edwards.

The following new students arrived for school at Thorsby Institute last week: Loris, Stewart, Andalusia; Laura Wood, Ozark; Hattie Mae Williams, Garland; Verbie Hinson, Georgiana; and Dewey Truitt, Ashland. Others are expected this week.

Mr. Wm. Rogers, who spent the Christmas vacation with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Chas. Rogers, in Thorsby, returned on Saturday of last week to Demorest, Ga., where he is a student in Piedmont college.

REVIVE THE HOME ORCHARD

By G. C. Starcher, Horticulturist, Alabama Experiment Station

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The most attractive place about the old colonial home was the orchard, with which was often associated a garden, noted for its beauty of design, its lovely old flowers and wealth of health-giving fruits and vegetables. Little is left of these today but their memory, for conditions have been such for the last half century that it has been impossible to keep up these old orchards and gardens in their former state.

Diversified farming is introducing a new era in the agriculture of the South, and attention should be turned once more to the establishment of the home garden and orchard, if not in the style it once knew, certainly it should be sufficiently large and varied to furnish fruit for home use throughout the year. For the growing child fruit is an absolute necessity, and it gives both health and pleasure to persons of all ages.

In southern Alabama the fruit orchard may contain a half dozen varieties of citrus fruits, pecans, peaches, pears, grapes, apples, persimmons and a dozen other fruits. In fact in no other part of America can so varied an assortment of fruits be grown as in this part of our own state. In central and northern Alabama the peach, persimmon, peach, apple, pear and all small temperate zone fruits flourish when properly managed.

The home fruit garden need not be a burden on the farm, nor on the labor that is required to carry on the regular farm operations. An acre of ground properly planted will produce more fruit than any single home can possibly use, and the amount of time required for its care will scarcely be missed from the regular farm work.

The grapes may be planted and trained to run on the sides of the home and other buildings. The peach is everywhere noted for its beauty as a shade tree, and when planted for shade and ornament about the grounds and lawn of a home it would not only add beauty, but will be a blessing for the live stock during the long summer days, and in the fall prove a rich source of income. Pecan trees planted about the home as suggested will produce this year incomes from single trees, ranging anywhere from $10.00 to $100.00, and at practically no expense except gathering the nuts from the ground. A small apple orchard of little more than two acres, near Opelika, Ala., was thoroughly sprayed for the first time this year, and produced for its owner the surprising sum of nearly $1,000.00 worth of apples and apple products.

It is true that diseases and insects, if allowed to work unhindered will quickly destroy most of our fruit plants, but modern methods of agriculture are being so widely adopted in the South that the addition of the spraying machine and spraying solutions will come to be as natural a part of the farm equipment as have the mowing machine, hay press and feed grinding mills. Write to the Department of Horticulture of Auburn for its bulletin on the varieties of fruits recommended for Alabama farms, and directions for spraying the orchard and garden.

ALABAMA CORN VARIETY TEST

By E. F. Cauthen, Associate Agriculturist

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In 1917 seventeen varieties of corn were tested on the Alabama Experiment Station Farm. The soil is up land gravelly loam. The preceding crop was cowpeas mowed for hay. Corn was planted March 31, in checks 4-2-3 feet by 3 feet, and thinned to one plant in a hill.

At the time of planting, a mixture of 200 pounds of acid phosphate and 160 pounds of cottonseed meal was applied per acre in the drill. On June 20 a side application of 50 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre was made. The corn received frequent shallow cultivation until it began to tassle.

But, of shelled No. 1 corn good ear per acre good ear Bu

The four leading varieties may be classified as prolific, and produced an average of 170 ears and bunnies or more per 100 plants. The large, one eared varieties are near the bottom of the list.

During the past thirteen years among the four most productive varieties each year, Mosby and Hastings were included seven times; Sanders six times; Alexander's Prolific five times; Experiment Station Yellow and Mariboro each four times; Henry Grady, three times, and Whitley Weekley and Garric each twice.

Put the Kaiser in Coal Mine

Mt. Creek, Ala., Jan. 7, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

I am not through with the Kaiser, nor will ever be, until we smash the whole kettle of "spoiled fish." He himself, is responsible, personally responsible, for the war. The next one to blame is Bismark, the founder of the present German Empire. His career is a glaring instance of the fact that the evil that a man does lives after him. He intoxicated his nation with success in war. He taught them that might was right. He led them back to the old doctrine of the divine right of kings. He taught them that neither their statesmen, nor the nation itself, should allow scruples of honor to stand in the way of nation-aggrandizement, when he himself, setting the example by publicly admitting that he committed a forgery in a state paper in order to precipitate the French War in 1870. There is such a thing as retributive justice, and we should mete it out upon them. From the Rhine to Berlin should be made a scene of destruction, its people deported and made to work as slaves, and the Kaiser put in the coal mines of Birmingham, Ala., thus giving him and his cohorts a taste of the "sweets" of vandalism forced upon others. We have no time to stop and listen to a German orchestra, or school teacher, or machine or any thing else German. It is our business at home to see that everyone is loyal and all who are not loyal should be made so, or hang or be shot on the spot. If these dirty spies were turned over to us veterans, quick work would be made of them. Don't you forget it. It takes plain words and actual deeds to make some people think. What has this German-made hell brought to us?

Listen. Since the formal creation of this northern German Empire in 1871, the slowly moving relentless finger of fate has heralded this foregone result, and now the ghastly issue embroiling two continents is before us with its all-encircling dance of death, with all its horrors.

To save ourselves, we must undo what the Kaiser and Bismark did. Germany must be smashed and made to feel what she has forced upon the world. These are my sentiments, and I only wish that I had the powers. May the God of War and Right be given to the allies. More anon,

How Does a Soldier Feel in a Life-and-Death Crisis?

He was caught—like a rat in a trap—with only one chance in a million of coming out alive. He thought of—

What does a soldier think of in a life-and-death crisis? How does he feel? What does he do? What is the millionth chance that he takes to escape? While trembling and hot from the experiences they have gone through, over two hundred men—airmen, trench raiders, submarine commanders, grenade throwers—have told what they saw, heard and felt. To read these stories of personal adventure is to get an entirely new viewpoint of the war.

A Close-Up of the War

Newspapers and magazines treat the war along broad, general lines—they speak of nations and armies. But these stories tell you about the most daring, audacious and heroic deeds of MEN—individuals. They tell of exploits which even now you think never could happen. No professional author in the history of literature could tell such stories, for no man's imagination could think them up. Yet each of these stories is true—and so startling that the mind simply stands aghast at wonder. They would thrill a man with blood as cold as a fish.

"True Adventures of the Great War" 6 Volumes Free!

The Review of Reviews has collected these two hundred and more stories in six handsome volumes, containing altogether 1800 pages, profusely illustrated. Every one of these stories is absolutely genuine as to the facts related; every one of them is told in the words of the person who is the hero or heroine of the exploit. And now, for a limited time, you can secure these six volumes free, with a two-year subscription to the Review of Reviews.

Now, and during these next few years, as never before, every intelligent American will need the Review of Reviews. The world is on the verge. It is in the throes of social, industrial and political changes that are cataclysmic. Our current form of government, our revolutionary events, our cannot base his acts intelligently upon them—our cannot understand the real war situation, unless the facts, all the facts, are known. It is genuine patriotic duty in these coming days of trial for every citizen to know comprehensively what is happening in the world around him.

MAN FROM MOBILE COUNTY SAYS DIPPING IS GOOD

A former citizen of this county, Mr. Volle E. Mims, who has been living in Chunchula in Mobile County for the past few years, was in Clanton this week on a visit to friends and relatives.

The Editor of the Union-Banner ran across Mr. Mims, and in conversation with him found that he had been for some time under cattle dipping laws. We asked him to give us his opinion on the dipping business for publication, and he stated the following:

"In the first place I will say that we have been dipping our cattle in Mobile for two years, and we are well pleased with the results we have attained. We are now free from ticks and are not required to dip any more in my immediate vicinity. Other communities however, which have not made as good progress as we, are required to dip for another season.

"I observed while dipping my cows that they would decrease their milk flow for the first day or two after dipping, which I think, was caused by the excitement they were subjected to in the process. I cannot see any permanent damage to my cattle which I dipped regularly. We are pleased with the results, are rid of ticks and are doing better than we did before we dipped."

Continuing in the discussion of the question Mr. Mims made this illustration of the tick menace: "We are in the European War," he said, "and we should not confuse ourselves with why we are in it. We must now fight it out to a finish. I look at the tick infestations the same way. The communities which have ticks would be better if they were rid of them, and there is no use arguing about it. The best thing to do is to get rid of them and do it as quickly as possible by dipping the cattle."

THE ESCH EXEMPTION

Representative John J. Esch of Wisconsin has drawn a measure that would add a further exemption to those already provided in the federal inheritance tax law. Where the decedent has taken out life insurance for the purpose of providing for the payment of the inheritance taxes of the state and nation Mr. Esch would exempt such policy up to the amount of that class of taxes assessed against the estate. It appears to be a fair proposition that an estate not be taxed on a fund expressly laid aside for the payment of taxes, and it is the hope of Mr. Esch that the committee on ways and means, to which the measure has been referred, will take a similar view of the matter.

TAX BOARD AT WORK

The equalization board of Chilton County is at work again, going over the assessments of real estate for the county and making regulations of same where they deem it necessary. It is the opinion of some who are well acquainted with the tax records of the county that there will be a number of raises made by the board this year.

Last year the equalization board made regulations of personal property, and this year they take up real estate. Likewise, they will, under the law, alternate from one to the other each year.

GOT IN HIS STORM PIT

Mr. Lewis T. Dennis was among the visitors to The Union-Banner office Saturday. He came in just as a conversation concerning bad weather was in progress, and said he had not been frightened about these cyclones at all. He said "I stayed in my storm pit last night while that wind was sweeping little things away around me. Myself and my family go in our pit every time a storm comes, and we are amply protected." We rather fancy the idea of a storm pit, and wish that we had one to get in when the cyclones are playing around here. We hear several people recently talking of building them one.

MEASLES, SMALLPOX, ETC.

This is not an advertisement for a patent remedy for the above named disease. (We expect if it were, there are some around here who would read it with more interest.)

We just want to tell our readers that there are a number of cases of measles, smallpox, etc., in progress in and around Clanton. We do not propose to say just what might be included within the scope of the "etc" which we tack on to the list; but it might be taken to mean just measles, or red measles, or German measles, or the kind of measles that lawyers have, and smallpox, or chicken pox, or eczema, or the seven-year itch. Any how, there are several people around town and in the country who have got something that may or may not come in our list given above.

Out in the country at some places the schools are considerably hindered on account of the diseases, and there is strong talk of the county health officer taking some action at one or two of the schools.

DAVID VINES AT HOME

David Vines is at home from the naval training station at Norfolk, Va. But he hasn't come back to take up his work as mail carrier on Route 5 again. He is at home on 30 days sick leave, due to the fact that he has been seriously sick with pneumonia since he went to camp a month ago. But he is about recovered now, and is able to be out and around town. When we told him that we had been expecting him to come back in a pine box, he replied: "No, sir. When one of us Chilton County boys 'cash in our checks' they will just wrap a sheet around us and consign us to the briny deep. We went there to make sailors, and we are going to do it in spite of a little pneumonia."

PAY ROAD TAX

The Judge of Probate is now issuing receipts for road tax to those who desire to pay five dollars instead of work the public roads. The law now requires the full amount of five dollars to be paid before March 1st. It will not be divided into half year payments as it was last year. All who are subject to road duty and do not pay the five dollars before the first of March will be required to work on the roads five days of ten hours each.

REPUBLICANS FOR HIGHER PENSIONS

Washington, Jan. 8.—The veterans of the Civil War have reasons to be encouraged at the promising outlook for a general increase in their pensions during the present session of Congress. Several bills have been introduced already by prominent Republicans in both houses having that end in view, and it is probable that some form of legislation along that line will be enacted.

It is realized that there are many inconsistencies in the pension law as they now stand. Last fall the pensions of all widows of Civil War soldiers were raised to $25 per month. But under the act of May 11, 1912, a man who served as long as two and a half years in that war, and is 70 years old, receives a pension of $24, with correspondingly lower rates for less service and younger age. If such a soldier should die his widow would begin to draw a pension at a higher rate than her husband. It has always been the intention of Congress to provide liberally for the widows it has never been claimed that they should receive more than the man who did the fighting.

Again, the high cost of living has operated as a practical reduction of every pension, and with the raises in salary that are being granted in all businesses and in the government service itself, it is felt that justice requires a similar increase in the rates of pensions.

Another consideration that will stimulate action on the proposed increases is the liberal manner in which congress has provided for our men in the present war. No veteran of the Civil War would deny our soldiers of the present day the generous treatment they are receiving. But, although, the hardships of this war are rigorous in the extreme, nevertheless the men who went through the Civil war were forced to endure for four long years privations of every conceivable kind, and conditions of sanitation resulting in disease and infection of wounds that were totally unknown in the present conflict. The ones who survived were totally incapacitated in greater or less degree for the rest of their lives. Such men should be accorded as generous consideration as those who will fight our battles abroad.

Republicans, generally are lining up behind the movement for increased pensions for the Civil War heroes, and it is the prevailing sentiment that a minimum of $25 per month should be allowed for a service of 90 days, with a maximum of as high as $50 for a service of three years or more.

PRaise COMMISSIONERS COURT AND ROAD OVERSEER

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 8, 1918. Editor Union-Banner: .

We, the undersigned, citizens of Beat 1 desire to express our gratitude toward the honorable body of County Commissioners of Chilton County for the improvement made on the public roads in our Beat in the last seven months.

We especially want to mention the new road leading from Mr. Plier's Mill Pond to the Mahan barn. It is almost complete, and is by far the best piece of work ever done in Beat One.

Mr. Foshee, the foreman of all the public roads in Beat One, tells us that the money paid in by the road subjects for the year 1917 is not exhausted, and we think he deserves credit for both the work and manner in which he has handled the business. Of course, he has, like anyone else in the same place, been criticized, but we invite all who will to come and see for themselves, and you will notice, if you are familiar with the conditions in Beat One a very marked difference between now and last July the first.

ROCKY MOUNT

The school at this place is progressing nicely. We doubt if there is a better working corps of rural teachers in the county than we have at Rocky Mount.

Weather has been so bad that no move has yet been made toward farming but it will not be many days now until "gee" and "haw" will be leading words.

The young people have had a number of fruit suppers and other affairs during the holidays which were much enjoyed by all.

Among the best enjoyed affairs of the season was the oyster supper given by the School Improvement Ladies on the night of January 9th. Besides oysters the ladies served coffee and cake. A large crowd attended and it was good to see the interest of the older people, a number of whom attended.

The most exciting part of the meeting was the voting contest at the last. A delicious cake had been cooked for the occasion by Miss Pearl Waldrup and was to be voted to the most popular young lady present. At first Miss Ruby Northcutt seemed to be the favorite but a little later the race between Miss Golda Williams and Miss Ara Durbin completely absorbed the attention of the crowd. Just when the interest was intense and it was in extreme doubt which of these two would be the proud winner, Mr. Claud Shaw stepped in and nominated Miss Clara Millsap. The Rocky Mount boys rallied nobly to Miss Williams but as they had spent a considerable amount in the race among their home girls they had to yield after a very hard fight and Miss Millsap won by about 17 votes. The boys here say it will take something to walk away with the next cake. This cake netted $27.80, and the Association cleared about $40 from the entire supper.

Prof. Howard Roper is back on duty again as principal of our school after a few days fight with the German measles.

We are to have a program and a valentine party at the school building on the night of February 14th. Everybody come and have a good time. Admission 10 cents.

ALL ALABAMA AROUSED AGAINST ALLY OF KAISER

(From Montgomery Advertiser)
Alabama is aroused as never before against that able ally of the Kaiser, the cattle tick. Never has there been such a widespread feeling that the cattle tick must go from Alabama, now and forever.

The cattle tick is no more a matter of opinion. By reducing our meat, milk and hide supply, the cattle tick is an active ally of the Kaiser and a mighty effective ally. Getting rid of the cattle tick is now a war measure of the utmost importance.

Mississippi has been released from quarantine—she stands before the world as having eliminated this ally of our enemies. And what is more, Mississippi will keep clean of ticks henceforth and forevermore.

Alabama can do no less. Every county that has the cattle tick in its borders has a parasite and is weakening our country in the struggle. That cannot continue. No county in Alabama can continue to have the cattle tick within its borders.

These truths are fast being realized by our people. The counties that are now in quarantine are chaffing under the hardships imposed upon them by the cattle tick. The people are aroused as never before to getting rid of the tick. They will say that the cattle tick must go. One ticky county after another in Alabama this year will eliminate the tick through the dipping vat. It is possible that by the end of the year or early in the coming year every county in Alabama will be released from quarantine.

No county in Alabama can remain under quarantine long. The quarantine restrictions, besides the war need make it necessary for every tick county to clean up as fast as possible. These quarantine restrictions were made as war measures, and as war measures, they virtually force the ticky counties to get busy as quick as possible. The restrictions themselves make it certain that ticky counties will plunge into the work of eliminating the cattle tick.

The tick must go from Alabama. The finish of this parasite is certain. The only question is one of time. The harder the work is carried forward in the building of dipping vats the faster will the tick be eliminated.

Alabama counties that still have the tick are planning now for energetic work. Over in Georgia the people are aroused against the tick and Georgia is rushing her work of tick eradication.

Down in Florida stockmen are aroused the same way. They say that the tick must go. The war and its gigantic demands for meat, hides and dairy products, will cause the cattle tick to be eliminated from the entire South far sooner than this great work would ever have otherwise been accomplished.

"The war is literally making the South," said a man the other day. The elimination of the cattle tick is one of the great big blessings that the war is bringing quickly to the South.

FORGET THAT WE REMEMBER?

President Wilson has sent to all the executive departments a copy of Secretary Redfield's letter to his bureau chiefs in which this suggestion occurs: "Forget how things were done before the war. Eliminate red tape." The eliminating can be achieved. The forgetting will be a harder matter. The parents of many an American lad slain on the battlefields of Europe or dead from pneumonia in one of our army camps, will have mute reminder of how things were done, and what things were not done, before the war. The memory of them may well cause a presidential shiver.

FOUR PILLARS OF FARMING

Any system of structure cannot have a well balanced and permanent foundation with less than four primary pillars. As many or more additional, or subsidiary pillars may be used as is necessary but the number can be diminished to less than four without subjecting the whole structure to danger from collapse and destruction.

The above is very true with our system of agriculture. The four primary and indispensable pillars of safe farming are: cereals for food, cereals and hay for feed, live-stock and poultry for milk and meat, and cotton for cash and clothing. The subsidiary pillars may be summed up as follows:—fruits, vegetables of all kinds including potatoes and peanuts. It is therefore necessary to divide our cultivated crops into four equal parts, devoting two parts or half of the crop to cereals such as corn, beans, peas, and hay; one part to fruit, vegetables and peanuts and the remaining fourth to cotton. This is the true meaning of diversified farming. If it is necessary to increase the production of any or all of these crops, it can best be done by better quality of seed, better preparation, fertilizer and cultivation; and by so doing increase the yield and not the acreage. Keep your food pillars under your system of farming, if you expect to be a permanent success.

Do Not Realize.

Many farmers have become excited over thirty cent cotton and are now threatening to turn extensively to the production of cotton this year. They have not stopped to consider the vast amount of labor required to produce and harvest the large crop of cotton and how much labor has gone to the army or has migrated to other states. They are not aware of the fact that the people of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and South Carolina are about to become cotton daffy and increase their crops. They certainly are overlooking the fact that wheat, corn, meat, peas, peanuts, beans and potatoes are as high and in some instances higher than cotton. They will realize it, however, when they have them to buy out of the proceeds of the boll weevil cotton crop. They must have undoubtedly forgotten the big crop and low prices of 1914. They must have even forgotten the floods and boll weevil conditions in 1916. They certainly do not appreciate, as they should, the diversified crops that pulled them out of the hole in 1917. They surely will not ignore the call of America and the Allies for food with which to win this horrible war, else their patriotism is as dead as their business judgment.

Cold Weather and Boll Weevils

These cotton enthusiasts are about to deceive themselves with the delusion that the recent cold weather has destroyed the boll weevils. It is true that extremely cold weather does effect them to some extent, but freezing weather in December or January is not as destructive as it would be in February or March. The longer the weevil is dormant without food, the weaker its system becomes and the more readily it succumbs to cold. If the entire winter is cold, enough weevils will survive to give you a run for your money, especially if the spring and early summer is one of those excessive wet ones like we sometimes have.

There is not a farmer in Alabama with good business judgment and a liberal supply of patriotism who will plant cotton excessively, to the neglect of producing a reasonable amount of food and feed, and by so doing take chances in wrecking his own business and fail to support his country in a world crisis. "Don't rock the boat."

THORSBY ITEMS

Mrs. George Phelin, who spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Howard, returned to her home in Tuscaloosa Sunday afternoon.

We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Bynum to our city. They are residing on the Busenlehner place.

The annual conference of the M. D. Foshee, comp. business meeting of the M. D. Foshee, comp. church was held on Wednesday night, January 9th. Reports from the various departments were received and officers were elected for the ensuing year. The report of the Treasurer from other departments were full and encouraging. The following are the officers of the church:

S. H. Herbert, Pastor; E. W. Butler, Clerk; A. K. Horn, Treasurer; E. W. Butler, S. E. Norton, Deacons; S. W. Norton, J. P. Sorrenson, and J. M. Graham, Trustees; J. L. Winslow, Sunday School Superintendent; Miss Hoopes, Assistant Superintendent; Mrs. S. E. Norton, Primary Superintendent; Miss Lorena Graham, President of the Christian Endeavor Society; Mrs. Chas. T. Rogers, President Ladies Aid Society.

Miss Lake Cochran of Riverside, and Mr. John Allen Duke of LaGrange, Ga., have enrolled at Thorsby Institute.

Miss Stella Bryant of Alexander City, who was called home on account of the illness of her mother, has returned to school.

Miss Lois Abernathy has returned to school after spending a few days at the bedside of her brother in Birmingham, who has been very ill.

The citizens of Thorsby regret the loss of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Scott, who left on Tuesday of this week for Birmingham. Mr. Scott has a position with the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

Rev. Dwight S. Bayley, a member of the board of trustees of Thorsby Institute, was here for the regular meeting which was held Tuesday, January 8th.

The following program will be rendered on Friday night, January 18 at Bates Hall, by the members of the Helen Keller Literary Society:

Song, Society; Devotions, Mr. Williams; Recitation, Lanier, Nels Nelson; Recitation, Riley, Robert Carlson; Original Essay, Lanier, Agnes Leary; Original Essay, Riley, Sumner Gerald; Music, Camp Fire Girls; Prophecy, Lanier, Juanita Atkinson; Prophecy, Riley, Marie Thomas; Mock Trial, Floyd Turner, Edward Howard.

As for our part, we would choose any day the "serfdom" which a Republican administration would inflict upon us, in preference to the "solid democratic" fallacy that is being palmed off on the South as a fair and equitable system of government.

The fact that the legislature of the State of Kentucky has ratified the proposed federal prohibition amendment will be a surprise to some who have been of the opinion that "Kentucky" was the wettest of the wets. The vote in favor of the proposed amendment was 66 to 10 in the House and 27 to 16 in the Senate.

As a direct outcome of the peace negotiations between Germany and Russia, there have been released one million, six hundred thousand German soldiers on the eastern battle front who will be put on the Western front to face the French, British and Americans. Simultaneous with this announcement comes the report from England that another half million men must be raised and put in fighting train.

The death this week of Major Augustus P. Gardner, former Congressman from Massachusetts, at Camp Wheeler Ga., has caused Congress to ask for a probe of conditions at the army camp. Major Gardner died of pneumonia. It is a pity that such a move was not made at the death of the hundred or more private soldiers whose lives have been sacrificed to the ravages of disease at this camp. But in this as in other things, you have to strike the big cord to start the music.

SHOOT AT BROOKS LAWRENCE

In his dire effort to explain the "unexplainable" capers of the last Legislature of Alabama, our versatile friend who writes for the Clanton Press bumps the proposition off by saying that the crowd did thus and so "by the suggestion, and through the scheming machinations of an envoy from the most rabid Republican State in the Union."

This is a dagger which the Press throws indirectly at Brooks Lawrence, the president of the Alabama Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Lawrence is from the State of Ohio. Why didn't the Press tell its readers that Mr. Lawrence, though he be from Ohio, (which State is sometimes controlled by Democrats and sometimes by Republicans), is nevertheless a Democrat, and if he did engineer all the infamy enacted by the last Legislature of Alabama, as the Press charges him, he did it in cahoots with his other Democratic "buddies" down there.

Now, the Press may ever so fervently wish that they could pack that legislature mess off on some thing or somebody else besides the Democratic party, but every time they try to lay the guilt at somebody's else door, the thing "comes back" on them with more convincing force than ever. Every Democrat who has tried to defend his party from the things they did at Montgomery in the 1915 Legislature has soon found that it were far better had he kept silent in the first place.

So it is with the Press. Just so long as they try to bolster up their party by seeking to lay those pernicious enactments on the shoulders of somebody else, they do their own cause hurt.

What does it profit them to say that Brooks Lawrence did it, when Brooks was a Democrat, and if he did have anything to do with it, was working through the dominant element of the Democratic party? Does this relieve the Democratic party of the blame?

There was one or two things done in the last Legislature that were not bad at all; in fact they were very fair and sensible legislation to be sure. And we are most confident that if these few reputable laws which they passed were ferreted out it would be found that they were conceived and brought forth by the very element of that Legislature with which Mr. Lawrence was in full accord. That same element might have had to do with some of the unpopular legislation that was passed, and no doubt, they did, but even if they did, that does not leave the Democratic party in the clear, for they were all Democrats,—Lawrence and the rest as well.

COUNTY MAPS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has made arrangements to print a number of Beat Maps of Chilton County, and now have them for sale to anyone desiring them, at the price of 25 cents each.

THE HEIGHTH OF ABSURDITY

In all the catagory of things narrow, contracted, farical and foolish, that were ever manufactured for sinister political reasons, such nonsense as the following seems to us to reach the heights of absurdity. If one should fall for such a thing as this we would not at all be surprised to see him stick his finger in a bucket of water and then try to find the hole that it made. We have reference to the following which we take from the Clanton Press of last week:

"Do you not know, Bro. Wyatt, that it is an open secret in Washington today that the party you so ardently espouse, has already the machinery in hand to re-district the South just as soon as they can trap Congress into violating the rights of States by national prohibition and suffrage amendments? We are sure you know this for it is current gossip in the press of the country."

"What does that amount to? It means that the South will lose forever any voice in the councils of the nation. Our electoral vote will be cut down in the same proportions as our representation and when you consider the fact that less than one-third of the population upon which our present representation is based are voters, you can readily see that our influence, under the benign manipulations of that dear old party of yours would be absolutely nil. Is that clear? Can you go before your readers with the statement that you endorse this utter annihilation of Southern independence?"

But the Press is not directly responsible for the origin of this kind of fool-hardy would-be political dope. It is in a worse fix than that—it pretends to believe that such a thing is true, and is therefore to be classed as the dupe of the ill-designing schemers higher up in the Democratic party, who have recently hatched up all this mess for the purpose of blinding the already blind people of the solid south, and leading them further into bonds of political captivity and shackling them with the weight of other burdens from which they would be hopeless ever to escape. This most unreasonable and unsound stuff is put up as political argument for the purpose of advancing a cause which has been dragged into Alabama politics, and which is not proper to be found in the scope of politics at all.

Such statements as those perpetrated above by the Press last week are exactly fitting for use of a most rabid secessionist of the 1861 type. Such words as those are not fit for repetition by sensible men of this day who are supposed to know that this country is re-united as it should be, and no longer in any humor to entertain anything that breeds a revival of sectionalism. This is a day when the success of our ideals as a nation demands that there be no North nor no South—that the Union be one and inseparable, now and forever. Such prejudiced utterances as the Press makes above are treasonable, in that it causes some who do not know any better than to take them seriously, to have a prejudiced opinion against the people of the North.

If the Press is so alarmed by the capture of the southland by Republicans at Washington, why are not all Democrats likewise aroused? Why is it Brother Corley, that there is only one element of your party that are scared to death about this horrible butchering of states rights which you and the rest of them are ranting about? How do you account for the difference in your attitudes at present?

Then what about the days past in the course of recent years in which Republicans were in power at Washington, in both House, Senate and Cabinet? You will say that the handful of Southern Democrats kept the Republicans from plundering the South; but don't you know that with the overwhelming majority the Republicans had, they could have passed anything in the world they might have wanted to in spite of the weak Democratic opposition?

This states rights business which you go wild about is just camouflage with which you hope to conceal the real purposes for which you are striving. You have no such fears of Republican oppression. You are just calling it that in order to arouse prejudice.

We are not alarmed over it at all. The Union-Banner hopes as fervently as we ever hoped that God might answer a feeble prayer, that at no distant day the Republicans regain control of the National Congress, and put this country again on what it terms equitable Republican basis of government. Yes, we actually hope to see that, even though to the contrary notwithstanding, it would perforce, break the heart of our esteemed neighbor the Press, and cause it to go wild for fear that the heel of Republicanism would crush the life blood out of the good old "solid" Democratic south.

We repeat here what we have often said before, that nothing could be a greater blessing to the South than that which would burst into numberless smithereens the putrid stronghold of this "solid" democratic machine.

Any little wound or abrasion of the flesh needs help. HERBINE...; flesh occurring in cold weather that is not promptly treated becomes a bad sore and is difficult to heal. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT at once when such accidents happen. The wound heals promptly and soon does away with the annoyance of a bandage. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug

WHO IS REALLY GUILTY?

We want the Clanton Press to go a bit further than it did last week, and make that point a little clearer in regard to the plan which "the party" you so ardently espouse (the Republican party) has already the machinery in hand to re-district the south just as soon as they can trap Congress into violating the rights of states by national prohibition and suffrage amendments."

We want them to prove their assertion that it is the Republican party that is "trapping" congress into these things.

We want them to clear the skirts of the Democrats themselves of any participation in this move, before they try to lay it to the Republican party.

Yes, and even more than that, they must show that the Democratic party organization at Washington actively opposed the submission of these two amendments and that the Republicans forced action in order to carry out their cut and dried schemes of "Congress-trapping."

We want the Press to prove that Republicans were more instrumental in the submission of these two amendments than were the Democrats.

How are you going to lay the blame for the prohibition amendment on Republicans of the north, when you know it was even forced upon the north by Southern Democratic Representatives? And how will you blame the Republicans for the submission of the suffrage amendment when you know that it was given the strength of a Democratic majority by President Wilson's own personal endorsement, together with advice to Democrats to vote in favor of it?

Don't you know, Brother Corley, that the Democrats in Georgia are at present in the majority, and that if these two issues which you have had been party issues, gotten up by the Republicans for the purpose you allege, they could never have been voted over the Democratic majority?

Don't you know that many Democrats as Republicans voted for these things which you are now seeking to shift and lay at the door of Republicans alone?

Well, to be plain and candid, Brother Corley, don't you know that the prohibition amendment fight was not a political fight at all while it was in Congress? And don't you know that it has just been put into politics by the local option element of Alabama Democrats, frightened into doing so by the big wet states of the north on the strength of such contemptible rotten prejudiced ideas as you reproduce from your supreme political dictator, the esteemed wet and Democratic New York World?

If the Press will elucidate these questions so as to make them harmonize with their charge against the Republican party quoted in the first paragraph above, we think they might stand a better chance of commanding the reason of sensible minds in regard to their contentions.

NOT "JEFFERSONIAN"

We are amused at such argument as the Clanton Press has recently been putting over, being under the label of "Jeffersonian Democracy." It is no more Jeffersonian than black is white. Such political principles as are advocated by the Clanton Press and its class of Democrats never any more existed in the time and mind of old Thomas Jefferson than did the Clanton Press itself. Such principles as they preach were never dreamed of before the Civil War. They have existed only since that time, and should be labeled, "Political prejudice against the North," rather than as "Jeffersonian Democracy."

COCKED-HATTING BILL

Mr. Bryan was an interested and an interesting spectator in the House when that body voted on the prohibition amendment to the Constitution. He was much elated at the victory of the drys; and he predicts that within three years the country will have ratified the amendment and that the liquor issue will not be in evidence in the next Presidential campaign. In that case, Mr. Bryan will not be a candidate. There is no other issue upon which he can seek the nomination. He has tried Sixteen-to-one; he has tried Anti-imperialism; he has tried the tariff. Of course, he might try pacifism—but if the war is not over by 1920, there will be a determination so grim and so widespread to see it through to the bitter end that none but the most vigorous of war advocates can be in the running for any office.

Cured At A Cost Of 25 Cents

"Eight years ago when we first moved to Mattoon, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill. "I had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable. Every morsel of food distressed me. I could not rest at night and felt tired and worn out all the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

To the Officers and Teachers in the different Sunday Schools of the County:

There will be a meeting at the Clanton High School Building Sunday, February 24th. Four of the state workers will be present and will talk on different departments of the work. A special session of the County officers will be held in one of the class rooms, beginning at 12:30 p.m. Prof. McDonald will speak to the meeting some time during the day. Be sure and come and bring dinner. You will learn something about Sunday School work.

COMMISSIONERS SALE OF JOINT OWNERS PROPERTY

State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a Commission dated the 14 day of January, 1918, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said County, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction, on

The 18th Day of February, 1918, between the hours of 11 o'clock, A.M. and 4 o'clock, P.M., at Clanton, Alabama, in front of the Court House door, the following described property:

A part of the east half of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, Section 18, Township 20, Range 12, and a part of the west half of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter, of Section 18, Township 20, Range 12, and bounded as follows: Commencing at an old ford on Bogie Creek below the mill and running west to the public road where it joins the lands of J. W. Broadhead, then north with said public road and line J. W. Broadhead, to the point of beginning, so as to include the bed or run of the creek, containing four acres, more or less; also that portion of the northeast fourth of Section 18 lying south of a straight line commencing at the ford on Bogie Creek above mentioned and running through the middle of a lane separating the premises now being described from the lands formerly belonging to J. W. Broadhead, to a point on the railway formerly known as the E.T. & G. R.R., together with the west half of the northwest quarter of Section 17, west of Bogie Creek, in all 164 acres, and being the same lands conveyed by Mary H. Stephens and her husband, James A. Stephens to J. G. M. Burke on the first day of December, 1888, the said deed being recorded in Volume 24, page 551 in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama. All of the above described lands being in Township 20, Range 12, in Chilton County, Alabama. Which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz: P. A. Darby, Leona Slaughter, John Burke, Genie Walker, Lula Sanders, Rosa Burke, Lee Burke, Willie Burke, A. L. Burke, Ed Ellis, Charlie Ellis, Mae Burke, Jim Burke, Joe Burke, Hattie Burke, Louise Burke, and Mary A. Burke.

This 14th day of January, 1918.
J. O. MIDDLETON,
1-17-18-3t Commissioner.

NOTICE

I take this method of saying to the public, that, hereafter I will not be in shape to extend credit and carry accounts until Fall as I have been doing heretofore.

My business will be run more on a cash basis. All accounts made with me will be due and payable on the first of each month.

Conditions in the mercantile business have altogether changed. Goods that was sold a few years ago to the retail merchant with four to six months dating, have to be paid for now in thirty days, and a large percent of staple goods are shipped bill of lading attached. And with the short terms that I buy goods on I don't feel that the little amount of operating capital that I have justifies my undertaking any further to do a supply or advancing business.

I want to extend my sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that my business has had during the past.

I shall keep my stock of merchandise more replete, and by paying cash will be in a position to give better values. I heartily solicit a continuance of the liberal share of cash business that I have enjoyed, and assure my customers that they will be, at all times, treated courteously, and given a square deal.

Those having past due accounts with me will please arrange to make settlement as early as possible.

Very respectfully,

W. A. KEMP.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The fourth annual series of Baptist Winter Schools for preachers and other bible students will soon be held. There will be twelve of them this winter, each to be held one week, between Sundays. Six are located in the northern part of the state and six in the southern part. Those in the upper section begin next Monday, the 21st. They are located at Sylvania in DeKalb County, Cullman, Double Springs in Winston County, Boaz on Sand Mountain, Fayette, and Howard College, Birmingham.

These are called schools or institutes of Theology and methods, and are intended to be helpful to ministers and others interested who have not had good school advantages or who desire to brush up in the studies. The subjects to be studied are "Sermon Building," "Winning to Christ," "What Baptists Believe," and "The Book of First Corinthians."

The teachers in the Institutes are either pastors of Baptist Churches or teachers in denominational schools. Lectures of topics of general interest will visit the schools at night for popular services.

The six schools in the southern division will begin their work on January 28th and will run until February 2nd. They will be held at Centerville, Ashland, Goodwater, Newton, Opp and at Mobile. Goodwater and Centerville will be the nearest schools to Chilton County preachers, the latter probably the easier reached. Any of the bible students of this neighborhood who will attend will do well to send their names to the Rev. Clarence White, Centerville, and be on hand there on the 28th inst. They will be entertained free of charge. The faculty at that school is one of the strongest in the state. The pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church will teach First Corinthians at the Newton Collegiate Institute, beginning January 28th.

MORTGAGED FARMERS

That there are many of our farmers still under the crop lien mortgage plan to get supplies from the merchant, is proven by the fact that the Union-Banner has printed a total of over two thousand crop lien mortgages, which go to a dozen or more merchants in the county who do advancing business with the farmers. There must still be many who hold to this most dreaded way of doing business. We suppose that it is with these mortgage farmers like it was with the fellow who caught the wild cat. They hold it because they can't turn it loose, and not because it is so popular.

Squire A. F. Childress of Thorsby, was in Clanton Thursday disposing of some cotton. He was complaining about the price being down a little.

PASSENGER SERVICE

L. & N.

THE primary object of L. & N. Passenger Service is Safety, Comfort and Dispatch. Courtesy to every one and personal attention for the aged, for ladies and for children, or any one else desiring it, is a matter of custom with loyal, well trained L. & N. employees.

Powerful locomotives—the best mechanical genius has yet devised—pull all-steel, luxuriously upholstered, vestibule coaches over heavy rails laid on minimum grades and curves at a rate of speed scheduled as fast as consistent with safety.

Whether on a short trip, or traveling from Chicago to Jacksonville, Cincinnati to New Orleans, St. Louis to Atlanta, the L. & N. will put you there as per schedule a large percentage of times. The record for schedule maintained is an enviable one.

Solid Pullman trains, excellent dining car service, club cars, observation cars; filtered water, carefully cleaned and fumigated coaches—every courtesy and facility demanded by the modern traveler—is supplied by the L. & N. A large percentage of the system is double track.

L. & N. passenger officials are ever active to maintain the unapproached L. & N. standard of service. Every new or improved facility of merit is immediately installed.

L. & N. passenger operatives, assisted by block systems and electrical safety devices, are ever alert to safeguard life and property.

The L. & N. takes a just pride in its passenger service, and the fact that in sixteen years the L. & N. has transported 167,560,742 passengers, or a total equal to the population of North and South America combined, would indicate an appreciation of that service on the part of the traveling public. The L. & N. requests your favorable consideration of its passenger service, and pledges its unsurpassed facilities to your Safety, Comfort and Dispatch.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their help and sympathy during the sickness and death of our brother. We especially wish to thank H. L. Aldridge and W. A. Cofer.

E. B. Cleveland and Brothers.

Enoch H. Foshee, Road Overseer of Beat 1 was in the city Monday. He said he had put in about a week of work on the roads since Christmas. The ground stays frozen so much that he can't do very much. Mr. Foshee has been engaged in changing the road at Plier's Mill on Yellow Leaf Creek, preparatory to the building of the steel bridge across the pond at that place.

Lame back may come from overwork, cold settled in the muscles of the back, or from disease. In the two former cases the right remedy is BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It should be rubbed in thoroughly over the affected part, the relief will be prompt and satisfactory. Price, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

VINOL CREATES STRENGTH

Positive—Convincing Proof

It is all very well to make claims, but can they be proven? We publish the formula of Vinol to prove the statements we make about it.

It Cod Liver and Beef Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptones, Iron and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycophosphates, Cascarin.

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol as published above, combine the very elements needed to make strength.

All weak, run-down, overworked nervous men and women may prove this at our expense.

There is nothing like Vinol to restore strength and vitality to feeble old people, delicate children and all persons who need more strength.

Try it. If you are not entirely satisfied, we will return your money without question; that proves our fairness and your protection.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mrs. Wade accompanied Mrs. Lida Jones to Thorsby on Friday of last week for the weekly demonstration. Mrs. Jones demonstrated the different ways in which peanuts can be used as substitutes for meats in soups and baked loaf. Demonstrations will be held on Friday afternoon hereafter. Everyone is invited to attend these demonstrations.

A business meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held on Wednesday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. J. M. Graham. The following officers were elected: Mrs. S. E. Norton, President; Mrs. H. M. Gerald, Vice-President; Mrs. J. L. Winslow, Secretary; Mrs. E. W. Butler, Treasurer.

Mr. Dewey Truitt returned to his home near Ashland on Saturday morning of last week for a few days visit with his brother who has returned from the West.

Mrs. O. C. Mastin spent a few days in Thorsby this week packing her household goods, preparatory for shipment to Midway, where she expects to make her future home.

Mrs. S. E. Norton, Mrs. Charlie Howard and Miss Elizabeth Hoopes spent Thursday of last week in Birmingham shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Caldwell of Pletcher spent Sunday at the Dormitory visiting their daughter, Elsie. Elsie returned home with them for a short stay.

Mr. J. O. Hanson of Chicago is visiting his Uncle, Mr. J. P. Sorrenson.

Everyone is invited to attend the stereopticon lecture at the Congregational church Sunday evening, Jan. 27th, at 7:30. The lecture will be on the "Life of Dwight L. Moody."

The Helen Keller Literary Society met on Friday evening of last week and before rendering the program, elected the following officers, who will have charge of the literary work the last semester: Miss Elizabeth Rogers, President; Miss Lois Abernathy, Vice-President; Miss May Belle McJunkin, Secretary; Mr. Zell Pope, Treasurer; Mr. Orville Mastin, Custodian.

Mid-year examinations are in order at Thorsby Institute this week. The Second Semester begins Jan. 28, at which time classes covering subjects required for third grade teachers' examinations will be started.

Mr. Perry Rogers of Atlanta, Ga., accompanied by his wife and two daughters, is visiting at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Chas. T. Rogers.

John Wallace said of the men who attended his confab in Montgomery Tuesday:

"They are men whose time is valuable."

We think if their time is so valuable it is a pity for them to be wasting it on such a farce as that thing they attended in Montgomery.

Durwood C. Mims, a Chilton county soldier boy who has been at Camp Wheeler, Macon, has been discharged from the service and has returned to his home near Thorsby.

LOOK AT THE LABEL.

Can you find the name on this paper where we addressed it to you?

Look and see if you can locate the little yellow "label" about a quarter of an inch wide and about two inches long, that is posted on the front of the paper and has your name printed on it. Do you find it?

Well out at the right hand end of the little yellow label is a date. This date is the day on which your subscription to the paper will be out, and the day on which your paper will be stopped if you do not renew before that day comes.

Better figure this out once just to see if you can do it, and get a line on when your time is out.

Some tell us that they wish we would send them a notice and tell them their time is out, so they could renew before the paper is stopped, and thereby not miss any issues.

Why, bless your soul friend, we send you that very notice with every paper we send you. All you have to do is to look at it and it will tell you the exact standing of your subscription.

Watch the little yellow "label" and bring or send your renewal before you are cut off from the list.

J. E. Cobb of near Jemison was in town Saturday, and paid a visit to the Union-Banner. Mr. Cobb was accompanied by his son Vernon T. Cobb.

Squire John S. Dennis of Beat 11 was a visitor to our office Saturday. He got back on the Union-Banner list, and says he wants to keep up with things that are going on in the county.

S. M. Yates of Verbena, one of the compulsory school attendance officers for Chilton county, was in town Saturday. He came up on business with the Superintendent of education relative to his position as attendance officer.

Judson Strock, the fruit tree man, from Verbena was in Clanton Saturday. He will be back here again next Saturday. If you need some fruit trees come to see him.

High Cost of Fertilizer

Information has reached us that standard quality commercial fertilizer will sell at thirty-five to forty dollars per ton during the coming season. We are also getting many complaints from farmers who consider these prices excessively high. We do not consider these prices high when compared to the present prices of farm products and the prices of other manufactured products. We formerly paid twenty to twenty-five dollars per ton for fertilizer with which to produce cotton at ten to fifteen cents per pound, corn at seventy-five cents per bushel and other products in similar proportion. Since the prices of farm products have slightly more than doubled, the present price and use of commercial fertilizer affords a better margin for profits than it did in previous years. We would advise every farmer in Alabama to make good use of all barn yard manure, velvet bean and pea stubbles and to use a normal amount of commercial fertilizer under his crops this year. We believe we are safe in saying that the present high prices of farm products will prevail throughout another harvesting season. In fact, conditions really indicate even higher prices for all food and feed products as time goes on.

High Cost of Bags

We have been considering for some time the possibility of some ruling that would protect the farmers from the high cost of fertilizer bags. We are besieged with letters asking us to permit fertilizer and fertilizer material to be sold at retail in bulk in order to eliminate the cost of bags. Section 36 of the Political Code of Alabama provides, that all commercial fertilizer or fertilizer material sold in the state shall be in bags, barrels or packages with the brand name, guaranteed analysis, name and place of manufacturer printed thereon or attached thereto and the state tax tag attached. After careful study of Section 41 which limits the power of the Commissioner of Agriculture in promulgating rulings, we are convinced that the Commissioner has not the authority to set aside, change or modify Section 36 which provides for the bagging and tagging of fertilizer or fertilizer material.

After much thought on the subject of permitting the sale of fertilizer and fertilizer material in bulk or the use of second hand bags, we are of the opinion that such a ruling, if it were legal, would practically nullify the whole of the fertilizer laws which protect the honest dealers and consumers, and would open up avenues for fraud whereby the farmers could be defrauded out of more money by the substitution of low grade goods than would be saved by eliminating the cost of sacks. The Department of Agriculture would be rendered powerless to protect them in the quality of the goods so purchased. For these reasons and others, the Department of Agriculture will pursue the usual policy of requiring fertilizer and fertilizer material to be bagged, branded and tagged.

J. A. WADE,
Commissioner of Agri. & Ind.

SCHOOL LAW WORKING WELL

In a recent interview as to the compulsory school attendance law and its operations in Chilton county, Superintendent Bean expressed himself as being impressed very favorably with the results so far. He said that one of the main things that the law has done is the increasing of the attendance about 1500 above the previous enrollment.

He reports that both patrons and pupils have adhered to the provisions of the law with creditable interest. There has so far been but one case where the law had to be appealed to by force to cause the patron to comply with the provisions. The case has not been disposed of yet.

Mr. Bean says that various diseases of one kind and another, like measles, small pox etc, have caused a good bit of irregularity in some schools, and is still existing to this same extent of interference in some places.

H. N. Mullins of Mulberry was in Clanton Monday on business.

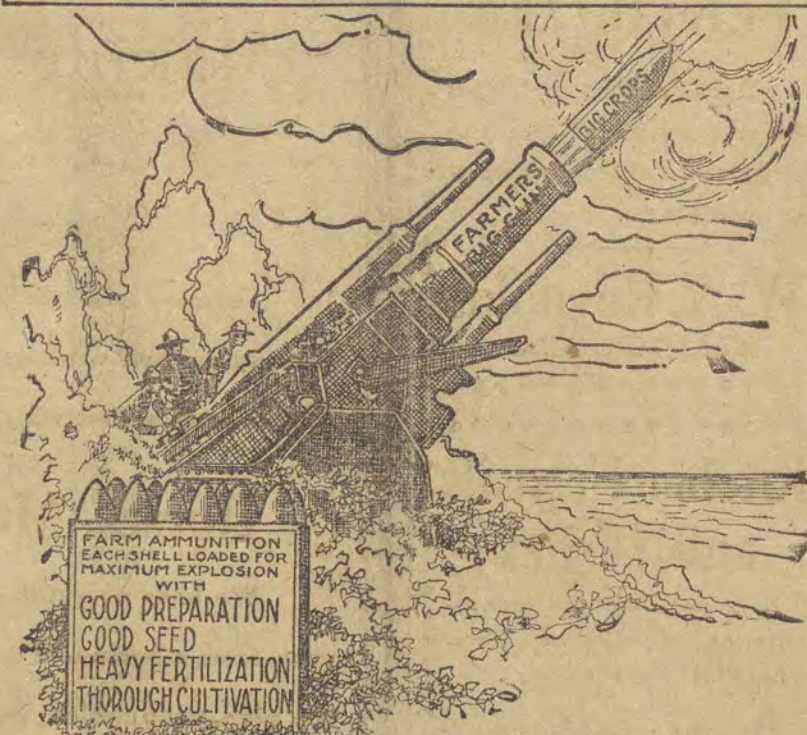

C. W. Langston of Mars Hill near Jemison, was in our office on last Friday. Mr. Langston was some years ago a resident of Chilton county, but moved to Autauga. He has just come back to his old home place to live. Mr. Langston told the editor that he was well pleased with the cattle dipping in Autauga, and the results it has brought the cattle.

Several Clanton stores observed "hectless Monday" by keeping their doors closed; their owners stayed at home by the fire with the wife and "kids."

C. W. Reynolds was in Clanton on Monday. (We don't know where Charley is from now.)

W. H. Conway, County Farm Demonstrator, was in Clanton on Wednesday.

Better Farming in the South

THE FARMERS' SHOT AT KAISERISM IS MAXIMUM CROPS

C. A. Whittle, Farm Service Bureau, Atlanta, Ga.

Upon those whom the United States has not called from the farm, rests a great obligation of feeding and clothing the liberty armies of the world. The greater the crops the harder the armies will be able to strike.

What can hinder the farmer from making maximum crops? Will it be a lack of market and a good price? No, the market and price prospects are good.

Will it be for lack of money or credit with which to buy tools, seeds, fertilizers or other necessary supplies? No, money is plentiful and credit is good.

Will it be for lack of labor? Labor is scarce without doubt. In fact, the shortage of labor is practically the only great obstacle the farmer has to meet in producing maximum crops. If he could have abundance of labor he could increase the cultivated acreage and by proper fertilization he could bring in a very great crop. But in view of the lack of labor what must he do?

He can do two things to overcome the labor shortage: First, increase the applications of fertilizers, which will increase the yield without enlarging the cultivated acreage. Second, use labor saving machinery.

But overcoming the labor shortage is not all that is necessary to obtain maximum crops. Here is a schedule of important things that must be done by every farmer to get maximum crops:

1. Break the land deeply turning under all stalks, stubble and litter possible.

2. Harrow, roll and pulverize the seed bed thoroughly before planting.

3. Use only the best possible seed, preferably pedigreed seed, from a responsible plant breeder.

4. Make liberal use of fertilizers, and use manure whenever obtainable to supplement the fertilizers.

5. Give thorough and frequent cultivation to the tilled crops, preferably shallow and frequent cultivation.

6. Harvest sparingly and protect the stored crops from pests.

While it is true that everything the farmer has to buy is high in price, it is also true that whatever the farmer has to sell is also high in price. The fertilizer people figure out that their products have not advanced in price as much as the price of crops, and that as a matter of fact, cotton, corn, peanuts, tobacco and the like will buy more fertilizer now than ever. Which being true it follows that it will pay better now to use it than formerly, for the increase for which they are responsible will be worth more.

Another thing that the farmer must bear in mind if he would be sure to raise a bumper crop and that is, to place his orders early for everything that is to be shipped by rail. The railroads are hard put to it and do not afford assurance of prompt shipments. Orders placed late are more than likely to be too late to be delivered in time.

Even if shipping were good, there would be nothing gained by delay. Prices are not likely to be lower. In fertilizers, especially there is a scarcity of materials and advancing prices, making it improbable that the fertilizer will be cheaper.

IN MEMORY

In memory of Crother John Killingsworth, who departed this life Dec. 18, 1917.

Whereas God in His infinite wisdom has removed from our midst our beloved brother, therefore be it resolved:

First, that we cherish the memory of our departed brother who was ever loyal to the I. O. O. F.

Second, we feel that we are more loyal to God, more loyal to our order by having known this Godly man, who was always patient and kind through his long illness.

Third, we humbly, trustingly submit to the Father's will. He maketh no mistakes. He doeth all things well.

Fourth, we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in their trying hour.

Fifth, we, the Minooka Lodge No. 59 I. O. O. F., request our committee to send a copy of these resolutions to the Union-Banner, and Clanton Press for publication, also a copy be sent to the family of the deceased and a copy spread on the minutes of the Lodge.

Fraternally submitted,
W. E. BROADHEAD
H. F. VERGIN

Committee.

TEACHER'S MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Teachers' Association will meet at the Baptist Church in Clanton on Saturday, Feb. 2 at 10 A. M. At which time the following program will be rendered:

The Teacher's Part in the War, by Prof. H. C. McDonald.

Hygiene in the Lower Grades, by Prof. F. B. Williams.

Report on the Effect of the Operation of the Compulsory Attendance Law, by Supt. W. T. Bean.

How can the Teacher best spend recesses in the Elementary school, by Prof. J. L. Wilson.

I am authorized to announce that the Teachers will receive their checks for January salary on that day. I hope every teacher in the county will try to be present at this meeting.

Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE,
Chm. Executive Com.

ARMY PARASITES

Senator Wesley L. Jones of the State of Washington is hot on the trail of the small clothing manufacturers of the country who have been getting rich by selling uniforms and equipment to the newly commissioned officers. The Senator has discovered that it would be possible for the Government to furnish officers' uniforms at a cost price that would be less than half what they are compelled to pay private outfitters. It is claimed, for instance, that a belt costing 9 cents at the quartermaster's store is sold for 75 cents by the private retailer. Mr. Jones claims that the whole trouble lies in the fact that the War Department requires officers to purchase their own equipment, thus making them easy prey to clothing dealers. He has introduced a bill directing that hereafter all officers' uniforms and equipment shall be furnished by the Government at cost price.

PRINCIPLES UNCHANGED

The headquarters at the Republican Senators at the Capitol has been moved down two floors to the room formerly occupied by the late Senator Newlands. The change was made necessary, in the opinion of the party in power, in order to enlarge the facilities of the Committee on Naval Affairs who will now have three rooms in which to conduct their meetings. The new Minority Conference Room is as large and convenient as the old, and the discussions that will be held in it will be as beneficial to the country's welfare as the conferences that took place in the former quarters.

CLASSIFIED MAN—POWER

A measure designed to enroll for Federal service all male citizens of the United States between the ages of 18 and 45 has been presented to the Senate by Hon. Joseph I. France of Maryland. Only those men between 21 and 31 years old are to take part in actual fighting, as contemplated by the conscription act now in force. They are to be denominated the "Federal First Line of Defense Corps." Men from 18 to 21 are to form the "Federal Cadet Corps," and are liable to call for military training or for noncombatant national service. Those from 32 to 36 are to be known as the "Federal Second Line of Defense Corps," and those from the latter age to 45 are to form the "Federal Reserve Corps." The two last named classes are to be detailed to perform such non-fighting duties as the President may designate. Further classifications are contemplated by Senator France's bill as to the qualifications for special service of the men enrolled, and authority is given the President to call them when needed in the particular branch of military activity where they can be most efficient.

TARIFF TALK INVITED

The Democratic press has been telling us that this is no time to talk tariff. What, then, have they to say to the following paragraph in President Wilson's address to Congress on America's war aims:

"The removal, so far as possible, of all economic barriers and the establishment of an equality of trade conditions among all the nations consent to the peace and associating themselves for its maintenance."

If President Wilson deems this an appropriate time to assail the protective tariff, why is it not an appropriate time for the constructive business men of America to defend that economic policy upon which American prosperity has always depended?

If the laboring men of America do not want to be placed upon an equality with the laboring men of China and Japan, or upon an equality with the laboring men of Europe, when will there be a better time for them to say so than now, immediately after the President has announced to the world his plans for our economic future? If they remain silent now, will it not be an inferential endorsement of the free trade propaganda?

If this was not already a proper time to talk tariff, President Wilson has made it so. Men who believe in America First should speak now or forever hold their peace.

T. J. Headley of Randolph was a visitor at The Union-Banner office on last Saturday. Mr. Headley renewed his subscription, and got after us for stopping his paper when his time was out. But he finally agreed that it is the best plan.

Subscribe for The Union-Banner.

PERMANENCE OF POLICY UP TO PEOPLE

There will be no delay in passing the legislation which government operation of the railways requires if the administration spokesmen will desist from attempting to take undue advantage of wartime conditions. The President did not take over the railroads as the result of a reasoned policy designed for the days of peace as well as those of war. He did it avowedly as a war measure, and any attempt to prolong the experiment beyond the war period will be and should be strenuously resisted. If government operation proves to be all that its friends claim for it, if the issue of permanent government control is submitted to the people and a Congress is elected upon that issue, then it will be proper to put the question to a vote at the Capitol. But to prejudge the question now and to demand in perpetuity what is admittedly only a wartime makeshift is presumptuous and overreaching. This is no time to thrust a highly controverted problem upon Congress occupied with the grave concerns of the war. The opponents of government ownership do not shrink from the discussion—and they do not fear the decision; but the responsibility is not theirs if the railway bill is delayed. The blame for that lies at the door of those who are raising an untimely issue.

"That's The Way The Money Goes"

The Secretary of the Treasury has sent to Congress an estimate of appropriations, including in the urgent deficiency bill, for the remodeling of the Federal building at Richmond, Virginia. A former estimate of the work called for the expenditure of $35,000, but it now appears that $45,000 is needed for the job. Good citizens who have subjected themselves to great discomfort in order to purchase $50 Liberty Bonds to maintain the war will be interested to know where some of their money is going. It will take the proceeds of 900 such bonds to fix up the Richmond building so that it will adequately comply with the demands of the office holders who occupy it.

NOTICE FROM W. H. CONWAY ON NITRATE OF SODA

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 23, 1918.
All farmers who get Nitrate of Soda through the Government will have to sign contract for same and have their money turned in on or before February the 2nd 1918, and for the convenience of all I hereby call a meeting for the completion of the work, at the courthouse on February 2nd, 1918. Please take notice that each party must sign the contract showing that the Soda is to be used on his own farm and it will be well for each purchaser to attend this meeting.
W. H. CONWAY,
Co. Dem. Agent

HOME DEMONSTRATION WORK

An exhibit and contest for the best "War Bread" will be given by the ladies at the following places. All ladies and girls can contest for prizes. Each bread must contain a substitute for wheat flour:
Verbena, Feb. 8, 2:30 P. M.
Clanton, Feb. 9, 10:00 A. M.
Thorsby, Feb. 9, 2:30 P. M.
Be patriotic and take part in these exhibits that you may show others how successfully substitutes can be used.

NONCHALANT NEWT

Secretary Baker's nonchalance in acknowledging his ignorance of many vital proceedings in the War Department was the most surprising feature of his testimony before the Senate committee on military affairs. Frequently running counter to testimony previously given by his subordinates, Mr. Baker sought to minimize the discrepancy as a matter of slight consequence. He acted, in short, like a man who is sure of holding his job, no matter what may eventuate.

UNCLE JIM BAKER'S MEETING

The Rev. James Mims, better and also very familiarly known in Clanton as "Uncle Jim Baker" preached at Lomax last Sunday, and his report is to the effect that "they all had a mighty good time." The Editor of the Union-Banner did not hear "Uncle Jim" preach; he just volunteered to tell us about, and very probably with no intention of any publication being made of the incident. Everybody knows that "Uncle Jim" is particularly given to talking, and he must have something to talk about for at least twenty hours a day or his tongue would dry up in his mouth. So it was just at his usual talking and picking up paper on the street that he "talked" about his meeting Sunday. The idea came to us that it would have been the greatest kind of a treat to hear the sermon.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

The First Cry

Every woman's sympathy responds to the sweetness of a baby's voice. The little cry that echoes with the arrival of the new baby is perhaps the fondest and most cherished recollection of our lives.

Thousands of mothers owe their preservation to health and wonderful preparation "Mother's Friend". This is an external application which is applied to the abdominal muscles. It relieves the tension, prevents tenderness and pain at the crisis and enables the abdomen to expand gently. The muscles contract naturally after baby arrives and the form is thus preserved.

It should be applied daily, night and morning, during the period of expectation. Its influence on the fine network of nerves and ligaments just beneath the skin is wonderful. It renders them pliant, and in this way aids nature to expand the abdomen without the usual strain when baby is born.

You will find this wonderful preparation on sale at every drug store. "Mother's Friend" is prepared by the Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. C, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga. They will send you an intensely interesting book, without charge, "Motherhood and the Baby". Write them to mail it to you. It is of the utmost importance that every expectant mother aid nature in her work. Do not neglect for a single night to use "Mother's Friend". It is absolutely and entirely safe.

Any little wound or abrasion of the flesh occurring in cold weather that is not promptly treated becomes a bad sore and is difficult to heal. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT at once when such accidents happen. The wound heals promptly and soon does away with the annoyance of a bandage. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug

Color of Cord on Hat Denotes Service of Wearer

Just as the sleeve chevrons and bars, stars, and eagles on the shoulder proclaim ranking officers, the hat cord denotes the branch of service each private has entered.

Light blue signifies Infantry; scarlet, Artillery; yellow, Cavalry; buff, Quartermasters Corps; scarlet and white, Engineers' Corps; orange and white, Signal Corps; scarlet and black, Ordnance; black and white, field clerk; maroon, Medical Corps; black and gold, officers; silver and black, adjutant general's clerk; green, instructor Home Guards; green and white, Home Guards. These cords are worn only on service hats.

Cadet aviators wear as hat bands inch and a half white ribbons and on cot collars insignia representing the aviation branch of the Signal Corps, propeller blades.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."

Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton prices.

It's a time above all others to play safe; to produce all possible food, grain and forage supplies on your own acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground, rightly planted, rightly tended and kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you made on the best three acres of cotton you ever grew!

Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. Free! Send for it today to H. HASTINGS CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

SUGAR CONTROL SAVED MILLIONS

American Consumer Profited by $180,000,000—French Situation Helped.

HOME PRICE HELD AT 9 CENTS

This Nation's Sugar Supply Reduced to Seventy Per Cent. of Normal.
Java Stocks Unavailable.

Sugar control has saved the American public $180,000,000, Herbert Hoover, United States food administrator, declared the other day.

He pointed out that sugar was selling for 11 cents a pound last August and that it would have advanced to 20 cents a pound, with the world shortage as a stimulus, had not the food administration secured the co-operation of the refiners and wholesalers and fixed a sugar price that today enables housewives to buy sugar at from 8½ to 9 cents a pound.

Every 1 cent raise in sugar from September 1 to January 1 means $18,000,000 to the American consumer, Mr. Hoover said. "Numbers of gentlemen will tell you that 20 cent sugar would have prevailed and the public robbed of $180,000,000 this year if we had not taken these actions." Later Mr. Hoover called attention to the fact that uncontrolled sugar advanced to 35 cents a pound during the Civil War.

France Got Our Sugar.

Today the American public has been allotted 70 per cent. of its normal supply. Before the war the average on each household consumption here was 66 pounds a person. In England the annual consumption during the war is 34 pounds, and in France each person is allotted a little over one pound a month.

In August the French government found itself unable to maintain even this ration," Mr. Hoover declared. "An appeal was made to America. France needed 100,000 tons. We agreed to fill this demand and up to December had shipped $5,426 tons. In the meantime an appeal was made to the American public to reduce its sugar consumption, and requests were made to distributors to supply the confectionary and sweet drinks trade with 50 per cent. of normal supply. This has been generally followed, although such regulations were voluntary, as the food administration had no authority to impose them."

Domestic Price is 8½ to 9 Cents.

Retail grocers throughout the country are supposed to take a profit of no more than 50 cents a hundred—half a cent a pound—on sugar. By reason of food administration regulations, binding refiners and wholesalers, the retailer is able today to buy sugar at from 8 to 8½ cents a pound. This enables him to sell to the housewife at 8½ to 9 cents a pound.

There have been some violations of the sugar rulings, Mr. Hoover said recently. "Sales of sugar from 16 to 20 cents per pound have been reported and followed up vigorously and stopped and is evidence itself of the prices at which consumers would have been misled had we not intervened. We have forfeited wholesalers' licenses in aggravated cases, and we have issued warnings to first offenders in a great many instances through our local administrators."

Effect on Military Situation.

American sugar stocks could be filled to normal very soon if ships could be sent to Java, where 250,000 tons of sugar is waiting for shipment. But the shipping situation is so acute that the nation cannot spare the eleven ships needed to transport this sugar. It would take the boats one year to haul 250,000 tons. In the same time they could be used for transporting 200,000 soldiers to France.

The food administration believes that the American public will diminish its sugar consumption by 10 or 15 per cent. when it is made clear that such sugar saving is a patriotic act and when it is understood that there are plenty of sweeteners available to take the place of sugar, such as honey or corn syrup.

Why Shortage Exists.

The three great sugar producing centers of the world are Germany, the West and East Indies. German sugar is, of course, used at home. The East Indian sugar is unavailable because of the ship shortage.

While U boats made big inroads on the world's shipping, France and Italy ceased to be self sustaining in sugar manufacture. England in the meantime was cut off from German sugar—1,400,000 tons a year—because of the war. The result has been that the allied nations have been forced to turn to America and the West Indies for their sugar.

EVASD RIGID FOOD CONTROL.

Food is Bought in Germany Surreptitiously in Violation of Auto-craftic Rulings.

Even the autocratic food control of Germany has been powerless to prevent surreptitious sales, according to semi-official reports reaching the United States food administration. Illegal sales of butter are being made in Germany at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.25 a pound. Eggs sold contrary to the German food regulations are bringing 10 to 15 cents apiece, according to these reports. And bacon or ham is bringing from $2.25 to $3.25 a pound.

BIG CORN CROP IS NOW MOVING

More Than 3,000 Million Bushels Raised in 1917—Gives Big Surplus.

SAVES WORLD FOOD SITUATION

America Beginning Greatest Corn Consumption in History, Using Cereal in Many Delicious Dishes.

Corn, America's greatest cereal crop, is now moving rapidly to market.

More than 3,000 million bushels—30 bushels for every man, woman and child in America—were raised in 1917. It was a mighty crop. The actual increase is about 500 million bushels. And this extra store of grain is coming on to the market in the nick of time, since the American wheat surplus has been sent to help feed famine threatened Europe.

Just as it happened in the Colonial days, the War of the Revolution, and the Civil War, corn has actually become the nation's mainstay.

In the entire list of America's food commodities there is no item that is better than corn. In puddings, bread, corn pone, and as hominy combined with meat or eggs, corn is without a peer. Housewives are fast learning the large number of delicious dishes that may be made with corn and their families are benefiting by an increased use of the cereal. Corn, more than any other cereal, contains all of the elements essential to maintaining life and health.

In order that the fighting men abroad and in the army camps at home may be fed, and in order that actual famine may be kept from the nations associated with America in the war, the citizens of America are finding corn products delicious and palatable in "wheatless days" and glory in the fact that "wheatless days" here mean more wheat for the war worn allied nations in Europe.

England, France and Italy must be fed from America's great storehouse. They will get some corn—especially Italy—but most of their grain shipments must be wheat. Their ability to use corn is small compared to the facilities they have for using wheat. It is the opinion of officials in Washington that the present is no time to try and change the eating habits of Europe.

America's greatest use of corn will be in the form of corn bread and corn meal, mixed with wheat in the making of leavened bread.

Mixed with 80 per cent. wheat flour, corn meal can be used in bread making, producing a loaf more nutritious than bread baked with wheat alone. It is a fact corn millers will verify that dozens of the large American bakers have been successfully using a corn flour in bread baking for several years.

Hominy grits, served at breakfast with a poached egg, or eaten at any other meal with meats or gravy, is another use of corn that will become unusually popular during the war. Corn syrup to sweeten corn cakes, and corn oil for use in all kinds of cooking, are two more products that are already welcomed in thousands of American homes.

THE UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION SAYS:

Food saving is in its essence the daily individual service of all the people. Every group can substitute, and even the great majority of thrifty people can save a little—and the more luxurious elements of the population can, by reduction to simple living, save much. This means no more than that we should eat plenty, but wisely and without waste.

Food Will Win the War

A LARGE part of the world is coming to the position that Belgium is in; coming to the stage where the primary and important thing in life is enough food to keep alive. Food has now taken a dominant position in the war. The American people must prepare themselves to sacrifice far more than was at first thought necessary.

The cold facts are: France, Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going ten or twelve weeks. When America's food shipments stop—the allied nations begin consuming into this slender store and begin a swift march into actual famine conditions—which would mean defeat in short order.

Europe then must live on America's surplus. Your saving increases our available stocks just that much and actually feeds some person in the countries with which we are associated in our war against the Central Powers.

Our surplus wheat has already been shipped to the allies.

The American House Manager is today a member of the army that is fighting to save democracy in the world. More than 11,000,000 managers of American homes have enlisted for the duration of the war and pledged themselves to support the fighting men by the way they buy, cook and serve food. Food will win the war, and these women will help to win it. America must send food to Europe. The armies cannot hold out if we fail to send it. Only certain foods can be shipped—those that pack the most food value into the smallest shipping space. These foods are wheat, meat, fats, sugar. We cannot eat them and send them too. We cannot eat them and send others. We must send these foods, and in order to do that we must eat other foods ourselves. The American House Manager will see to it that no food comes into her home that does not do its full duty under her management in winning the war.

WASTED RUSSIAN COLLAPSE

"We must not overlook the fact that Russia collapsed, not because of the Germans on her borders, but because she failed to organize and feed her own citizenship," the food administration announced.

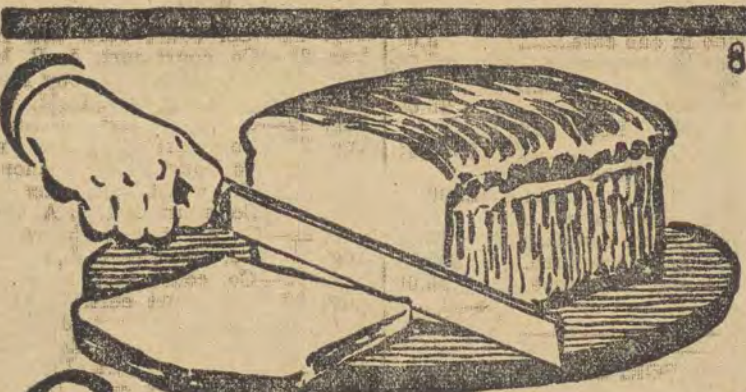

"We must be warned that if we are to emerge victorious from this war we cannot risk the collapse of another of our associates in this war from this cause."

"Anybody that is looking for the collapse of the German people on the food question had better turn around and look at the moon, because the results will be the same. Germany is in no more danger of collapsing on that score than we are, if as much."

WHY WE MUST SAVE FOOD.

The 1917 wheat crop in France was less than half normal, using the crop of 1913 as a basis of comparison. There was a shortage of 170,000,000 bushels, or 53.3 per cent. The potato crop was only within one-third of normal. The sugar beet crop showed a deficit of 67.9 per cent. Her meat herds in the early fall showed a shortage of 1,800,000 animals.

Those are a few of the reasons America must feed her associates in the war. They are no longer able to feed themselves, and unless we come to the rescue are face to face with starvation. And starvation means defeat in the war.

BIG HERDS GONE

World War Wastes Europe's Meat Supply.

American Stock Raisers Co-operate With Food Administration in Conservation Measures.

It is probable that Europe for many years after the war will look to a great extent to America for its meat supply.

Europe's herds are dwindling under war's demands faster than they can be replenished.

When the German armies retired from occupied portions of France and Belgium approximately 1,800,000 head of cattle were appropriated. This addition virtually safeguarded Germany from cattle shortage other nations now suffer.

In England some 2,400,000 acres of grass lands have by compulsory measures been forced into grain production, thus reducing pasture and hay lands. A declining scale of maximum meat prices for live cattle was ordained in England, as follows: For September, $17.76 per hundred pounds; October, $17.25; November and December, $16.08, and for January, $14.40. The evident intent of this measure was to drive the beef animals into market as soon as possible.

According to official French figures, the cattle of France have decreased to a total of 12,341,900 as compared with 14,807,000 in 1913. Today, due to lack of forage principally, France is producing only one gallon of milk where before the war two and one-half gallons were produced.

Meantime the United States food administration has taken steps to conserve our flocks and herds and to increase their numbers. The stock breeders of this country show a disposition to co-operate with the government in this.

For many years it has been a practice among many of the dairy people of this country to kill male calves at birth and in many instances the females if not needed to replenish their herds rather than go to the expense of maturing them into veal. The high prices of meat caused the virtual discontinuance of this killing. Another encouraging fact is 75 per cent. of calves killed for veal this year were males.

Somebody has very aptly said that the wars of the world have been won with grease, meaning that bacon and lard have been as essential to success in war as powder, which is true.

The hogs of Europe have been very greatly sacrificed to present day needs. This makes the American burden all the more heavy and makes doubly essential an increased pork production in this nation. In Italy grain is now forbidden to be fed to hogs. In Denmark under a recent order one-fourth of the hogs were ordered to be killed. It is estimated that one-half have now been killed.

SEIZURE OF HOUSEWIVES' FOOD STOCKS IMPOSSIBLE

The government has never considered any plan of seizing foodstuffs owned by householders. Nor is there any policy of this kind suggested for the future.

In spite of this fact, the United States food administration has been obliged repeatedly to issue official denials of rumors that the government intends commandeering preserves and canned goods put up in American homes.

These rumors were originated partly by pro-German propagandists and partly by conscienceless grafters, who sought to profit through buying from misinformed housewives.

The year 1918 will see home canning and preserving practiced on greater scale than ever before in the nation's history, officials in Washington believe. And they are assuring all patriotic housewives that foods so saved are theirs, and theirs alone.

NUTRITIOUS CORN BREAD.

One New York hotel has arranged a thoroughly patriotic corn bread recipe. It combines cornmeal with rye flour, both of which are being consumed in greater quantities this year in order to release wheat flour for the allied nations. This recipe fills a large pan—16 by 22 inches—and contains the following ingredients: One quart milk, four ounces butter substitute, ten ounces light syrup or honey, three eggs, pinch salt, two pounds cornmeal, one pound rye flour and two ounces baking powder.

The butter and syrup are thoroughly mixed. Then add the eggs gradually, pour in the milk, then add the rye flour mixed with the cornmeal and baking powder. Bake in a hot oven.

EUROPE NEEDS FOOD

Food Administration Declares It is an Absolute Sin to Waste Food—Food
Has Become Sacred.

Europe is still sending an insistent call for more food. We must send it if the war is to go on efficiently. If we eat it all we cannot ship it, and the food administration has already tried to picture how much that wheat is needed by people who will starve if they do not get it, the food administration states.

"For the least bit of heedlessness on your part in food conservation some one somewhere in the world must suffer privation," an official statement declares. "The food administration has mastered the problem of America's food in such a way that every ounce of food conserved and kept in the currents of trade goes to an empty stomach in Europe."

"It is an absolute sin to waste food. Food has become sacred."

"Food means life; it means somebody's life, and you cannot escape responsibility."

"There is no waste of food among the allied nations."

WAR BREAD COSTLY TO BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Every year the British government pays $200,000,000 toward the cost of that nation's war bread. That is the principal reason why English bread prices are lower today to the consumer than in America. Incidentally the British bread is much poorer than the American.

Great Britain has taken over all home grown grain, bought at an arbitrary price, and all imported wheat bought in markets of the world at prevailing prices. This is turned over to the mills by the government at a price that allows the adulterated war bread loaf of four pounds to sell at 13 cents. The two pound loaf costs 9 cents, and the one pound loaf sells for 5 cents.

In milling, however, 14 per cent. more flour is extracted from the wheat than in America. And there is a compulsory adulteration of 20 per cent. and an allowable adulteration of 50 per cent.

Compared with American bread, the British product is only about 65 per cent. pure at its best.

In France, under conditions somewhat similar, but with a larger extraction, the four pound loaf sells for 16 cents.

AMERICAN SAVINGS WILL MEASURE WHEAT EXPORTS

"We have already exported the whole of the surplus of the 1917 wheat harvest, over and above the normal demands of our own population. It is necessary, therefore, for the food administration to restrict export of wheat so as to retain in the United States sufficient supplies to carry our own people until the next harvest."

"Therefore all exports of wheat from now forward are limited entirely to volume of saving made by the American people in their consumption of wheat and wheat products."

"We continued wheat shipments for December as far as our situation allowed, but even with all the conservation made we were still unable to load several hundred thousand tons of foodstuffs urgently required by the allied nations during the month of December alone."

HERBERT HOOVER.

WHEAT-CORN YEAST BREAD.

Wheat-corn bread is more nutritious than bread baked with wheat flour alone. Thousands of American families today are using this mixed flour bread, and in so doing are enabling America to provide more wheat flour for the allies. Here's a tested recipe for this bread: Take one and a half cups of milk, water or a mixture of the two; one-half cake compressed yeast; one and a half teaspoons salt; one tablespoon sugar; one tablespoon of fat if desired; one cup cornmeal and two cups wheat flour.

Put one and a half cups of water, the cornmeal, salt, sugar and fat (if used) into a double boiler and cook twenty minutes. The water is sufficient only to soften the meal a little. Allow the meal to cool to about the temperature of the room and add the flour and yeast mixed with the rest of the water. Knead thoroughly, make into loaf, place in pan of standard size, allow to rise until nearly fills the pan and bake 45 or 50 minutes. It is hardly practicable to use a greater percentage of cornmeal than this even in emergencies, for bread so made differs very little from baked mush. Less cornmeal can be used and in such a case the general method given above may be followed.

It is possible to make a yeast raised corn bread without first cooking the cornmeal. In this case not more than one cupful of meal should be used to four cupfuls of flour. In other respects the bread is mixed and baked as in the above recipe.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Philpot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back. By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days... I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone. Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go... I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me.

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardui, and am so thankful that I did, for I began to improve when on the second bottle... I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health. I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

WHAT ALABAMA BOYS DO

By C. E. Newman,
Assistant Boys' Club Agent,
Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The interest in club work shown by the boys of Alabama in the past has been highly gratifying to all who are connected with the work. World records have been made by boys of this state and we are justly proud of them. Corn Club boys have shown to the world that corn can be produced as abundantly and more cheaply in the South than in the regular corn section. Furthermore they have demonstrated the fact that corn can be produced much more abundantly and more cheaply than we have been accustomed to doing. This is clearly substantiated by the statistics which show that the average yield per acre for a Corn Club boy in Alabama is more than three times the general average for the state, and is produced at less than half the cost per bushel. This is an important point for us to consider when we think of the shortage in labor, and the urgent need of an increase in food production. The boys are playing a big part in supplying the world with food, and are showing that they are true Americans by the way they have responded to the call in 1917. An army of boys 5,000 strong volunteered for service in the 1917 food army and have done noble work. These young heroes can feel like they have had a definite part in helping to win the war, and we feel like shouting the words in the Boys' Corn Club Song:

"Give honor to the farmer boys Who join the Corn Club band
They will be the Nation's joy
For each will rule the land.
Then Corn Club songs be singing When
Up early in the morn
For all the world's depending on
The boys who grow the corn."

The work of the boys is so important that we hope to enlist every boy possible between the ages of ten and eighteen years in the Corn Club. It is a chance for them to show their patriotism; make some money for themselves; and get training that will make them better farmers. The extension service at Auburn is anxious to give every possible assistance in all phases of club work.

KUDZU AS A FORAGE CROP

By D. J. Burleson,
Agronomist for Extension

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In the last few years kudzu has come to attract considerable attention as a forage crop under certain conditions. It is a perennial leguminous vine, forming runners 40 to 60 feet long, and taking root at the joints. It is well adapted to hill sides where there are gullies, since the matted growth will hold the washings, thus filling the gullies. It is best adapted to grazing, but it may be cut for hay. In raking the hay the vines become tangled so badly that the fork should be used instead of the hay rake. It is very nutritious both as forage and as hay.

Kudzu is propagated from rooted cuttings which should be set out in late February or in March, setting the vines every 8 or 10 feet in each direction. The first year one row of corn may be grown in each middle. Narrow-leaf vetch combines well with kudzu, the two giving almost continuous grazing if not grazed too closely.

LESPEDEZA OR JAPAN CLOVER

By D. J. Burleson,

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Lespedeza was introduced into the United States about sixty-five or seventy years ago, and has spread over practically the entire South. It is an annual summer legume, and re-seeds so readily that one sowing in a pasture usually establishes it permanently. It also spreads by natural means, thus establishing itself over many pastures without artificial seeding. It is very rare that lespedeza is killed by frost after early sprouting of seed, making it necessary to reseed.

This plant thrives on a variety of soils, but makes its heaviest growth on soils that are fertile, low and well drained. On such soils it may be cut for hay, yielding two to four tons per acre. On most soils it does not grow tall enough for mowing, but makes excellent pasturage. It combines well with Bermuda grass, thus making perhaps the best permanent pasture for the South.

Lespedeza seed should be sown in late February or in March at the rate of about twenty pounds per acre. One of the best ways to utilize this crop is to sow it among fall sown oats in very early spring. A harrow should be run through the oats before seeding the lespedeza. This slight cultivation will benefit the oats. After the oats have been cut the lespedeza will continue to grow, and will furnish summer pasturage, or on rich land it may be cut for hay.

WHITE CLOVER FOR PASTURE

By M. H. Pearson, Assistant in Agriculture, Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

White clover is more widely found than any other variety of clover. The seed are very small and are easily carried, thus causing it to spread rapidly. It is a creeping plant seldom rising more than one foot high, but making a dense mat of herbage. The stems lying on the ground root freely, thus rapidly covering the ground where space and conditions will allow.

White clover grows best on a rich loam or clay loam soil, well supplied with lime and humus. It will grow, however, on many kinds of soil, provided moisture is abundant. It thrives in moist soil and in cool weather. In most of the South it almost disappears during the summer months, but reappears in the fall and furnishes grazing throughout the winter.

It grows well in a sod with Bermuda grass, thus giving a good start toward a permanent pasture which is so badly needed in Alabama. A good fertilizer for white clover would be a thorough liming and dressing the land with phosphate. Wood ashes are also very valuable as a fertilizer for white clover.

The seed of white clover may be sown either very early in the spring or in the fall. If a sod is desired the amount of seed should be from 5 to 13 pounds per acre. When sown in mixtures with Bermuda and other grasses 2 to 4 pounds is sufficient. It is advisable to mix the seed with a small amount of dry acid phosphate, cotton seed meal, or very fine sand, so that the seed may be sown evenly.

DEATH OF JOHN WYATT

John Wyatt, son of Daniel Wyatt who lives near Clanton, died at the Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., Tuesday about 3:00 P. M. The remains will be returned here for burial.

Young Wyatt had been seriously ill with pneumonia for several days, but seemed to be recovering from this when he took the measles, which caused his death.

HOME GARDENS CUT STORE BILLS

President Georgia Chamber Of Commerce Shows How Millions Were Saved Last Year

Atlanta, Georgia.—(Special.)—"More money was saved in 1917 through the medium of the home garden than ever before, the United States Department of Agriculture estimating that there were fully one million new gardens made last year," says H. G. Hastings, President of the Southeastern Fair and the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, in an interview reviewing the 1917 farming operations in the South.

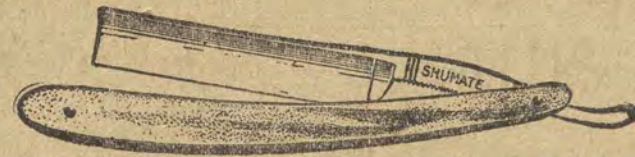

"Thousands upon thousands of our people in the South," said Mr. Hastings, "for the first time in their lives learned to appreciate the money saving power of the home garden, properly planned, prepared for, planted and kept planted during the entire season."

"Up to the present it has been very hard to get our people to consider the home garden seriously as a real substantial factor in food production with the consequent saving of money that went for food supplies at the store. Unless we are much mistaken the home garden will from now on be taken as seriously as any other part of the farm work."

"A quarter to a half acre devoted to a variety of vegetables liked by the family can be kept going nearly the whole year in the South and give its owner as much as the product of two or three acres of cotton, even at present prices, will buy at the store. The right kind of a garden means an abundance of healthful food during spring, summer and fall and an abundance either canned or dried for winter use."

"Let no one be fooled by the lies spread abroad that the Government is going to seize home canned goods on closet shelves in the farm or home. These lies are started by German agents for the express purpose of discouraging our people in increased food production and saving. Few can go to the firing line, but all can join in and have a part in home production of food."

"We have never seen a permanently prosperous farm section either in the United States or in foreign countries that was not a diversified section, and in every diversified section the home garden has an honored and valued place. The home garden is a store bill cutter of the first rank."

DID THEY GET ANY?

We don't know whether or not any of them received any grape juice at the hands of the great commoner at Birmingham Tuesday night, but there were a good many Clanton and Chilton county people who went up to hear the speech and to attend the banquet.

The editor only lacked a small bit of seeing whether they got the juice or not. He was in Birmingham Tuesday but couldn't stay till the "blow-out" was over.

MR. SCOTT MOVED

A letter from "Dr. Ignorance Drops Scott," alias, J. N. Scott, alias, Jap Scott, tells us that he has moved from Jamison to Maylene in Shelby county. He wants the Union-Banner to keep on coming to him.

Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds went up to Birmingham Tuesday to hear Mr. Bryan speak Tuesday night.

J. J. Pickens was one of the Clanton citizens who attended the Bryan speech at Birmingham Tuesday night.

L. M. Taylor went to Birmingham Tuesday on business.

W. A. Reynolds went to the city of Birmingham Tuesday to look after business interests.

C. B. Cox went up on Tuesday to take up his duties with the Ala. Power Company at Parish. Mr. Cox is a line construction man for this big company.

NOTICE

I take this method of saying to the public, that, hereafter I will not be in shape to extend credit and carry accounts until Fall as I have been doing heretofore.

My business will be run more on a cash basis. All accounts made with me will be due and payable on the first of each month.

Conditions in the mercantile business have altogether changed. Goods that was sold a few years ago to the retail merchant with four to six months dating, have to be paid for now in thirty days, and a large per cent of staple goods are shipped bill of lading attached. And with the short terms that I buy goods on I don't feel that the little amount of operating capital that I have justifies my undertaking any further to do a supply or advancing business.

I want to extend my sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that my business has had during the past.

I shall keep my stock of merchandise more replete, and by paying cash will be in a position to give better values. I heartily solicit a continuance of the liberal share of cash business that I have enjoyed, and assure my customers that they will be, at all times, treated courteously, and given a square deal.

Those having past due accounts with me will please arrange to make settlement as early as possible.

Very respectfully,

W. A. KEMP.

"Dec. 22, 1917.

"Dear Father and Brothers:

"Under the existing circumstances I hardly know how to write a letter.

"Two or three weeks ago I received letters from each of you three, one from cousin Callie and one from Ellen all in one mail. This is the first opportunity I have had to answer any of them.

"I would like the best in the world to tell you about my trip but as that is impossible will have to be content with saying that I enjoyed myself. With the exception of a light case of La Grippe have had splendid health since being on French soil.

"Hope you received the first mail that I sent when we landed.

"Any package you send be sure to address plain and do not mark perishable. Be sure and write at least once or twice a week and send along the newspapers too.

SEVEN WAYS TO KILL A CHURCH

1. Don't come. Stay at home, or go somewhere, rather than come to church. Staying at home is not only helping to kill the church, but by degrees is killing the spiritual life of the individual.

2. If you do come, come late. The faithful few are generally on time. Getting to church on time shows an interest in the Lord's work that no one can call in question.

3. If you come, come with your mind made up to take the back seat. Act as if you were afraid of the front seats and afraid to be seen.

4. If you come, come with your mind made up to find fault with the service, the preacher in particular. There are some who never have a good word to say about the church, nor the preaching of the Word, tho they go to church occasionally.

5. If you come come determined not to give a cent to any object, not even to keep up the expenses of the church. Many say they would go to church if it were not for taking up so many collections, and yet such people never give anything. This ought not to keep them away.

6. If you come to church, return to your home without shaking hands with your pastor, or with any of the brothers or sisters. The preacher, often after a hard effort to teach his people, returns to his home with the blues, saying: "I wonder what was the matter with Brother Snyder, Brother Snow, Brother Jones and Brother Smith—not one of them spoke to me."

7. If you come to church, come all alone; don't bring your wife or husband or children or neighbors. Many people when they start to the house of the Lord slip off as if they were afraid some one would find out where they were going. "Andrew first findeth his brother Simon, and he brought him to Jesus," John 1:47.—Biblical Recorder.

IT STUMPED ADAM SMITH

It was to be expected that when abnormal conditions sent prices on an upward swing, they would swing to a higher point than conditions actually justified. That is always the case. When abnormal conditions bring on a panic, prices shoot downward and reach a low point not justified by actual conditions. When scarcity exists, possessors of goods ask an unconscionable price. When a surplus is on hand, purchasers buy at an unconscionable price. Many a farmer has sold his grain, butter, eggs, livestock and vegetables at less than cost of production. Nobody condemned the consumers as criminals for thus taking the farmer's product at a price that meant poverty and want for him and his family. Men who have a surplus of goods must sell at the price they can get. In case of scarcity, those who have the goods have always been able to name the price, within limits. The man who can devise a plan which will insure the producer a fair price in times of surplus and protect the consumer from excessive prices in case of scarcity, will go down in history as the greatest economist of all time.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

Before using this remedy for a cough or cold you may wish to know what it has done for others. Mrs. O. Cook, Macon, Ill., writes, "I have found it gives the quickest relief of any cough remedy I have ever used." Mrs. James A. Knott, Chillicothe, Mo., says "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cannot be beat for coughs and colds." H. J. Moore, Oval, Pa., says "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on several occasions

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1, IS THE LAST DAY TO PAY YOUR POLL TAX—BETTER NOT FORGET

BIG ARMY NEEDED FOR AIR SERVICE

FORTY TO FIFTY MEN REQUIRED FOR EACH ACTIVE PLANE AT THE FIGHTING FRONT.

FIGURES BY HOWARD COFFIN

Veterinary Corps and Remount Service Growing Rapidly—Information About the Pay Received by Uncle Sam's Enlisted Men.

(From Committee on Public Information.) Washington.—In a statement issued by Howard E. Coffin, chairman of the aircraft production board, is the following:

"In discussing the accomplishments of the air service in the consumption of the army program, it will be well to point out the impossibility of certain proposals enthusiastically and persistently put forward by word of mouth and in the press. We have seen and heard much of the proposed 100,000 airplanes to be provided by the United States within the next year. In a country where one great industry produces 1,500,000 motorcars per year, the fabrication of 100,000 planes might seem easy, but actual figures based upon three years of practical experience in the war shows that there are now between 40 and 50 men of the auxiliary services required for each active machine at the front. If this same ratio should be adhered to in our service, it would mean that some 4,000,000 men would be required in our aeronautical department on foreign soil between our ports of embarkation and the fighting front.

"Even though this number of men could be reduced by 50 per cent by increased efficiency and standardization, the number required is still staggering. Consider, also, the overseas transportation problem as related to material only and without reference to personnel and its maintenance. The transportation of finished planes, properly crated, with the necessary spares, accessories, and equipment is in itself a serious problem, in view of the situation in ship tonnage."

When war was declared the strength of the United States army in animals was 86,145; it is now 344,000. The remount service April 6 consisted of one officer and four clerks in Washington, five remount depots where horses were received, and a personnel and purchasing organization in the field in proportion. The veterinary corps, responsible for the treatment of animals, consisted of 64 officers and no enlisted personnel when the United States entered the war.

The veterinary corps faced the job of building an organization of about 1,000 officers and 12,000 men. The 1,000 officers have been secured and enlisted men are being transferred at a rate which will soon bring it up to its full authorized strength.

The remount service had a similar task in securing personnel. Its present strength is about 300 officers and 11,000 enlisted men. In place of 5 remount depots it has 34, for which plans had to be drawn, sites chosen, and construction of shelter, hospitals, storage buildings, and unloading facilities in short time.

The greater proportion of deaths of animals in the army results from influenza, popularly known as "shipping fever," and its complications. British losses on horses purchased in the United States during the war have been about 10 per cent, counting only deaths occurring in this country. French and Italian losses have been higher.

The rank of commissioned officers of the United States army is shown by insignia on the shoulder loops.

LOOK AT THE LABEL.

Can you find the name on this paper where we addressed it to you?

Look and see if you can locate the little yellow "label" about a quarter of an inch wide and about two inches long, that is posted on the front of the paper and has your name printed on it. Do you find it?

Well out at the right hand end of the little yellow label is a date. This date is the day on which your subscription to the paper will be out, and the day on which your paper will be stopped if you do not renew before that day comes.

Better figure this out once just to see if you can do it, and get a line on when your time is out.

Some tell us that they wish we would send them a notice and tell them their time is out, so they could renew before the paper is stopped, and thereby not miss any issues.

Why, bless your soul friend, we send you that very notice with every paper we send you. All you have to do is to look at it and it will tell you the exact standing of your subscription.

Watch the little yellow "label" and bring or send your renewal before you are cut off from the list.

A recent comparison of health reports from troops in the United States and the expeditionary forces shows the admission rate to hospitals to be greater among the men in France.

Admissions to hospitals in one week in the expeditionary forces, figured on a basis of 1,000 men, were 45.2; in the United States the rate was 33.7 per 1,000 men. In the overseas forces the non-effective rate (the total number of men excused from duty for any injury or ailment, whether or not ordered to hospital) was 54.1 per 1,000 men; in the troops in the United States it was 46.4.

The sale of "smilage" books, containing coupons good for admission to theaters and entertainment tents in all army camps and cantonments, is handled in the smaller cities and towns throughout the country by chautauqua and lyceum organizations.

The books come in two sizes, for sale at $1 and $5. When sent to a man in camp a smilage book carries the name of the donor on the cover.

Red Cross appropriations for work in Italy from November 1, 1917, to May 1, 1918, total $4,771,890.

The pay of enlisted men depends on their grades, ratings, and length of service. From June 1, 1917, and continuing during the term of the war the pay of the enlisted men is as follows:

Men receiving $30: All privates, the army entering grade.

Men receiving $33: First-class privates, men promoted to act in minor noncommissioned officer capacity.

Men receiving $36: Corporals, saddlers, mechanics, farriers and wagoners, and musicians of the third class.

Men receiving $38: All sergeant grades in the line, which include infantry, field artillery, coast artillery, and cavalry; cooks, horseshoers, band corporals, and musicians of the second class.

Men receiving $44: Sergeants of the various corps of the engineers, ordnance, signal corps, quartermaster corps, and medical department; band sergeants and musicians of the first class.

Men receiving $48: Battalion sergeant majors, squadron sergeant majors, sergeant majors (junior grade), sergeant buglers, master gunners, and assistant band leaders of the line.

Men receiving $51: Regimental sergeant majors, regimental supply sergeants, sergeant majors (senior grade), quartermaster sergeants of the quartermaster corps, ordnance sergeants, first sergeants, electrician sergeants of the first class, assistant engineers and battalion sergeant majors and battalion supply sergeants of the engineers.

Men receiving $56: Sergeants, first class, of the medical department.

Men receiving $71: Hospital sergeants, master engineers of the junior grade, and engineers.

Men receiving $81: Quartermaster sergeants of the senior grade of the quartermaster corps, band leaders, master signal electricians, master electricians, master engineers of the senior grade, and master hospital sergeants.

All enlisted men, while on detached duty not in the field where there are no army quarters available, receive in addition to their pay $15 per month to cover the expense of housing and also a suitable allowance for subsistence and for heat and light.

An enlisted man in active service has no necessary personal expenses except for barber and laundry. Uniforms, underclothing, shoes, hats, quarters, medical attendance, and subsistence are supplied them at government expense. Such materials as tobacco, postage, confectionery, and incidentals of individual taste may be purchased at the post exchange at cost.

From uncensored sources the committee on public information has received editorial comment on the president's recent message in the Frankfurter Zeitung, a liberal organ with large circulation throughout the German empire. The following paragraph appears in the translation:

"The foundation for the peace negotiations has not yet been found, but we have approached much nearer to it. Wilson seeks a way out of the war and does so in a manner not entirely in accord with us. We see no reason for exposing ourselves any longer to the charge of lack of clarity about our war aims. Germany and her allies should come out openly with their terms. Then perhaps it will be seen that a continuation of the war can be avoided and the resistance of governments to the desire for peace of their peoples can be overcome."

REVISED ORDER COVERING THE SALE AND USE OF WHEAT FLOUR

Hobbie Sends Second Telegram to Judge Reynolds in Regard to Application of the Order to Merchants and Consumers.

In another place in this paper we are publishing a long list of regulations from the Food Administration covering the sale and use of flour and feed stuff by retail merchants and consumers.

At a later hour Wednesday morning Judge Reynolds the food administrator for Chilton county received another telegram from Mr. Hobbie regarding the flour situation, which is intended to be a supplementary order in connection with the other telegram. Following is the latest telegram:

"Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 29, 1918. Judge L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala.

"The rule whereby all merchants, both wholesale and retail, must sell one pound of other cereal with every pound of wheat flour is positively, and must be obeyed to the letter. It is not a request, but a positive command of our government. Any person who does not willingly conform to this rule is not a good citizen. In his selfishness he is taking the bread from the mouths of our soldiers in France and the children of Belgium. The substitutes are corn meal, corn starch, corn flour, corn grits, barley flour, rice, rice flour, oatmeal, buckwheat flour, potato flour, soy bean flour, and temporarily Irish and sweet potatoes. Farmers having corn which they are having ground into meal for home use, can secure flour by signing certificate like one mailed you. Retailer must supply this certificate for his customers. Wholesalers and millers must sell retailers flour. Your government looking to you to enforce this law. You have behind you the force and appreciation of our government writing.

"HOBIE, Food Admr. for Ala."

Farmers Can Secure Flour.

Farmers who have their corn meal at home, will be enabled to secure flour from the retail merchant by making the following certificate:

Ala., 1918. I hereby certify that I have on hand _____ pounds of corn meal, which my family is using daily in our home.

I hereby promise that I will purchase only the amount of flour permitted by the following rule of the U. S. Food Administration:

"Sales of flour to one household, including ice and in refrigerators.

A shortage of ice during warm weather in 1918 would result in untold waste of perishable foods in the home, in small creameries, and other establishments dependent upon constant ice service. The United States department of agriculture has for distribution complete information on the harvesting and storing of natural ice.

A statement by the provost marshal general shows that of 859,150 total discharges for dependency 743,141, or 86.50 per cent, were for wife or wife and children; widowed parent, 6.51 per cent; motherless child, 0.66 per cent; minor orphan brothers and sisters, 0.58 per cent.

Of the total of 1,057,363 men certified for service in the National army 418,309, or 39.56 per cent, are listed as involuntary conscripts—those who failed to appear or fled unsuccessful claims for exemption or discharge. Voluntary conscripts—those who filed no claims for exemption or discharge—numbered 639,054.

towns and cities must be limited to a maximum of 48 pounds; in rural communities to a maximum of 96."

I hereby promise on behalf of myself and family to observe the Wheatless Mondays and Wednesdays and also one Wheatless meal daily.

In consideration of the above promise, I accept the exemption granted me by _____

(Name of Retailer and Address) from the ruling requiring the sale of an equal number of pounds of grain or cereal substitutes with each purchase of flour and acknowledge receipt of _____ pounds of flour. And I hereby certify that the same is needed for my immediate use and is not purchased for speculation or hoarding.

(Signature of Purchaser) Post Office Address)

In regard to the above telegram, and the enforcement of the mandates thereof, Judge Reynolds has the following to say:

"The enclosed telegram from Mr. Hobbie explains itself. I hope all our merchants, and every one else will strictly abide by the law.

"We are in the most terrible war the world ever heard of. We have now a half million of our boys in Europe, and they must be fed.

"The Food Administration is trying to treat all alike; there is not enough flour for all to use all the time, and they are trying to divide the flour equally between all citizens, and if something had not been done some would have bought up all the flour and others could not have got any.

"I will be glad to give any merchant or farmer any information they want about the law. Merchants can get copy of certificate from me that farmers having their own meal at home so they can buy flour.

"Again I want to appeal to the patriotism of all. Let's study the law, and do not get impatient. After it is worked out we can all understand it and we can abide by it.

"We must make the food we have last until we can make another crop. Let's plant an early garden, and we must make the largest food crop we ever made in our lives.

"Respectfully, L. H. REYNOLDS, Food Admr. for Chilton County"

JOHN T. WYATT BURIED AT CONCORD LAST SATURDAY.

The remains of John T. Wyatt, apprentice seaman, who died last Tuesday in the U. S. Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, Va., arrived in Clanton Friday night, and burial took place Saturday in the cemetery at Concord church.

The services were conducted by Rev. Gable, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, and were attended by a large number of friends of the deceased.

The young man enlisted in the naval service a little over a month ago. Soon thereafter he contracted a severe case of pneumonia, followed by measles, which resulted in his death.

Jody Littlejohn closed his store Monday and came over to Clanton on a visit. He called at the court house, the Union-Banner office, and other places of interest.

May Draft Acres

The big cotton crop enthusiast who does not realize that the United States is in a life and death war struggle, and who through his ignorance, selfishness and lack of true patriotism, would barter away the future of democracy, his own, and the nation's liberties just for one or two big cotton crops, may get his wings cropped. Congress may enact a war emergency law drafting his acreage for food production. The draft law has been held constitutional and under its provisions fathers, husbands, sons and brothers are being drafted from their homes and places of business and made to serve in the army. The Government has the power to draft a privately owned factory and convert its products to the aid of the Government. It can draft and operate a railroad for its own purposes. It can draft the corn from your barns. It certainly has and should have the power to draft your acres and convert them to producing the things needed to win this struggle of nations. You may think that the Government is vested with too much power, but that can not be, in the time of war, provided that the power is judiciously used for national defense. Anything less than absolute authority of the Congress of the federated states over the man power and resources of these common unit would drag the nation in the wake of revolutionary, down trodden, and bleeding Russia.

A Bill in Congress

Information has reached us that on January 11th a bill was introduced in Congress, the purpose of which is to regulate the price or to limit the production of cotton. We do not yet know whether the bill seeks to control the price of cotton or to limit the acreage that may be planted, but the latter, we think. This attempt to regulate cotton production by an Act of Congress is sure to meet with serious opposition from the South, but to no avail, if it is found that the farmers of the South can not be depended upon to support the Government in its food production program for war purposes. Farmers of the South will flood their congressmen with angry protests. They should remember that the one hundred and eighteen congressmen from the cotton states will be powerless when confronted by the three hundred and seventy-six congressmen who live where cotton is not grown, many of whom are already sore on account of federal regulation of wheat. The protests of the South will amount to about as much as shaking a red rag in a mad bull's face, when once the question is up. Congress does not want to deal drastically with the cotton farmers, if they will be reasonable with their planting and support the food production program sufficiently to safeguard the national defense.

Personal Views

Personally, I am opposed and will protest against any drastic action of Congress to regulate the production of cotton, unless it becomes evident that Southern farmers will not be reasonable and regulate it themselves. Congress will not sit idly by and let the remainder of this country feed and fight this war while the Southern farmers trade the victory to the Kaiser for an excess cotton crop. Congress will exercise its power to prevent, if it is found necessary.

I know that this letter has a metallic ring, but victory and national security should be first in the heart of every true American and inspire him to do his part, not "bit," regardless of his personal interest, position or personal opinion of civil rights, all of which amount to naught in the absence of victory.

THE MOTHER IN THE HOMESTEAD

(By C. H. Latham, U. S. S. Montgomery, Norfolk, Va.)

The mother in the homestead waiting for her son's good by, Is the mother of Old Glory waving in the sky. Men have died to keep it standing; men have died to keep it bright; But that flag was born of mother and her sufferings day and night.

It was her sacrifice that made it, and therefore you ought to pray For the brave and loyal mother of the boys who go away.

There are months of grief before her; there are days when she weeps There are nights of anxious waiting 'fore her eyes close in sleep.

She has heard the country calling and has risen with the rest To put upon the altar of our nation's need the best.

And no man can ever suffer in the battle wild affray, The suffering of the mother whose boy has gone away.

Oh, how we ought to love the mother who is old and near the grave, And has given the flag a soldier. She is the bravest of the brave.

Wiley M. Bean, principle of the school at Union Grove, was in Clanton last Saturday on business.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mrs. M. H. Nottsge, music teacher at Thorsby Institute spent the weekend in Birmingham. While there she attended the community sing, which she found very enjoyable.

The stereopticon slides on the life of Dwight L. Moody did not arrive in time for use at the Congregational church last Sunday night but will be presented Sunday night, Feb. 10, at 7:30 P. M.

Zell Pope and Chester Tyrner, two students of Thorsby Institute, visited Birmingham Monday Jan. 28, for the purpose of having their eyes fitted with glasses by Dr. Harrison.

Miss Payne, housekeeper at the Girls' Dormitory, who has been confined to her room by sickness for the last three weeks is much better and resumed her duties Monday morning.

Mrs. Louis Guth with her little son and two stepsons is visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomsen. Her many friends are glad to see her again.

Rev. J. M. Graham, Prof. of Extension Work at the Atlanta Theological Seminary, spent Thursday and Friday of last week at home with his family. Rev. Graham reports considerable damage done to the telephone and trolley lines in Atlanta by the recent sleet storms.

Alva Rainer of Georgiana, Route 2, who was unable to return to school at the end of the Christmas vacation on account of his father's ill health, arrived in Thorsby Friday night to resume his school work at the beginning of the second semester.

Rev. F. W. C. Bice, pastor of the Baptist church, is expected to fill his regular appointment next Sunday.

Regular morning services at the Congregational church next Sunday and Christian Endeavor at 6:30 P. M. There will be no evening services because of the services at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Baldwin of Herrick, S. D., are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Herbert.

The second semester of Thorsby Institute opened Monday Jan. 28 with a slightly increased enrollment. Several new classes are being offered and quite a number of the students are preparing for the teachers' examination next April.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White, former residents of Thorsby whose present home is Excelsior, N. D., are spending a few days in Thorsby greeting former friends and acquaintances. They expect to continue their journey to the Gulf coast in a few days.

Mr. R. B. Kicklighter who has been a student at Thorsby Institute for the past year and a half left on Monday for Birmingham for the purpose of taking a review course in stenography and typewriting preparatory to taking the civil service examination for a government position. During Mr. Kicklighter's stay in Thorsby he has been a leader in student activities and has won for himself the confidence and respect of the school community. His absence from our midst will be a distinct loss.

Rev. Chas. T. Rogers has purchased the poultry farm recently belonging to Dr. O. C. Mastin and has moved onto the place with his family. He expects to continue poultry raising along the lines which have proved successful under the directions of Dr. Mastin. Mr. Frank Mastin will assist him in the management during his spare hours while going to school at Thorsby Institute. Orville Mastin has entered the boarding department of Thorsby Institute.

The L. & N. Railroad is lengthening the siding at Strassburg bringing it up to the Thorsby switch. This will make Thorsby the passing station instead of Strassburg as heretofore and will result in the regular times for all trains being given for Thorsby on the time tables.

GROWS LONG STAPLE COTTON

Did you know long staple cotton can be grown to advantage in Chilton county?

Mr. T. G. Taylor an experienced and successful cotton grower of east Chilton has been for the past few years making some experiments with the long staple variety of cotton, and he announces that his efforts have proved very satisfactory and highly successful. He was in the Union-Banner office Tuesday and left an advertisement to be published in regard to his new cotton.

Read what he has to say about it.

SAVE THIS PAPER.

All merchants and the people in general are hereby requested to preserve this issue of The Union-Banner, as it contains all the late orders and instructions received by me from the State Food Administration in regard to the Flour and food situation. Keep the paper and you will have the laws at hand all the time.

Respectfully, L. H. REYNOLDS, Food Administrator for Chilton County, Ala.

The new orders of the food administration sent out to merchants over the county on Monday, virtually means that the sale and consumption of flour is at an end. Very little flour will be sold by retail merchants
so long as it is required that the fellow who buys it must at the same time buy as much of some other cereals as the quantity of flour which he buys. Most people around here, and especially the farmers and rural citizens, have their corn and meal, and they will probably leave off the flour all together, rather than buy more meal with it. They could buy such cereals as rice, oatmeal, etc., but that would be about like "Gullahorn's pepper."

We have seen people who practiced poking a long finger down their throats to bring about vomiting. But we have seen a new way to cause it here of late. Just get a copy of the Montgomery "Aggravator" and read about a "stick" of that "states rights" dope and you will promptly begin to "throw the shavings." And you can get the same results from other papers besides that particular one.

Next Friday, Feb. 1st is the last day on which you can pay your poll tax. Better pay it if you haven't already done so. This year there are going to be some important things which you will want to vote on. The question of cattle dipping is to come up, a sheriff is to be elected, and a representative chosen for the legislature. Better pay up and be fixed to vote.

Some subscribers eternally raise sand because we stop their papers when their subscription expires, without telling them their time is out.
They forget that we tell them on every paper we send them just the very day the paper will be out. Look at the little yellow label and you can tell when your paper will quit coming if you don't pay up again.

Petitions are still coming in to the Probate Judge asking for an election on tick eradication. Better pay your poll tax so you can have a voice in this question when it comes before the voters. It is coming up for settlement in a short time.

Another storm pit "going down."
John Thompson is building him one of these underground affairs in which he expects to hide from the wind and storms in future. They look good to a man "up a tree" when a storm is coming.

It ain't any use for us to tell you that T. J. Dorminey of Stumps Hills was in town again last Friday. He has got so he comes so often that it isn't any news—it is getting to be a habit. But nevertheless if he wants to come every day, or even stay all the time, he will always make himself heard, and people "look up to" him.

If these "heatless Mondays" had happened along in the hot summer time they would have struck us much nicer. Besides relieving us of the sometimes excessive heat, they would have afforded one more day to go fishing, or to sit in the shade and play checkers.

There was not anything doing in Clanton Monday. Stores were closed for "heatless" Monday, and the business men were grouped about in squares. One fellow said the people were standing around chewing the rag "like the bank had busted."

Mr. W. A. Huckabee, Superintendent of the Chilton county poor farm was a visitor to the Union-Banner office Wednesday and subscribed for

SWEET OR WHITE POTATO DOUGHNUTS

1 cup sugar or honey
1 cup mashed potato (sweet or white)
1 egg
½ cup sweet milk or water
1 teaspoon shortening
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon vanilla or cinnamon
Flour enough to make a stiff dough roll out and cut with doughnut cutter, fry in deep fat.

Corn meal as a food and ways of using it. F. B. 565 available at the office of home demonstration agent.
It contains many tested receipts for using corn meal.

Mrs. Lida Jones, the home demonstration agent met this week the recently organized classes of bread-making demonstrators at Clanton, Minooka and Thorsby.

This lesson is the third of the series on breadmaking which is being held under the Home Demonstration Agents throughout the state. At this meeting various breads were made, using corn meal and potatoes
as a substitute for wheat.

Corn products will probably always be cheaper than wheat products although the two are of about the same nutritive value. The substitute of corn meal for wheat is therefore economically desirable. Corn flour and wheat, and corn flour mixtures are not generally sold as yet, but if present wheat prices continue corn flour will soon be a necessity. Corn meal and some other corn products are already in general use.

Indian corn is the nation's most abundant cereal, palatable and nutritious in itself, and the best and most available substitute for wheat. A substituted food should first; have nearly the same food value as the food for which it is substituted; second, it should be palatable, and third;
it should be cheaper, or at least no
more expensive.

The purpose of these meetings is to acquaint the housekeepers of this county with some of the emergency breads which have been planned for economical home use.

The number of women enrolled is limited, in order that the few who have first availed themselves of this opportunity may become thoroughly acquainted with the whole process.

It is the intention of Mrs. Lida Jones, the demonstration agent, to carry this campaign throughout this county, with the help of volunteer workers who will do their bit for better homes by spreading the gospel of better breads.

At the meeting this week the following breads were demonstrated:

Indian-Meal Doughnuts
¾ cup milk.
1½ cups very fine white corn meal.
1½ cups wheat flour.
¾ cup butter.
¾ cup sugar.
2 eggs well beaten.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 level teaspoon salt.

Put milk and meal into a double boiler and heat together for about 10 minutes. Add the butter and sugar to the meal. Sift together the wheat flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt. Add these and the eggs to the meal. Roll out on a wellfloured board; cut into desired shapes;
fry in deep fat; drain and roll in powdered sugar.

This makes 30 medium-sized doughnuts.

Molasses Corn Cake
2 cups yellow corn meal.
½ cup molasses.
½ cup sugar.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup sour milk.
1½ cups sweet milk.
1 cup wheat flour.
1½ teaspoons soda.
1 egg.

Mix the first seven ingredients in a double boiler and cook over hot water. Cook for about 25 minutes after the mixture has become hot.
After it has cooled add the wheat flour and soda, thoroughly sifted together, and the egg well beaten.
Bake in a shallow tin.

This serves six people.
Corn-Meal Gingerbread.
To the above recipe add 1½ teaspoons ginger, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, and one-half teaspoon cloves, sifting them with the flour.

This serves six people.

Mark—All Adult German Alien Enemies in United States Must Register.

(From Committee on Public Information.)
Washington.—According to the food administration, shortage of wheat in France is becoming more and more alarmingly each week. The minister of general revictualing indicated recently that a further reduction of 20 per cent in the bread ration would soon become imperative.

Denmark is now looking forward to a reduction of wheat rations. Final figures for the cereal harvest show a total of about 62,000,000 bushels, which is 20,000,000 bushels less than in 1916
and about 10,000,000 less than was expected in the summer, when the populace was put on bread rations. The authorities are already considering a further reduction in the allowed consumption.

The food situation in Switzerland is rapidly falling to the danger line. A ration that is far below the consumption in many of the countries at war has already been ordered. Under the new regulations the Swiss may have only a pound and a half of sugar per person per month. The bread ration has been fixed at about half a pound
a day, and the butter ration at one-fifth of a pound a month.

Applications for war-risk insurance
by men of the army and navy have nearly reached the $3,000,000,000 mark, and continue to come in at a rate of about $60,000,000 a day. The average amount applied for per man is $8,680,
the average having increased steadily
since the act went into effect, October 6.

For persons who joined the colors
before October 15, 1917, the last day for applying for government insurance is February 12, 1918. Intensive efforts are being made by commanding officers to have all their men take insurance before that date.

The maximum amount which may be taken by any man is $10,000.

Among the regulations for the registration of German alien enemies in the United States during the first week of February, are the following:

All German males of the age of fourteen years and upward are required to register. Notice of time and place of registration will be given by publication in newspapers.

The affidavit of each registrant must be accompanied by four unmounted photographs, signed across the face so as not to obscure the features, and the finger prints of each registrant shall be taken.

Between 10 and 15 days after registration each alien enemy must again appear before his registration officer to obtain a registration card, which will bear his name and his left thumb print. This card must be carried by the registrant for future identification.

An alien enemy who changes his place of residence to another place within the same registration district must at once report the change to the registration officer. No alien enemy shall move out of the district without a permit. Application for a permit must be made upon a form furnished by the department of justice, giving full particulars as to date, reason for change, and intended place of residence.

To increase France's crops and to lighten the burden of toil on her old men, women and children 1,500 farm tractors will go to that country from the United States. The first hundred are already on the way, and the whole number will be in France by March, in time for the spring plowing. Deck space was provided for the first shipment on a naval transport. Schools of instruction will be organized.

The acreage sown to crops in the uninvaded portion of France in 1917 was about 10,000,000 acres less than in 1913, or 24.4 per cent. The increased production through the use of tractors this year is expected to greatly improve the food situation.

According to records of the selective service, country boys do not show much physical superiority over those of the cities. For purpose of comparison selection was made of cities of 40,000 to 500,000 population, and a corresponding set of counties of the same total size. In the physical examinations 28.47 per cent of the city boys were rejected, as against 27.96 per cent of the country boys.

Theaters and restaurants in Denmark close at 10 p. m. to save lights.
To save kerosene, which is sold at a price regulated by the government at 72 cents a gallon, Greenland whale oil is being tried for lighting. It is estimated 200,000 acetylene lamps are now in process of manufacture.

The distillation of all kinds of alcohol except for industrial uses is prohibited. A large part of the available alcohol will be needed for use in the new incandescent lamps. It is estimated that 2,000 tons of grain will be saved by the new regulations.

Food Will Win the War

A LARGE part of the world is coming to the position that Belgium is in; coming to the stage
where the primary and important thing
in life is enough food
to keep alive.
Food has now
taken a dominant position in the war. The American people must prepare themselves to sacrifice far more than was at first thought necessary.

The cold facts are: France, Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going ten or twelve weeks. When America's food shipments stop—
the allied nations begin consuming into this slender store and begin a swift march into actual famine conditions—which would mean defeat in short order.

Europe then must live on America's surplus. Your saving increases our available stocks
just that much and actually feeds
some person in the countries with which we are associated in our war against the Central Powers.
Our surplus wheat has already been shipped to the allies.

No Alcohol In This

You may wisely hesitate to take medicine containing alcohol. Scientists agree that alcohol is injurious.
It is particularly harmful to growing girls and boys. Of the remedies for liver and stomach troubles, Granger Liver Regulator is recognized as a standard preparation, free from poisonous drugs like calomel and it contains no alcohol. This medicine has been on the market for years. It is the "stand-by" in thousands of homes throughout the country. It is freely used by all the family whenever one of them feels headachy or in need of a physic. Granger Liver Medicine is purely vegetable, and it may be taken without fear of griping or any other unpleasant after effects. Price, 25c for large box. Ask your druggist for it and refuse all substitutes.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."
Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy
food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton
prices.

It's a time above all others to play
safe; to produce all possible food,
grain and forage supplies on your own
acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground,
rightly planted, rightly tended and
kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you
made on the best three acres of cotton
you ever grew!

Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. It's Free. Send for it today to H. G.

High Cost of Living

BRADSTREET maintains a careful record of prices. In 1896 the annual index number stood at $5.9124. In 1916 the figure had increased to $11.8251, which means that the price of the same kind of living has doubled in cost in 20 years.

Railroad service is an important item in the cost of living. Yet the record shows that the cost of living to railroads in general, and the L. & N. in particular, has increased tremendously, whereas the railroads now receive actually less for service than 20 years ago, and thus actually decreased the cost of living in so far as freight and passenger service enters into the cost of living.

In sixteen years L. & N. mileage increased 54 per cent.; yet expenses increased 122 per cent., labor increased 116 per cent., material and supplies increased 107 per cent. and taxes increased 174 per cent.

In the same sixteen years the L. & N. passenger rate per mile actually decreased 7.7 per cent., and the L. & N. freight rate per ton per mile actually decreased 10.8 per cent.

No business enterprise can continue to pay increases of from 50 per cent. to 175 per cent. for its material, supplies, labor and taxes and receive less for the service rendered. Even rigid economy, efficient management and volume of traffic will give way under the strain.

The L. & N., in common with the general public, has had to pay its 100 per cent. increase in the cost of living. But unlike the general public the L. & N. has not received increased revenue with which to pay the increased cost.

Government statistics show that railroad revenue per ton per mile in the South decreased 9.7 per cent., or a total of $35,367,239 in a single year, whereas in the entire United States for 16 years the revenue per ton per mile increased .003 cents, or 4 per cent. In 16 years L. & N. earnings per ton per mile actually decreased 10.8 per cent.

The railroads of the South are entitled to consideration equal to that shown the railroads of other sections of the United States, and the L. & N. is entitled to consideration equal to that shown other Southern railroads.

FARM PROSPERITY IS HOME MADE

Can Be Continued Indefinitely in South if Farmers Do Their Part, Says Hastings

Atlanta, Ga.—(Special).—That the present wave of "farm prosperity" in the South is "home made" and can be continued indefinitely is the interesting statement made recently by H. C. Hastings, President of both the Southeastern Fair Association and the Georgia Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Hastings said: "Unthinking people are very apt to attribute the present wave of farm prosperity in the South to the present high price of cotton rather than to its real cause."

"Naturally, the high price has helped a great deal, but the real reason for the money being in the farmer's pocket or bank is that when the 1917 cotton crop was made the farmer owned it instead of owing it to supply merchant at the end of the season, as was usually the case in times past. Never before had the farmers of the South come as close to feeding themselves, their families and their live stock from their own acres as in 1917. They had need of few store purchases and made few or no debts."

"If the 1917 crop had been made on the old basis of plant all cotton and buy all food at present prices there would be supply merchant prosperity, but little or none on the farms."

"Naturally, the temptation is great to increase cotton acreage and decrease food and grain acreage in 1918. The man who does it is foolish. The whole world is short of food and this condition will not only continue but get worse as long as the war lasts. Continued high prices for food is as certain as sunrise each morning."

"Real money-in-hand farm prosperity is absolutely dependent on the growing on one's own acres of all the food, meat, grain and forage needed for home needs. Once that is provided for, every other available acre can safely be planted in cotton or other cash crop. The larger part of the cost of making cotton or other cash crop is in the food, grain and forage consumed in making it."

"These items 'home made' can be produced at from one-third to one-half the price the merchant charges and home production of them means just that much reduction in the cost of making the cash crop."

"Farm prosperity in the South can and will be permanent just as long as our farmers continue their farm operations on a 'home made' basis."

OBITUARY

The death angel visited the U. S. Naval Training Station of Norfolk, Va., on Tuesday evening of 22nd, inst. and gently wafted the spirit of John T. Wyatt home to God who gave it.

He was 29 years old, a member of the Baptist church and had been for ten years. His remains were laid in Concord cemetery to await the resurrection morning, when we hope to meet and clasp hands once more as his dying words were: "I am ready and waiting to go Home."

He leaves a father, mother, five brothers, two sisters and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his loss, for he was loved by all who knew him.

Weep not dear friends and comrades 'Tho' John is here no more, He's gone to join the angels Upon the shining shore.

He bore his pain with patience 'Tho' far away from home, But twas for his country That he chose to roam.

He had a willing spirit And didn't mind to go So cheer up grievous loved ones For God has made this so.

A golden link is broken Out of the chain of five Who went to serve their country At the risk of their own lives.

God saw fit to take him 'Tho' for each your love entwines, His comrades left behind him, Are Cox, Harris, Easterling and Vines.

One by one our loving Saviour Gathers his flowers so rich and rare Transplants them in His garden To bloom forever there.

John is sleeping sweetly sleeping In a new made grave to day, While we're weeping sadly weeping For the dear one gone away.

A FRIEND.

LONG STAPLE COTTON IS THE COTTON FOR THE FARMER

I have tried it for two years and find that it grows and fruits well in this climate. I planted two seed in 1915 made one pound of seed cotton. Hand picked the cotton and dropped those seed in 1916 and made one hundred pounds of seed cotton, thereby giving two bushels of seed and thirty pounds of lint. In 1917 with the two bushels of seed I planted four acres fertilized with cotton seed meal and phosphate; about three hundred pounds to the acre and cultivated shallow. Made two bales and shipped it to Coosa Mfg. Co., Piedmont. The freight was $2.25 a bale and I got 38 cents for one bale and 37 1/2 for the other.

I have a limited amount of seed for sale at Taylor Bros' poultry house at $2.50 per bushel, also will have stalks of cotton to show how it grows and fruits.

As the time has come when we must plant more grain crops and less cotton it will be better to raise a better staple therefore getting $40 to $50 per bale more for long staple than short staple.

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire. There is a harassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source.

The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle to-day at any drugstore, and you will see results from the right treatment. Write for expert medical advice, which you can get without cost, by addressing Medical Director, 21 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught. Relief From Headache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Thedford's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicines. Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regular until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Thedford's, the original and genuine. E 79

TEACHER'S MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Teachers' Association will meet at the Baptist Church in Clanton on Saturday, Feb. 2 at 10 A. M. At which time the following program will be rendered:

The Teacher's Part in the War, by Prof. H. C. McDonald.
Hygiene in the Lower Grades, by Prof. F. B. Williams.

Report on the Effect of the Operation of the Compulsory Attendance Law, by Supt. W. T. Bean.

How can the Teacher best spend recesses in the Elementary school, by Prof. J. L. Wilson.

I am authorized to announce that the Teachers will receive their checks for January salary on that day. I hope every teacher in the county will try to be present at this meeting.

Food Facts

Recent Regulations Promulgated by Order of the Food Administration.

MONTGOMERY:—After a trip to Washington, the State Food Administrator has secured an important concession to Alabama farmers and corn dealers. None of them need secure a license to handle corn unless they ship or sell in car load lots or over. But there is this important proviso: Every dealer must pay a fair price to the farmer for corn and when he re-sells it must be at only a reasonable profit. If this rule is not followed the law will be enforced and those violating it will suffer and everybody again be compelled to take out licenses.

Toll Allowed Millers.
The Food Administration has issued a rule that all persons taking corn to mill must carry well cleaned corn. The miller must take toll by weight and not by measure. For fifty-six pounds of well cleaned corn he must give forty-eight pounds of meal. This saves the farmer about 4 pounds of meal from a bushel of corn, for meal when measured hot loses him that much.

Five Billion Dollar Enterprise.
We have one business here now, which amounts to much more than a billion dollars, more than five times that, in fact. Our corn crop for 1917 represents a cash value of $5,424,700,000. We raised about 3,191,000,000 bushels. Each bushel, at prevailing market prices, has an average value of about $1.50.

The war is going to end some day, but people are going to keep on eating. Can the farmer do a better thing for himself than help educate the people to eat corn meal and corn products?

Sugar Prices.
Everyone can figure for himself what he ought to pay for sugar. It costs the wholesaler $7.80 a hundred at New Orleans, and within a short time it will drop to $7.45 a hundred. He can add to that the freight charge and 25 points for his work and profit and must sell to the retailers for no more. The retailer can add 100 points or one cent a pound, for his work and profit and must sell to the consumer for no more. Take Montgomery for example and it works this way. $7.80 plus 24 points freight and Federal tax plus 25 points for wholesaler plus 100 points for retailer equal $9.29 per hundred as price consumer should pay. Any town or neighborhood by finding out freight charges from New Orleans can figure the proper price and should report to the Food Administrator any excess charges.

How Much To Buy.
The rule is as follows: Sugar should be sold in town and cities to consumers in two to five pound quantities; to farm and rural customers in five to ten pound quantities. Flour should be sold in towns and cities in 24 to 48 pound quantities; in rural and farm communities 48 to 96 pound quantities. Do not ask your merchant or more. The quantity of sugar may shortly be increased but by following this rule there should be no shortage of sugar or flour in any community and the extra trouble is small in comparison with that great result.

Starting Figures.
Since the war began there has been a net decrease of 28,000,000 cattle, 54,500,000 sheep and 32,425,000 hogs; a total decrease in the world's production of food animals of 115,005,000. Do you wonder the Food Administration asks that "Meatless Days" and "Meatless Meals" be observed by everybody? Won't you do it?

Message From Mr. Hoover.
Mr. Hoover says: "GO BACK TO THE SIMPLE LIFE; BE CONTENTED WITH SIMPLE FOODS; SIMPLE PLEASURES; SIMPLE CLOTHES; WORK HARD, PRAY HARD, PLAY HARD. WORK, EAT, RECREATE AND SLEEP. DO IT ALL COURAGEOUSLY. WE HAVE A VICTORY TO WIN."

Flour Must Not Be Hoarded.
The Food Administrator has been informed that in some parts of the state the farmers are purchasing large quantities of flour and putting it away for future use. This must not be done. Section 6 of the Act of Congress, under which the Food Administration operates, provides:

"That any person who wilfully hoards any necessities, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not exceeding $5,000 or be imprisoned for not more than two years, or both."

The price of flour is not going any higher than at the present time. The food administration is looking after that as it has in the past. Those men who are rushing to town to buy 5 or 10 barrels of flour should remember that but for the work of the Food Administration, whose rules they are now disregarding, they would be paying $30 or more per barrel for flour. They may go from merchant to merchant, buying one-half barrel at a time until they accumulate a quantity, but they can rest assured that the government will find this out and that serious trouble will follow if they persist in this course. There will be no shortage of flour if wheatless days and meals are observed as requested by the Food Administration and there is no reason for hoarding flour, getting into trouble yourself and causing others to suffer.

MUST SECURE LICENSE FOR HANDLING FOOD AND FEED PRODUCTS

Judge L. H. Reynolds, Food Administrator for Chilton county, has received instructions from State food administrator, Hobbie, regarding the license which it is necessary for dealers in food and feed stuff to secure from the government.

The licenses can be secured without cost by applying to the license division, Law Department, U. S. Food Administration, Washington, D. C. The licenses will be required after Feb. 15, 1918.

Announce Controlled Feeds
By proclamation of the President which takes effect Feb. 15th, livestock and poultry feeds are placed under supervision of the U. S. Food Administration in addition to bran, cottonseed products and other staple commodities already controlled. Alphabetically arranged, the feeds covered by the new regulations are:

Alfalfa, animal or fish products or by-products, baled alfalfa, baled hay, baled straw, barley, beans, broom corn, buckwheat, cane seed, oca, corn (ear), corn (shelled), dried brewers grains, dried distillers grains, dried yeast grains, emmer, feterita, grain and seed screenings, hay, kaffir, lentile, linseed oil cake, linseed oil meal, malt sprouts, millet, milo, oats, palm kernel, palm nut, peanuts, peas, rice, rye, sorghum grains, soy beans, spelt, straw, sugar beets, sugar cane, sunflower seed, tankage, velvet beans, wheat.

With specified exemptions, all persons, firms and associations importing, ammanufacturing, mixing, processing, storing or distributing these feeds are required to secure a license from the U. S. Food Administration and be subject to its regulations for the duration of the war. The exceptions include farmers, gardeners, cooperative associations of farmers and gardeners (including livestock farmers), common carriers, and retailers whose gross sales of food commodities do not exceed $100,000 annually.

The purpose of the control is to prevent speculating and hoarding, to stabilize prices and secure distribution through most direct channels.

ORDERS GOVERNING SALE AND USE OF WHEAT FLOUR SENT OUT

Judge L. H. Reynolds, the Food Administrator of Chilton County, is in receipt of a telegram from State Food Administrator, R. M. Hobbie, stating the terms of the Administration order governing the sale and use of flour by merchants and bakers. The following is the exact expressions of the telegram:

"Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 27, 1918. "Judge L. H. Reynolds, Food Administrator, Clanton, Ala.

"France and England have appealed to America for 75 million bushels of wheat in shape flour. We simply must send it by saving it by substituting. Notify immediately all bakers to begin Monday morning the 28th, to use five per cent mixture other cereals with wheat flour, increasing to twenty per cent by February 24. Penalty for violation is withdrawal of supplies and suspension of license. Notify all merchants, wholesale and retail, must sell one pound other cereal with every pound of flour sold; positively must observe limit of forty-eight pounds to city customers, and ninety-six pounds to country customers. Penalty for violation is withdrawal of flour supplies and suspension of license, wholesale; Withdrawal of supplies of all kinds from retailers. Patriotic appeal from you will be answered by more than ninety-five per cent of bakers and merchants. In protection, these will not hesitate to surely punish violations.

In regard to the matter contained above Judge Reynolds says: "The telegram from Mr. Hobbie explains itself, and I hope that all merchants and bakers, and all others to whom the order applies, will take due notice hereof and be governed accordingly."

"Judge L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.

"Dear Sir:
"Will you please have the newspapers in your county insert a notice asking all owners of corn meal mills, no matter how small their capacity, to register name and exact post office address, giving maximum capacity of mill, with The Federal Food Administrator for Alabama, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala., as quickly as possible. You have, doubtless, noticed the Allies appeal for flour, which can be answered only by our sacrificing a part of our wheat bread and using corn bread. To this end, where local conditions will warrant, we must get the small as well as larger corn meal mills throughout the State to running.

"It is necessary, therefore, that we get in touch with them immediately. Your instant attention will greatly oblige. Please acknowledge receipt. "Yours very truly,
"R. M. HOBBIE,"
U. S. Food Administrator for Ala."

COMMISSIONERS SALE OF JOINT OWNERS PROPERTY

State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a Commission dated the 14 day of January, 1918, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said County, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction, on

The 18th Day of February, 1918, between the hours of 11 o'clock, A.M. and 4 o'clock, P.M., at Clanton, Alabama, in front of the Court House door, the following described property:

MOTHER GAVE THIS DELICATE CHILD VINOL

And He Got Well and Strong. That's True

Monaca, Pa.—"My little boy, who is the youngest of three, was weak, nervous and tired all the time, so he was most unfit at school, and nothing seemed to help him. I learned of Vinol and gave it to him. It has restored his health and strength and he has gained in weight."—Mrs. Frederick Sommers, Monaca, Pa.

Vinol is a constitutional cod liver and iron remedy for delicate, weak, ailing children. Formula on every bottle, so you know what you are giving them. Children love it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

To the Officers and Teachers in the different Sunday Schools of the County:

There will be a meeting at the Clanton High School Building Sunday, February 24th. Four of the state workers will be present and will talk on different departments of the work. A special session of the County officers will be held in one of the class rooms, beginning at 12:30 p.m. Prof. McDonald will speak to the meeting some time during the day. Be sure and come and bring dinner. You will learn something about Sunday School work.

J. B. NORTHCUTT, Pres.,
Miss DELLA WILLIAMS, Secy.

J. Wiley Foshee and wife of Clanton Route 4 were in town Tuesday.

Used successfully a whole year all over the South

BUCKEYE
Blintless
Hulls have been fed by farmers, dairy-men and stock-men throughout the South for the past year. Reports from these feeders indicate that these blintless hulls when properly fed, are a great improvement over the old style hulls.

By actual use, these feeders have found the following advantages of using

BUCKEYE
COTTONSEED
HULLS
BLINTLESS

Every pound of the Buckeye Hulls contains much more food value because the lint on the old style hulls has no food value.

The price per pound of real roughage in the form of Buckeye Hulls is very much less than in the form of the old style hulls. Buckeye Hulls do not clog or flux the digestive tract. Other foods mixed with them are readily assimilated.

They are free of trash and dust.
They are sacked and easy to handle.
They take half as much space in the barn.

If you have not tried Buckeye Hulls, please remember that thousands of feeders are using them and will use no other roughage. If you have not given Buckeye Hulls a fair trial, let the experience of these successful feeders guide you in using them as they should be used.

Mr. Olwey Yarber, Booneville, Ark., has fed a carload of Buckeye Hulls to cows and calves to get them ready for the range. He had been feeding hay and he finds that they did much better on Buckeye Hulls as roughage. He has another car of Buckeye Hulls bought.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by waiting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

MURDER TRIAL SET FOR NEXT SATURDAY

The preliminary trial of Alfred Bevis, charged with the killing of a negro at Jemison last Friday night, is set for next Saturday before Judge Reynolds. Bevis was incriminated by a coroner's jury investigating the killing, and he was arrested by Sheriff Harris and Deputy B. L. Cobb and placed in jail here last Saturday. The negro who was found dead on the railroad, was a brakeman on a freight train. He had been hit over the head with some object and was stabbed in the heart.

The man charged with the killing is a young white fellow, who lives at Jemison, where he is prominently connected.

Oliver Littleton, charged with failure to work the public roads, was fined $1.00 and costs, after entering a plea of guilty before the county court Feb. 1st.

Sanky Littleton, charged with failure to work public roads, was discharged and his case nolle prossed by motion of the solicitor on Feb. 4, on payment of the costs.

Mose Ray, charged with embezzlement, plead not guilty on Feb. 4, and his bond was fixed at $300.00.

Mrs. Ida Leach, charged with petit larceny, was tried Feb. 4, and pronounced not guilty.

J. G. Downs, charged with violating school laws; case nolle prossed by order of solicitor Jan. 26.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people, not only of this community, but from all parts of the county, for the help given us after the cyclone struck our home tearing it to pieces, breaking and damaging the household goods which was a great loss to us. But the good neighbors opened their doors and said, "our home is your home," so we have been well cared for. The Lord was very gracious to us, not one of the family was hurt during the storm.

We are very thankful to the people for helping us build our home back. Some have given money, some lumber and some work. We hope to be able to go back home in a few days. Our prayers are thanking the one who spared our lives and remembering those who have given us the helping hand in time of need.

J. W. P. MURPHY,
AND FAMILY.

POPWELL'S CHICKENS

Mr. L. D. Popwell, who is well known around Clanton as a jeweler, watch-fixer, chicken raiser, and other things, is getting strong on his chicken business here lately. He is having printed a catalogue and descriptive pamphlet dealing with his White Leghorns and Plymouth Rocks. The little booklet is illustrated with splendid pictures of his prize winning chickens. Tell him to give you one of the books and see what he is doing. It will interest you.

OSCE DURBIN DEAD.

News reached Clanton Tuesday of the death of Osce Durbin, a prominent farmer citizen of Fairview. He succumbed to an illness of pneumonia and measles.

The deceased leaves a large family, a number of whom are themselves reported to be sick with measles.

Funeral services for the remains were conducted by Rev. E. C. Maye of Clanton, at Mt. Nebo church on Tuesday.

CIRCUIT COURT NEXT WEEK

The February Term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county will convene here next Monday, Feb. 11th.

This will be the regular jury term at which the grand jury will be in session for its inquiries and deliberations. The recently appointed Solicitor, Hon. J. M. Tucker, who succeeds Mr. Tate, will be in charge of the duties of his position.

Civil cases will be disposed of the first week, and the second will be criminal week.

AUCTION SALE

On Saturday, Feb. 9th, at 1:00 P.M. I will sell at auction to the highest bidder my farming implements, and two Jersey Heifers. Sale to be at Clanton.

J. H. RAY,
W. W. FOX, Auctioneer.

"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE."

County Treasurer, J. Bice, is in receipt of another letter from his son, Stoughton, a member of the U. S. army in France. Following is what he says:

December 30, 1917.

Dear Father:

It is hard for me to express my thanks for the box that came today, if I could only put my exact thoughts into words, then I could make some show at thanking you, the boys and Tom.

Christmas has always been and always will be a time of good cheer and thanksgiving, but never in my life have I ever received anything that did me as much good as that box from home, and as I have already said, words can't express my feelings tonight, but if you could have seen and heard the boys when the Portina box was opened and passed around you would have been amply thanked right there. As far as other news is concerned, of course there is none, except as the days roll by, we continue to get more and more in shape to give the "Huns" more than they are looking for and when it comes our time to face the "Fire" there is not a man in the outfit but what will show his good "Old Southern Blood" and uphold the sacred tradition of our blessed and much beloved South.

I am enjoying the best possible health and hope every one at home the same. Don't forget to write real often whether you hear from me or not.

With love to family and best regards to my friends.

EVERGREEN

Editor Union-Banner:

As I haven't seen anything from this place in the paper for some time, I will try to write you a few items.

We have lots of things down here now—measles, roseola, scarletina, etc.

What about dipping cows in Chilton? It just looks like we are gone if we get in line and dip our cows, so we can get as much for our cattle as the other man. We are just up against a proposition. When I am convinced on anything and see it is best for me and my neighbors, then I think we had better get ourselves right and dip our cattle. Some of our good neighbors say it won't amount to anything with such men as myself, but just to prove it, I want to say that in November, 1917, I had a cow I was offered $65 for. After January 1, 1918, the same man said he would not give me over $45 for the same cow. So you see we have got to get busy or we are gone. We see we can't raise cotton and we have got to turn to something to take its place. The way I see it, we can dip our cattle so they will bring a good price, then we can use our velvet beans to advantage. Velvet beans are good, but we can't make them take the place of cotton, if we have to gather them and sell them at the prices we are able to get for them. I sold my beans in the field last year for more than my land rent. My entire crop was sold to a dealer in cattle. If we can't ship our cattle, we will not have anybody to sell our bean fields to. Then how can we get money out of our beans? There isn't any money in beans if we have to gather and sell them. I have raised them for two years, and a great many of them, and I find that it takes about two-thirds of the crop to get them gathered and to market. This leaves only a very little for the man who grows them. If we have no cotton, and no cows to sell, we are left.

Respectfully,
W. S. BEAIRD.

GOVERNMENT BOOT-LEGGING

Conundrum: When is a law not a law? Answer: When it affects something that a government bureau wants to do. This is prompted by the recent ruling of the legal staff of the Postoffice Department to the effect that the Federal statute which excludes from the mails going into "dry" territory publications which carry advertisements of intoxicating liquors does not apply to such advertisements when they are inserted by the government. The question arose in Baltimore, where newspapers were offered advertisements of an auction sale of liquors seized for violation of the internal revenue law. These advertisements may circulate freely anywhere, Mr. Burleson's lawyers say. Time, the old adage says, was made for slaves. Laws, it would appear, are nowadays made for the people and not for the officers of the law.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PARDON

Notice is hereby given that an application for pardon for Raymond Ferguson will be made to the Governor of Alabama. The defendant was convicted at the Fall term 1913 of the Circuit court of Chilton county, of murder in the first degree and is serving sentence in the penitentiary of Alabama.

W.S.S. WAR SAVINGS STAMPS ISSUED BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

Thrill Stamps and Baby Bonds Sold Where You See the "W. S. S." Sign.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS, JUST WHAT THEY ARE

War-Savings Stamps are issued by the United States Government to defray the costs of war, to induce saving, discourage waste, and inculcate habits of thrift throughout the country.

The Two Denominations.

There are two kinds of War-Savings Stamps—the smaller, called Thrift Stamps, cost 25 cents each; the larger, called War-Savings Stamps, have a maturity value of $5.00 each.

Two Kinds of Cards.

There are also two kinds of cards—a Thrift Card containing spaces for sixteen Thrift Stamps; and a War-Savings Certificate containing spaces for twenty War-Savings Stamps.

Thrift Stamps.

It takes sixteen Thrift Stamps at a quarter each, or $4.00, to fill a Thrift Card. Such a card, plus a few cents in cash (see paragraph following), is exchangeable for a $5.00 War-Savings Stamp.

War-Savings Stamps.

It takes twenty War-Savings Stamps to fill a War-Savings Certificate. A War-Savings Stamp costs $4.12 during the month of January, 1918, and one cent additional each month thereafter, during 1918. On January 1, 1923, the United States will pay $5.00 for each such stamp affixed to a War-Savings Certificate.

Four Per Cent Interest,

Compounded Quarterly.

Should the twenty spaces be filled during January, 1918, the cost would be twenty times $4.12, or $82.40. In five years the certificate would be worth $100.00—showing a net profit to the holder of $17.60. The average issue price of War-Savings Stamps during the year 1918 yields an interest rate of 4 per cent compounded quarterly.

Regulations.

The amount of War-Savings Certificates sold to one person at one time shall not exceed $100.00 (maturity value), and no person may hold War-Savings Certificates to an amount exceeding $1,000.00 (maturity value). This, of course, does not mean that different members of the same family may not each hold $1,000.00 in War-Savings Certificates. These certificates can not be used as money, nor as collateral for a loan. They have, however, a cash surrender value.

Cash Surrender Value.

If the holder of a War-Savings Certificate finds it necessary to realize cash upon it before maturity, he may, at any time after January 2, 1918, upon giving ten days' written notice to any money-order post office, receive for each stamp affixed to his certificate the amount paid therefor, plus one cent for each calendar month after the month of purchase of each stamp. (A registered certificate may be redeemed only at the post office where registered.)

Registration.

The holder of a War-Savings Certificate can have it registered, and the stamps cancelled as soon as they are purchased. Cancellation is simply a protection to the owner and does not affect the value of the stamp. Registration insures the owner against loss or theft.

Where to Buy the Stamps.

Thrift Stamps and War-Savings Stamps are on sale at post offices, banks, and trust companies throughout the United States, and at many department and drug stores, railroad and express offices. Every authorized sales agency displays a War-Savings Stamp sign.

War-Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps are the most secure and safe savings opportunity ever presented to the people of any nation.

VANDERLIP UPGES THE TEACHERS TO PUSH SAVINGS IN SCHOOLS

To the School Principals and Teachers of America:

The school principals and teachers are helping to win this war.

Wars are no longer won on battlefields alone. Victory for our armies, life for our soldiers, depend on the mobilization of our resources.

Labor and material and the enormous sums of money our government must have to provide them—there is the real battle ground—there is where the issue rests—where victory must be assured.

No nation in history has been called upon to provide funds equal to those America must provide for the task which has just begun. The serious, vital task before the nation is to supply the needed funds without injuring commerce and industry, without decreasing that very production which must be vastly increased, that our armies may be supplied.

There is but one way. The nation must save. Every individual must learn and practice the lesson of economy, of self-denial, of saving to the point of sacrifice. Thrift will mean triumph.

Every individual should realize that saving money means saving lives.

The school teachers of America must teach the nation this imperative way to victory—this pre-eminent way to maintain a national strength which will safeguard posterity and advance civilization.

The school teacher is the pioneer outpost of the government, standing at the threshold of the nation's homes. The schools of America are the single units where a national resolution can form and spread overnight into every household.

The school teachers are the rallying ground for the best-loved possession of a country—its children.

To the teachers belong the splendid privilege, the solemn duty of rallying them round the flag and then implanting in their hearts and sending into the homes of America the message which will keep that flag flying high.

The teachers form a mighty agency which can start aright the movement among our children on which the success of our government depends.

We must save money that we may save lives. The educators of America enjoy no greater privilege than that of being able to teach this lesson to the nation; and for the sake of the lives of millions of its finest boys, the educators of America may be depended upon to teach it quickly and well.

With best wishes for success to your efforts, I am, sincerely yours,

F. A. VANDERLIP,
Chairman National War Savings Committee.

A Good Thrift Resolution.

"Daddy," said a little girl of ten, "I'm sorry but I didn't get my Thrift Stamp today. And it's the first day I've missed."

"What did you get instead?" said the Father.

"A chocolate sundae and a new hair ribbon."

"I'm afraid we're both in the same boat, Daughter. I missed out today, too. It's the second time for me, and Mother and I went to the theater last night, besides."

"What shall we do about it, Daddy?"

"I'll tell you what we'll do, both of us. Every time we go on a bust and get hair ribbons and theater tickets and things, let's promise to pay up. We'll save and save and put the same amount into stamps that we spent for the things we could have gone without."

"I guess it's the only fair way, Daddy."

"All right, let's shake."

One day last week a new baby girl arrived at the home of Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Gragg.

Durwood C. Mims of Route 7 came in and subscribed for the Union-Banner last Friday.

DROVE HEADQUARTERS AMBULANCE FOR GEN.

ROBERT E. LEE.

Squire J. J. McDowell of Route 2 was in town last Thursday. This old gentleman is a veteran of the civil war and like all the old men who went through that memorable struggle, he likes to tell his experiences to the younger generation. Talking of his life as a Confederate soldier, he had the following to say:

"Fifty-three years ago, next Sunday morning, Feb. 3, I left the Confederate headquarters at Petersburg, Va., and came home on a furlough. I was at that time driving the headquarters ambulance of Gen. Lee's army. I remember on several occasions I sat beside that famous man in my wagon as he was being taken from his headquarters to the depot or to some position in his lines.

"I was given leave to come home, and I walked the greater part of the distance. The country was torn to pieces from battle and raids. Trains where they ran at all, would not dare run in the night.

"When my brief stay at home was finished, I started on my return to the position which I had left, but I never reached it. I fell in with a company of Confederates, about five hundred in number, at some place in North Carolina, and the whole outfit was captured by the Yankees. We were carried as prisoners to a fort in Ohio, and it was the following June when we were released."

Death of Uriel Williamson

The people of this community as well as the teachers and students of Thorsby Institute were very much shocked to receive on Friday morning of last week the news of the death of Corporal Uriel Williamson at Camp Wheeler.

Corporal Williamson had been a student in Thorsby Institute for three years previous to his enlistment and had spent an entire summer here, so that he was well known throughout the community. His uprightness and faithfulness to duty gained for him the confidence and respect of all who knew him. He was a member of the United Protestant church of Thorsby and was for some time previous to his enlistment in the army Superintendent of its Sunday School. His death came after a minor surgical operation, from which he did not recover as was expected. The funeral was held at his home near Millerville, in Clay County on Sunday February 3. Floral tributes from the Ambulance Company of which he was a member and from the different organizations to which he had belonged in Thorsby testified to the high esteem in which he was held. Representatives of his company and of the faculty and student body of Thorsby Institute were present at the funeral. He was twenty-six years old at the time of his death. Had he survived the operation, he would soon have received his commission as a Sergeant.

The stereopticon slides illustrating the life of Dwight L. Moody which were advertised for two weeks ago but did not arrive in time to be shown at that time, are here and will be shown at the Congregational Church next Sunday night at the evening service.

Mr. A. J. Nugent, who many residents of Thorsby will remember as having charge of the barber shop for a short time, died recently in a hospital in Birmingham.

Louis Sims who is attending high school in Birmingham is at home for a two weeks vacation as a result of the closing of the schools in Birmingham to save fuel.

Mr. Darwin A. Leavitt of Talladega was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Herbert last Sunday. Mr. Leavitt was a College and Seminary friend of Mr. Herbert's.

Have you bought a "Smileage Book" to send to your soldier friend? If not, you will surely want to do so at once. Help to keep Uncle Sam's boys smiling. It's the soldier who goes to the battle with a smile and a song who wins. If you want to know more about the Smileage Books ask any student of Thorsby Institute.

Corporal, John W. Ford, was in Thorsby Tuesday, coming from Millerville, where he was sent as the representative of the 121st Ambulance Co., to attend the funeral of Uriel Williamson.

Mr. R. B. Kicklighter was in Thorsby for Saturday and Sunday. He passed the physical examination before the Draft Board on Friday and expects to report for clerical service in the army February 18th. In the meantime he is taking a review course at Wheeler Business College, Birmingham.

COME TO MT. PLEASANT

Next Sunday, February 10, at 2 o'clock, Dr. A. B. Baxley on suggestion, will discuss the question of "Lord what wilt Thou have me to do?" In view of the fact that many people do not know what the Lord wants them to do, you should come to Mt. Pleasant next Sunday and hear Dr. Baxley, in his forceful way, give the Bible facts in answer to the question that every individual should ask himself.

COME.

ALABAMA DRYS SEEK TO ADOPT THE AMENDMENT

Drys of Alabama under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League, of which Rev. Brooks Lawrence is Superintendent, and with the co-operation of the Anti-Saloon League of America, shortly will begin a campaign for the ratification of the Federal Prohibition amendment.

The first effort toward ratification will be a speaking assignment to be filled with what the League terms the best platform men under its direction. The speaking will begin January 28th and close April 1st. The State League will have charge of the campaign.

Compulsory meetings will be conducted, and every city, village, and hamlet of 250 or more population will be included in the itinerary.

The principal speakers will be former Governor M. R. Patterson, of Memphis, Tennessee; Dr. George W. Young, Confederate veteran and minister, of Louisville, Kentucky; Minor Wallace, Little Rock, Arkansas, former Congressman; Rev. George R. Stuart, of Birmingham; John G. Wooley, veteran reformer, of Madison, Wisconsin; Dr. Ira Landrith, of Boston, Massachusetts; Rev. J. D. McAlister, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Tennessee; Rev. George W. Hammond, of Nashville; and Rev. Joseph Pope, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Montana.

The purpose of this speaking effort is to crystallize sentiment in Alabama, which the drys confidently believe will result in the ratification of the Prohibition amendment by the State Legislature, as three other Southern states already have done, and at the same time to enlist the dry forces of the State in the united movement for ratification by a sufficient number of other states to make the necessary thirty-six.

Rev. Mr. Lawrence assures the people of Alabama that they will have opportunity to hear some of the very best speakers in the United States. He is authority for the statement that these men are in constant demand for similar addresses in other states, and that it was only by the most skillful arrangement on the part of the State League, with the co-operation of the National organization that Alabama was able to get so many good speakers—more, in fact, than are usually sent together into any one state campaign.

STILL GOT THE HABIT

T. J. Dorminey of Stumps Hills has still got his recently acquired habit of coming to Clanton every week. He was down here again Monday. This time he was spinning a big yarn about the ground hog, and the pretty spring weather they have been having in the hills for the past few days. He made it so nice that we could almost hear the sweet song of the jay birds, and smell the fragrance of the blooms from the old plum orchard. They must have a lot of ground hogs in Stumps Hills from the great story of the Hon. T. J.

THE BLAND BRAND

The reputation of Republican Congressman Oscar E. Bland of Indiana as an effective public speaker is such that he has been granted leave of absence from the House until the 1st of February, by unanimous vote of his colleagues, in order that he may make speeches to the people of his State under the direction of the Council of National Defense.

IN MEMORIAM

Appropriate recognition of the services that the late Maj. Gardner rendered the country during his 16-year term in the House of Representatives as Congressman from Massachusetts, and later in the Army, is proposed in a bill introduced by Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois, a leading Republican of the Naval Affairs Committee. The measure directs the Secretary of the Navy to name one of the new torpedo boat destroyers the "Augustus P. Gardner," and to keep in the naval service, as long as such craft form part of our fleets, a destroyer of that name. Boats of that class are customarily named from prominent men in the naval or military history of the country, and the proposition of Mr. Britten is quite within the rules of the Navy Department in that regard.

"And verily, the old order changeth." Such pastimes as golfing and yachting have been suspended in this section by the later practices of "Gar-fielding" and "Hooverizing."

The central office of the Peoples
Telephone Co., this week is some swell affair. All the operators have got the mumps. Better stay away from the phone for a while—you may catch it.

More than two hundred plants and more than two hundred million dollars are now engaged in the American dye industry. So long as the war lasts, these plants, these dollars and the thousands of men who are given employment will have the American market to themselves. After the war, they will meet competition—chiefly from Germany. How shall that competition be minimized? By a protective tariff, of course. But to get such a tariff it will be necessary first of all to elect a Congress which believes in a protective tariff.

Sheriff Harris says that he and other county officials have recently received various communications from citizens in regard to misdemeanors and violations of the law, with no name given to indicate the persons making the reports.

All who send in such information to the officials are of course doing an act worthy and commendable but they should give their names in order that the officials might be better prepared to fulfill their duties in the prosecution of the violations.

The Sheriff particularly requests that all who send him any information pertaining to violations of the law, sign their names to their communications. Such matters will be treated with the utmost confidence always. By complying with these requests those who would help the authorities by making these reports, will help much more when they sign their names to what they write.

NEW QUESTIONNAIRE

Do you crack peanuts with a flat iron?
Do you use you overalls for pajamas?
Do you look down the barrel of a gun to see if it is loaded?
Can you wiggle one ear at a time?
Which hand do you button your suspenders with?
Have you any conscientious scruples against killing time?
What effect did the draft have on your feet?
Would the fellow who eats with his knife need more elbow room in the trench?
Do you gargle your soup?
Has there been any artillery action in your family since the cook was fired?—Tuscaloosa News.

THE REAL REMEDY

That the present administration has proven unequal to the war task is so generally admitted by the best authorities, that it now requires no discussion. The only problem now involves the finding of a remedy. The suggestions now before Congress are the establishment of a Department of Munitions and the creation of a war council, or super-cabinet, the personnel of the new war agencies to be selected by the President, with confirmation by the Senate.

Manifestly, these suggestions do not reach the root of the trouble. President Wilson had the selection of the members of his present cabinet, and the appointment of all the bureau heads, commissions and boards. Presumably, he has called to his aid the men who, in his opinion, were best able to serve the country. Presumably, also, he is satisfied with the kind of service they have rendered. In fact, he has said so.

To authorize him to appoint a new body either superior or subordinate to the present cabinet, accomplishes little. Such appointment would produce no men of greater capacity or of materially different policies. The real remedy is not new appointments by the President but the creation of a joint, bi-partisan Congressional Committee which shall sit daily, study war problems, and make suggestions to the President and the members of his cabinet.

There is just as much patriotism in the halls of Congress as there is in the White House or the Administrative Departments, and there is vastly more ability. What this country needs, what the Allies need, and what real democracy needs, is a practical coordination and cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of the government.

"COMPLETED" CANTONMENTS

The President meets all criticism of the War Department by saying that we should look at the great things that have actually been accomplished
instead of magnifying the incompetence that is manifest in what he is pleased to term unimportant matters.
One of the feats of the Department that is held before the eyes of the people to illustrate the almost superhuman difficulties that have been overcome is the building of the army cantonments last summer, and their completion in time to receive the first increment of the National Army. The country is regaled with imposing statistics giving the number of million feet of lumber used in their construction, the number of buildings, the number erected each day or hour, etc.
The stories are calculated to arouse tremendous enthusiasm among our citizens as showing the zeal and energy displayed by the directors of the war at Washington in getting our forces into shape.

But letters are beginning to come back from the boys in these cantonments and facts are being brought out by the investigating committees of Congress, showing that the camps are far from complete, and in fact lack the very essentials to make them decently habitable. It appears that the construction and equipment of hospital facilities was deferred until the very last, and then the contractors were so eager to leave the work that scarce attention was given to the medical needs of the camps. The hospital buildings in many cases were constructed of boards that are now drying out and opening large cracks, ventilators in the roofs are leaking,
septicizing apparatus is lacking, there is an insufficiency of surgical instruments, operating rooms are so constructed as to preclude thorough cleansing or disinfecting, and, to cap
the climax, some of the hospitals are today without water and sewerage systems.

Much more might be written about other features of the camps to show that the rosy stories of "completed" cantonments should be taken with several grains of salt, but the distressing letters that are being received daily by devoted and patriotic parents
all over the land bear stronger witness than any printed matter can possibly convey of the heart rending conditions to which our soldier boys have been subjected, which until recently have been kept securely under cover, thanks to the censorship of the War Department.

S. S. MEETING TO BE HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL ON FEB. 24th.

The executive committee of the Chilton county Sunday school association urges every county and district officer every Sunday school superintendent, and others who are interested in the Sunday school work, to be present at this meeting to be held at the County High School Building at Clanton, on Feb. 24, 1918.

We will have those who have solved
the problems that so many of our schools are trying to solve and they will be glad to tell us how we can do it ourselves.

Some time during the day everybody present will have an opportunity to speak. Sunday school superintendents and teachers come to the meeting with your troubles. Mr. Palmer, Prof. McDonald and others will help you.

Calling for bigger yields of all crops. The world of farm products the South can furnish, and is selling at handsome prices for them. Never before has the farmer had such a golden opportunity to serve his country and at the same time build his own fortune.

Intelligent fertilization of every acre in cultivation is more necessary now than ever before, because each acre should be made to yield its utmost. This cannot be done unless the proper class and quantities of fertilizers are used. Low producing acres and inferior fertilizers constitute an inexcusable and unpatriotic waste.

The MORRIS BRANDS resist leaching, prevent shedding, and hasten fruitful maturity of the crop. Only the best class of materials enter into their manufacture. That's why they always give universal satisfaction.

THE NEW GAME; HELP WIN WAR

HOW ALABAMA CHILDREN ARE HELPING UNCLE SAM
IN THIS WAR

The children of Alabama are playing a new game, "Help Win the War." The beauty about this game is nobody can lose in it and everybody in the wide world is the gainer by it.

Another name of the game is "Thrifty," and you play it with Thrift Stamps and War-Savings Stamps generally known as "Baby Bonds." The way you play it is to get enough Thrift Stamps to buy a "Baby Bond." The Thrift Stamps cost 25 cents apiece. When you buy a Thrift Stamp they paste it on a card which has sixteen spaces on it, and when you have filled up these spaces you will have saved $4.00. Then you take your card to the post office, bank, store or any other place where they sell Thrift Stamps and "Baby Bonds," and they will give you a "Baby Bond" for it after you paid them the difference between your $4.00 and the selling price of the "Baby Bond." This selling price increases a cent every month during the year. For instance, in February it is $4.13; in March it will be $4.14 and so on. Five years from now Uncle Sam will give you $5.00 for that "Baby Bond" and your money will have earned 4 per cent interest every year compounded every quarter in the year.

"Where is the fun in this game," you ask, "and how does it benefit everybody in the world?"

It's Grand—This Work.

We will answer the last question first. You know that the United States is now in the biggest war the world has ever seen. This war, it is hoped, will end wars forever, and men will quit killing each other on the battle field. It takes a vast amount of money to win this war, and Uncle Sam is saying to his boys and girls in Alabama, and all over the country, "Lend me your pennies, nickels, dimes and dollars to help me conquer the Kaiser. You are sure to get your money back with some nice interest for good measure."

Now isn't it a grand thing for a boy or a girl to know that he or she is helping the greatest country on earth to straighten out the world so that everybody in all the nations can live peacefully hereafter? Why, you just can't stay out of this game. You can't feel right on the outside. That's the reason it grips you and the longer you play it the happier you are.

And it's Great Fun.

As for the fun in it, the fun makes itself as the game goes on. Every minute you are in it is a brighter minute for you, because you feel that you are doing something boys and girls never had a chance to do before. And then there is the keen pleasure of seeing how fast your Thrift Stamps will grow into "Baby Bonds," and, also, how many Thrift Stamps and "Baby Bonds" you can sell to your grown-up friends, for Uncle Sam wants you to be salesman for him as well as one of his soldiers of thrift.

By the way, these Thrift Stamps are the easiest things in the world to sell—a baby can do it, almost. Little Sadie Louise Morris, in Demopolis, who is only six years old, has already sold more than $100 worth of Thrift Stamps—not to father and mother, mind you, but to folks on the outside. And Sadie says she has just begun. We are sure you won't let Sadie "shame" you.

The best way to play this game is to join one of the Thrift Societies which are being organized in the schools all over the State. There may be one already in your school. If not, there soon will be, and your teacher can tell you all about it.

What Tuscaloosa "Kids" Are Doing.
In Tuscaloosa the school children are playing this game for all it is worth. The City National Bank there started them off by offering prizes of "Baby Bonds" to the pupils who made the best showings on Thrift Stamps. You should have seen those children getting busy. The rule was that the boys and girls had to earn the money with which to buy their first Thrift Stamp. Notice how some of them did it:

Little Jimmie Moseley swept the house, fed the chickens, swept the yard and ran errands for his quarter.

Mary Wilson Jones hemmed curtains, embroidered baby comforts made a knitting bag and sold home made curtains.

Frances McNair did some shopping for mother after school and earned a quarter with which to buy her first Thrift Stamp. Ernest Bell sold papers one cold morning. Dan Morgan sold old medicine bottles and ran errands. Doris Wood carried coal, ran errands and washed dishes. Sol Blum cleaned his brother's room for a week. Mary Grey Morton waited on mother when she was sick in bed. Margine Welsh helped mother with her morning work before school. Morton Ayres cut kindling for mother and ran errands for sister.

And so on and so on. These are just suggestions. Any bright boy or girl can think out the way to earn a quarter with which to buy his or her first Thrift Stamp. After that, the fun really begins—you are in the game "for keeps."

"BRECK" MUSGROVE THROWS BOMB INTO LOCAL OPTION CAMP

Walker County "Hill Billy" Requests Gov. Henderson
To Assemble Legislature to Ratify or Reject Dry Amendment.

WETS MUST NOW PUT UP OR SHUT UP

Would Avoid Divisive Issues, Unite Alabamians and Concentrate Fighting Energy on Germany

L. B. Musgrove.

Hon. Charles Henderson, Governor of Alabama: Montgomery, Alabama.

My Dear Governor:

In view of the fact that a number of newspapers published in our State, as well as many good and reputable citizens, are making the charge that the unsettled and unsatisfactory conditions existing and prevailing in our State are directly chargeable to the prohibitionists, assigning as the reason that they (the prohibitionists) have during the past many years made prohibition the paramount issue and have in season and out of season sought to advance this cause and keep this issue before the people of the State of Alabama and the nation to the exclusion of other equally important questions, and in view of the further fact that we are engaged in a world-wide war, and in deference to the belief and opinion of many of these good people that divisive issues should be avoided, I address you this letter, requesting and urging you to call together the legislature of our State in special session for the specific purpose of ratification or rejection of the national constitutional prohibition amendment, in order that the question of prohibition may no longer be an issue in this State in the coming campaign.

I am conscious that this method of procedure will be challenged, and the claim made that it is not in keeping with precedents, and is out of the ordinary way of settling questions of such vital importance. Anticipating this, I want to say, we are not as a people living in an ordinary age or under ordinary conditions, and in view of this and the further fact that there continues to come to us our country's urgent call that every single unit of power be conserved and given in its struggle for the principles of democracy, and in accepting the justness and truthfulness of this, our country's call, I cannot conceive of any privilege or right that is ours that could so materially make our beloved State a more potent factor in the winning of victory for the right in this struggle than the placing in our organic law the nation-wide prohibition amendment, thereby, forever settling the question and guaranteeing to our nation for the future a sober manhood and a citizenship prepared and equipped for efficient service.

You may perhaps hesitate in taking this step because of the depleted condition of the State treasury, and as you might not feel justified in causing the State to incur any financial obligations that might be avoided, I hereby promise and obligate myself for the friends and advocates of nation-wide prohibition, to pay into the general fund of the State an amount equal to the expenses incurred for such time as may be necessary for the legislature to consider and pass upon the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States favoring nation-wide prohibition.

In common with the prohibitionists of our State, I have not the slightest doubt of our ability to win in the coming election, supported as we are by the almost solid and united forces of the moral, Christian and temperance people of this State, we will elect a legislature favorable to the ratification of the prohibition amendment and ratify the same on the assembling of the legislature.

In closing, I beg to say that no prohibition organization is in any way responsible for this letter. It is written entirely on my own motion, and I assume all the obligations involved.

Trusting that this letter may receive your careful consideration, and that I may hear from you in the very near future, I am,

Most respectfully,
Jasper, Ala., Jan. 21.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

LONG STAPLE COTTON IS THE COTTON FOR THE FARMER

I have tried it for two years and find that it grows and fruits well in this climate. I planted two seed in 1915 made one pound of seed cotton. Hand picked the cotton and dropped those seed in 1916 and made one hundred pounds of seed cotton, thereby giving two bushels of seed and thirty pounds of lint. In 1917 with the two bushels of seed I planted four acres fertilized with cotton seed meal and phosphate; about three hundred pounds to the acre and cultivated shallow. Made two bales and shipped it to Coosa Mfg. Co., Piedmont. The freight was $2.25 a bale and I got 38 cents for one bale and 37½ for the other.

I have a limited amount of seed for sale at Taylor Bros' poultry house at $2.50 per bushel, also will have stalks of cotton to show how it grows and fruits.

As the time has come when we must plant more grain crops and less cotton it will be better to raise a better staple therefore getting $40 to $50 per bale more for long staple than short staple.

Catarrh is a Real Enemy and Requires Vigorous Treatment

Do Not Neglect It.

When you use medicated sprays, atomizers and douches for your Catarrh, you may succeed in unstopping the choked-up air passages for the time being, but this annoying condition returns, and you have to do the same thing over and over again. Catarrh has never yet been cured by these local applications. Have you ever experienced any real benefit from such treatment?

Throw these makeshift remedies to the winds, and get on the right treatment. Go to your drug store to-day, get a bottle of S. S. S., and commence a treatment that has been praised by sufferers for nearly half a century. S. S. S. gets right at the source of Catarrh, and forces from the blood the germs which cause the disease. You can obtain special medical advice regarding your own case without charge by writing to Medical Director, 22 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

SPEND THE DAY PARTY

A most unique and wholly delightful affair was the spend the day party given by the Womens Missionary Society of the Methodist church, at the rooms of the Red Cross Tuesday. Knitting and sewing was the order of the day, and much good work was accomplished by these earnest patriotic women. At noon a lovely lunch was served, Mrs. Splawn proving a most delightful hostess.

Another pleasant feature of the day was the presence of Miss Upshaw, Field Secretary of the Gulf Division of the Red Cross, who gave encouragement and inspiration to all.

The following ladies were present: Mesdames Spigener, Splawn, Will Reynolds, L. H. Reynolds, J. C. Jones, Macy Jones, Luckie, McSwain, Maye, Killebrew, B. E. Jones, Kicker, Vanderveer, Adams, Phillips, Curry, Bowen Jones, Nix, Broadhead, and the Rev. E. C. Maye.

The Red Cross will sell 5 and 10 cent sandwiches and coffee or chocolate Saturday, Feb. 9th, at Clanton Hardware 2nd door. The sandwiches will be made of war bred and every one is cordially invited to sample these delicious breads. Thirty-five pounds of wool for the making of sixty sweaters is expected daily.

The party at Mrs. Hugh Jones netted $12 and much fun for those present.

Dreadful Cough Cured.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

Food Facts

Recent Regulations Promulgated by Order of the Food Administration.

The 1918 Home Card.

The Home Card for 1918 is being sent out. It is similar to the first one, but has the new rulings and requests made necessary by the increased needs of our associates in the war. It has the emblem of the Food Administration, flanked by these words, "Trade where you see this emblem," and "Eat where you see this emblem." It says, "Have TWO WHEATLESS DAYS (Monday and Wednesday) in every week, and ONE WHEATLESS MEAL IN EVERY DAY. Have ONE MEATLESS DAY (Tuesday) in every week and ONE MEATLESS MEAL in every day. Have TWO PORKLESS DAYS (Tuesday and Saturday) in every week. Make every day a FAT-SAVING DAY (butter, lard, lard-substitutes, etc.) Make every day a SUGAR-SAVING DAY. Use FRUITS, VEGETABLES and POTATOES abundantly. Use MILK wisely. HOARDING FOOD: Any one buying and holding a larger supply of food now than in peace time, except foods canned, dried or preserved in the home, is helping to defeat the Food Administration in its attempt to secure a just distribution of food and the establishment of fair prices. The food hoarder is working against the common good and even against the very safety of the country. Hoarding food in households is both selfish and unnecessary; the Government is protecting the food supply of its people. Loyalty in little things is the foundation of the national strength. DISLOYALTY IN LITTLE THINGS GIVES AID TO THE ENEMY. KEEP THE PLEDGE. Be sure that you sign the pledge and get a card. Your County Administrator will have them for distribution.

Corn Mills to Be Registered.

All owners of corn meal mills in Alabama, no matter how small the output may be, are requested to register their name and postoffice address with the statement of the maximum capacity of the mill, with R. M. Hobbie, Food Administrator for Alabama, Bell Bldg., Montgomery, Ala. In calling for this information, Mr. Hobbie says, "You have, doubtless, noticed the appeal of the Allies for flour, which can be answered only by our sacrificing a part of our wheat bread and using cornbread, where local conditions will warrant. We must get the small as well as the larger corn meal mills throughout the state running." This information should be sent by each miller as soon as he sees this request.

How to Purchase Flour.

Under the new rules, all retailers must sell a pound of other cereal with every pound of wheat flour sold to consumers. Realizing that in many sections of Alabama, the farmers and small consumers who have access to corn grinding mills, may have on hand supplies of corn meal or may be obtaining such supplies by carrying corn to the mill from time to time, an exception has been made to the rule so that consumers who have on hand an equal weight of substitutes to the flour sought to be purchased, will not be required to buy more of them, provided they will sign a certificate stating that fact. The substitutes to be sold or used pound for pound with wheat flour are as follows: Barley flour, buckwheat flour, corn meal, corn flour, corn starch, corn grits, hominy, oatmeal, potato flour, rice, rice flour, rolled oats, soya bean flour, sweet potato flour, feterita flours and meals and temporarily Irish and sweet potatoes. All retail stores will have these certificates on hand and purchasers must sign them in order to obtain flour. The Food Administration realizes that this is some trouble and inconvenience, but it is the only way proper records can be kept and all citizens are urged to help their Government by cheerfully complying with this request.

Feeds Put Under License.

By proclamation of the President, which takes effect February 15th, livestock and poultry feeds are placed under the supervision of the Food Administration, in addition to bran, cottonseed products and other staple commodities already so controlled. All persons, firms and associations handling feeds, are required to secure a license from the United States Food Administration, except farmers, gardeners, co-operative associations, livestock farmers and retailers whose sales do not exceed $100,000 annually. The purpose of the control is to prevent speculation and hoarding, to stabilize prices and secure distribution through most direct channels.

Food Administration Will Aid Hog Men.

Mr. Hoover says in Bulletin No. 10: "I realize that under certain conditions a lack of confidence in the stability of market prices may act as a deterrent. And further that this may sometimes come from a failure to glimpse an opportunity before one. I therefore wish to make this positive statement: that, so far as the United States Food Administration is able, through its influence on the purchase of pork and its products for exportation, it will do all within its power to see that prices of pork are maintained in a ratio to feed prices that will cover not only costs of production, but proper remuneration to the producer.

By a system of license control on manufacturers and distributors the Food Administration will further help the producers. This system will tend toward the abolition of speculation, the punishment of profiteering, and the assurance that the consumer receives the product at a fair ratio of the producer's price, and that, vice versa, the producer receives a fair interpretation of the consumer's payment. All of these measures, I believe, offer a new hope for agriculture.

The farmer wants a square deal in giving his services, and with every power we have we intend to see that he gets it."

ONLY FARMERS TO USE CORNMEAL CERTIFICATES

Richard Hobbie Says Merchants Must Vouch for Their Correctness

In reference to the farmers' certificate, which permits the farmer who already has cornmeal, to buy wheat flour without buying cornmeal in addition, Richard Hobbie, U. S. Food Administrator for Alabama, said yesterday:

"I hope that every traveling man going out into the State this week will carry the information to the country merchant that the burden of proof for the correctness of each of these farmers' certificates lies with the merchant.

"If the merchant takes a false certificate from a farmer, or a certificate from one who is not a farmer, then the merchant can be, and will be cut off from further supplies of flour. The country merchant knows all his farmer customers and he knows when one makes a false certificate to the effect that he has cornmeal at his house. And he knows what men are or are not farmers. It is probable that virtually none of the farmers will make out the certificate falsely. It is possible, now and then, for some one not a farmer to make out a certificate for the purpose of getting wheat flour without buying a pound of cornmeal or some other cereal with every pound of wheat flour.

"These certificates are for farmers only, and for farmers who actually have cornmeal in their homes. The Food Administration's ruling that every person buying a pound of wheat flour must buy in addition a pound of some other cereal, is a vital necessity to conserving the limited wheat supply of the nation for our allies and for ourselves.

Only for Farmers

"We have interpreted this ruling not to apply to farmers of Alabama who have and who are using cornmeal in their homes. To force a farmer to buy corn meal with every pound of wheat flour he buys, when he already has corn meal at home, would mean forcing the farmer to buy something for which we have created a bigger market in the towns for the farmer. So these farmers' certificates are for farmers who have corn meal and who are using it in their homes—the certificates are not for town folks or for anybody except farmers who have corn meal at home.

Must Depend On Farmers.

"In signing these certificates the farmer becomes really a part of the Food Administration. He pledges himself to have two wheatless days a week and a wheatless meal every day. It is through what the farmers do that our country and our allies hope for early victory. The farmers of Alabama are asked to grow this year as much corn as they can for our own people, so that we can send that much more wheat to our boys in France, and to the French and English armies in France, to the starving peoples of Belgium and England.

Co-Operation of Farmers.

"The Food Administration's plan of requiring everybody to buy a pound of some other cereal with every pound of wheat flour makes a ready cash market for every pound of surplus corn that can be raised in Alabama, and in other parts of the United States. Naturally the farmer who has raised corn, who has it ground into meal for his own use and to sell, and who has cornmeal in his home is not required to buy a pound of cornmeal with every pound of wheat flour he buys. Therefore he signs the certificate to the effect that he has cornmeal in his home in sufficient quantities and is using it. He further pledges himself to observe two wheatless days a week and one wheatless meal each day.

Burden of Proof on Merchant.

"We have not looked for farmers to sign these certificates falsely. But we do realize that there is a temptation, on the part of those who are not corn-raising, meal-owning farmers, to sign one of these farmers' certificates. Therefore the burden of the truthfulness is upon the country merchant. So I hope every traveling man in Alabama will make himself a committee of one to give this information to the country merchant, which will also be given him through the County Food Administrator in each county.

Is Real Patriotism.

"The certificates are farmers' certificates only for farmers who have cornmeal in their homes. Everybody else in the State who buys wheat flour must buy in addition a pound of some other cereal with every pound of wheat flour. In this state the other cereal is most always cornmeal. The people are coming to understand that cutting down on the use of wheat flour is absolutely necessary to supplying our own armies and our Allies with food and at the same time carefully distributing wheat flour to our own people. Every loyal citizen, who realizes that this is necessary to victory will follow this rule cheerfully and without criticism. If each one of us will realize that in buying the pound of cornmeal or

Reynolds Gets Telegram.

In regard to the use of the certificate for the purchase of flour without the purchase of other cereals, Judge Reynolds is in receipt of the following telegram from Mr. Hobbie:

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 3, 1918.
L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala.

A few reports are coming in that consumers other than farmers are using the farmers certificate to secure flour, and that a few farmers are abusing it. Please investigate and warn all retailers that the burden is theirs if they deliver flour without substitute to consumer other than a farmer or on incorrect or false certificate. Not only will wholesalers be instructed to not sell violators but they will be cut off from all food supplies. Then if violations do not cease, the farmers certificate will be revoked. Please rush this information to all retailers. HOBIE.

POTATOES CANNOT BE USED AS A FLOUR SUBSTITUTE.

Judge Reynolds has received a telegram from Mr. Hobbie relating to the sale of potatoes with flour as a substitute. The following are the words of the message:

"Effective Monday morning, Feb. 11th, withdraw Irish and sweet potatoes as substitute for flour."

This means that no longer can the retail merchant sell Irish and sweet potatoes along with flour as was the allowance of the first order. From now on it will be strictly cereals to be sold in equal quantities with the flour bought.

"SILVER TEA" ENTERTAINMENT

A lovely affair of the week was that given at the home of Mrs. Annie Killebrew Monday afternoon, when Mrs. Mallie White's circle of Womens Missionary Society of the Methodist church entertained at "Silver Tea." The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion in lovely tones of red, and everything was perfect in detail.

Delightful music was rendered during the afternoon by Misses Winnie Reynolds, Dovie Roper, Roberta Curry, and Glennie Evans, with Miss Myrtle Reynolds at the piano.

Mrs. Killebrew, in her usual attractive manner, received the guests, assisted by her charming daughters, Mrs. Joe Vanderveer, Jr., and Miss Conradine Lane. Many friends called during the afternoon and evening, and a nice sum was realized for the parsonage.

John Armstrong, of the quarter-masters corps of the army, has been transferred from Jacksonville, Fla., to Montgomery.

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Mary J. Irvin, of Cullen, Va., writes: "About 11 years ago, I suffered untold misery with female trouble, bearing-down pains, headache, numbness... I would go for three weeks almost bent double... My husband went to Dr. for Cardui... After taking about two bottles I began going around and when I took three bottles I could do all my work." E-80

100 per cent. Roughage

BUCKEYE HULLS are real roughage in every particle. They are free of everything that has no value as forage. They are free of lint. They are free of trash. They are free of dirt and dust. When you buy

TRADE MARK
BUCKEYE
COTTONSEED
LINTLESS

you are paying for nothing but roughage, and you are feeding your stock nothing that is worthless or injurious. Buckeye Hulls look like a real feed and are a real feed. Their very appearance will convince you that you should use them.

Even if Buckeye Hulls cost as much as old style hulls it would still be to your advantage to use them. Selling at several dollars per ton less, they put old style hulls beyond consideration.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls allow better assimilation of other food. They mix well with other forage. They are sacked—easy to handle. Every pound goes farther. They take half the space for storage. 2000 pounds of real roughage to the ton—not 1500.

Mr. S. L. Jones, Jackson, La., says:

"I have been feeding my dairy cows Buckeye Hulls and find that they do as well on Buckeye Hulls as on old style and that they like the Buckeye Hulls better than the old style."

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feedings. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Half Your Living
Without Money CostWe are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in the 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."Even at present high prices no one
can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy
food and grain at present prices from
supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton
prices.It's a time above all others to play
safe; to produce all possible food,
grain and forage supplies on your own
acres; to cut down the store bill.A good piece of garden ground,
rightly planted, rightly tended and
kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It
will save you more money than you
made on the best three acres of cotton
you ever grew!Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put
in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. It's FREE. Send for it today to H. G.

A SHORT TALK TO THE PEOPLE OF ALABAMA ABOUT THRIFT
STAMPS AND "BABY BONDS"This War Cannot Be Won Unless We Quit Buying the Things
We Do Not Really Need and Thus Give the Manufacturing Plants of the United States All the Material, Labor and Time They Need to Fill Uncle Sam's Gigantic Order for Nineteen Billion Dollars Worth of War Supplies.

WE CAN ALL HELP DO THIS

By Stopping the Little Leaks in Our Pockets and Putting the Money We Save Into Thrift Stamps and "Baby Bonds"— What "Thrift Stamps" and "Baby Bonds" Are—Where and How They Can Be Bought.

SAVE FOR YOUR COUNTRY AND SELF

By Crawford Johnson, Alabama State Director
National War Savings CommitteeThe campaign for the sale of two billion dollars worth of War Savings Stamps during the year 1918 is now in full swing in Alabama and every other state in the union.Every man, woman and child should buy these stamps and push the sale of them for three reasons:First: Because the money raised in this way will help our government to buy more food, clothing, arms and ammunition for our soldiers. When you save and buy these stamps you are really helping to save the lives of our men in the trenches.Second: Because the money you put into these stamps will be money which you have been spending for things not absolutely necessary to life and health—things which you can dispense with and must dispense with if this war is to be won. Mr. Vanderlip tells us the war will be lost unless the government can buy for strictly war purposes nineteen billion dollars worth of supplies and goods of all kinds—the list includes everything necessary to keep our soldiers fit for fighting and give them the means with which to fight victoriously. This is the greatest demand ever made upon the manufacturing and transportation resources of any nation in any period of the world's history. There are very few manufacturing plants in any period of the world's history. There are very few States which will not be called upon, either directly or indirectly, to aid the government in filling this gigantic order.

We Must Face the Truth.

Anyone can see that these factories cannot run on government work and continue to supply us with luxuries and comforts as they have been doing in times of peace. If these government orders are not filled, Germany may rule the world, including Alabama. That is the naked truth and we must face it.So, whenever you deny yourself something which you can get along without and buy war Savings Stamps with the money thus saved you have done two things for your country—
you have lent it money with which to carry on the war and you have given the manufacturers and railroads that much more time and opportunity to fill and deliver the orders which are so vitally essential to the success of the United States and our allies.Third: Because the thrift habit which you will form in saving money and lending to the government will stick to you long after the war is over.
It will make you more prosperous and contented, a more valuable citizen; a better man, woman, boy or girl, as the case may be. And while it is doing this for you, it will be doing this for everybody who wants to help the government and to be helped in living more sensibly; and this great nation will come out of the struggle stronger than ever—this will be the best country the sun can shine on.

"Fall Into Ranks."

I do not consider it necessary to say any more to get you interested and enlisted in this grand thrift campaign. Thousands of Alabamians are already buying thrift stamps and war savings stamps. Possibly you are one of these; if not, "fall into the ranks"—
join this great army of savers today.
Let each one do his part whether that be a $5.00 bond or the limit of $1000
which can be bought during January for $824.00.It is easy. Just go to the postoffice, the bank or any store or any public place where you see the sign "W. S. S.
For Sale Here," and there you can buy a war saving stamp or $5.00 "Baby Bond" for $4.12 if you are reading this in January. In February the price will be $4.13, and it will go up a cent
every month during the year 1918.
The government will pay you $5.00 for that "Baby Bond" in 1923 and that means that your money will have been earning interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum compounded every quarter in the year. If you should really need your money at any time before then all you have to do is to go to the postoffice and give proper notice and you will receive it back withJohn Patton, Jr., of Jemison was in Clanton Tuesday on business.2 per cent interest for the time the government has had it.

"Baby Bonds"—Thrift Stamps.

When you buy your first war savings stamp (or "Baby Bond"), they will paste it in a folder called "U. S.
War Savings Certificate." There are twenty spaces in this folder and you can keep on buying "Baby Bonds" until you get all these spaces filled in.
Five years from now the government will pay you $100 for that certificate, and you will have a profit of $17.50.
Just one war savings stamp, however,
pasted on this savings certificate makes you the owner of a "Baby Bond,"
which is as good as any bond ever issued by the United States and better than any other bonds on earth.I think I hear you say—especially if you are a boy or girl: "I haven't got $4.12. The most I can save at any one time is a quarter." Well, Uncle Sam has thought it out for you.
Take that quarter to the postoffice,
bank or any other place where you see the "W. S. S." sign and say, "I want to buy a thrift stamp." They will give you the stamp pasted on a folder with sixteen spaces on it. When you have filled these spaces with thrift stamps, take your folder back, with 12 or 13 or 14 cents—whatever the war savings stamps are selling at during that month—and they will give you a war saving stamp or "Baby Bond"
pasted on the War Savings Certificate I have been talking about. Could anything be easier or simpler?

The Real Pleasure of Saving.

Right here I wish to say that a great many grown-up folks in Alabama, as well as the boys and girls, are finding it is great "fun" to save their pennies, nickels and dimes, buy thrift stamps with them and then turn these stamps into "Baby Bonds." Try it yourself and you will soon see how much real satisfaction and pleasure are coming to you. I would like to tell you what many bright boys and girls are doing to earn quarters with which to buy thrift stamps and I think I shall write a story about them pretty soon.Alabama has been asked by Mr. Mc-Adoo, United States Treasurer, to buy $48,000,000 worth of War Savings stamps this year. That is a very large sum of money, but this state has never failed to respond to every call upon her patriotism. She is sending her young men right along to the war,
and we want to see them properly cared for and equipped. This money will do that in the ways I have pointed out and I feel sure we will raise
it. But there must be no slackers. All of us—white and black, young and old, rich and poor—must do our share in raising this money for Uncle Sam.
Don't put off doing your part—the year is passing away very fast. Begin today by buying one thrift stamp, if you cannot do any more. That is a good start and the old saying is "A good start is half the battle." Remember we are fighting to make this world safe for all; we are trying to stop war forever.The substantial men of the coming years will be those who had the saving habit when they were young. Uncle Sam is not too busy in this greatest of wars to forget his coming manhood. He wants a more prosperous and independent people for the future
—hence War-Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps. Buy them to show your appreciation.Let the noise of dollars and quarters pouring into the United States treasury announce to the world that this country is united. Buy War-Savings Stamps.This is a war of equipment. Men are essential, but without equipment
the men are useless. Help supply such material by purchasing War-Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps.This war is important enough for men to die for. Isn't it important enough to you to save as many lives
as possible by purchasing War-Savings Stamps?G. W. Wilson of Route 2 was here

For The Mother

Maternity is a crisis in a woman's life that should be safe-guarded with extreme care. The safe, penetrating external preparation, "Mother's Friend," has been prepared for over three generations, especially for expectant mothers. By its use stretching pains are avoided. The abdominal muscles relax easily when baby is born and this naturally makes for infinitely less pain and danger at the crisis.
Ask for a bottle at your drug store today and write for interesting free book,
"Motherhood and the Baby." Simply address The Bradford Regulator Co., Dept.
D, 300 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga. Do not go a single night without applying
"Mother's Friend"; it is the greatest kind of help to nature.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mr. W. M. Parnell, who was postmaster in Thorsby until he was called into the army last October, spent a few days in Thorsby this week. He returned to Camp Wheeler Thursday.

Mr. Joe Myrick, a student in Thorsby Institute, returned to Thorsby Friday of last week from a visit to his home near Deatsville.

The Thorsby postoffice has been moved recently from the first floor of the Masonic Hall to the building which was at one time used for the Union State Bank of Thorsby.

Misses Smith and Slayton, two teachers of Thorsby Institute, spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham.

Rev. J. M. Graham of the Atlanta Theological Seminary spent Saturday and Sunday here at home with his family.

Miss Odie Lee Arthur, a student of Thorsby Institute, returned to Thorsby Monday after spending a week at her home near Midland City Ala.

The Queen Esther and the Loyal Helpers Sunday School classes of the Congregational Church were entertained last Friday night by their teachers, Miss Elizabeth Hoopes and Mr. D. J. Flummer, at a social held at the home of Mr. Flummer. All present enjoyed the evening very much.

Miss Upshaw, of New Orleans, La., representing the Gulf Branch of the American Red Cross, accompanied by Mesdames Collier, Gowan, Thomas, Jones and Splawn of Clanton, was in Thorsby Thursday of last week helping the Thorsby Branch of the Chilton county Chapter to perfect its organization. The Thorsby Branch has 66 members at present and expects to increase that number soon.

Miss Payne, Houskeeper at the Girls' Dormitory, was in Verbena Friday of last week and in Clanton Saturday serving as judge of war bread contests which were held in those towns.

Mrs. D. J. Flummer returned to Thorsby Sunday after a visit of two weeks at the home of her daughter in Lovell, Ala.

The teachers and students of Thorsby Institute were glad to welcome Mr. Andrew Summers back into their midst Saturday. Mr. Summers had been home where he was called two weeks ago on account of sickness in his home.

Rev. Chas. T. Rogers will conduct a series of Evangelistic services at the Congregational church beginning next Sunday, Feb. 17th, with the evening services, and continuing every night through the following week. Everyone is invited.

The Young Men's Class of the Sunday School will conduct a Memorial Service in honor of Uriel Williamson at the Congregational Church next Sunday. An address on "The Call of the World to Young Manhood," will be given by Mr. D. J. Flummer, teacher of the class, and there will be brief tributes to the memory of Mr. Williamson from others.

In connection with this service, an offering will be taken for the Uriel Williamson Memorial Offering, which is being raised by the Sunday School. This offering is to be used in helping other young men to prepare for the ministry, as Uriel Williamson was planning to do.

Don't forget that the next number on the Entertainment Course comes Friday night, Feb. 22nd when Sergeant Flahiff will tell of his experiences in the first line trenches in France.

CIVIC CLUB MEETING

The Civic Club is called to meet at the home of Mrs. W. T. Callen Friday, February 15th at 3 o'clock sharp. Everyone is urged to be present as business of importance will be launched.

MRS. W. T. CALLEN, Pres.

Dr. G. R. Stone, an old veteran from Mt. Creek, was in town Monday.

Half World Hungry, Millions Starving

The above headlines are familiar exhibits in nearly all American newspapers. These statements are based on conditions as represented by our Allies and gleaned through neutral sources. Positive evidence of the correctness of these statements is reflected right here among us.

America produced the largest food and feed crop in its entire history last year. The papers tell us, and conditions verify it, that our large surplus of food is rapidly becoming exhausted. Alabama produced more than enough food and feed last year to supply her needs for a whole year. Four months ago many people believed that our big surplus would stall the market and bear the prices. Brokers talked about seventy-five cents per bushel for corn and peanuts; fifteen dollars per ton for velvet beans and hay; fifty dollars per ton for cotton seed and twenty cents per pound for cotton. Farmers crossed the bridge before they got to it and began to complain. The writer advised more storage and marketing slowly. We really thought it would take from six to nine months of slow marketing to maintain the early prices and to prevent them from going lower. What happened? In less than four months the hungry world absorbed our big crop except a few odds and ends, during which time prices gained fifty per cent or more on all commodities. We can now find ten buyers for every commodity for sale. This is our experience in trying to find stuff for sale to list in the Markets Journal. These high prices of all commodities from the farms will last at least two more years regardless of peace or war and will go higher unless the government intervenes. Truly, half the world is hungry, and in the event of neglect, poor seasons, and short crops, this same hunger within a year will be brought to the doors of the American people—take no chances.

Crops Which Pay Best.
The crops which will pay best are those most vitally needed. First of all are those which supply bread and meat or their equivalent. Alabama needs another big corn crop as large or larger than that produced last year. It will assure us bread and the surplus can be converted into meat through feeding live stock.

Peanuts are all food and feed. The oil is equivalent to fat; the clean cake processed, blends with flour better than any other substitute; the vines are high class feed. Farmers who can grow fifty bushels of peanuts per acre are assured of eighty-five dollars gross returns or more. It can be done on more acres with less fertilizer and cultivation than some other crops. The same useful qualities, cheap production, and profits may be said of soy beans. These two products are within themselves bread, gravy (fats) and feed.

Farmers should grow a reasonable crop of cotton. It is sixty per cent food and feed and the people must be clothed. Cotton culture is more of a patriotic proposition, because it requires more labor and expense to produce it and pays less per acre than other crops under present conditions. Alabama produced four hundred and ninety thousand bales last year on two million and two hundred thousand acres which was approximately a bale to five acres. The value of the cotton and seed was forty dollars and fifty cents per acre. Why, black-eyed peas at fifteen bushels per acre and three dollars per bushel is better than cotton as a money crop. We should do a lot of figuring before we plant. Begin to figure on a good garden now.

Com. of Agri. and Ind.

BACK FROM THE TRENCHES

Lecture at Thorsby, Feb. 22nd.
Do you want to hear one who has "been there" tell what it means to go "over the top"? If so, you do not want to miss the chance to hear Sergeant Flahiff at Thorsby, Feb. 22nd. Sergeant Flahiff is an American who enlisted with the famous "Princess Pat" Regiment of Canada and was in the Ypres salient, and at Bapaume, back of Vimy Ridge. At one time his regiment went into action with 1056 men and withstood the onslaughts of the enemy until only 22 men were able to walk out of the trenches unaided. Flahiff was made a Sergeant in recognition of his services when for forty-six hours he acted as stretcher-bearer carrying the wounded men from the front line trenches. He contracted trench fever and was sent home with an honorable discharge, but expects to enlist again under the colors of Uncle Sam as soon as he is sufficiently recovered to go back. His thrilling story of his experiences will be well worth hearing. He will illustrate his lecture by the use of a trench canvas, and will demonstrate the use of the gas mask. Do not fail to hear him. Admission 50, 35, and 25 cents. Don't forget the place and time—Thorsby Institute, Friday, Feb. 22nd, 8:00 p.m.

NOTICE

Bring your produce to Taylor Bros. They buy potatoes, chickens, eggs, butter, syrup, peas, sorghum seed, peanuts, etc.

Better Farming in the South

THREE HUSKY FELLOWS READY TO HELP OUT IN THE LABOR SHORTAGE

J. N. HARPER

Common labor is today the most sought after commodity in America. It is very scarce throughout the entire country. Farmers of the South are especially worried over the situation. During war times the farmer should be doubly economical of so valuable a commodity as labor. It must not be wasted. Now is not the time to employ labor to clean out fence corners, and to do other kinds of the less productive work. There must be no lost motion. Every lick must be made to count in answering the call of our nation and her allies, who are calling out to the farmer "Give us bread! Give us clothing!"

The best way to economize labor on the farm today is to produce more per acre. The southern farmer will not most wisely if he tries to cultivate too much land with the present supply of labor. A better plan would be not to increase the acreage devoted to cultivated crops, but to produce more per acre, by the use of fertilizer, manure, good seed and improved machinery, all of which will save labor.

One ton of good fertilizer will do more work in growing crops than will six times this amount of money expended in labor. For example, one ton of good fertilizer will now cost about $46.00. The plant food in this quantity when applied to three acres of land will give an increase of about 750 pounds of lint cotton and 1,500 pounds of seed. The lint at 30c per pound amounts to $225.00, and the seed at $50.00 per ton amounts to $60.00, making a total of $285.00.

Few business concerns net 50 per cent increase on money invested in labor, but, granting that the farmer will net 100 per cent on his investment in labor, and supposing that he pays $1.00 per day for labor, the $46.00 invested in fertilizer, when invested in labor, would net him $46.00; whereas, when invested in fertilizer, it gives him a net increase of $239.00. Thus it can be seen the tremendous advantage of supplementing labor with liberal applications of plant food.

Likewise an improved piece of machinery that makes it possible to cultivate an acre of cotton or corn with perhaps half the labor ordinarily employed, and cultivate it better, should be looked to at this time as a source of help in facing the labor shortage.

Good seed of a strain known to do well in a community will do much toward increasing yields, without an increase of acreage.

Is this not a time when the farmer should be sure to use these three crop makers, to the fullest extent, to offset the labor shortage?

RED CROSS NEWS

The Chilton County Chapter of the Red Cross has been organized and new life is expected to permeate our organization. A broader scope is given our work and we hope to accomplish a great deal more than in the past. Each community should organize a branch.

Miss Lois Upshaw imparted enthusiasm and information to us on her recent visit.

The statement in Sunday's Age-Herald that Gen. Pershing did not desire knitted garments for his men has been contradicted. Do not stop knitting unless officially advised.

Those who sampled the war-bread sandwiches Saturday pronounced them delicious. A nice little sum was realized from their sale.

VERDICT OF JURY SET ASIDE

At the last term of the Circuit Court the jury, in the case of Roy Leonard Hayes vs. Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, returned a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff filed a motion to set aside the verdict of the jury, and Judge Leon McCord, who presided at the trial, has granted the motion, setting aside the verdict of the jury and giving the plaintiff, Hayes, another trial. The suit is for personal injuries.

Jasper Robinson, farmer, of Beat 16 was here at court this week.

THERE WILL BE NO MORE CHILTON COUNTY FAIR

The Union-Banner has just found out that over a month ago the Chilton County Fair Association was formally dissolved by consent of the stock holders and henceforth there will be no more county fairs at Clanton.

We don't know whether they wanted to keep the dissolution action a secret or not. It has not been talked of very much at least or we surely would have heard something of it before now. Anyway a fellow told us that the Fair is dissolved and we are sure he knew what he was talking about. So now you can just fix to have your fun somewhere else next fall besides at the Fair.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to the people of New Salem community for the kindness and sympathy shown us at the death of our baby, which was burned to death on Feb. 6. May God bless you all is our prayer.
C. C. BOWLES AND WIFE.

SILVER TEA PARTY

The Baptist ladies of Circle No. 2 will give a Silver Tea at the home of Mrs. Renfro Mullins on Friday afternoon, Feb. 15th from 3 to 10 o'clock, to which everybody is cordially invited.

"EYES FOR NAVY" FROM THE PUBLIC

CIVILIANS HAVE SENT IN 6,000 GLASSES OF VARIOUS KINDS, BUT MORE ARE NEEDED.

APPEAL TO PRIVATE OWNERS

General Crozier on Age Limit Enlargement of Selective Service Law—License Required to Ship Goods Abroad by Parcel Post.

Washington.—Over 6,000 glasses have been received by the navy in response to its call through the newspapers for binoculars, spyglasses, telescopes, sextants, and chronometers. There is urgent need for many more. Heretofore the United States has been obliged to rely on foreign countries for most of its supply of such articles. These channels of supply being closed, it has been necessary to appeal to the patriotism of private owners for "eyes for the navy."

All articles should be tagged with name and address of the donor and sent to Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, care of Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. Those not suitable will be returned to senders. Careful records will be kept of accepted glasses so they may, if possible, be returned at the termination of the war.

As the government under the law cannot accept services or material without payment, $1 will be paid for each article accepted.

Discussing enlargement of the age limit for selective military service, Provost Marshal General Crozier said:

"A pronounced majority of the boards favor some enlargement, but there is great diversity of opinion as to the proper age limit. Nineteen and thirty-five are perhaps the limits most frequently suggested; but some recommend forty or forty-five years as the upper limit. There is a distinctly stronger demand for raising the maximum age than for lowering the minimum."

General Crozier estimates that 1,380,388 acceptable single men would be made available by an increase in the age limit to include men up to forty-five years. The estimate places the number of acceptable single men between eighteen and twenty-one years at 1,546,283. The number of probably acceptable single men already registered, but not called, is 1,321,845. According to these figures, should the age limit be enlarged to include men of from eighteen years to forty-five years, inclusive, 4,257,516 physically and otherwise qualified unmarried men would be open for call to service.

The war trade board is calling attention to the fact that license is required to ship abroad goods on the conserved list, even when sent in small quantities by parcel post. In many cases this has been done by persons ignorant of the president's proclamation concerning exports, or who do not know of the many articles which may be exported only under license.

For violation of a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both, form the penalty. Licenses may be applied for at the bureau of exports, Washington, D. C., or any of its branches which are located at Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Nogales, El Paso, Eagle Pass, Galveston, New Orleans, Mobile, Savannah, St. Louis, Chicago, Boston and New York.

A copy of a broadside forbidden in Germany has reached the committee on public information. It is a single sheet of foolscap size, printed on both sides, and bears a coarsely executed woodcut representing a soldier in arms, a workman in a blouse, and a woman shoving a rock off a precipice, beneath which is seen the head and bust of the emperor, crowned and sceptered and mustached, looking up in terror at the fate impending. The last paragraph of the text is as follows:

Man of toil, awake from slumber! Recognize thy growing might. All the wheels will lose their motion Without thy strong arm's devotion. Down with the war! Down with the government! Peace! Freedom! Bread!

Men of the selective service age who are accustomed to handling horses have opportunity for specialized service in the enlisted veterinary corps, enlistments for which are now being taken. The 2,000 men wanted include veterinary and agricultural students, farmers, stablemen, and others who have had experience handling horses. Pay ranges from $30 to $56 a month with clothing, food, and quarters. Application for enlistment may be made at any army recruiting station.

The Union-Banner is some swell affair this week itself. The Editor has a double-barreled case of the mumps to keep him company.

J. C. Courtney of Billingsley was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday and renewed his subscription.

ONE CHILTON COUNTY BOY BACK FROM THE TRENCHES

One of Chilton county's boys has been to France, fought in the great war, got wounded, and came back to America. His name is John Calloway, son of W. J. (Bill) Calloway of South Clanton.

The young man went to France as a Canadian soldier, and it was with a Canadian regiment that he saw action in the trenches. He was last at home in 1912. Previous to that time he had been in the United States army.

Since he left home in 1912 not one word had been heard from him, not even his mother and father had had a word from their boy, until last Friday when the Union-Banner received the following letter from him in Hamilton, Ont., Canada:

"Hamilton, Ont., Canada,
February, 4, 1918.

"Editor Union-Banner,
Clanton, Ala.

"Dear Sir:
"Please give me space in your paper to say a few words to some of my friends in and around Clanton. I am at present in the hospital as I just got back from France. It is some place over there. All that the papers have ever said about Germany is true and some they did not say.

"I would like for all of the boys around my old home town to go over. The good they can do will more than repay their loss; so boys line up and go.

"I would like to hear from my father and mother if they are in that part of the country; and if they have left will some one else let me know.

"Any cards that my friends may send me will be appreciated.

"Hoping to hear from some one from down there soon.

"I remain,
No. 3105250,
Pte. JOHN CALLOWAY,
1st. Bn. 2nd. C. O. R.
Hamilton, Ontario,
Canada."

As soon as we could do so we notified his father who came in great haste to see the lines that his long absent son had written. As the words were read to him he showed expressions of wonderful emotion in his face. He hardly took time to read the letter till he was on his way back home to tell the mother of her son's brief story and to read her the lines he wrote.

So far as we know this is the first Chilton county man who has been across, taken part in the great struggle and returned to this side of the Atlantic to tell the story.

We hope later to give our readers a long letter from this young man, telling more freely of his experiences while "over there."

We publish his full address in connection with his letter, so that any of his friends who wish may communicate with him.

FERTILIZER MEETING

All who wish to buy Phosphate co-operatively, thereby saving from two to five dollars per ton, are requested to hold meetings in the several school districts in the county and make up the amounts each district will want to purchase and elect some one to meet at Clanton on Saturday, Feb. 16th.

By buying co-operatively and having car load shipments we can get 18 per cent. Phosphate at about $17.26 per ton with 5 per cent. off for cash.

Please hold your District meetings not later than Friday night in order to have your representative at Clanton on the 16th. However, if you can't get to your District meeting and want Phosphate attend the meeting at Clanton on the 16th any way.

Yours very truly,
W. H. CONWAY,
County Agent.

WHO IS IT, PLEASE?

Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt, The Mobile Register says:

"As president he gave his fullest thought to awakening the conscience of the country to an understanding of the conditions under which the republic and the people labored with relation to what is known as high finance, and we may venture to say that he paved the way and made it easier for the greater man who followed and who has done so much to broaden and elevate our national aims."

As for us we are very frank to say that we have never yet heard of "the greater man who followed" the Colonel. Since there is none greater in America, we are caused to wonder (?) to whom the Register alludes.

GOOD SERVICE

Hearings are continued in the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce on the administration bill giving the President certain powers over the railroads, including the guaranteeing of their securities. The Republicans of that committee are devoting themselves to the work of so perfecting the measure that it will meet the approval of the roads themselves,
and not cause them to go to court after its passage in order to protect their property rights. To throw the billions of railroad securities into prolonged litigation at a time like the present probably would do more than any other one thing to disrupt completely our economic establishment. Such a misfortune would be an overwhelming embarrassment to the Government in the flotation of future issues of Liberty Bonds. The Republicans can render no more patriotic service to the country than so to amend the railroad bill as sufficiently to satisfy the companies so that they will be content to abide by its provisions, instead of having recourse to the law courts.

The Policy That Made America.

When this war is over, every nation
now engaged in it will be bidding for capital to engage in industry. Every practical inducement will be offered to men with money to cause them to invest in the operation of manufacturing plants. Every European country will endeavor to buy in America the raw materials which cannot be produced there, manufacture those raw materials into goods ready for use, and then sell them in the American market, taking American money to pay the European wage earner. That has been done before, and it will be done again unless America takes effective steps to induce capital to invest in manufacturing industries here at home. Heretofore we have found a protective tariff the only practical method of insuring home production at the American standard of wages and living. Unless we have some better plan to adopt for the future we cannot too soon return to the economic system which has been the basis of American prosperity throughout most of the years of our national existence.

CELESTIALS TO THE FRONT

An official dispatch from Peking states that the transportation of Chinese troops to France has begun, the number being withheld for military reasons. It will be a matter of world wide interest to observe how the Celestials withstand the horrors of modern warfare. Military experts in this great war agree that so far none but the white race has evinced the stamina to endure the sufferings and hellishness of war as waged today.
The French colonials from North Africa, with a reputation for blood-thirstiness, have not proved particularly reliable at the front in this war, and other tasks have been assigned them. France has already more than 100,000 Chinese employed on military works behind the lines.
If Chinese troops crumple up before the attacks of the Huns they can still perform great service as laborers.
It is gory enough for all. There is glory enough for all.

Secretary Baker is said to be willing to accept the war cabinet and munitions department measures which the President so violently opposes.
It was a situation not unlike this that induced the resignation of Mr. Baker's predecessor.

Portland (Ore.) Telegram—Newt
Baker might be good enough to be kept on the pay roll of a minor league team, but he can't bat .050 in a world's series.

WILSON'S RESPONSIBILITY

The events of the last few days have brought the American people face to face with a fact that for one reason and another they have studiously endeavored to ignore or to forget, and that fact is the utter incapacity of the Democratic party to carry on any great governmental function.

The Bolsheviks of Russia has presented in no respect more utter lack of appreciation of things as they exist than has the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

And when we say the administration of Woodrow Wilson we mean Woodrow Wilson himself, for Wilson has been and is today all there is to the administration, and in this usurpation of the functions of the executive, legislative and almost all of the judicial functions he is all there is to the government at this moment.

No saying of Abraham Lincoln was ever more true than that "You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

And the time has come when the people of this country are refusing to be fooled.

They submitted to the result of that conspiracy of 1916, when Woodrow Wilson was elected president under the false pretence that he "kept us out of war."

They shut their mouths when he rewarded the conspirators with him in that deception by conferring upon them high offices, offices which only one of them, the conscience-stricken David Dudley Malone, had the grace to resign when the subsequent actions of Woodrow Wilson convicted them of being wilful deceivers of the people.

They approved of his stand which brought about the declaration of war with Germany, because they rejoiced that even at that late date he was willing to acknowledge that he saw,
what every American with red blood in his veins had seen long months before, that the great war was our war and we must engage in it or deserve
the everlasting reproach of mankind.

And since that declaration they have hoped against hope that somewhere, somehow, there would develop among his associates in administration the men who should be large enough to lead America in the right course in that war.

Millions who had no faith in Wilson either as a patriot or as a leader have kept their mouths closed and their pens still lest the charge of partisanship should militate against the success of the war, and with a patriotic determination to stand behind the commander-in-chief if he would but go forward.

But the procession of events has moved onward to that point when patriotic men must speak their minds
—when the safety of republican institutions demand that the truth be told.

The United States of America is of vastly more consequence than the feelings or the reputation of Woodrow Wilson.

This war is not the personal property of Woodrow Wilson, nor of Son-in-Law McAdoo, nor of Hoover nor of Garfield.

It is the concern of the American people, and the American people are due to wake up and learn the truth.

The first truth that they have learned in the last few days is the utter incapacity of the secretary of war.

Just now they have impressed upon them the incapacity and foolhead-edness of the fuel administrator.

Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts has perhaps put the situation in as clear and unmistakable language as anybody. Says Bird, "It is not coal alone—ships, munitions airplanes, everything is serious. It is not Baker, nor Daniels, nor Secretary of Labor Wilson. The blame should be placed where it belongs—at the head of the government, the president. He has failed in this great crisis to call to his cabinet, as Lloyd George has in England, the ablest men in the country. The president can supply visions, but these alone cannot win the war."

There are being heard in the Senate and the house sentiments like these.

Even Democratic leaders are seeing a light they cannot avoid and coming to a conclusion as inevitable as the day of judgment.

Unless Woodrow Wilson can be forced to abandon the small and petty politicians with whom he has surrounded himself and can show himself big enough to see that the nation is bigger than the party that elected him and use every asset of ability wherever found, which means that the help of no one shall be disdained because he may be a Republican, then the cause of not only that larger democracy of which he prates
but of the small and ignoble democracy to which he has alone catered, is indeed desperate.

It may be that the policy of the Republican party so far has been a mistake.

It may be that their acquiescence
in whatever the president has favored has been a blunder.

The absence of that just criticism which makes for progress and better things may have had their share in bringing the nation to the situation in which it finds itself today—when imbecility in high places has nullified the united efforts of a patriotic and liberty loving people, and has made them the tools and slaves of an incompetent and bigoted autocracy.—Manchester Mirror.

That was indeed a stale one Mr.
Wallace tried to pull by sending Capt.
Reuben F. Kolb to Chilton county to open his campaign. Just reflect upon the past for a moment and you can easily trace the calculations of the candidate.

Back in the years past when Populism was popular in Alabama, Mr.
Kolb had many friends and followers in Chilton county. In fact the very people who now are prominent as the Republican party (and also many who are now in one or another of the 29 Democratic parties) were strong for Kolb. When the great steal took place, of which everybody is familiar,
Mr. Kolb went one way politically and his followers (the dominant party in Chilton county then) here went another. Ever since that time Mr.
Kolb and the men of this county who followed him in Populism, have been just as widely separated as the gulf that intervenes between the Democratic and Republican party in the United States at its widest point.

Mr. Wallace must have figured that there would be some chance of Mr.
Kolb recalling those Populist days here and thus inveigling somebody in Chilton county into supporting his campaign for Governor. But we are of the opinion that he figures differently now already, even tho it has been just a short time since Monday.

Two years ago it will be remembered that John H. Wallace and Bob Mangrum did make it to step just over the Chilton county line one time at the point where it is farthest from the court house and pull off a few "rotten eggs" for the Democratic party, much to the discomfort and embarrassment of a then well known former Republican whom the Democrats of this county were running for Probate Judge, at full speed right down the middle of the road.

But it has since appeared that John and Bob that day saw enough of Chilton Democracy to "cure" them.
They haven't been back since. And now since Mr. Wallace is so determinedly running for Governor of the state that Chilton county is in, he does not even come here in his own interest. He sends Capt. Kolb the ex-Populite in the hope we presume,
not to find any Democratic support,
but to draw a few of the once-up-ona-time Populists out of the Republican party to support him just because the Captain could pat some of the old fellows on the back and say:
"Well Bill, you know we stood together as Populists back in those old days; now I am for Wallace, and I want you to come join me again like you 'uster.'"

Did anybody around here witness the firing of the first Wallace gun at the court house Monday? We wonder if the speakers told their audience that their candidate favored or opposed the return of saloons to Alabama.

And we wonder if they repeated
a former saying of the Hon. John H.
to the effect that he did not think the Roman Catholics ought to be molested in their political activities in connection with our government.

Isn't that a bright and patriotic idea that those Oklahoma ginks have sprung in their petition to the President to have Co. Roosevelt interned as an enemy to America. Those must be the same Oklahomans who so violently resisted the draft law last summer and had to be put down by Government authorities. The two acts are about parallel.

Haulage Record—Freight and Passenger

NO BETTER evidence of the service rendered the people of the South by the L. & N. can be offered than the figures showing the liberal appreciation accorded L. & N. service by the people.

During the past sixteen years the L. & N. has carried 167,560,- 742 passengers, a number of people equal to the total population of North and South America combined. The number of passengers carried one mile in sixteen years was 6,831,186,990, about four times the population of the earth. The revenue received from five billions of those passengers had to be paid out for the operation of the trains.

The total number of tons of freight carried in sixteen years was 414,340,026, and these figures speak eloquently of the part played by L. & N. service in the South's development.

The number of tons carried one mile was 70,773,- 607,021. The revenue received from forty-six billion tons had to be paid out for the operation of the trains.

During sixteen years the L. & N. has transported 9,800,000 bales of cotton, 207,000,000 bushels of corn, 125,302,800 bushels of wheat, 26,907,065 tons of lumber, 57,637,354 tons of ore, 20,519,355 tons of coal, 133,796,950 tons of coal and 86,309,672 tons of merchandise and manufactured articles.

Since the prosperity of the country is, and must be measured by the ability of the railroads to transport its commerce, it will readily be seen what a prominent part the L. & N. has taken in the development and prosperity of the South, especially when it is remembered that 96 per cent. of L. & N. mileage is in the South. The L. & N. may be relied upon to continue to maintain the high standard of service rendered the South, and asks the sympathy, understanding and co-operation of the people of the South.

Our SUPREME and PACKING HOUSE BRANDS being ammoniated 100% with the highest grades of genuine old time Packing House Tankage and Blood, are not leached away by excessive rains like ordinary fertilizers. Their ammoniates, being slowly soluble, insure constant feeding of the plant till late maturity, thus preventing shedding and promoting vigorous, healthy growth. The Tankage in them is rich in potash and also liberates idle potash in the soil, thus supplying the potash requirements of ordinary field crops without extra cost. ## HOW REAL WAR CAME TO CAHABA

A STORY OF THE DAYS OF 1864
APPLICABLE TO THE PRESENT

WAR IS IN ALABAMA NOW

And it's Time We Woke Up to the Fact and Adjusted Our Lives Accordingly—Some Questions and Their Answers

By John Sparrow

"The war is way over yonder, across the wide, wide sea," said a man the other day. "We should worry."

"No," I answered. "The war is here in Alabama, right now."

"What do you mean?" he asked. "There is no fighting in this state, nor anywhere else in this country."

"I'll answer you by telling you a little story," I said.

"I was a mite of a chap down in old Cahaba during the Civil War and used to hear the old folks talk. They would say the war will never get close to us. I would listen and try to feel easy. And then, one day I came back from the postoffice with the Montgomery paper. My father quickly took it out of my hands and opened it. I knew where he was going to look, at the page with the black border, around it in which the names of the killed and wounded in the battles way off yonder in Virginia were printed from day to day. My mother and my sister glanced over his shoulder. Suddenly my father pointed his finger to a line, dropped the paper on the floor and sank into his chair as if he had been shot. My mother began to sob as if her heart would break, and I heard my sister moan, 'Oh, My God, My God!' That was many years ago, but as I write these lines I feel a catch in my throat and a mist swims before my eyes. In that dreadful hour I saw and felt the war in that house. It was just the same in most homes in that town—screams, and sobs and moans, nearly every time the papers came up from the postoffice. The war was there in Cahaba, day in and day out, though we heard no cannon roar.

War in Alabama Again.

"The war has come to Alabama again. The shooting may or may not cross the water, but the shadow of the terrible conflict is in every home in this state that has given a boy to the army—and we are just beginning to give our boys. Soon there will be few homes in Alabama which will not have someone, very dear to the heart, at the front. How long this struggle will last no one can tell—all we know is that the war must be fought to the bitter end, else this world will continue to be hell. In a little while the papers will begin to print the names of our dead, wounded and missing in France, and in Alabama there will be the sound of weeping and wailing, as in Egypt, long ago, when the destroying angel smote the first born. "Then the war will also bring home to each of us some questions, and the answers we are able to make will either sanctify our sorrow or deepen its pangs. Here are a few:

Searching Questions For Us All.

"Have I neglected to do anything, little or large, which might have reduced this awful toll of death?"

"Have I made any sacrifice of ease and comfort, in order that our soldiers might be better clothed, better fed, better armed, better protected in other ways?"

"Have I given my dead boy and his comrades the moral support which they deserved, by being as obedient to the demands of the government upon me as they were to the orders of their commanders in the field?"

"If any of us can say yes to these questions we will also be able to say 'It is well with the lad. He died that Liberty might live.'"

"On the other hand, if this grim message from the battle front finds us engrossed in our own selfish pleasures, comfort and gain—

"Selling across the counter or plowing in the field, with no other thought than that of adding to our material substance;

"Spending everything on ourselves and contributing nothing to the aid of the war;

"Grumbling because we have to work a little harder, pay a little more and do without a few pleasures;

"Criticizing the government instead of standing behind it;

"Dodging the government's requests for co-operation in the conservation of food, labor and fuel instead of cheerfully complying with them;

"Belittling the motives which impelled the United States into this war;

"Carping at patriotic utterances;

"Hoping for peace—half-way peace or even craven peace—so long as it will allow us to stay in our selfish shells and let the world feed us as the tides feed the clam.

"When conscience unrolls the scroll and points its accusing finger at these and other counts in the indictment, and then bids us look over yonder where the mute and stark forms of the splendid young men of Alabama and her sister states are scattered on that sacrificial plain as thickly as the leaves on the hillside when the autumn gale rages—how will the old sordid, selfish life taste then?"

"You are right," said my friend, "the war is in Alabama. Let's wake up."

TO STOP LOSS OF 150,000,000 EGGS.

Over 150,000,000 eggs will be lost to the food supply of the United States if the old practice of sending hens to the market at this season is continued. Figures compiled by the poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture show that more than 5,000,000 laying hens, each capable of producing 30 eggs, are sent to market from the Southern States in the winter and early spring.

Every effort, therefore, is being made to encourage farmers to keep their hens until after the spring laying season, thereby getting a dividend for keeping the hen through the winter. The specialists point out that when a hen is sold for meat early in the spring, the farmer gets no egg return for feeding and keeping her through the worst months of the year.

Moreover, the hen is marketable as poultry after she has produced her spring eggs. Poultry in May may bring 2 cents a pound less than it does in February, but, they point out, the 30 eggs produced by the hen, largely from wastes, more than offset any reduction in the price offered for live poultry.

An energetic egg-saving campaign to prevent early slaughter of the hen that "lays the golden egg" is now being conducted throughout the Southern States. North of the Ohio River, farmers have long appreciated the advantage of getting the spring crop of eggs and marketing their hens after the laying season or in the fall. They believe that adoption of this plan by southern chicken raisers will be profitable and will materially add to the food supply of the Nation.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION

Examination Starts at 10 A.M.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the County of Chilton, Alabama, to be held at Clanton and Maplesville, on March 9, 1918, to fill the position of rural carrier at Clanton, Alabama, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above-mentioned county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

The following letter is from a Chilton county boy who is now serving with Uncle Sam's forces in France. He is a son of "Uncle" Joe Popwell who lives near Kincheon.

"January 11th, 1918.

"Dear Mother:

"Your letter came several days ago and it is unnecessary to tell you that I was glad to have it because you understand that already. Everything is going nicely with me here. I am still liking France although it is rather muddy at present. That, however, will be better when Spring opens up.

"I've told me that you were doing some Red Cross Work. The Red Cross has been very nice to us in many ways. They seem to know more than any one else just what a soldier needs to make it more comfortable.

"Write me each time you find time. Possibly some of my letters may not reach you so do not be worried if you should happen to miss one or more.

"Lots of love for you and all the others at home.

Young Women Awaiting The Great Crisis

Of all the vital times in life, the birth of a baby is the climax of nature's most wonderful evolution. After a period of anxious waiting, the hour arrives for the advent of a new life. Nature must be aided during this waiting period if the pain and danger of the crisis is to be avoided.

Three generations have found great relief from the many discomforts of approaching motherhood, by the safe, time-honored massage, "Mother's Friend". It gently softens every fibre, cord, tendon and ligament. The drawn skin becomes soft and elastic. Tension and strain upon the expanding abdominal muscles is relieved when baby arrives; morning sickness or nausea usually is not felt and the crisis is passed with infinitely less pain and danger.

"Mother's Friend" has been used by expectant mothers with the greatest success for over forty years. Get a bottle from the druggist today and write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. B, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for a valuable book brimful of useful information. The book will be mailed to you without charge. Do not by any means neglect to begin the use of "Mother's Friend"; the preparation is undoubtedly a real and wonderful aid to nature in her work.

LONG STAPLE COTTON IS THE COTTON FOR THE FARMER

I have tried it for two years and find that it grows and fruits well in this climate. I planted two seed in 1915 made one pound of seed cotton. Hand picked the cotton and dropped those seed in 1916 and made one hundred pounds of seed cotton, thereby giving two bushels of seed and thirty pounds of lint. In 1917 with the two bushels of seed I planted four acres fertilized with cotton seed meal and phosphate; about three hundred pounds to the acre and cultivated shallow. Made two bales and shipped it to Coosa Mfg. Co., Piedmont. The freight was $2.25 a bale and I got 38 cents for one bale and 37 1/2 for the other.

I have a limited amount of seed for sale at Taylor Bros' poultry house at $2.50 per bushel, also will have stalks of cotton to show how it grows and fruits.

As the time has come when we must plant more grain crops and less cotton it will be better to raise a better staple therefore getting $40 to $50 per bale more for long staple than short staple.

You Can't Rub It Away; Rheumatism is in the Blood

Liniments Will Never Cure.
If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will?
Do not try to rub the pain away, for you will never succeed. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain, and go after that. Remove the cause, and there can be no pain. You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S. S. has never had an equal as a blood purifier and scores of sufferers say that it has cleansed their blood of Rheumatism, and removed all trace of the disease from their system.
Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drug store, and get on the right treatment to-day. If you want special medical advice, you can obtain it free by addressing Medical Director, 23 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Will you wet down your roughage and save several dollars on every ton?

SOME farmers are still paying top prices for old style cottonseed hulls because they prefer a bulky filler. Others are paying much less for and are making them as bulky as old style hulls by wetting them down a half hour or so before using. By adding an equal part of water to Buckeye Hulls and stirring thoroughly they will swell and give you as bulky a roughage as you want. Most important, the bulkiness will be due to water which is of value to your cattle—not to lint which has no food value whatever.

BUCKEYE COTTONSEED HULLS LINTLESS

Other Advantages
Buckeye Hulls go farther. They allow better assimilation of other food. No trash or dust. Sacked—easy to handle. They mix well with other forage. Take half as much space in the barn.

Mr. Benjamin Thompson, Bald Knob, Ark., is feeding Buckeye Hulls to stock cattle. He says that he gets more food value per ton with less waste. He has bought five tons and has them stored in barn. He says that they occupy less space than old style hulls.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free
Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Food Facts NEWS OF THE WEEK From State Food Administration

IMPORTANT BULLETIN
To All Retail Dealers in Food Supplies in Alabama

February 7, 1918.

Referring to the information which has been sent to the food distributors of the State, you are hereby advised that the certificate of exemption from the ruling requiring the sale of an equal weight of grain or cereal substitutes with every pound of flour purchased, applies ONLY TO FARMERS. For the purpose of this certificate a farmer is defined as one who lives on the farm and who is actually engaged in the business of producing crops, including corn.

The responsibility rests upon the retail grocer to accept ONLY certificates signed BY FARMERS having their own corn meal, which they had ground from their own corn and which they are actually using in their home daily.

All retailers must observe the rule which went into effect on January 28, 1918, requiring the sale of a pound of other cereal with every pound of wheat flour to all consumers, except farmers. The cereals authorized to be sold on this basis with wheat flour are as follows: Corn meal, corn starch, corn flour, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, rice rice flour, oatmeal, rolled oats, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour and feterita flours and meals. Potatoes as a substitute, both Irish and sweet, have been withdrawn.

The observance of these instructions is not optional with retailers, but is a binding regulation made under proper authority from the Government and must be accepted as such. Violators will be subjected to the penalties provided by law. Any and all violations should be reported to your County Food Administrator. Retailers will at once communicate these regulations to their customers and should display this communication as their authority for refusing sales of flour except as above provided.

Where certificates of exemption are used, the form No. 1, as per copy attached, MUST be followed exactly by the retailer, who is to have them printed, and, in replenishing his flour stock he will endorse and surrender them to the wholesale flour dealer, who has been instructed to accept NO other form.

The retailer who buys his corn meal from a mill or buys his substitutes from a source other than that from which he buys flour, must secure with his purchase of corn meal or other substitutes, a certificate exactly like the attached form No. 2, which he will endorse and surrender to the wholesaler from whom he buys flour. The wholesaler flour dealer has been instructed to accept NO other form of certificate.

SPRING RAPE CROP FOR HOGS

By J. C. Ford

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

State Agent Pig Clubs, Auburn, Ala.
In view of the great demand and high prices for hogs the spring rape crop should receive serious attention. Every farm should produce hogs enough for home use and some for sale. Every farmer and pig club member who has not a first class pasture for spring and early summer should plant rape.

Rape may be planted as early in the spring as turnips. If planted on good land or fertilized with nitrate of soda or stable manure it should be ready for use in six or eight weeks. It should furnish good grazing till the middle of June or the first of July. If desired the land may be planted about June 15th to peanuts or soy beans for use during the last half of September and in October, or the rape may be grazed till in July and the land reseeded to rape in the late summer or early fall for fall and winter grazing.

A sow and litter of pigs will need from half an acre to an acre, depending on the fertility of the land and the nature and amount of supplements used. The seed should be planted in drills just wide enough to permit cultivation, using four or five pounds of seed to the acre. Cover lightly as for turnips.

Rape seed are as easily saved as turnip or mustard. Every farm should save its own seed for planting.

It is the worst kind of policy to go to the trouble and expense of preparing a rape pasture and then force hogs to live on that as their only feed. Rape is nearly nine-tenths water. The digestive capacity of a hog is not great enough to handle the amount of rape necessary to produce good gains. But if a hog has all the rape it can eat and a little grain it will do well. About one ear of corn per day or its equivalent in velvet beans, peanuts or other rich feed will keep them growing nicely when on rape.

The Alabama Experiment Station has found an acre of winter rape properly supplemented with grain to be worth about 1,500 pounds of mixed grain for pork production. For the most profitable raising of hogs, the farmer and pig club members must learn to make use of this crop for fall, winter and spring grazing.

STATE COTTON VARIETY TEST

By E. F. Cauthen
Associate Agriculturist

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In 1917 the Alabama Experiment Station tested at Auburn twenty varieties of short staple cotton. The soil is a sandy loam. The preceding crop was cowpeas, and its vines were left for soil improvement. Before planting, a complete, home-mixed fertilizer, consisting of 160 pounds of acid phosphate, 140 pounds of cotton seed meal, and 40 pounds of kainit per acre was applied. A side dressing of 75 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre was made July 10. The seed were planted April 19, in checks 2 inches by 3 1/2 feet, and the plants thinned to one in a hill. The cotton received frequent, shallow cultivation until the first of August.

This is the third year of boll weevil infestation. In this field the weevils did not appear until the middle of July, and then not in large numbers. Until about the 10th of August they were picked up systematically as soon as they appeared, together with all infested flowers. The damage done by weevils is thought not to be large.

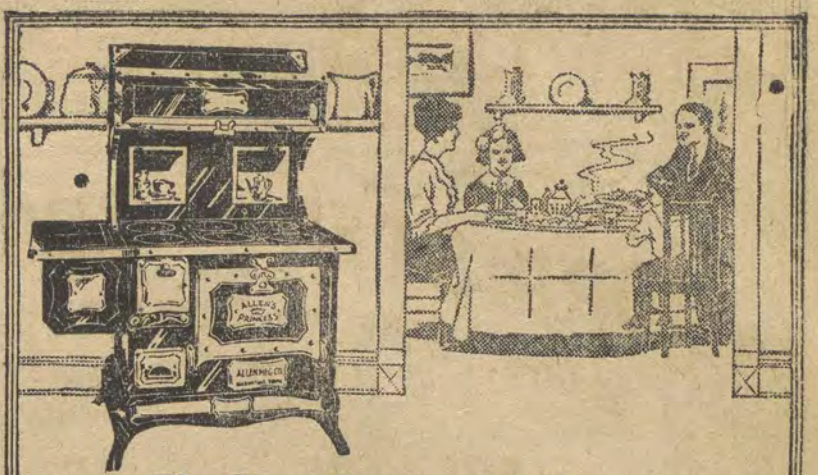

The varieties were arranged in order of total value of seed and lint cotton per acre (seed at $75.00 per ton and lint at 25 cents per pound).

The results of a single year's test are not sufficient to form a safe guide in selecting a variety, but when a variety leads or is among the leaders, for several years, this fact shows that it is a good variety for similar conditions.

In the list of five most productive varieties for the past ten years, Cook has occurred each year; Cleveland and Half and Half each three times, and Sunbeam and Covington-Toole, each twice.

This station cannot supply seed. Its seed are obtained from growers.

AERIAL ACTIVITY ON AMERICAN LINE IS ON INCREASE REPORTED

Enemy Planes Fly Over Town in Rear of Sector and Drop Bombs.

Germans Attack on Campaign Front And Gain Footing.

With the American army in France, February 18.—There has been a considerable increase in aerial activity in the American sector since last night.

Enemy planes again flew over the town, where a few days ago an American field hospital was located, and dropped bombs, but without damage. One hostile machine was driven to earth in a damaged condition by an American aviator.

The activity of the American anti-aircraft gunners, machine gunners and battery operators kept the enemy machines from flying low enough to get a good aim. One attempted to come lower, but was hotly engaged and driven off.

All day hostile aircraft was over the American position.

Artillery action was also lively and a number of casualties are reported. One shell dropped on a cook tent and wounded three men. Three men in the trenches were wounded by shrapnel, including a second lieutenant. Several others were injured when a town was shelled.

Bright moonlight assisted the work of American patrols last night, but no Germans were seen. A portion of the sector was subjected to a slight gassing by the enemy, but the men put on their masks and there was no casualties.

Attack on Champagne.

Paris, February 18.—The Germans last night made an attack on the Champagne front, today's war office statement reported. They gained a footing in the French positions, but after a spirited engagement were driven out.

The statement follows:

"Violent artillery actions occurred in the regions of Mortier wood and Vauxaillon.

"In the Champagne, after heavy artillery preparation, the Germans delivered an attack on the positions captured by the French southwest of Butte Du Mesnil on February 13. After a spirited engagement the French ejected Germans from parts of certain trenches, where they had succeeded in gaining a footing. Prisoners remained in our hands.

English Front.

London, Feb. 18.—A hostile raiding party was driven off during the night by one of our posts in the neighborhood of Gavrelle," says today's war office report. "A few prisoners were taken by the Portuguese in the neighborhood of Neuve-chapel. Patrol encounters, in which the enemy suffered casualties, occurred early in the night in the Messines sector.

"The enemy's artillery has shown some activity south of the Arras-Cambrai road north of Lens and in the neighborhood of Zonnebeke."

Berlin Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The war office communication today says:

"Western theatre: On many parts of the front artillery duels were revived during the evening. The infantry activity was limited to reconnoitering engagements.

"In the clear, frosty weather the aerial activity was very lively through out the day and night. Bombs were dropped extensively on military construction works behind the enemy's front, and one airplane attacked London. In the last two days 16 enemy airplanes and two captive balloons have been brought down in aerial fighting and by gunfire.

Italians Active.

Rome, Feb. 18.—The Italian troops are showing much activity and are harassing the enemy all along the line. There also has been considerable artillery fighting, according to the report from general headquarters today.

GOVERNMENT LOYALTY PART OF HISTORY OF REPUBLICAN PARTY, SAYS MR. F. B. WILLIS

Wearied of Incompetency Country Will Turn Again to Sound Business Men for Relief he says.

CAMPAIGN PLEDGES BROKEN

Democrats played Politics while they Should have been Preparing for War, Ohioan Declares.

Speaking recently at a banquet of Republicans in Dayton, former Governor Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, declared that history will repeat itself and the country, wearied by incompetency in the conduct of the war, will again turn to the Republican party—always loyal to the government and true to American principles and American traditions, to lift it from the slough of despondency and carry forward its great work among the nations of the earth.

"This day," said Governor Willis, referring to the anniversary of McKinley's birth, "is sacred to the memory of Ohio's knightliest son and the most valiant campaign of Republicanism. In the face of overwhelming defeat in 1892, when the tides of Democracy were running highest and many of the vanquished, embittered by defeat, were urging fads and isms and demanding a new slogan and battle cry, he kept the faith, recalled his scattered legions to arms and with abiding confidence in the fundamental principles of Republicanism, marshaled his forces for victory in 1896."

McKinley, the General.

"After the election of 1892 it was boldly proclaimed by the victors that the Republican party that had been in power for more than a generation and in that time had written many of the glorious pages of the nation's history, had now met final defeat and the specter of power had passed from it to abide no more. Yet a few short months of Democratic rule had so paralyzed the finances of the government and crippled the industries of the country that the people of the country eagerly turned at the earliest moment to the Republican party to restore its languishing industries and bring order out of governmental chaos. McKinley foresaw all this, and was cheerful and confident while others despaired; he sounded the clarion call of battle to lethargic despondent Republicans and led them a reanimated victorious host, to triumph for sound money and protection in 1896."

Knew Democrats.

"He knew that the Democratic party was as distinguished for pledges before election as it was disappointing in performance after election; and that while its desire to make new offices and fill them with Democrats is boundless and its patriotic intentions for the country's welfare the best, yet it has never failed to make a mess of things when it has sought to administer the government, either in peace or in war.

"History will repeat itself. As the country, disillusioned, confused and weary, sought and obtained relief at the hands of the Republican administration in 1896, so deceived, sore-stricken and war-worn, it will turn again to the Republican party to lift it from the slough of despond and solve for civilization's sake and the nation's welfare the vast social, economic and international problems which are the outgrowth of the present world-riot of passion. Our Democratic friends mean well, but they do not know how to run the government. They prognosticate in peace and procrastinate in war, McKinley in his wide experience as Congressman, governor and president, went through many political battles unscathed and still every false cry and deceptive appeal of his opponent; yet in all his campaigns he never had to contend with such a kaleidoscopic, volatile slogan as that which urges that it was the duty of the patriotic citizen to vote the straight Democratic ticket in 1916, because that party 'kept us out of war,' and is now our duty to vote to sustain Democracy in power in 1918 because it 'did not keep us out of war.'

A False Issue.

"Having deceived the American people on a false and fraudulent issue in 1916—an issue known to be fraudulent by those raising it—the Democratic party now asks the confidence of the American people because, in accordance with its well-known traditions, it did not do the very thing it promised in the campaign of 1916 to do, and which its leaders must have known, and certainly some of them did know when the solemn promise was made, was impossible of performance.

"Secretary Baker is right when he says in substance that war was inevitable from the day the Lusitania was sunk, but why did he and his party in control of every department of the government, not act in accordance with that belief till after election day made for the inevitable? There need have been no hesitancy because of the attitude of the Republican party. It has and always will support the country and the flag, no matter what party is in power—and it does not believe in 'crawling' or cringing, either.

Played Politics.

"The answer is evident. Preparation for war was not made, because

Better Farming in the South

FERTILIZER PRECAUTIONS

Plant Food Should Have A Legal Guarantee Of Availability If It Is To Measure Up To Nation's Pressing Food Demands

J. C. Pridmore, Farm Service Bureau, Atlanta, Georgia.

J. C. PRIDMORE.

If the southern farmer is to do his share in producing foods for man and beast, and, at the same time, grow cotton fibre for the nation, he must either increase his crop acreage, or else grow considerably more per acre than customary.

In view of the scarcity and high price of labor at the present time, it seems to be the part of wisdom for farmers generally not to materially increase the crop acreage, but to increase the acre yields.

Increase Yield Per Acre

Acre yields can be increased by better preparation of the seed bed, by the use of good seed of varieties adapted to the region, by using a more liberal application of the right kinds of fertilizers and by better cultivation of the growing crops.

While all of these factors influence acre yields, let us call particular attention at this time to the kind and amount of fertilizer to be used. Practically all of the southern soils are deficient in phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash and these must be supplied in some form to get the largest yields and biggest farm profits. While the proper use of these materials will increase the yields per acre and help supply the nation's needs, the wise farmer will at the same time strive to get the largest financial returns from their use. To do this, he must exercise care in buying them as well as in applying them.

The farmer should understand that plants use fertilizers as foods only after they have been dissolved by the soil water, and that which is not soluble is not available to the plant. It is to the farmer's interest, therefore, to know that the fertilizers he is buying are guaranteed to contain a stated amount of available plant food.

such preparation would have been inconsistent with the campaign slogan, 'Keep us out of War,' and would have negated forthwith the seductive and false argument put forth by Democratic cabinet members and Democratic United States Senators.

"Republicans will support the war till victory comes and the world is safe against Prussian despotism. We care not what form of government the people of the central empires may choose for themselves. If they like to have the iron heel of the Prussian oligarchy fondle their necks, all well and good—let them have any form of government they please, but they cannot extend that form of government to the balance of the world so long as America has strength to fight. We all desire peace—not a German peace, but an abiding peace founded on freedom, justice and right. We shall have peace in the world, not when Germany offers it but when she asks for it. We shall unflinchingly support the government in all reasonable measures for the prosecution of the war, for the freedom of the seas and the rights of humanity.

Criticism All Right.

"The fact that the country is at war does not absolve the Democratic party, temporarily in control of the government, from all criticism for its acts and failures to act in the past, present and future. In fact, when we read criticisms from eminent Democratic authority we are surprised at Republican moderation. Vice President Marshall in a recent address said, 'We did not prepare. We thought we were in no danger. And in one year there comes upon us an

Quick Acting Form.

For the best results in the cultivation of general field crops, materials carrying phosphoric acid, nitrogen and some potash should be applied. Potash is more deficient in the light and sandy soils than in clay soils. Not less than 150 to 200 pounds of complete fertilizers per acre should be used and hundreds of farmers find more than this amount to be most profitable. Fertilizers containing these necessary plant foods are generally essential for the most profitable production of all field crops. Since there is such a world-wide need for crops, and since farm products are higher now than ever before, it follows that the farmer who strives to fulfill the nation's needs just now by the use of such plant food as is necessary, secures at the same time the largest possible financial returns for himself.

American-Made Potash

Good As German Kind

If there is any doubt in the mind of a farmer about using fertilizers containing American-made potash, in the belief that it is not as good as that which was formerly obtained from Germany, his mind can be set at rest by any chemist or agricultural authority. Any one who knows in what form the potash exists in the American-made product will declare that muriate of sulfate of potash is the same to the plant whether it be obtained from American sources or Germany, and that the plant asks no questions as to where it originated, but feeds on it just the same.

Raise Home Supplies

And Some To Spare

"Store bought" foods and feeds are too high priced for any farmer to pay, even if he could find them for sale. The wise southern farmer will get in a crop of corn and velvet beans, potatoes, vegetables of various kinds, grow a few hogs and poultry and otherwise look out for the needs of his family and his tenants. With all of food products bringing such good prices, the southern farmer should do a patriotic bit if he would raise enough to spare some for the armies while he is raising his cotton crop.

extraordinary expense which might have been prevented had we exercised foresight and courage, little by little, to get ready."

"And the Cincinnati Enquirer, in its editorial column, on January 23, says:

"Every administration program since the war began has received the hearty support of the Republican members of Congress. They have not always agreed with the wisdom of certain procedures, but in a spirit of loyalty to the nation they placed no barrier in the way of Mr. Wilson's programs. Numerically the party is now strong enough in the House of Representatives and nearly so in the Senate, to oppose successfully proposed administration legislation. It must not be permitted to become an obstructionist party, and yet its leadership could not well be blamed for asserting its strength and power in protest against unjustifiable official incompetency. The Republican party is strong enough to make such a protest effective, and, unless order and system are brought out of a very palpable chaos now existing in the conduct of both war and domestic affairs, it will be heard from and it should be heard from."

"Such pertinent criticism from Democratic sources, not to mention the more caustic arraignment recently made by Democratic United States Senators, ought to lead to greater efficiency and less blundering in the conduct of the war. The Republican party moved by the sincerest patriotism, will put forth every effort to speed up war preparations and bring victory to our righteous cause."

REPUBLICANS PLAN FOR FALL CAMPAIGN; POLITICAL STATUS IS TO BE FULLY CANVASSED

Special Committee of Women is to Look after New Voters Likely To Be Created.

REORGANIZATION SUGGESTED

Executive Committee to be Reduced From Seventeen to Five, With Definite Policy Outlined.

Washington, Feb. 2.—At last night's meeting of the Republican national Congressional committee reorganization of the committee and for the plan of campaign for the coming fall elections. Tentative propositions were submitted by the subcommittee on procedure.

One of the most important plans suggested and likely to be adopted, it is said, was the creation of a new special committee of five on the plan and scope of the campaign. This body is charged with a general survey of political conditions at large and especially with inquiry into conditions in individual districts and in each state. It is to make recommendations as to the nature of the campaign to be waged, generally and specifically by districts or regions.

Smaller Executive Committee.

It is proposed to make a radical change in the supervision of the campaign. In the last campaign the executive committee was responsible for results. The executive committee is to be reduced from its present membership of seventeen to five, and the whole committee is to take wider part in the conduct of the campaign hereafter. A new special committee of women is to be created to take care of the women's votes.

One result expected to follow from the creation of the special committee on plan and scope of the campaign is to make it possible for the full committee to have definite policies and plans to work on, and also to prevent conflicting policies being followed in different regions of the country.

Subcommittee Named.

This committee will also have jurisdiction of a campaign of elucidation and instruction along definite lines of policy which is to have the brand and trademark of the Republican party. It will pay attention to the menace of socialism in many districts where it is growing. Chairman Woods, of the full committee announced the appointment of a subcommittee, consisting of Messrs. Gould, of New York, Graham of Massachusetts to take cognizance of the approaching special election to be held March 5 to fill these vacancies. The call specified that the elections should be held in the districts as newly redistricted by the legislature. The Democrats oppose this plan, insisting that the elections be within the lines of the old districts, and the subject is now in court.

The meeting was described as harmonious and indicative of a vigorous and constructive campaign to be entered on immediately by the committee.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

On next Sunday, February 24th at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., there will be a school at the Chilton County High School Building, for Sunday School Superintendents, teachers, and pupils. The school will be divided into four different departments: Administrative, Elementary, Adult and Secondary. Each person will have the privilege of attending any part that he may wish. The conductors of this school will be experienced state workers, and we bespeak for any that may come that they will be well paid for their day in this school.

We do earnestly request and urge that every Sunday School in the County be represented by some of their workers who want to better equip themselves for winning souls to the Kingdom.

No delegates, credentials or appointments is necessary. Just Come! There will be no "dinner on the ground," each person or family will bring their own lunch and eat it during noon intermission—school children style. Come and bring a friend with you.

Clanton Sunday Schools will meet at 9:00 o'clock instead of 10:00, a.m., as usual.

MAN PAST SEVENTY FOUND IN ARMY AND IS DISCHARGED

Kingston, Ontario, Feb. 18.—Private J. W. Boucher of the 257th Canadian railway battalion has been sent home from France because he is too "old to fight." He is 73 and fought in the American Civil War with the Twenty-third Michigan Volunteers. Boucher faced the German lines for eight months and endured all the hardships. Then his age was discovered and he was discharged. King George heard of the case, and, anxious to see "the oldest man in khaki" summoned him to Buckingham palace, where, in a special audience, the King praised him for his courage and determination. Boucher arrived here today on his way to his home in Gananoque, Ont.

IN RESUMING WAR ON RUSSIA GERMANY PLANS TO ADVANCE ON RUSSIA'S CAPITAL CITY

Austrians will not Take Part in This Invasion by a Special Agreement.

Berlin, February 18.—(Via London.)—Operations having been resumed on the Russian front. The Germans have crossed the Dvina. This announcement was made by general headquarters today.

The text of the statement reads: "On the great Russian front hostilities began today at noon with an advance on Dvinsk. The Dvina has been crossed without fighting."

"Called upon by Ukraine to help in their heavy struggle against the great Russia, our troops have commenced their advance from the direction of Kovel."

Stockholm, Feb. 18.—The Germans resumed war measures against Russia today, the Social Demokraten states. Their first objective is to seize Esthonia and Livonia, it declares.

Unusual Agreement.

Amsterdam, Feb. 18.—An agreement has been reached between Germany and Austria-Hungary whereby in the event of military action being necessary, the German troops will be confined to the frontier of Great Russia, and the Austrians to Ukraine only. This announcement is made in a Vienna dispatch.

DRAFTED SOLDIERS

We publish this week a letter from an Alabama soldier, a volunteer, who is in a camp in the state of Massachusetts. We do not know the young man, but he seems to be familiar with The Union-Banner, and says he has many friends here. No doubt some who know him will read what he says with much interest.

One thing in his letter strikes us as being a point worthy of note. It is that which he says about soldiers who are "dragged into the army by the draft." He seems to hold somewhat of a bad opinion of drafted men,
for which attitude we see no reason.
Why should there not be harmony of thought and unity of sentiment, and mutual honor and respect among the volunteer soldiers and the drafted men?

Of course the country loves, honors
and respects the man who volunteers to fight. But then on the other hand there is certainly no national feeling that discounts the patriotism of the conscript. The man who wears the fighting clothes of Uncle Sam is universally loved and honored by civilians all over our broad land, with never a question as to whether he is a volunteer or a conscript. Then why should the soldiers themselves be viewing with one another for the highest honor? There is no visible reason why one soldier should believe himself superior to another in the actuating motives of a soldier's life, to wit:
patriotism and self-sacrifice for the common cause of the country. One soldier will fight as hard as another,
and you will be able to see no difference between those who volunteer and those who are drafted.

To the country as a whole, boys,
you are all the same—dearly beloved crusaders of one and the same class, and you should first of all, forget in your own minds, which of you were drafted and which are volunteers.
The country sees no difference, and why should you?

AN ABSOLUTE DICTATORSHIP

Washington, Feb. 19.—Buried in an apparently insignificant clause at the end of the second section of his bill increasing his authority, the President has proposed that he shall be given practically unlimited legislative power. The most important provision of the measure—in fact, the all important provision—is so placed that it would scarcely attract the attention of the ordinary reader, yet it proposes to bestow as absolute a power as was ever vested in a Caesar or a Napoleon.

The first section of the bill proposes that the President shall have power to redistribute among the departments, bureaus and commissions
the functions now vested in those agencies by law. The second section opens with the proposal that the President shall have power to cooperate or consolidate any of the governmental agencies or re-assign the personnel to new duties. So far, the measure is relatively unimportant,
though it goes farther, even there,
than anyone has ever heretofore suggested it would be wise to go.

But the last clause of that section
says:

"And to employ by executive order
any additional agency or agencies and to vest therein the performance of such functions as he may deem appropriate."

No language could be used to convey greater power than is therein defined. If such a bestowal of authority could be constitutional at all,
it would give the President power to make orders with all the force of law,
to create courts to try offenders against those orders, to appoint judges to preside over those courts, and to punish offenders as he might direct. The mere reading of that clause should condemn it in the minds of all men who believe in a republican form of government such as ours.

We are face to face with a proposal for establishment of an absolute dictatorship. Brought out of concealment into the lime-light of publicity, the issue should be fully discussed, and decided with a promptness that will be an unmistakable rebuke to further instance upon securing it.

INTERNING COL. ROOSEVELT

Tulsa, Okla., — Democrats have signed a petition to President Wilson urging him to intern former President Roosevelt "as a public menace"
because of his criticism of the incapacity of the war department.

It is not surprising the Oklahoma
Democratic politicians want Connel

Roosevelt interned. They believe in interning all those who do not believe in standing by Democratic politicians
even in violation of moral and statutory law and at the sacrifice of the public welfare. The Oklahoma Democracy has passed election and registration laws, and even adopted constitutional provisions, deliberately intended to defraud all opposition parties and persons of a voice in government. The Supreme Court of the United States has been called on to undo some state constitutional legislation in violation of the principles of genuine democracy as guaranteed by the United States constitution. But the Oklahoma Democrats have passed laws denying to opposition parties representation on election boards. They have adopted the most extreme methods of stifling not only minority rights, but majority rule. Like the sectional Democratic politicians in general they would like not only to gag and disfranchise, but jail all those who do not submit to the dictation of the Democratic party machine.

Interning Colonel Roosevelt, however, would prove to be quite some job. The Colonel will be interned probably only when he is interned.
His patriotism cannot be discredited
by any gang of Oklahoma Democrac-ic stay-at-home politicians, or by any gang of politicians anywhere. He has four sons in the military service of the country, and would be on the firing line in France himself if the opportunity had not been denied him in the fear that his service abroad might give him political prestige. The demand that a man of Colonel Roosevelt's proven patriotism be locked up for being more loyal to the men who are doing the fighting in this war than those who are doing the talking;
more loyal to his country than any blundering officeholder, will only serve to warm the country that under the pretense of war necessity there are politicians who would pervert the powers of government itself
to personal and partisan purposes,
and who would make of this country,
if they could, another Venezuela,
where criticism of any politician in power, however much it may be demanded by the national safety and wellbeing, is sufficient cause for imprisonment or execution. The country needs to be saved from democracy of the Oklahoma brand, as horribly exemplified in the laws and political practices of that state, if it is to remain a republic. A good big job of internment is going to be performed by the American people in November, and the Oklahoma Democracy will do well to escape a life sentence to political internment.

RED TAPE OR PLAIN INEFFICIENCY?

How can we believe the statements made to the congressional investigating committees that our soldiers are suffering from the cold and are exposed to the menace of pneumonia because the government could not find overcoats for them? In Portland alone are enough overcoats to clothe a regiment, and many of the coats have been made since the war began. Anyone with money can go into any of our scores of shops and get overcoats. What then was to prevent the government from buying overcoats for the soldiers?

The overcoats were not of regular color and cut? Well, what of that?
Would it not have been better to have our soldiers clad in overcoats of any shape and tone rather than have them sent to the hospital through ex-posure to the rigors of winter weather? When the commanders of some of our cantonments found that the war department had not provided enough rifles for drill purposes, drilling was not dispensed with. We saw our young men going through the manual of arms with broomsticks instead of rifles. But the commanders who had the sagacity to use mere broomsticks in place of the usual equipment did not have the authority to procure overcoats for their poorly clad men, many of whom went to the hospital and some of whom died.

The shortage of overcoats is a very serious indictment against the methods of the department, which apparently has not yet got on a war basis. The thousands of manufacturers who have been making overcoats for our civilians might have been well employed in making overcoats for our soldiers. If we can blame the lack of clothing for the army on red tape, we shall be glad to do so. But the loss of our soldiers who have perished for lack of sufficient clothes seems to have been due to inefficiency, which is no less deadly than the poison gas of the Hun. — Portland (Ore.) Spectator.

THE HAND THAT HOLDS THE PURSE STRINGS

The Republicans of New York are reported to have agreed that one of the officers on the State ticket this fall shall go to a woman in recognition of the numerous newly-enfranchised electorates which the Empire State now possesses. The State Treas-ureship is the place which is generally thought will fall to woman's share. Very fit and proper. The purse strings in many a household have been held with success by a woman—and what is a state but an enlarged household?

The way all these different "Democratic" parties in Alabama are calling one another different kind of "names" reminds us of when the kettle called the pot "Black."

SENATE CONSIDERATION OF TREATIES

There is distinction between a secret treaty and a treaty which is considered in a secret executive session of the Senate. A secret treaty is one which is negotiated between chiefs of state without ratification being required by any body representative of the people. Such were the treaties which were found in such large numbers in the Russian archives
at Petrograd and published liberally by the Bolsheviks when they came into power. Treaties made by this country are considered in secret executive session in order that there may be a larger freedom of comment and information relating to the motives which have led the contracting governments to conclude the agreement—and all treaties which the United States makes are immediately published. We do not have the "secret diplomacy" of Europe, against which President Wilson has inveighed though he is by no means the first nor the most cogent critic of the system. Whether the consideration of treaties in open session would be an improvement is still a moot question.
Senator Borah will be able to advocate his proposed change in the rules of the Senate with vigor, because he is a vigorous man. But the presumption is always in favor of retaining an existing custom unless some decided benefit will result from a change.

NO WHOLESALE CONDEMNATION

There has been pretty conclusive evidence that some of their "dollar-a-year" men were guilty of turning war business to their personal friends for unconscionable profitting purposes.
This was quite likely to occur; but it would be unjust to condemn or place under suspension the whole list of "dollar-a-year" men because one or two of their number are unable to subordinate selfishness to patriotism.
There are in America a great many men whose ability and enterprise have been such as to enable them to accumulate independent fortunes by entirely honest methods. At the same time that they have been accumulating fortunes for themselves, they have benefited the country by introducing new methods, new inventions and more extensive production at lower costs. The government is in need of such men. It needs their ability to grasp and solve large problems, their experience and force of character. To denounce the whole group because a few have been traitors to the trust imposed upon them will discourage all from further efforts. The proper course is to ascertain which of them have rendered faithful and valuable service and accord to them the honor which is due them. Thus we shall, as we should encourage other men to contribute to the general welfare the wealth of knowledge and experience they have gathered in the years of successful private effort. This government cannot be made a success unless it has the guiding hands of men who have made a success in their own individual affairs. It is well that the brand of infamy shall be imprinted upon the brow of the traitors, but we shall accomplish more by placing laurel upon the brows of the faithful.

DANGEROUS INFLATION

Thus far we have been able to finance the war and all of its collateral activities without inflation—that iniquitous concomitant of all our previous wars except the brief struggle against Spain. Yet, the administration now proposes a measure, which if adopted as it stands, will open the door to inflation such as we have never had even in the days of the printing-press money of the colonial period. The war finance corporation which Mr. McAdoo is so anxious to have established and officered by men whom he will select will have a capital of half a billion dollars, but it will be permitted to issue its notes
to a sum eight times that amount,
and these notes will possess all the re-discount value of the best paper under the Federal Reserve System. This is in excess of the per capita circulation of the country, which was $39.29 in 1916, the latest figures available; and it is evident that to double the quantity of the circulating medium cannot but have a tremendous effect upon the cost of living from which every citizen is already suffering.

THE DEADLY PARALLEL

Getting Rid of Ticks and Alcohol.

In an Editorial of the 19th inst., entitled "The Tick Counties" the Montgomery Advertiser displays great concern over the exercise of local option by several counties in the state which prefer to keep their cattle ticks instead of getting rid of them. Cattle with ticks are ticky cattle; men with whiskey are alcoholic. Let us lay down the parallel:

"Several counties have voted against tick eradication within recent weeks. What's the trouble? Without ticks to ruin them and make them pariahs among healthy animals, cattle are salable at much higher prices. No tick infested cow is of much value. The livestock industry cannot go forward with tick parasites. To tolerate ticks in a county is to impose unfair and unjust conditions upon the farmers in that county who try to keep their cattle clean and healthy. Their efforts are largely in vain if their neighbors do not keep their cattle clean and healthy. So much for the material side; so much also for the ethics as between neighbor and neighbor.

"But there is still one other consideration which we fear is not properly emphasized, and that is the matter of human cruelty to dumb beasts. A tick-covered cow is a sick cow, a suffering cow. There is never any relief from the multitude of biting, stinging ticks on the animal's hide. These parasites suck the blood and lower the vitality of cattle, thus debilitate their entire systems. The milk such cows give is not as nourishing, healthful milk altogether desirable for babies and adult humans to drink. It is not only cruel to allow a helpless cow to bear her tick illness unrelieved, but such indifference on the part of the voting cattle owner lowers the value of the milk she gives, but which he probably sells at regular rates, provided the poor cow gives enough milk to sell.

"Alabama has gone forward fast in meeting and overcoming the fever tick. It is unpleasant to see at this advanced hour in the era of progressive live stock growing three of the enlightened counties of Alabama, for one insufficient reason or another, deliberately turn their backs upon tick eradication."

Several counties voted against alcohol eradication. What is the trouble? Without alcohol to ruin them and make pariahs among citizens, men are valued at much higher prices. No alcoholic is of much value. Human development and civilization can not go forward with alcoholic parasites. To tolerate alcoholics in a county is to impose unfair and unjust conditions upon the citizens in that county who are sober themselves and try to raise their families in the same way. Their efforts are largely in vain if they and their families must mix with alcoholics and their families. So much for the material side; so much also for the ethics as between neighbor and neighbor.

But there is another consideration which we fear is not properly emphasized, and that is the matter of the cruelty of alcoholics to their families. A family dominated and sired by an alcoholic is a sick and suffering family. There is never any relief from biting anxiety and the stinging offences which an alcoholic visits upon the family, and is always liable to break out upon the community. Alcohol sucks the blood and lowers the vitality of men, thus debilitate their entire systems and those of their families. Alcohol is not nourishing, nor a healthful drink for babies or adult humans either. It is not only cruel to allow a cruel alcoholic to suffer in his weakness unrelieved, but such indifference on the part of the voters of a county lowers the standard of its citizenship and demoralizes the value of its products, provided the poor alcoholic has products enough to sell outside of his whiskey bill.

Alabama has gone forward fast in meeting and overcoming the whiskey fever. It is unpleasant to see at this advanced hour in human development some of the supposedly enlightened people of the state, for one insufficient reason or another, deliberately turn their backs upon alcohol eradication.

(So far runs the parallel.) Now, if the Advertiser had only used language thus in behalf of humanity and had intensified it in proportion to the greater value of a man over a cow, it would have said something worthy of its ambition for influence.

"WITH THE COLORS"

Dear Editor:

Ft. Banks, Mass., Feb. 3.— If you will be so kind as to allow me a space in your paper, I will write to you and to my many friends in my dear old home state, which I dearly love. I have many friends there, and a number from there who are today spending their time somewhere in France. Some day I suppose I will be over there with them.

I enlisted in the army October 2nd, 1916. There was no reason to cause me to join except that I just simply wanted to be with my friends who had given up their good jobs and left their homes and were rendering their services to Uncle Sam. I enlisted in the regular army and was sent to Columbus, Ohio to a recruiting station. I was put out in tents for 36 days where I almost froze. The third day I was there I realized what a happy home was, but I did not complain for I knew that there was no use. From there I was sent to Fort Warren, Mass., a small island about one-fourth of a mile wide. There they put us to drilling five hours a day and it never went above zero the three weeks I stayed there.

From Ft. Warren I was sent to Fort Banks, and I have been here ever since. While here I have passed several happy hours, but I must say that I have also passed several dreadful ones; for I am a long way from home and don't know whether or not I shall ever see my parents again, and my many friends at home. But I am trusting in our great Keeper that I shall some day get back to them and can say that I am proud that I did my bit toward helping win this war. I have a lot of friends in France now that are doing their part and have written me telling me to stay here if I can; but still I don't consider that my life is any dearer to me than theirs is to them, and I am perfectly willing to go at any time.

I am in the army and I know it isn't like being at home with dear old mother and the good feather bed; but just now what are the poor boys in France doing far over the sea? Are they having plenty to eat? Are they having plenty of clothes? Are they having a good bed on which to lay their bodies to rest? To my best knowledge they are badly in need for several comforts which even we enjoy in America.

I had a letter from one of my relatives in Alabama. She spoke of what the society of which she was a member was doing to provide for the soldiers and sailors, and you can imagine how proud I was to know that they were trying to do their bit. The ladies here in the little town of Winthrop are doing everything that is in their power to help and aid the soldiers and sailors. I have received a good many presents from the Ladies Aid and Red Cross here in Massachusetts, and I have met lots of nice people up here and have won a number of friends.

Now just a word for the younger boys at home some of whom will probably some day have to help in this war. Boys, if you have to go don't wait and have to be drafted, but volunteer like a man, for it takes good old volunteers to make an army. I have spent some time with drafted men and I know some of them had to leave their homes, and still they call the regulars a "bunch of bums" but we don't mind that for it takes volunteers to make an army true and brave.

I am quarantined in a measles ward—another boy and myself nursing cases of measles, and we are not allowed to stick our heads out of the door. It looks pretty hard but all is fair in love and war; so we are making the best of it we can. That is why I am writing this letter to my old paper which I always like to read.

Now, if the Editor will help me out in all my mistakes and excuse bad writing I will close with much love to one and all.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

MT. PLEASANT

The Mt. Pleasant Literary Society will meet next Friday night. A short program consisting of songs, recitations, readings, and a debate will be rendered. Everybody invited to attend.

There is quite a bit of sickness here—anything from measles to small pox.

Rev. Lewis Thomas filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Little Wallace Vickers celebrated his seventh birthday the 14th. Mr. Wallace C. Edler of Thorsby spent the day, and the teachers, Prof. John M. Dye, Miss Margaret Graves and Prof. Herbert Lowery took dinner with him.

There is being a brass band organized at Mt. Pleasant; so look out for music.

Prof. J. K. T. Daniel of Birmingham is spending a few days with his homefolks.

J. Wiley Foshee and wife went to Birmingham Sunday to attend the funeral of a relative.

Miss Alvie Dozier spent last Friday night with Miss Elma Daniel.

TEACHERS' MEETING

The next regular monthly teachers' meeting will be held at the Baptist Church in Clanton on March 2nd at 10:00 o'clock, a.m. Owing to the fact that twenty-five of our teachers were conscripted for government work on the last meeting day the meeting was postponed till the above day, at which time the same program as was announced for the February meeting, will be rendered.

I have been appointed by Prof. J. Alex Moore, Secretary of the Alabama Educational Association to secure advanced enrollment for the annual A. E. A., to be held at Birmingham in March. The annual fee is one dollar, and I hope you will pay same at the next teachers' meeting, but if you can't attend, then please mail same to me by that date.

For many reasons, a large attendance is desired this year. Tremendous responsibility rests upon the shoulders of the public school teachers during this great world crisis. Large and looming larger are the complex problems confronting the American people, and it is important for the teachers to concentrate their energies and make such sacrifices as may enable them to render the maximum service. Even if it is impossible for you to attend the Birmingham meeting, enroll in order that you may receive a copy of the proceedings.

Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE,
Chm. Ex. Comm.

LONG STAPLE COTTON IS THE COTTON FOR THE FARMER

I have tried it for two years and find that it grows and fruits well in this climate. I planted two seed in 1915 made one pound of seed cotton. Hand picked the cotton and dropped those seed in 1916 and made one hundred pounds of seed cotton, thereby giving two bushels of seed and thirty pounds of lint. In 1917 with the two bushels of seed I planted four acres fertilized with cotton seed meal and phosphate; about three hundred pounds to the acre and cultivated shallow. Made two bales and shipped it to Coosa Mfg. Co., Piedmont. The freight was $2.25 a bale and I got 38 cents for one bale and 37½ for the other.

I have a limited amount of seed for sale at Taylor Bros' poultry house at $2.50 per bushel, also will have stalks of cotton to show how it grows and fruits.

As the time has come when we must plant more grain crops and less cotton it will be better to raise a better staple therefore getting $40 to $50 per bale more for long staple than short staple.

T. G. TAYLOR.

NEW LAW PARTNERSHIP

A partnership for the practice of law has been formed by Messrs A. C. Smith, B. Guy Smith, and J. B. Atkinson, with offices in the Smith Building across the street from the court house. The style of the firm has been designated as Smith, Smith & Atkinson.

The members of the firm need no introduction to Clanton people, and the citizens of the county. All three have practicing law here for some time and have already become well and reputably known.

The co-ordination of their energies and talents will make a strong union in the legal profession.

Farmers in Chilton County are now receiving their money on the Federal Farm Loans through Mr. B. Guy Smith, attorney in charge of the system for this county.

TICK ERADICATION APRIL 1

Pursuant to a petition of the required number of voters of the county, Judge Reynolds has called an election to be held on the question of compulsory cattle dipping for the eradication of ticks in Chilton County. The date of the election will be the first day of April, 1918.

MARRIAGES

IN MEMORIAM

The death angel visited the home of Mr. G. W. Jones the 9th of February, 1918, and carried his spirit away. He leaves a wife and nine children—six boys and three girls, and a host of friends and relatives. He died from measles and pneumonia.

We thank Dr. V. J. Gragg for the kindness he showed during his illness for we feel sure that he did all he could for him. We do thank especially our friends and neighbors for their kindness during this great bereavement.

His remains were laid to rest in Macedonia Cemetery.

FARMERS WARNED OF NEW SWINDLE

MAN IS ADVERTISING THAT HE WILL ORGANIZE FARM LOAN ASSOCIATIONS FOR $500.

SMALL TOWNS MAKE RECORD

Ahead of Cities in Buying the Smile-age Books—American Soldiers Lost on Tuscania Protected by Government Insurance.

Washington.—Another scheme for swindling the farmers of the United States has been discovered by the federal farm loan board. A man advertising himself as an authorized organizer of national farm loan associations is sending out advertising matter emblazoned with the national flag, stating that he will organize such associations at $500 each, and will teach others the trick for a certain sum of money. His advertisements have reached farmers and business men over a large part of the United States. He claims to be so busy organizing national farm loan associations that he needs help, but will take time to teach others for a monetary consideration.

All such representations are fraudulent. In order to borrow under the farm loan act, it is necessary for farmers to organize co-operative national farm loan associations in their local communities. It is a violation of a ruling of the federal farm loan board, published more than a year ago, for a national farm loan association or a joint-stock land bank to spend any money for promotion purposes. Associations thus organized will not be chartered by the federal farm loan board. Farmers are warned therefore against anyone asking a fee for his proffered services in connection with applying for a loan under the federal farm loan act.

Results of the smile-age campaign, which put books of theater admission coupons on sale in nearly every town and city in the country, show the small towns and villages far ahead of the cities in overselling their proportionate quotas of books.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."

Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton prices.

It's a time above all others to play safe; to produce all possible food, grain and forage supplies on your own acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground, rightly planted, rightly tended and kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you made on the best three acres of cotton you ever grew!

Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. It's Free. Send for it today to H. G. HASTINGS CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv't.

Dreadful Cough Cured.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadful for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

Corn Millers Take Notice.

All corn mills in the state having a capacity of 300 bushels in 24 hours, should have a license from the Food Administration. Those which have not obtained such license should do so at once and can obtain same without cost by writing to the Law Department, Food Administration, Washington, D. C.

All mills having capacity of less than 300 bushels in 24 hours should register with the State Food Administrator. This can be done by writing to R. M. Noble, State Food Administrator, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala., and stating grinding capacity for 24 hours, name of owner and postoffice address.

The mills that register will be given certain privileges which unregistered mills will not be given. The time for registration has been extended to March 15th and every miller who expects to have these special privileges must register by that date. Do not let your business suffer. Register at once. The Hen That Lays the Golden Egg.

The Food Administration urges every farmer not to kill or sell any hens or pullets this spring. The eggs they will lay are worth more than their dead carcasses. After the laying season the carcass will be as valuable as it is now. In order to prevent the slaughter of the hens that are "laying the golden eggs," the following order has been issued to all dealers in poultry and eggs:

"The licensee shall not between February 11 and April 30, purchase, ship, sell or negotiate the sale of any live, or freshly killed hens or pullets; provided that nothing in this rule shall prevent the purchase, sale or shipment of live hens or pullets for egg production purposes."

Corn Speculators Fooling Themselves. If there are any citizens in Alabama so unpatriotic and grasping as to desire to speculate in food stuffs, especially corn, they had as well change their minds. They are surely riding to fall. The Food Administration will not stand for such attempts, and will surely detect any such nefarious practices.

Only one man is entitled to and will be allowed to reap any benefit from increases in price and that man is the farmer who raises the corn that the people may have bread. The middleman will be allowed a reasonable profit but no more. It makes no difference what price he may have paid for the corn, when he sells it the Food Administration will see that he gets a reasonable profit above expenses and no more. For instance, a man may now be hoarding corn which he bought at the lowest prices that have been paid since this year's crop came on the market. He thinks when corn reaches its highest level of prices later in the year, he will sell out and pocket large profits. But the Food Administration for Alabama will be very certain to camp on his trail and make him feel the power of violated law, unpatriotic action and despicable conduct.

It would call him up for investigation, compel him to show the prices paid for the corn and then allow him expenses and a reasonable profit and then see that he returned to the farmers from whom he bought the corn, the difference that he had expected to put in his own pocket. It would say to him, "You must go and hunt up the farmers from whom you bought that corn, return to them this speculative profit, obtain their receipts and bring them to us. We will then consider whether or not you shall be prosecuted before the Federal Courts and be barred from further engaging in handling food stuffs during the continuation of this Food Administration." Such a man would indeed be lucky if he escaped facing a jury of his outraged fellow citizens.

The Food Administration calls on all good citizens to help it prevent such conditions. Report any person, no matter who it be, the bigger the better, who attempts to hoard corn for speculative purposes. Report anyone who attempts to charge more than a reasonable profit and expenses for handling corn, regardless of the price he may have paid for it. To do this will be as patriotic an act as to report a German spy who was poisoning cattle or burning barns.

Watch the Waste.

The Domestic Science Teacher at the Florence Normal School weighed the waste from the plates and cups of 160 girls and found it was 80 pounds a day. She appealed to the girls to stop this waste and now it does not amount to two pounds a day. Can you think of any "waste gates" on your farm? If so, shut them tight. A pound of food saved is a pound made.

Eat a Plenty.

Do not get the idea that the Food Administration does not want you to eat a plenty. Save wheat flour, meat and fats but eat as much of everything else as you need. Uncle Sam wants strong and vigorous people who can work to win the war. Those who work must have plenty of good food. We have it and can all have plenty and at the same time save those things we must send to the fighting men.

Ask For Information.

There is a County Food Administrator in each county in the state who will be glad to answer your questions about any rule or plan of the Administration. You should feel free to call on him or write direct to the Alabama Food Administrator, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala. We want to let the people know what we are doing and why we are doing it, and we feel that we will have their help and support.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mrs. W. L. Smith of Marshalltown, Iowa, spent several days of last week and Sunday of this week in Thorsby visiting her daughter who is a teacher in Thorsby Institute. The teachers and students of the Institute were all glad to meet Mrs. Smith, and were sorry to see her leave so soon. She left Thorsby Monday for her return trip home.

Mr. Raymond B. Kicklighter is spending this week in Thorsby. He expects to leave for the army soon.

The Helen Keller Literary Society held its regular meeting last Friday night. An interesting program was rendered including a "stunt" by the faculty of the Institute. Miss Besie Hughes was elected Treasurer to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Pope's departure. It was announced that the next program would consist of music. The Literary Society holds meetings every other Friday night at 7:30 and is always glad to have visitors.

Miss Helen Jenkins, Associate Principal of Thorsby Institute, who has been doing field work for the school, returned to Thorsby Friday of last week and expects to remain for the balance of the school year.

The lecture by Sergeant Flahiff on Friday night will be preceded by a patriotic song led by Mrs. Nottage and the Institute Chorus. Come and hear the Marseillaise!

Evangelistic services are being held at the Congregational church every evening this week except Friday, beginning at 7:00 o'clock and closing at 7:45. The meetings are being conducted by Rev. Chas. T. Rogers, with music under the direction of Mrs. Nottage and a chorus choir. A short song service is held at the church beginning at 6:45 each evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mr. Zell Pope left Thorsby Monday morning for his home at Bolling, Ala. Mr. Pope has been attending the Institute and is going home for the purpose of reviewing his study of telegraphy. He then plans to join the navy as a wireless operator.

Don't fail to hear Sergeant Flahiff at Thorsby Institute on next Friday night. His thrilling story of how the Canadian soldiers went "over the top" against the "boches" at Vimy Ridge and at Ypres will be of special interest at this time when our own boys are coming into action. The lecture will be illustrated by the use of the gas mask and a trench canvas. Admission 50c, 35c, 25c.

The next number of the Lyceum Course, following the lecture by Sergeant Flahiff Friday night, will be a concert by the Lotus Company, on March 13th. This promises to be one of the musical treats of the season.

Dr. Ira Landrith, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., will speak in Thorsby on Friday night March 1, under the joint auspices of the B. Y. P. U., the Luther League, and the Y. P. S. C. E. In connection with this meeting which will be on the nature of a "Dry America" Rally, there will be a contest between the different rooms of the Public School for a United States flag, which will be given to the room securing the most votes from those attending the rally. Music will be furnished by the Institute Chorus.

Early Sunday morning some one entered Mr. G. D. Edwards' store after having cut the glass in the front door so as to allow entrance. The intruder worked the combination of the safe and succeeded in opening it and took therefrom cash amounting to over $100.00. He then made his escape taking with him various articles of merchandise in addition to money. No suspects have been found up to date.

The basket ball team of Thorsby Institute played the Chilton County High School team last Friday afternoon beginning at four o'clock. The Chilton County High School won by a score of 23 to 15.

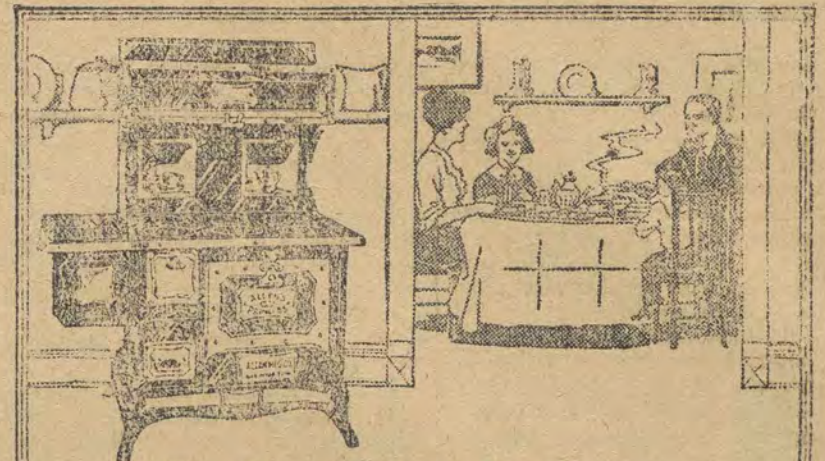

Her many friends were saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. A. Danielson at her home near Thorsby on Friday of last week. Mrs. Danielson had been suffering for some time with a cancer, and the end came as a release from suffering to one who was fully prepared to meet her Master. Her maiden name was Gunhilde Sorenson. She was born in Berway May 8, 1845. She came to America in 1870 and was married to Aaman Danielson in 1871. They have been residents of Thorsby for about ten years. Although eight children were born to them none are now living. To those who knew her Mrs. Danielson was a true example of quiet, unassuming Christianity. Her presence will be missed by her many friends. Funeral services were conducted at the house Sunday afternoon by Rev. S. H. Herbert, and interment was made in the city cemetery.

G. D. Edwards, a prominent merchant of Thorsby was in Clanton on Tuesday.

Sacked hulls mean convenience and economy

PUTTING Buckeye Hulls in sacks is just one of the important little things that have been done to make this roughage an improvement over the old style. This makes easier to handle when putting them in the barn and easier to measure out when mixing feed. It keeps them clean and makes your help think of them as forage—not as bedding.

BUCKEYE HULLS
COTTONSEED
LINTLESS

Even though sacked, Buckeye Hulls sell for much less than loose old style hulls. It costs us money to sack them but we believe that anything that will help you use this product to best advantage is worth the expense.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls are free of lint which has no food value. 2000 pounds of real roughage to the ton—not 1500. Buckeye Hulls allow better assimilation of food.

No trash or dust. They mix well with other food. They take less space in the barn. Every pound goes farther.

Kimbraugh Bros., Indianola, Miss., say:

"We are using Buckeye Hulls and are very much pleased with them. We think they are superior to old style hulls."

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

RULING CONCERNING THE HOARDING OF FLOUR

JUDGE REYNOLDS MAKES EXPLANATION OF THE ORDER OF GOVERNMENT.

Clanton, Ala., February 27, 1918. Editor Union-Banner: Several have inquired of me if they have to have license to ship corn, beans and peas.

I will state that any one shipping by the car load is considered doing a wholesale business and would be required to have a license, which can be obtained by applying at Law Department Food Administration, Washington, D. C.

I publish a letter from the Food Administration in answer to an inquiry of mine regarding the hoarding of flour, which explains itself.

I am in hopes all our people will obey the law, and that not a single one of our citizens will have to be prosecuted. I am doing all I can to keep them posted.

It has been reported that some merchants take certificates from farmers before they get the flour and file the certificate with the wholesale merchant to buy flour with.

This is not legal, the flour must be delivered when certificate is signed, and must be a real farmer, living on the farm, and he must have the same amount of meal at home already ground for use, and it must be consumed before he buys any more.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Food Admr. for Chilton County. Letter to Reynolds.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 22, 1918. Judge L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Judge:

You are correct in your construction of the license schedule in that it does exempt from license retail merchants who do not do an annual business of $100,000 or more.

Answering your question in reference to farmers who had purchased large supplies of flour before they understood the rules, we beg to say that we have determined in cases of this kind, where the farmer voluntarily brings the excess amount of flour back and sells it to his merchant, we will not be disposed to push the matter and further. We suggest that you see your local merchants and ask them to notify the farmers to whom they have sold these large supplies of flour that they must bring them back. In this way the farmer can put himself in line with the law and the flour he gotten back into the market, which is of course, the prime object of the law against hoarding.

We do not know what paper could have stated on last Sunday that there had been a ruling that farmers could not buy flour by making a certificate that they had meal or cereal at home. No such ruling has been made by this office. On the contrary, we want the farmer who lives on his farm and raised his own corn to take it to the mill and have it ground, make the proper certificate to his grocer and get his flour.

We appreciate very much the assistance that you are giving us and the valuable contribution of your time and energy that you are making to the Government's service at this time by helping us with the food conservation laws.

Yours very truly, U.S. Food Admr. for Ala., Per R. H. MANGUM.

Our good friend R. A. Miller of Lomax was in Clanton on Saturday.

DANGERS OF EARLY SPRING

Present indications are that spring time is breaking upon us nearly a month earlier than usual. When the warm days come, birds begin to sing, and trees begin to bud, people get restless and want to plant their crops. This is a time when planting seed are very high and scarce. There is not enough seed in existence to plant all the crops the second time. When a considerable percentage of stands are lost, a large quantity of food is wasted for the nation and much money value is lost. Farmers should use good judgment and plant only the hardiest crops early and arrange to protect such crops as are easily injured by frost or freezes, both of which are almost sure to come. Gardens may be planted and sweet potatoes bedded. Covering should be provided for potato beds, beans and other tender plants that usually succumb to cold. Corn may be planted at any time hereafter, as it will spring again after being bitten down by frost. It can only be destroyed by freezing to the depth of the germ. Orchards have already sprung to the danger point. Wood should be distributed at convenient places throughout the orchards and everything made ready for keeping the temperature up with fires in case of damaging weather. Without such precaution the fruit crop is in serious danger of being lost.

Cotton should be planted in South Alabama up to Montgomery from March 20th to April 10th, Central Alabama between Montgomery and Birmingham from April 1st to April 20th, and from Birmingham north April 15th to May 1st. Velvet beans and peanuts should be planted in the month of May.

Labor Conditions.

The shortage in farm labor is one of the nation's greatest problems. Meetings of public officials have been and are still being held. Many "Be it resolved" and "Whereas" are being offered, but so far no one has offered a practical public solution of the question. One of the latest plans offered is for the government to allow the farmer boys who have been drafted to return to their homes to make a crop and then report for service abroad in the summer. This plan is without logic to begin with. It is impossible to give them military training when they stand one in a hill behind a plow or hoe handles. They would be poor subjects for fighting Boches, if trained under such system. The number of farm laborers in the army is small compared to those in the ship yards, nitrate plants, munition plants, laborers at cantonments, and all other public works where high wages are being paid. These industries are necessary and must go on, hence no remedy there.

In our opinion, the labor problem can only be solved by the boys and girls, patriotic women, gentlemen of leisure, old men and retired men going vigorously to work on the farms and gardens. Every habitually idle man or boy physically capable of service should be forced to produce something or be declared a vagrant and be dealt with as such regardless of his means of support. We do not need any drones now. We need the Captain John Smith plan and back it up—work or stop eating. Are you a producer or a parasite? Your conscience will answer and the world will know your answer by the fruits of your labor.

HAS SOLD HOGS

J. F. Jones, a prominent farmer of Jumbo was in Clanton last Thursday. He came here to sell some hogs, and when he went back home he carried a little over $167, which he got for them. Besides those sold Thursday Mr. Jones has already sold this season $75 worth of hogs. He stated to the Union-Banner that he didn't plant any cotton on his farm last year. He put his time to corn, beans, and hogs. The result has paid him well for his efforts. Besides what meat Mr. Jones has sold we'll bet you he has a lot of sausage and things that would make you smack.

Jean Wyatt has gone to Sheffield, to accept a position on the Sheffield Standard.

Boll Weevil Not Killed By the Winter Weather

No Reason to Believe that the Cotton Pest has Been Exterminated—Caution to Farmers.

It is extremely unwise for cotton farmers to assume that the freezes of the last weeks have exterminated the cotton boll weevil, says the Department of Agriculture, in answer to many inquiries from the South.

During the past winter the temperatures have been lower than at any time since 1899, and there can hardly be any doubt that this extreme cold has reduced the numbers of weevils in many sections of the South. The impression has been gained by many planters that the weevil has been reduced to negligible numbers, if not altogether exterminated. It is too much to expect that the temperature have been uniformly cold enough to absolutely exterminate the weevil from large areas. The records of the Department of Agriculture indicate that there is at least from 1 to 5 per cent survival of the weevil in those sections which have been thoroughly studied as against a normal of 7.6 per cent survival. This percentage of surviving weevils is sufficient to restock the cotton fields of the South before the end of the growing season.

There is always a possibility that there may be some specially sheltered spots even in the more northerly infested regions where some weevils will be able to survive. The instinct of the weevil leads it to seek the warmest shelter available in the vicinity of its breeding ground. It will shelter itself under the bark of trees, or in thick hanging moss upon the trees, under the thatch of roofs, and in straw stacks, in seed storehouses and gins, and in other buildings. It is therefore quite easy to see that no matter how cold the external temperatures are there is always a probability that there will be weevils surviving in each field sheltered securely enough to carry them through the winter.

The experience of 25 years with the boll weevil in this country has shown that one or two weevils surviving in a field can easily produce enough offspring to destroy all but the earliest portions of the crop.

No reliable prediction can be made on the basis of what happened during the winter. Frequently seasons in which very few weevils pass the winter have been followed by great injury to the crop by the weevil. This has been due to favorable conditions brought about by heavy rains during the early part of the growing season, which permitted the weevils to overcome their losses during the winter or to early dispersion of the weevils from the warmer sections of the cotton belt, and sometimes to severe tropical storms which very frequently sweep over the gulf states. It is therefore apparent that the conditions of the spring and summer will largely determine the extent of damage due to the weevil, rather than the number of weevils which survive in a given locality.

In the opinion of the Department of Agriculture, it would be very unfortunate if the prevailing impression concerning the boll weevil should increase the acreage of cotton at the expense of food crops. At the present time, what is most urgently needed throughout the South is an increased production of food and feed stuffs. There is every indication that the normal acreage in cotton, with proper cultivation, will give a supply of the staple sufficient for all purposes. It is clearly a matter of patriotism as well as sound judgment for the planters to increase the acreage in food crops. The planters who increase the cotton acreage can not be assured that his crop will not suffer greatly from the boll weevil attack, and will be utilizing his land in a way which does not best serve the necessities of the country.

Director General McAdoo has already issued a warning that transportation difficulties in 1918 may make it difficult, if not impossible, to supply the food and feed promptly to communities that neglect to provide their own necessities. To say the least, the drain on transportation is so heavy that any exceptional requirements for hauling food and feed to the South will be an actual embarrassment to the government in the prosecution of the war. The department of agriculture is not asking the South to contribute materially to the nation's food and feed supply, but is asking the South only to feed itself so that it may not become a burden upon the food-producing sections of the country which must strain their energies to the utmost in order to feed the armies and maintain the civil populations that are behind them.

WALKER APPOINTED SOLICITOR

ANOTHER CHILTON BOY WRITES FROM FRANCE

Paris, France, Jan. 28, 1918.—My Dear Mother:

Your letter was received, and am sorry you and father are sick, but hope you are well by now and enjoying good health again. I am proud to write you, mother, that my health is excellent for the time being, and I sure hope I can have good health while in France for this place is not a place for a man that is sick and I have a perfect horror for the hospital. If there ever was a person who enjoys out-door life I believe I am one of them. I believe if I could not get fresh air I would be sick.

Mother, I haven't seen Bush or Grover yet but am hoping every day that I may see someone that I knew at home. We have three men besides myself from dear old Alabama, one sergeant 1st class, one sergeant and corporal. So you see Alabama is represented in 1st Amex Force in France. Has Wheeler quit his job? Tell him for my sake and many others that are away from home to do his bit toward winning this awful war.

Received a letter from Ila today. Am so glad you are sending the syrup and gloves; I can hardly tell how I did appreciate them for we have had some awful cold weather here.

I sure will be glad when summer time comes. I won't have to fight but I am going to do my part toward those that do have to fight. Tell father I am so proud to get his letter and that I hope to be back on the farm with him some day. I wrote you about the ten thousand dollar life insurance I have taken with the government. If I get killed you will get $57,000 per month for twenty years, and if I get disabled to work I will draw it myself. Mother, things are very disagreeable here now, but I am trying to be a good boy and going to do my best, and if ever I get through this war I will know something that will help me for life, and the best part I have my friend Mr. Holmer still with me. We are great chums. I sure hope we can get back to dear old Alabama and loved ones together.

Lots of love to all; from your son, Cpl. Bert H. Walker, Ambulance Co. 13, Amex Force, Paris, France.

MILLION DOLLAR ANNUAL LOSS FROM DISEASES IN SCHOOLS

The slogan of the coming state campaign will be "Conservation." Every candidate will tell the dear people how, if elected, he will save the state's money.

The State Board of Health is a candidate for popular favor. All must know that the Board is on the job all the time to save something of infinitely more value than dollars. Every thinking man knows that the above is true, but it is not inappropriate to show that money can be saved thru public health agencies.

The report of the Department of Education for the year 1916 discloses some remarkable facts which the public should know. The school census showed more than 780,000 children of school age in the state. The school enrollment amounted to 503,000, but the average attendance was only 315,000. This means that 465,000 children or 60 per cent of those within the school age did not attend school that year. The reasons for non-attendance were as follows:

The parents of some were indifferent. Many of school age were forced to work. Many more were deprived of the privileges of school attendance because of sickness. Of the latter class at least 78,000 were affected with typhoid fever, malaria, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria, or other preventable diseases. The amount spent upon the schools of the state was $4,600,000. At the very least estimate 10 per cent of this money or $460,000 was spent for those children who could not attend school because they were suffering from the diseases mentioned above. The families of these children spent in addition an equal amount for their care.

The State Board of Health points out that much of this loss might have been avoided. Our laws are adequate to give relief if properly enforced.

Parents, teachers and physicians should report immediately to the local health officer the name and address of every person who may be affected with any of the diseases named above, and should co-operate to make quarantine effective. It is better for a few children to be temporarily isolated than that the public should suffer from epidemics.

Health officers should see that persons so affected are quarantined until recovery takes place.

Every county should employ a full time health officer thereby insuring adequate school inspection. The enforcement of the measures set forth above will largely prevent this needless waste of money, time, health and life.

CONDUCTING EXAMINATIONS

The Local exemption Board of Chilton county is engaged again this week in conducting physical examinations of the men in Class one. The work of examining has been held up for a week or so, but will proceed now till all of Class one have been examined physically.

BRADY PARRISH PRONOUNCED INSANE BY THE JURY COURT

In the circuit court here last week Brady Parrish, the young telegraph operator who killed a man named Crim at Minooka on February 8th, was arraigned in court, and proceedings instituted to determine whether he was sane on insane, and at the same time to determine whether or not it were proper to put him to trial for his acts of violence.

Several witnesses were put on the stand, among them Judge L. H. Reynolds, Mr. M. L. White, Mr. L. F. Hurtt and Dr. V. J. Gragg; and also the wife of young Parrish, and finally Parrish himself testified.

After practically the whole of the afternoon had been taken up with testimony bearing on the state of the mind of Parrish, the case was given to the jury.

In fifteen minutes a verdict of insanity was pronounced and Parrish was taken back to jail to await further actions of the court.

ALFRED BEVIS SENTENCED TO ONE YEAR HARD LABOR

The jury in the case of Alfred Bevis last week sentenced him one year hard labor for the county, as a penalty for killing a negro at Jemison. In the trial Bevis admitted the killing of the negro, but set up a plea of self defense for the act.

FARMERS GET MONEY THROUGH FEDERAL FARM LOAN BUREAU

Farmers in Chilton County are beginning to realize some money now from the Federal Farm Loan System. Attorney B. Guy Smith who is the loan agent here, gives out the following names of farmers who have secured these government loans:

C. J. Kliner, J. C. Johnson, E. L. Manning, M. J. Soberg, A. Y. Williams, J. D. Harroll.

WILSON GOES TO MONTEVALLO.

Dr. P. Calvin Wilson, the well known Clanton druggist who has for many years been connected with the Upchurch Drug Co. here, has gone over to Montevallo to take charge of a drug store business which has been purchased jointly by himself and Dr. Upchurch. Dr. Wilson has many friends here both in a social and a business way, who regret to lose him from our town. But everybody wishes him success in his new associations in our neighbor town.

J. W. Henley of Maplesville was here Saturday. He said the lumber business over his way had been somewhat checked lately because of bad weather and muddy roads.

Attorney A. C. Smith was in Montgomery Saturday on legal business.

period of the war.

We Are Back Again

The editor of the Union-Banner is glad to be at his work again after a sickness of two weeks with the mumps and measles. There is not much fun in running a newspaper, but there is more in that than there is in a case of mumps; or that is our experience with it.

If everybody were Catholics and we had very many lenten seasons, it would soon bring about considerable conservation of eatables.

We wish there could be about a dozen such Republicans as Judge Longshore of Shelby in the next Alabama legislature. It would do us good to see them hold the hot brick to some of those chronic democratic representatives. What they would do for them would be a plenty.

General Pershing has requested the government to furnish shoes for his men at the rate of nine pairs per year for each man. This he says, is more than they actually need, and he hopes to establish a reserve supply for them by this number being sent.

The Food Administration has promulgated a ruling that forbids the killing of hens and pullets from Feb.
11 to April 30. This is done to increase the supply of eggs. You must not kill or sell the hens and pullets during this period.

RAISING HOGS FOR PROFIT

Many people do things for the money
there is to be made in it. Some of them are fortunate, succeed well, do whatever they set out to do, make the money, put it in their pockets and go along happy and contented. Others not so fortunate, do all the work and the worry and then fail to get the profit.

But there is one thing now which it does seem that anybody most can succeed in making money at, and that is the raising of hogs for the market.

The Union-Banner has obtained
some figures from a very prominent hog raiser in this vicinity, which we publish in order that all may see what is possible to be done in the business
these days.

This man above referred to began January 1st, 1917 with three females and one male. During the year he spent for feed the following: For meal, $39.55; wheat shorts, $25.36;
corn, $150.50; ground peas, $45.00;
total spent for feed $270.41.

With the above expenses this man raised and sold hogs to the amount of $621.30 during the year, and at the end of the year he had the four hogs which he began with. He says that the hogs had grass pastures to run on.

This man made a profit of $350.89
on his hogs, which will certainly pay him well for his time consumed in caring for them.

Scan over these figures and see how they look to you. Don't think that you can't make anything out of hogs because you have something else to do. It will pay you to give your time to hogs and let the something else go possibly.

Bear in mind that April the first is the day on which Chilton County will vote on the cattle-dipping proposition. If you are not already informed as to which is the proper way to vote, you should get busy and learn yourself something about this dipping business. Everybody who votes should cast his ballot from a standpoint of reason on the question,
and not from malice or prejudice.

Dr. Strickler informs us that the county is now furnishing the cement
for the construction of dipping vats, and that any citizens who desire a vat constructed should communicate their wants to him at once. He says the work is already rushed, and that there may be later on such a congestion of the work as to cause considerable delay. Anybody who wants a vat had better get their names in the pot now.

A WORTHY ACT

The Alabama Power Company, that great financial organization which some people are always ready to decry as a heartless and merciless outrage, has recently done one thing which we think commends them to a full measure of praise.

They have given to the government
one of the most valuable power sites in the United States, which will greatly speed up the great government work over at Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee River.

The Power Company owned the site and probably intended the utilizing of it some day for their own developments. But they have given it to Uncle Sam to use in winning the war.

It looks to us like an act that will put great speed into that big development.

It is praiseworthy indeed that it was done as it was, rather than to have gone into a long preamble of selling it to the government and thus causing a great delay in the work of construction.

JUDGE LONGSHORE ANNOUNCES

Over in our neighbor county of Shelby, Judge A. P. Longshore is announced as a candidate for the legislature, according to the Peoples Advocate of Columbiana. It speaks well for that county to have such a man as Judge Longshore to send to Montgomery to represent them. The Judge is well known in Chilton county, and he has many friends here who would be mighty glad to see our sister county do herself the distinct honor of sending him to the legislature.

The announcement of Mr. Longshore is made on the Republican ticket; and you can rest assured of one thing—that when he gets there, he will be one Republican who will make them sit up and take notice.

THE ROCKFORD "INDEX"

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a copy of "The Index" published at Rockford in Coosa county. We are glad to see the paper resume publication again after a suspension of several months.

At the head of the paper is Mr. Wm.
Shurett as Editor and O. J. Glenn Manager. These are two deserving young men, in whom the people of Coosa county have unbounded confidence. Under their direction we feel sure "The Index" will hold its own as a newspaper for all the people of Coosa county.

All good wishes from the Union-Banner to "The Index" and success to the cause which it espouses.

MEETING OF MISSIONARY SO-CIETY OF METHODIST CHURCH

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met at the parsonage Monday, Feb. 25th. A most beautiful thought was conceived by the President and heartily entered into by the members—to shower their pastor's wife with canned fruit and vegetables. Each lady brought a jar and such a beautiful array it was, and how it gladdened the heart of the recipient. A large number was in attendance, and a most enthusiastic meeting was held.

MIDDLETON MAKES DEFENSE.

Those who heard the speech of Hon.
J. O. Middleton in Circuit Court here last week, made in defense of Alfred Bevis, pronounce it a masterpiece of oratory. The friends of this popular attorney are praising him for his masterful effort. The presentation of the argument brought tears to the eyes of his auditors and touched the highest chords of human sympathy.

Republicans Will Meet 'Em Half Way.

Some time ago a Pittsburg man, who, by the way, was a contributor to the first Wilson campaign, and, therefore, quite likely a consistent supporter of the Democratic party in the last campaign, sent over the country at large expense, a circular letter urging a "political armistice." What he wanted was a continuance of the inactivity of the Republican organization. There was anxiety among some Republicans that this non-partisan plea might deceive many people, but the fear has evidently been unfounded. The Democratic National Committee has opened headquarters more extensive than ever before and at an earlier date, and is conducting a publicity campaign on a large scale. And knowing this, Republicans are not being deceived by the "political armistice" plea. Republicans have been a little slow in becoming active, but they will, under the leadership of National Chairman, Will H. Hays, get into a stride that will keep the Democratic committee busy. Just as it was a Democrat, Senator Stone of Missouri, who first introduced partisan discussion into congressional debate, so it was the Democratic organization that began partisan activity in the campaign of 1918. All the hue and cry among Democrats for an abandonment of partisanship will not fool anybody who has intelligence enough to mark a ballot.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Last Sunday was a memorable day with the Sunday school forces of our town. It was the occasion of holding an interdenominational institute at the High School building under the leadership of Leon C. Palmer, the general secretary of the state.

The Baptist Sunday school did the rather remarkable thing of getting up early and holding a complete session between nine and ten o'clock, with considerably more than half the regular number of members present in order to get to the general meeting place by ten o'clock.

Speeches were made of an inspirational character before noon by Mr.
Palmer and Miss Freda DuBose. In the afternoon, at 2:30 three departments were separated into rooms and taught by Mr. Palmer, Mrs. Palmer and Miss DuBose. Each was well attended, and notes were taken to help in the guidance of future work in adult, primary and intermediate departments. Late in the afternoon the session closed with a general meeting in the auditorium, where Mr. Palmer laid special emphasis on the methods of building up an adult class. The process appears to involve three principles, although Mr. Palmer made seven points: First, locate your future member; second, get him; third,
hold him by putting him to work.

SMITH BURIED.

We have been informed that the body of George Smith, who was killed by the boiler explosion at Roberts's saw mill Tuesday morning, has been carried to Mountain Creek for burial.
Interment probably took place there on Wednesday.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

You are cordially invited to attend Services every Sunday. Morning worship, 11:00 A. M. Sunday school, 9:30
A. M. Evening worship, 7:00 P. M.
Prayer meeting, Wednesdays, 7:00
P. M.

If you are without a church home-come. We can help you. If you are looking for church work, come. You can help us. You will find this a home-like church, with gospel preaching and a friendly feeling toward all.

MONROE NOAH HURT.

It has been reported to The Union-Banner that Monroe Noah was badly hurt by the explosion at Roberts's mill Tuesday. The report coming to us says that one of his arms was injured very seriously. Noah was an employee at the mill.

The oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. M.
D. Foshee has been quite sick for the past few days with typhoid pneumonia. It is reported better now.

Horace Davis, Clerk in the Probate
office, was vaccinated the other day, and he says it took. His arm has been mighty sore this week.

Jesse Baker is now employed with Dr. Strickler, in the work of constructing dipping vats around over the county at various places.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES.

A special program of a patriotic nature has been prepared for execution at the Clanton Methodist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.
The pastor, Rev. Maye, earnestly requests all who will to come.

A committee from the Methodist Missionary Society has endeavored to get the name of every boy from this county who is serving in the war; but if anyone knows a name that has been omitted, they are asked to please let the committee of the Society know of it, as it is the desire to have the name of every man appear on this roll, which is to be framed and hung in the church.

POWELL BURIED.

Jim Powell, the young man who was killed by the boiler explosion on Tuesday at Roberts saw mill, was buried at Shiloh on Wednesday.

BOILER EXPLOSION KILLS
TWO AND INJURES OTHERS

The explosion of a boiler at the saw mill owned by Jim Roberts, nine miles northeast of Clanton at an early hour Tuesday morning killed two men and injured some others. The dead men are:

George Smith, about 50 years of age.

Jim Powell, age about 25.
Smith was the fireman at the mill.
He had been firing for Roberts about fifteen years according to reports.

Powell had just gone to the mill to go to work the morning of the accident. He was not married. He was the son of A. W. Powell who lives near Shiloh.

The cause of the explosion is said to have been due to the failure of the steam gauge to register, and the fireman not knowing how much steam he had, ran the pressure beyond the capacity, causing the explosion.

The boiler, which was a large one,
was blown about a quarter of a mile from where it was situated.

The mill is a complete wreck from the force of the explosion.

DR. DOWNS DISCHARGED

Dr. Hosea F. Downs, first lieutenant in the U. S. army, who has been at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., has been honorably discharged from the service on account of physical deficiency, and has returned to his home in Clanton.
The doctor enlisted in the Medical Reserve corps, and has been in the service for a few months past.

MARRIAGES.

Finis E. Scott, Thorsby, and Miss Mandy Price, Clanton.

Prof. John Z. Mims of Route 6 was in Clanton on Saturday. He came around and renewed his subscription to the Union-Banner.

MEETING OF S. S. CLASS.

A most delightful and profitable affair was the meeting Monday afternoon of Mrs. Maye's Sunday school class at the hospitable home of Mrs.
J. C. Jones. Reports of different committees were heard from this most splendid class and work outlined for the year. The officers elected were:
Teacher, Mrs. E. C. Maye; Assistant teacher, Mrs. J. C. Jones; President, Mrs. John VanDerveer; Secretary,
Mrs. Macey Jones; Treasurer, Mrs.
McSwain; "Lookout Committee," Mrs.
Luckie, Mrs. McSwain, Miss Mabel Thomas, Miss Winnie Reynolds; Program Committee, Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mrs. Herbert Neighbors, Mrs.
Baz Jones; Flower Committee, Mrs.
Joe VanDerveer, Jr., Miss Myrtle Reynolds, Miss Key, Miss Sewell.
Delicious hot chocolate and wafers were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Maud Mullins, after which they adjourned to meet next, with Mrs. Macey Jones.

MRS. J. O. MIDDLETON ENTER-
TAINS HER S. S. CLASS FEB 22

On Friday evening last Mrs. J. O.
Middleton most beautifully entertained her own Sunday School class, and also the members of Mrs. B. Guy Smith's class. It being the natal day of the "Father of our Country," a red white and blue color scheme was most effectively used in both decorations and refreshments—not forgetting the little hatchet. Under the skillful fingers of this most accomplished hostess the home was beautiful for the occasion, and a fine crowd of happy boys and girls thoroughly enjoyed this lovely function.

HOME DEMONSTRATION WORK
IS TO BE MORE EXTENSIVE.

Subjects of Dairying and Beet Culture to be Executed by Mrs. Lida Jones and other Experts.

The Union-Banner has been informed by Mrs. Lida Jones, the Chilton County Home Demonstration Agent, that in the future the work of her department will be broadened to take in the subjects of dairying and the culture of beets. This will include the work of canning and poultry raising which has already been receiving the attention of Mrs. Jones among the people of different parts of the county for some length of time.

Mrs. Jones and the other experts, will conduct some practical lessons in the preparation of butter for the market.

The addition of these two new subjects to the very vital and useful work of the home demonstration program will make it of very much more value to the people on the farms.

Demonstrations of one kind and another of immense value are continuously being conducted by Mrs. Jones and the people should keep track of her schedule and get some of the great good she is doing in her work.

Put Slacker Acres to Work

Our Country is calling for bigger yields of all crops. The world needs every pound of farm products the South can furnish, and is ready to pay handsome prices for them. Never before has the Southern farmer had such a golden opportunity to serve his country and at the same time build his own fortune.

Intelligent fertilization of every acre in cultivation is more necessary now than ever before, because each acre should be made to yield its utmost. This cannot be done unless the proper class and quantities of fertilizers are used. Low producing acres and inferior fertilizers constitute an inexcusable and unpatriotic waste.

The MORRIS BRANDS resist leaching, prevent shedding, and hasten fruitful maturity of the crop. Only the best class of materials enter into their manufacture. That's why they always give universal satisfaction.

Do Not Get Careless With Your Blood Supply

Impurities Invite Disease.

You should pay particular heed to any indication that your blood supply is becoming sluggish, or that there is a lessening in its strong and vital force.

By keeping your blood purified, your system more easily wards off disease that is ever present, waiting to attack wherever there is an opening. A few bottles of S. S. S., the great vegetable blood medicine, will revitalize your blood and give you new strength and a healthy, vigorous vitality. Everyone needs it just now to keep the system in perfect condition. Go to your drug store and get a bottle to-day, and if you need any medical advice, you can obtain it without cost by writing to Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 25 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

COUNTY MAPS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has made arrangements to print a number of Beat Maps of Chilton County, and now have them for sale to anyone desiring them, at the price of 25 cents each.

J. N. Childress of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton on Saturday.

Heartburn, indigestion or distress of the stomach is instantly relieved by HERBINE. It forces the badly digested food out of the body and restores tone in the stomach and bowels. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Indigestion

Take a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets as directed for indigestion, and you will soon forget about your stomach troubles. Try it.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady.
Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prime, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child...I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time. I know I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. about my taking Cardui. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble', so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved...before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."

Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton prices.

It's a time above all others to play safe; to produce all possible food, grain and forage supplies on your own acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground, rightly planted, rightly tended and kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you made on the best three acres of cotton you ever grew!

Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. It's Free. Send for it today to H. G. HASTINGS CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Dreadful Cough Cured.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

HEAVY SALES OF SAVINGS STAMPS

TREASURY RECEIPTS FROM THIS SOURCE ARE RUNNING ABOUT $11,000,000 A WEEK.

WAR CREDITS BOARD WORK

When and Why It Authorizes Advance Payments to Contractors—New Committee Will Mobilize Colleges for the Training of Troops.

(From Committee on Public Information.) Washington. — Treasury receipts from the sale of War-Savings stamps are running at the rate of $11,000,000 a week. Savings bank deposits in the last few years have been increasing at the rate of $700,000 a business day. Treasury receipts show the American people are putting their small savings at the service of the nation through War Savings stamps at a rate far in excess of prewar savings bank accumulations.

Two billion dollars of war-savings securities will be issued. If these are all sold this year the treasury will receive about $1,680,000,000, and at the end of five years the government will repay the loan together with $320,000,000 in interest.

A statement prepared by the war credits board includes the following explanation of its functions and activities:

"When a concern that has a contract with the war department for supplies has shown the board that it needs financial assistance and has been able to comply with the act by giving adequate security, the board has approved an advance payment and the money has been received; in many instances where the case was urgent the money has been paid over to the contractor the same day the application has been filed. However, the board does not act in any sense as a bank. It is only when the manufacturer has reached a point where financial assistance is needed, in addition to his banking lines, that application for advance payment for his goods is considered favorably by the board."

Between the time of its creation in November and January 24 the board approved advances to contractors totaling $145,551,000.

It is estimated that within the next six months 75,000 to 100,000 men will be given intensive military training in schools and colleges. They will be drawn from the armed forces of the nation, men now in training camps or about to be called, and registrants under the selective service law.

With a view to mobilizing the educational institutions of the country for this special training there has been created in the war department a "committee on education and special training." It will encourage and arrange for the technical education of men needed by the several branches of the army.

A "War Cyclopaedia," providing the public with information on the great war in the form of a handbook, is the latest publication issued by the committee on public information.

The salient facts of the war are briefly stated in alphabetical form in 800 pages. The cyclopaedia also contains a chronology of outstanding events ranging from the murder at Sarajevo of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, June 28, 1914, to the British national labor conference's approval of President Wilson's war aims, December 29, 1917.

The volume may be obtained by addressing the Committee of Public Information, 10 Jackson place, Washington, D. C., and inclosing 25 cents to cover cost of printing.

While figures are not yet available on the proportionate number of $1 and $5 smileage books being purchased for use by men at the camps and cantonments, the commission on training camp activities, in charge of the sale, states that there has been unexpected demand for the larger books. Smileage books selling for $1 contain 20 coupons good for admission to camp entertainments; books selling for $5 contain 100 coupons.

From two to five coupons are required for admission to Liberty theaters at the camps, although many of the productions are of the class which command $2 prices in metropolitan houses.

Plans for the aerial mail route between Washington, Philadelphia and New York contemplate the use of machines capable of carrying 300 pounds of mail a distance of 200 miles without stop. A special postage rate would be charged not exceeding 25 cents an ounce.

In reply to inquiries regarding the possibility of redistilling seized spirits for alcohol the war department has announced that the small amount of alcohol recovered, the cost of transportation, reexportation and redistillation would make the cost to the government greater than it is now paying. The average yield from confiscated liquor would not exceed 5 per cent of alcohol.

The war department now permits women to qualify as inspectors of small arms, according to an announcement by the civil service commission.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mr. Walter Morgan, a former student of Thorsby Institute, spent Saturday and Sunday in Thorsby visiting his many friends. He left Sunday evening for his home at Talladega from where he will return to Camp Wheeler.

The lecture by Sergeant Flahiff at Bates Hall last Friday night was well attended and everyone present enjoyed themselves very much. The first hand information and the personal experiences which he presented gave to everyone who heard him a better understanding of modern warfare. The Patriotic Song service by the Institute chorus under the direction of Mrs. Nottage, which preceded the lecture, contributed much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mr. Cowan Woodham, a former student of Thorsby Institute, who is at present teaching school at the Smith school house a few miles north east of Thorsby, spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Mr. Raymond B. Kicklighter left Thorsby Monday for the army. His absence will be felt very much by his many friends here.

Rev. Chas. T. Rogers, who has been conducting a series of evangelistic meetings at the Congregational church, left Thorsby Friday evening for Camp Wheeler. While there he spoke to the soldiers in the Y. M. C. A. Building and visited personally most of Thorsby's Soldier Boys who are there. He returned to Thorsby Monday and continued his meetings here.

Mr. Joe Myrick, a student of Thorsby Institute, spent Thursday and Friday of last week at his home near Deatsville. He went home so as to be present at his sister's wedding which took place on Thursday February 21.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Chas. Rogers, who has been conducting a series of evangelistic meetings at the Congregational church, no service was held at the church last Saturday night. In place of the preaching service, cottage prayer meetings were held at the homes of Rev. E. W. Butler, Mr. Heaton, Mr. Parnell, Mr. Billingsley, Mr. McCarty and Mrs. Grotey. There was a total attendance of ninety-one at the meetings.

Miss Clara Husby, of Grand Bay, Ala., enrolled as a student in Thorsby Institute on Monday. Miss Husby is staying with her sister, Mrs. Charlie Howard. The students and faculty of the Institute welcome her into their midst.

The pupils of the Public School rendered a very entertaining program at the public school building on Washington's Birthday beginning at 2:30 p.m.

A beautiful American Flag, 4 by 6 feet, will be contested for by the 3 rooms of the Public School in connection with the Dry America Rally at Bates Hall next Friday night. Each adult who attends the Rally will be entitled to one vote. Get ballots from the school children.

In addition to the interest aroused by this contest, the Rally itself will be well worth attending. Dr. Ira Landrith, the speaker of the evening, is one of the best orators in America to day. There will also be some stirring music and other features provided by the joint committee from the Young Peoples Societies, under whose auspices the rally is held.

On Saturday, February 16, Mr. Clarence Bice and Mrs. Leila Mae Northrop were married, much to the surprise of their many friends. They are now residing at Lomax.

Rev. F. W. C. Bice is expected to fill his regular appointment at the Baptist church next Sunday. There will be both morning and evening services.

Messrs. Chester and Floyd Turner of Haleyville and Mr. Hughie Bolton of Goodwater, students of Thorsby Institute, left Thorsby last Saturday for their homes to take up farm work. They hope to be able to return to Thorsby to continue their school work next September.

Rev. J. C. Dunlap of Georgiana, spoke at the Institute to the students recently while in Thorsby.

Harry Kanjutzky went up to Birmingham Sunday in company with his son, Samuel, who was returning to Fort Oglethorpe after a visit with his parents at home.

LITTLE GIRL DIED

The little baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Reynolds died at their home in Jemison on Tuesday night. The child was about a year old. Burial took place at Jemison Wednesday.

MINSTREL AT HIGH SCHOOL

The minstrel to be given by the girls of the County High School will be at the school auditorium Friday night March 1. Proceeds are for the Methodist parsonage.

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Collins Chapel preached at Friendship church, Saturday and Sunday. His regular appointments there are the Fourth Saturday and Sunday in each month. The church was organized there last summer, and is progressing very favorably.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Baptist congregation acknowledges an invitation from the Methodists to attend their "Patriotic Service" on next Sunday morning, but owing to the pressure of local affairs, the regular services will be held at the Baptist church, although a number of the Baptist young people will assist at the special services. The subjects of the pastor at the Baptist church will be in the morning, "The People had a mind to Build;" and at night, "The Pattern Woven by Worship and Work." As the days are now growing longer all night services are set for 7:30 instead of 7:00 as heretofore.

Mr. J. C. White was in town last Saturday. While here, or on the road between here and his home six miles south of here, he lost his pocketbook containing a five dollar bill, and six quarters. Also in the pocketbook was a tobacco sack containing about 12 Buffalo nickels. Finder will please return to him and get reward.

Lowest cost per pound of real roughage

OLD style hulls cost more per pound of roughage than the price per ton indicates. This is because they are one-fourth lint which has no food value. To know how much each pound of roughage in this form is costing you, you must divide the price per ton by 1500—not by 2000.

BUCKEYE
COTTONSEED HULLS
LINTLESS

cost exactly what you pay for them. Every pound is all roughage—no useless lint. To really know the difference in cost between old style hulls and Buckeye Hulls you must know the cost per pound of real roughage.

Even though Buckeye Hulls do sell at a much lower price than old style hulls, you can't realize how much less they are costing you until you consider how much more real roughage a ton contains.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls go farther. Sacked—easy to handle. They allow better assimilation of other food. They mix well with other forage. No trash or dust. Take half as much space in the barn.

Mr. Dan Wolf, Hammond Bldg. & Mfg. Co., Hammond, La., says: "I am feeding Buckeye Hulls to my cows and find them a satisfactory filler when mixed with cottonseed meal and other concentrates. At the present price of feed stuff, Buckeye Hulls are the cheapest roughage on the market."

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

YOUR Railroad

THE L. & N. SYSTEM penetrates the very heart of the industrial South and its steel rails are arteries over which Southern commerce circulates to the markets of the world at a profit to the people of the South.

By creating a railroad in the South, the L. & N. affords constant, lucrative employment to hundreds of thousands of people of the South.

As the South prospers, the duty of the L. & N. to supply increased facilities increases and additional employment is afforded.

During this time the L. & N. is not only supplying good service at minimum rates, but is co-operating with the people of the South in building for the future development of the South.

The annual average payroll of $21,839,547.66 is the means of support for 30,460 L. & N. employees and their families, and is a subject of vital consideration to the welfare of the South, because every one of these employees lives in and spends his money in the South.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company is pre-eminently a Southern road: ninety-six per cent. of its operated mileage is below the Mason and Dixon line, and its interests and the interests of the people of the South are mutual.

CORN INSECT CONTROL.

Dr. W. E. Hinds, State Entomologist, has issued a bulletin telling farmers how they may save millions of dollars worth of corn each year by properly selected planting seed and by planting "TRAP PLOTS." Write the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Ala., for Press Bulletin No. 93. It is short and plain and gives a plan that is easy to follow. It will be worth money to you.

Anonymous Reports.

The Food Administration has received a number of anonymous communications, reporting violations of the food laws. It will not consider or act upon such reports. It is glad to receive reports of violations of the rules and laws where the writer will give name and address. Such reports will receive prompt attention and the name of the writer will not be divulged in any proceedings based on such information. Anonymous communications, however, will not be dignified by any notice from the Food Administration.

150,000,000 Eggs.

The Food Administration estimates that its rule preventing the killing of hens or pullets from February 11 to April 20, will add to the egg production of the United States 150,000,000 eggs this spring. The surplus eggs can go into cold storage and will make a most important addition to the food supply of the nation and should prevent egg scarcity and high prices next fall. The hens and pullets will still be available for food at the expiration of the time limit and this enormous number of eggs will be a clear gain to the country.

United States Attorney Gives Warning.

U. S. District Attorney, C. D. Sanford, at Montgomery, has given out the following statement: "With a fine of $5,000 or two years in the penitentiary for violating food conservation laws starting them in the face, would-be violators had better beware of food hoarding."

The district attorney makes it plain that prosecutions are sure to follow and that hoarded food will be confiscated by the Government. It is well known that hundreds of inspectors are on the alert in an effort to prevent food hoarding. Mr. Sanford also calls attention to the fact that it is the duty of all patriotic citizens to report cases of that kind.

So far only two arrests have been made in Alabama; those of Chilton Napier and Bonny Napier, Houston county farmers. They are charged with willfully hoarding flour in violation of Section 6 of the Food Administration law. The Government has had the U. S. Marshal to take into his possession 35 sacks of flour, which, no doubt, will be sold for distribution as provided by the law.

Read the Food Leaflets.

There is a beat chairman in nearly every beat in the State. The Food Administration is constantly sending to these chairmen splendid leaflets and pamphlets on the subject of food saving. They also have the 1918 Home Card. Be sure to see your beat chairman, get your copies of these publications and read them. They are full of valuable information and helpful suggestions. They are printed for you and Mr. Hoover wants you to have them.

Minimum Price of Hogs Will Stand.

Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, head of the U. S. Food Administration Meat Division has announced that the minimum price of $15.50 per hundred on the basis of packers' droves at the Chicago market which the Food Administration had established at the request of growers for the purpose of stabilizing the market in the general policy of increasing production, will continue in force. An effort was made to have him lower this minimum price but Cotton says that after seeking the advice of a hundred leading hog producers, editors of farm journals and presidents of live stock exchanges in the leading hog producing states, he finds that they are overwhelmingly in favor of maintaining the minimum. Hence his announcement that it will stand. This should be good news to the farmer as it assures him a stable market and reasonable prices for his hogs.

No Shortage of Rice.

There has been an erroneous report circulated that there is a shortage of rice in the United States and that prices would go up. This is not true. Based on the distribution figures for the months of February to July, 1917, and the available supply of rough and clean rice on hand February, 1918, after deducting the million bags purchased for our fighting forces and the Allies, there is still an apparent surplus of 1,437,498 bags. This surplus of approximately 150,000,000 pounds is ample for our domestic requirements. Hence, the Food Administration announces that lower prices for rice are in prospect by the first of April and that there is an abundant supply.

Increase the Milk Supply.

Increase in the consumption and in the production of milk are strongly urged by the special committee of experts appointed by the U. S. Food Administration to study the milk problem.

"The best way to stimulate immediate production," the committee reports, "is to urge the largest possible consumption of milk and other dairy products and encourage the largest possible export of condensed milk, butter and cheese to the Allies."

"We are looking ahead a year at a time for our wheat supply; we need to look at least three years ahead for our dairy supplies."

In advocating a greater consumption of milk the committee contends, that in the physical condition of the population would follow. Also that skim milk and buttermilk should be made more available in the cities.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

ALABAMA BUYS MORE FOOD THAN SHE SELLS

PEOPLE DO NOT REALIZE THE CONDITIONS THAT CONFRONT THE STATE IN REGARD TO FOOD AT PRESENT.

Very few people seem to realize that Alabama is now buying more food products than she is selling. This condition has developed within three months after the largest food crop ever produced in the state was harvested. Alabama has sold short and is now buying it back. The quick sale at high prices of Alabama's big food and feed crops is positive proof of the world being hungry and the reserve very low. Mr. Hoover says a food stringency is threatening the Southwestern States. Chicago, in the center of the wheat belt, is complaining of flour shortage. People in a few communities of Alabama have not had an opportunity to buy flour or sugar for several weeks. When the home-grown supply of corn and meat is exhausted, they will be equally as hard to obtain. England, France and Italy are pleading for an increased shipment of American food. By the time a new crop can be produced, a food stringency will exist all over America. What will be the result, if you and a majority of other Americans fail to produce enough for ourselves and some to spare. What will the consequences be, if we as farmers are negligent, if the rainfall should be insufficient or be damagingly excessive over a considerable portion of this country? The starvation which is now threatening all Europe would be brought to the door of every American citizen. The great American eagle that has protected our ancestors and their posterity for nigh unto one hundred and fifty years would utter shrill cries of distress in our ears. The destiny of American liberty would be dangerously threatened by the sword of the barbarous Hun. Awake patriotic Americans, produce and conserve as never before. Victory and supremacy we must have. America calls upon each and every one of her sons and daughters to do their level best.

Sweet Potatoes Lost.

Information seems to be pretty general that the potato houses and banks have suffered severe losses this winter. People who have been fortunate enough to save more potatoes than they will need for seed, should look out for their neighbors to supply them with seed before putting any on the market for eating purposes. Alabama has quarantined against the shipping of seed potatoes or potato plants from the states north and west on account of the potato weevil. Therefore, we are dependent upon our last season's crop here in the state for seed and plants.

Keep preparing your soils over and over, making them better each time. Do not get impatient and plant too early, but wait until the usual planting time regardless of the appearance of an early spring. Plant quickly when you start and in the best possible condition. Seed are too scarce and too high to be experimenting with the weather.

Get ready for gardening days, South Alabama, March 7th; Central Alabama, March 14th; North Alabama, March 21st.

BRING FLOUR BACK IF YOU HAVE TOO MUCH

Food Administration Writes to Judge Reynolds Concerning the Return of Flour by Those who Bought too Much.

Montgomery, Ala., March 1, 1918.

Judge L. H. Reynolds, County Food Administrator, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:

Every patriotic citizen desires a speedy victory for the allies. This is beyond argument. In order to secure this victory, it is necessary that our allies, as well as our soldiers in France, be furnished with the proper food. In order that this may be accomplished, Congress has given to the President a certain control over food supply of our country. He has wisely provided the quantity in which certain food products may be bought, and also limited the amount which any individual may have on hand at any time.

The Federal Food Administration has been advised that flour is being hoarded throughout the state. The law forbidding the purchase of more than the amount of flour specified and prohibiting any person from having on hand at any time any more than the specified amount, is very plain. This law is also stringent and severe and when invoked the punishment will be swift and sure.

It is not the policy of the Administration to institute proceedings against persons who may have heretofore erred inadvertently and who are willing to make amends at this time. It is, therefore, suggested that such persons may relieve themselves of liability by promptly returning to the dealer from whom they bought it, whatever amount of flour they have on hand at this time in excess of the amount permitted under the law. The local dealers are required to purchase such flour at the price for which it was sold, so that no loss may be entailed on anyone.

In order that the number of prosecutions under the law may be reduced to a minimum, it is suggested that this letter be given the widest possible publicity, to the end that every person may have information of what is required and at least have an opportunity of relieving himself of the consequences.

Yours very truly,
Law Department, U.S. Food Adm.
for Alabama.
Jno. W. Vardaman, Counsel.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY

The above letter explains itself. I hope that all who have an excess amount of flour on hand will promptly return it to the merchant from whom they bought it. I am anxious for all our people to obey the food law; and as I have said before, I hope that there will not be a single person in this county prosecuted for violation of this law.

I have conferred with Mr. Hobbie, State Food Administrator, and he says that every dealer who sells beans or peas to anyone to be resold will be required to have a license, it makes no difference how small the quantities he sells them in. Any dealer that sells to another dealer for re-sale, is termed as a wholesaler by the food administration, and is required to have a license in order to be allowed to carry on his business.

I want to express my appreciation for the co-operation that has been given the Food Administration in helping them to carry out their plans; but I hope you will not forget the importance of planting another large food crop. Suppose that last year we had not raised our corn with these weathless days, what would have become of us? We can wear our old clothes next year, and could make out with our old shoes, but we must have food. Every farmer ought to begin now to plant some crop that they can harvest early, and therefore have the land to sow wheat on this fall. But above all, don't forget your gardens.

I think all farmers should raise some cotton, but remember that we have the boll weevil, and to successfully raise cotton we must prepare the land well, fertilize it heavily and sow the seed early, and work the crop fast.

Remember that we now have one hundred and twenty-six young men already enlisted in the United States Army; forty or more are in France at this very moment. Some are going through the awful hardships of the trenches and facing the Germans' guns. I am sure we would all be willing to do without wheat bread the rest of the year—and longer, if necessary—in order to feed these boys.

The United States has a great responsibility placed upon it, and that is feeding almost all the whole world. Let's do our whole duty like men and raise the largest food crop that has ever been raised in Chilton County.

In conclusion, I want to say that the food administrators are the people's friends. They are trying to treat everyone alike, and they stand ready to assist you in any way to regulate prices, to see that speculators take no advantage of the people and receive only a reasonable profit on their business.

Again thanking you for your co-operation, I am,

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Food Administrator for Chilton Co.

CLEAN-UP WEEK AT CEMETERY

At the meeting of the Civic Improvement Club Tuesday, it was announced that next week from Tuesday till Saturday will be clean-up week for the Clanton Cemetery. All citizens are urged and requested to aid and co-operate with the Civic League in this plan to clean up the cemetery. Especially are all who have lots at the cemetery requested to help.

Anyone who desires to assist should come with the necessary tools. If you can't come, send a hand. There will be someone there to supervise the work.

JUDGE HONEYCUTT HERE

The Hon. R. M. Honeycutt, who was several years ago Probate Judge of Chilton County, was in Clanton Wednesday. The Judge is getting rather up in years, but his health is such as to permit him to exercise among his friends, going almost anywhere he chooses.

Heartburn, indigestion or distress of the stomach is instantly relieved by HERBINE. It forces the badly digested food out of the body and restores tone in the stomach and bowels. Price 50c Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Mr. Smith, brother of Attorney B. Guy Smith, a member of the U. S. Army, has been in Clanton this week on a visit to his other and brother.

Prof. James Arfetz Mullins of Jumbo came to Clanton Monday night to be vaccinated.

COUNTY MAPS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has made arrangements to print a number of Beat Maps of Chilton County, and now have them for sale to anyone desiring them, at the price of 25 cents each.

THORSBY ITEMS

The lecture by Dr. Ira Landrith, which was held at Bates Hall last Friday night, was very enjoyable and instructive. Dr. Landrith mentioned the fact that the constitutional amendment for nation-wide prohibition has already been ratified by most of the Southern states. He emphasized the importance of Alabama's doing likewise. He said that we must have a "Solid South" against the slavery of King Alcohol.

The American flag which was contested for by the rooms of the public school, was won by the grammar room, this room receiving 35 votes as against 26 and 21 for the other rooms.

Mr. Olaf Larsen, who has been at work for the Alabama Power Company at Parrish, Ala., on the Warrior River, spent a few days of last week and this week at his home here. His friends were all glad to see him.

The Lotus Company, which consists of two lady artists, one of whom plays the harp and piano, and the other is a soprano soloist, will give a concert at Thorsby on the Lyceum Course Wednesday, March 13. With harp and beautiful solos and beautiful costumes, the historical periods of different nationalities will be presented, including songs from early Egypt, France of the Middle Ages, and America in the period before the Civil War. The opportunity to hear the beautiful music of the harp at the hands of a skilled artist, and to hear the quaint songs of the years that have passed is a rare one and should not be missed by anyone who can attend.

Dr. McNeill, of Jemison, was in Thorsby Friday of last week vaccinating for small pox. About eighty people were vaccinated. There are at present no cases of small pox in Thorsby, but it seems wise to take this precaution.

Dr. Cowan Woodham enrolled as a student of the Institute last week, where he intends to remain until called into the army. Mr. Woodham has been teaching school at Smith School, but on account of the measles of the community was forced to close the school.

The Helen Keller Literary Society will render a musical program at Bates Hall next Friday night beginning at 7:30. There will be both vocal and instrumental numbers. Be sure and come.

Messrs Leon and Gordon Stanley spent Saturday and Sunday in Thorsby visiting friends.

Our genial station agent, Mr. Nels Peterson, is wearing an unusually broad smile these days. The explanation of this is to be found in the fact that since Thursday of last week he has been entitled to the proud name of "father."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to our many friends in this community and elsewhere our sincere thanks for their kindness and sympathy and for the bountiful aid given us in our many needs during the preparation for the burial of our son and brother, who was killed February 26, 1918. May God bless each and everyone of you, is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Powell.

R. M. Butler of Route 4 was a visitor to Clanton Saturday.

PASTOR SYLACAUGA BAPTIST CHURCH RESIGNS FOR ARMY

Will Accept Chaplaincy in The Regular Army.

Rev. J. O. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sylacauga received notice Thursday evening of last week of his selection as chaplain in the army. It will be remembered that Mr. Williams was recommended some months ago for chaplain and accepted and has been awaiting his call. He will report about the first of March at New Port News where he may possibly be stationed for a while, however, it is very probable that he will be ordered immediately to the camps in France. Mrs. Williams will accompany him to Newport News, and remain with him until he goes over the pond.

Mr. Williams has been pastor of the church hardly two years, and he has endeared himself not only to the members of his church but to all our citizenship. Every department of the church has prospered and grown under his pastorage and membership increased, three having been received by baptism on the day of his resignation.—Sylacauga News.

MONTGOMERY ATTORNEY DIED AT LOCK 12 SUNDAY MORNING

WALTER E. ANDREWS, City Attorney of Montgomery, and a prominent lawyer among the lawyers of the state, died some time early Sunday morning out at Lock 12, where he with a party of city officials from Montgomery were on an outing. One of the members of the party is said to have noticed about five o'clock Sunday morning that Mr. Andrews was making a loud noise snoring as he slept. And when an effort was made to awaken him later, it was found that he was dead in his bed. Heart failure is supposed to have caused his death.

Mr. Andrews was accompanied to Lock 12 by a party consisting of Mayor Robertson of Montgomery, and other city officials, and it was their intention to spend a few days out there on the lake fishing. Saturday afternoon was spent on the lake, and late into the night Saturday night the party was having a good time, all joyful and in good spirits. Mr. Andrews showed no signs of illness.

The remains were sent from Clanton to his home in Montgomery Sunday. From there his body will be taken to Troy Monday for burial. Troy is the old home of the family.

RED CROSS NEWS

There are some women who will not do anything in an organization unless the leader is one whom they particularly like. We should think of ourselves as "enlisted" and ready at all times to eliminate all personal feeling for the sake of the cause.

In Demopolis the campaign for Junior Red Cross in three schools resulted in a membership of 323. Geneva, much less than our town, has one hundred children enrolled in the Junior Red Cross. They celebrated the event by a big parade of the members.

The spirit of sacrifice is abroad. Those who have gone to take up their duties with Uncle Sam and those who have the equally hard task of sending loved ones while they wait, are showing such a magnificent spirit, such calm countenance, such serene confidence in the final outcome that it behooves us to ignore the trifles that most of us have to bear.

Victory must be ours. The Red Cross must perform its full duty to the boys. "We" are the Red Cross. Supplement List of Members of the

REPUBLICAN SUCCESS WILL COME IN 1918

LEADERS IN WASHINGTON BELIEVE BI-PARTISAN GOVERNMENT IS NEEDED TO HELP WIN THE WAR.

The visit of the newly elected Republican national chairman, Will H. Hayes, to Washington, and his conferences with congressional leaders of the party, is taken as the opening of the Republican campaign of 1918 for control of Congress. Republicans take the position that the national cause will be greatly helped by a bi-partisan government at Washington. President Wilson chooses to make the executive branch of the government strictly Democratic so that the only feasible method of bringing about joint activity of the two great parties in behalf of national victory is to secure Republican control of the legislative branch of government.

Confidence is expressed by Republican leaders at Washington that both the House and Senate will be controlled by the Republicans in the next election. In the Senate the Republicans figure on having a majority of at least four and possibly six. Figures in the House are less definite, as it is harder to obtain accurate figures in the larger body. Not the least doubt is expressed by the Republicans however, that they will unseat enough Democrats to give them an overwhelming majority in the lower branch.

As a matter of fact, if the Republicans were disposed to be ugly at the present time and use to the fullest extent their political power in the House, they might unseat Speaker Clark, elect a Republican in his place and oust all the present force of Democratic employees, replacing them by Republicans.

This situation is due to the fact that there are six vacancies in the Democratic ranks caused either by death or resignations, making the total Democratic membership only 208.

The Republicans have a total membership of 214. Three of these, Republicans-La Guardia of New York, Heintz of Ohio, and Johnson of South Dakota, are in the army, and a fourth Republican Cooper of Ohio offered his services. By getting these men back for a vote, the Republicans could control the House.

Confidence of the Republicans on their ability to get control of Congress is based upon reports reaching leaders from all parts of the country, and also upon the results of special elections held since November of 1916.

The Republicans everywhere have recorded substantial gains. At the beginning of this session of Congress the Democrats controlled the Senate by a majority of 12. The Republicans count on having a majority of 4 in the next Senate, by unsetting 8 of the present Democrats.

Here are the Democratic Senators whose terms expire next March: Shafroth, Colorado; Salisbury, Delaware; Lewis, Illinois; Thompson, Kansas; Walsh, Montana; Hollis, New Hampshire; successor to Hughes, deceased, New Jersey; Owen, Oklahoma; McNary, Oregon; Nugent, Idaho; Henderson, Nevada; and the successor to Husting, deceased, Wisconsin.

In all but four of these states the Republicans have no doubt of electing a Republican. The states they expect to win are Delaware, Illinois, Kansas, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Idaho and Wisconsin. They think they have more than a fighting chance in two or three other states, but are less confident in these assertions.

Tom Littlejohn from somewhere, was in Clanton Tuesday. It makes no difference where he is from, it is the same old Tom to his many friends here, who are always glad to see him.

The Goodwater Enterprise is wishing for the political campaign to open up in Coosa. We would like to remark that if the Republicans make it as hot as they did two years ago, they (The Enterprise) will be as glad to see it over as they are now anxious for it to begin. And we are looking for the Republicans over there to set the woods afire again when the political pot begins to boil just right.

Senators and representatives in Congress say they do not know anything of the plans of the President to appoint a representative of the country at the Vatican at Rome. We are not surprised that these men are so uninformed, when we remember what they said when they went to Washington in December when Congress convened. There are many things going on at the capital under the shield of Romanism that the members of Congress do not know about.

Owing to the improved weather conditions and the consequent improvement in the roads, the Alabama Turpentine Company are again operating their big motor truck from the camps to Clanton for the purpose of putting their turpentine on the road here. The truck makes several trips daily, bringing in about fifteen barrels of spirits at a time.

We do not feel like it is exactly our place to tell the farmers of the county whether they should vote for or against tick eradication; but we do see some very important questions that the man who has cattle should study before he casts his vote. We beg to have the privilege of mentioning these things, and to urge the voters to think over them before they vote.

The airplane is gradually going into practical every-day use as a commercial factor. Its greatest usefulness right now is a war making appliance. But announcement has already been made that airship mail service will be put on between New York City and Washington. When the war is over there will be a sudden turn to the aeroplane for many common commercial purposes.

THE MOBILE REGISTER

This week our readers will note that we carry an advertisement of the Mobile Register. If you want a good daily paper, we can recommend the Register to you as a good one. It is one of the best dailies in the state, and the best part about it is that the editorial policy is set right on certain moral issues that are at present confronting the people of Alabama.

ABUSE OF PRIVILEGE

A few days ago an Oklahoma Democrat secured unanimous consent of the House to insert in the Congressional Record what he termed "a short editorial on the war, peace, and against the war." The way in which that privilege was abused has aroused the ire of Republican leader Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts. In the Record the next day appeared two columns of fine print from a Southern paper calculated to convey the impression that the recent investigations, disclosures and criticisms of the war department were a part of a Republican campaign preparatory to the next election. Mr. Gillett declares there is no Democrat in the House who would not have been ashamed to have spoken the words contained in the article, yet now it is entitled to the franking privilege, and doubtless will be sent broadcast over the country creating a viciously false impression of the activities of Republicans in Congress.

Squire J. J. McDowell, the best looking man who served under General Lee in the Confederate army, was in Clanton Monday. Mr. "Mac" says he went through the Civil War and didn't even have the mumps.

CATTLE AND VELVET BEANS

There has in the past few years been a great flocking of farmers in Chilton County to the velvet bean as a utility crop to help bridge the space which the boll weevil made between the producer and his former cotton crop. Just during the past year did many of our farmers learn the proper way to make the velvet bean pay. They learned to utilize the beans with cattle and then to sell the cattle. Now that plan is all knocked into a cocked hat by a federal quarantine against the ticks. Unless that quarantine is raised, the advantage of utilizing the beans with cattle will be curtailed, for there will be no market for the cattle. Better think over these things before April 1st.

Farmers who have come to grow velvet beans to any extent, those of them who have had any measure of success, have learned that the beans pay them best when utilized in the raising of cattle for the market. The cattle can be turned on the bean fields in winter, and the beans are thus put to good advantage, and the cost of picking and marketing them is saved. For it has been easier to drive a yearling to market than to pick a ton of beans and carry them to market. And we believe that the rule would prove that the beans eaten by the cows bring the farmers more when sold in the form of cattle fat than they would on the market just as they are gathered from the field.

There are many of our farmers who have in the past made good use of their beans through the cattle plan; and they will tell us that their experience proves that it is about the only really sensible method of successful velvet bean production and consumption.

Will there be any fields of velvet beans next fall to turn to fattening cattle? And if there be, and the cattle be thus fattened, can they be marketed so as to get the advantage of the fat produced by the beans?

The answer to those two questions will be made by the voters who participate in the election on tick eradication in Chilton County, April 1st.

T. G. Taylor, one of the foremost farmer citizens of the county, who lives out in the eastern part of Beat 4, was in town Monday, getting up some seed to begin planting his farm and garden. He said work on his farms was pushed ahead considerably last week during the pretty days, and plans are made for still more plowing this week. Mr. Taylor raises the long staple cotton on his farm and claims great advantage for it.

DR. IGNORANCE DROPS SCOTT WRITES ABOUT CATTLE DIPPING, ETC.

Maylene, Ala., March 4, 1918.
Dear Mr. Editor:—I thought I would write you another letter to publish for the benefit of my friends and your readers. But I am stuck away back here in the mountains so I don't get any news to write about, except what I get from the Union-Banner every week; so you must fill it full.

There is not a house on my section except the section houses, and it suits me very well now the way things are going on. I have just been over here two months, and I just go out to Helena every two weeks to my pay and a shave. But the charges are very reasonable, for it just costs me 7½ cents per week to get rid of my whiskers.

One day when I was over at Helena, I was standing around the barber shop and on the corners listening to learn all I could, and I heard somebody say we are in an awful war with Germany, and that we had to mix up our biscuits with corn bread in order to be able to divide with England and France. Well you know I don't like to mix up my good old home-made biscuit with corn bread, but I can stand anything Uncle Sam says do for a while, if it is any help to our country in winning the war. I am observing the wheatless days now. But as to the meatless days, I don't see why we people over here in these hills should have to observe them owing to the fact that we have got so many rabbits, squirrels, possums, ground hogs and fish to eat.

Well, Mr. Editor, I notice there has been a call issued at last for an election in old Chilton on the compulsory dipping question. I want to say the proposition is no good.

If we intend to get rid of the ticks it looks to me like we would have to dip everything that carries ticks, and that would include horses, hogs, dogs, sheep, goats, and people.

As for myself, I haven't seen a cattle tick for two years. The tick question is almost a thing of the past, for there but few anywhere in this country. Yet in these late days some few people have got in very deep sympathy for the ticky cows, and greatly abhor the brutal conditions for man to allow them to stay on the poor animals. And they say the milk of the ticky cow is not good for people to use because it is unhealthy. Some people seem to me like the Pharisees. They want the outside appearance to look good, and don't care anything about the inside conditions. They are seemingly very greatly worried over the very little things of this life.

The man who hasn't seen more ticks

THE REPUBLICAN ISSUES

Chairman Hayes of the Republican National Committee begins well. He states that his platform of party action will be "the assimilation of all Republicans, and the elimination of none." In this way there will be a united front, and a common purpose, the two essentials for success. The vigorous prosecution of the war will not be an issue in the battle of this year. Upon that question there is no party division, but upon it Republicans and Democrats alike will make common cause. But there are issues and important ones upon which the November contest will be fought.

The Republican party will assert its right to be regarded as the party of traditional constructive Americanism, devoted to all that will develop and defend the nation. It will be the advocate of those fundamental principles and policies which have secured to the nation economic independence, material wealth and moral greatness. It will be the foe of revolutionary, unreasoning radicalism. It stands for the perfecting, rather than the destruction of the great constitutional system under which America has enjoyed orderly and progressive government.

It will appear as the enemy of Socialism and Bolshevism, whether open or covert, in public or private life. It is the champion of industrial peace, though justice to all elements of American citizenship, and the overthrow of demagoguery with its appeals to class prejudice to indifference and inefficiency. It will uphold the duties as well as the rights of American citizenship, of its obligations as well as its opportunities. It will stand for the stalwart, unwavering Americanism, which at all times and everywhere is for the protection of the lives and the rights of our citizens.

It pledges itself to domestic legislation and administration and diplomacy that will guard the welfare of America and Americans, and to the backing of words with deeds. It will advocate the proper and adequate tariff protection of American industry, and the maintaining of the American standard of living. It will oppose sectionalism in government, and the arraying of one so-called class against another. On such a platform will the Republican party fight the battle for the control of Congress. —Philadelphia Press.

G. W. Wilson of Route 2 was in Clanton Monday. The old gentleman was in a lively mood with a jolly word for everybody. It looks like he carries a supply of fun with him always in spite of the gloom of the dark war times. That's a good plan. Just as well cheer up and take it with a smile.

ROOSEVELT ROOTERS

Former President Roosevelt, who has been in a New York hospital for several weeks undergoing an operation will soon be dismissed. His friends are planning to give him a boost for the presidency on his departure from the hospital by having as many as possible to join in the parade and otherwise show their loyalty to the one-time president of this country. The rooters are making a grave mistake. This is no time for presidential booms, and besides it is a question whether the real friends of Col. Roosevelt are in sympathy with such hurrah.

Roosevelt made a good president in many respects, but his erratic disposition more than outweighed his good traits; for that reason the country was kept in an unsettled condition during his term of service. It is not time for this country to enter into a heated campaign for the presidency and it is not believed that even the republicans will join at this time in such a demonstration as is proposed by his friends in New York.

Roosevelt, is no doubt, the strongest member of his party, but that does not indicate his certainty of election to the presidency.

President Wilson will be succeeded by Secretary McAdoo, who has proven to the nation his qualifications to fill the office. Republicans, many of them, will give their support to McAdoo, and, with the solid line-up of the Democrats, there will be a little doubt of his election regardless of Mr. Roosevelt, whether he enters the contest or not.

Roosevelt has been a sick man and it is a serious question whether he ever regains his health sufficiently to make the race for the presidency. The action of his rooters and boosters is premature, and will, no doubt, react before the groomingtime comes. Roosevelt and his friends defeated Taft. Taft's friends and the old-line republicans have not forgotten the defeat, and it is not believed that they will rally, this early in the season, to the Roosevelt boom which has been suggested.

The people of this country are not prepared to change administrations at this time. The Democrats will be in power for many years yet, and in all probability for the next century. —Tuscaloosa News.

FAIR PLAY FOR CARRIERS

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana has given formal notice that when the post office appropriation bill comes before the senate he will offer an amendment to increase substantially the pay of rural mail carriers. He advocates an increase of $36 per year for each mile that the carrier may travel in excess of 24 miles. Furthermore, Mr. Watson believes the carriers should be given an allowance for equipment maintenance equal to 20 per cent of the salary based upon the total actual mileage of each route. Senator Watson is a member of the Post Office Committee, and has always done what he could to secure adequate compensation for the men who carry our mails.

OBITUARY

On February 26th a bright angel took its flight to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Reynolds at Jemison, and carried away the spirit of little Sam Moody to that Bright Home above, after an illness of only a few days.

Little Sam was only a year and three months old, but he was so bright that he gained the love and friendship of many during his short stay here on earth.

Just a short while before he past away he raised his arms and put them around his mother's neck as if to say good by.

He leaves a father, mother, two brothers and three sisters.

We extend to the family our prayers and sympathy in their sad bereavement, and may they cast their burden upon the Lamb of God who can heal the broken hearts.

As the Star guided the Wise Men to Bethlehem to see Jesus, so may the little Sam Moody be a guiding star to the loved mansions above where they will never have to part and where all tears will be wiped from their eyes.

The little boy was laid to rest at Pine Hill Cemetery, Rev. R. D. Bevis conducting the service.

Dear little Sam
Light of the home,
Looking for someone—
Beckoning come,
Fair as a sunbeam,
Pure as the dew,
Anxiously waiting
Loved ones for you.
ELLEN GLASSCOCK.

Drop by A. R. Cooper's Store and see the big shoe repairing machine which he has installed in his shoe shop in the rear of the store. It is interesting.

Why Morris Brands Are Best

Our SUPREME and PACKING HOUSE BRANDS being ammoniated 100% with the highest grades of genuine old time Packing House Tankage and Blood, are not leached away by excessive rains like ordinary fertilizers. Their ammoniates, being slowly soluble, insure constant feeding of the plant till late maturity, thus preventing shedding and promoting vigorous, healthy growth. The Tankage in them is rich in potash and also liberates idle potash in the soil, thus supplying the potash requirements of ordinary field crops without extra cost. Read what our customers say about them in our Year Book.

We use the same grade of Tankage and Blood in our GOLD BOND BRANDS which insures their high quality and continuous service.

Rheumatism Back on the Job With its Old-time Fury

No Let-Up In Its Torture.

Pretty soon you will be reaching for the liniment bottle again, for the millions of little pain demons that cause Rheumatism are on the war-path. Winter weather seems to awaken them to renewed fury.

But your Rheumatism cannot be rubbed away, because liniments and lotions cannot reach the disease. It is in the blood, and only a remedy that goes deep down into the circulation, and routs out the disease germs, can rid you of this disabling disease. S. S. S. has given some wonderful results in treating Rheumatism. Being a purely vegetable blood remedy, it purifies the blood of every germ, and thus removes the cause of Rheumatism. Get a bottle to-day at your drugstore, and start on the right treatment that will get results. Free advice about your case can be had by writing to Medical Director, 26 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

MR. COOPER'S SHOP

Mr. A. R. Cooper, the well-known merchant of Clanton, has moved his store to the old location of B. E. Jones on the corner at the courthouse pump.

In connection with his store business he has put a shoe and harness repair shop in the rear. This repair shop is equipped with the finest kind of electric driven appliances for doing the best shoe and harness repair work.

When you can do so, drop in and see the outfit he has, and give him the job of fixing your shoes when they need it.

Squire Waldrup of Jemison was in Clanton a short while Monday. He came down to get him some plows preparatory to commencing farming operations.

F. J. Rogers of Route 8 was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Keep Well

Do not allow the poisons of undigested food to accumulate in your bowels, where they are absorbed into your system. Indigestion, constipation, headache, bad blood, and numerous other troubles are bound to follow. Keep your system clean, as thousands of others do, by taking an occasional dose of the old, reliable, vegetable, family liver medicine.

Thedford's

Black-Draught

Mrs. W. F. Pickle, of Rising Fawn, Ga., writes: "We have used Thedford's Black-Draught as a family medicine. My mother-in-law could not take calomel as it seemed too strong for her, so she used Black-Draught as a mild laxative and liver regulator. We use it in the family and believe it is the best medicine for the liver made." Try it. Insist on the genuine—Thedford's. 25c a package. E-75

Wet Buckeye Hulls carry the feed perfectly

from it. There is no danger of this with

BUCKEYE
COTTONSEED
HULLS
LINTLESS

when they are wetted down a half hour or so before using. Then they combine more thoroughly and uniformly with the other forage than the old style hulls. Use Buckeye Hulls properly and you will find them a better roughage than old style hulls and far more economical.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls cost much less than old style hulls. They allow better assimilation of food. No trash or dust. No lint.

Mr. E. W. Leonard, Ellendale, Tenn.,

has been feeding Buckeye Hulls to three milch cows. He says that the cows are giving more milk and butter and are in fine condition. He prefers Buckeye Hulls.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

NINE PAIRS SHOES FOR PERSHING MEN

GENERAL ASKS FOR LARGE
FOOTGEAR SUPPLY FOR SOLDIERS IN FRANCE.

AIRPLANE MISHAPS ARE FEW

With Hundreds of Men Learning to Fly, War Department Records Show Number of Accidents at Military Aviation Fields Comparatively Small.

Washington.—Gen. Pershing has requested shipment of 18,590 pairs of shoes for each 25,000 men monthly, which is approximately nine pairs of shoes per man per year. This quantity is in excess of actual consumption and is being used to build up a reserve for all troops in France. When such a supply is accumulated, the quantities per man will be reduced.

The quartermaster general's department now has on hand and due on outstanding contracts, 7,564,000 field shoes and 7,873,000 marching shoes. It will be necessary to secure more than a million additional shoes during the year.

Records of the war department show that from the beginning of training in June, 1917, to February 22, 1918, the fatalities at military aviation fields in this country have been 51; 10 officers and 29 cadets killed in training flights, and 12 men killed in unauthorized flights and ground accidents.

Since the training began in the United States, student aviators have flown considerably more than 100,000 miles. Hundreds of hitherto inexperienced men have been learning to fly. Their early flights are under the guidance of instructors, and prior to these flights two or more months are spent in preliminary ground work. There comes a time, however, when every student aviator must take his machine up alone, and every precaution has been taken to reduce the number of accidents and safeguard the aviator in his solo flights.

The fuel administration is carrying on a series of conferences covering all industries which use large quantities of fuel, with a view to learning the requirements of each line during 1918. The industries themselves are playing a leading part in these discussions. The aim of the fuel administration is to arrive at a percentage of production which, under the circumstances, will be satisfactory to the manufacturers and their workmen, but which will not represent a consumption of fuel for the manufacture of supplies not needed during the current year.

The order which has been issued limiting the use of fuel for the production of window glass to 50 per cent of the amount manufactured in 1917 is the result of one of these conferences. A survey of the field indicated that while not more than 5,000,000 boxes of window glass would be used in 1918, competitive conditions were likely to result in an overmanufacture of at least 2,000,000 boxes.

It is through this system of limitation, together with large economy in the methods of using fuel, that the fuel administration expects to supplement the production of coal this year. It is hoped, as the railroads strengthen their facilities, that it will be possible to mine and transport a larger quantity of coal this year than last, but it is through these methods of reducing consumption that a repetition of this year's shortage is expected to be prevented.

Rifle and cartridge production in the United States has developed in volume and in quality on a scale assuring the satisfactory equipment of the army, according to a statement authorized by the secretary of war.

To achieve the rifle and ammunition production program the government has expended or has obligated itself to expend, during 10 months of war, $400,000,000, and 200 officers, 80,000 men, and 10,000 women have been engaged exclusively in the manufacture of rifles and cartridges. Two government plants and three privately owned plants are engaged in making rifles and one government plant and nine privately owned plants are engaged in cartridge manufacture. Ordnance experts in this country and in Europe are in agreement that the United States army is being equipped with two of the best three rifles in the world.

"Stars and Stripes" is the name of the weekly newspaper being published in France for American troops, under the direction of the intelligence section. Practically the entire paper is devoted to American news, including a daily radio report of about 1,400 words supplied by the committee on public information to the French government.

Exports of corn to Canada for feeding and manufacturing purposes have been limited to those varieties and grades which are not suitable for seed purposes.

Divisional athletic directors who have received commissions will accompany their contingents to France, according to the war department commission on training camp activities. Boxing instructors will not be sent with the troops, as at present the need for these men is considered greater on this side.

A Swiss commercial paper states that there is a great shortage in coal of all kinds, an insufficient supply of wood for fuel, and small reserves in oils and grease throughout Switzerland. Fresh eggs have disappeared from the market. Dry vegetables are becoming more scarce. A project to manufacture flour from potatoes had to be abandoned because sufficient supplies of potatoes could not be secured.

In Holland coal and coke prices have been advanced. In American terms, the maximum price for anthracite is about $22 a ton; coke, $10 a ton; coal briquets, $25 a ton. Distribution is carefully regulated by cards, in specified quantities. The amount allowed, especially to residences, is much smaller than in peace times.

New French food regulations forbid eating houses to serve of consume fresh or packed butter otherwise than in the preparation of food. Curdled or sour milk is prohibited as well as cream and specified kinds of cheese. The making of pastries, biscuits, and confectionery is prohibited. Only in dining cars, canteens and railroad refreshment stations may fresh or condensed milk or cream be served after 9 in the morning, by itself or mixed with coffee, tea, or other preparation. No solid foods may be served between 9 and 11 in the morning and between 4:30 and 8:30 in the evening. When the price of a meal exceeds $1.20 the customer may be served with not more than two dishes with or without vegetables, or more than one small loaf of ordinary bread. The bread is limited to about 3½ ounces. All grain which may be used for making bread is reserved for human food.

At each cantonment in the United States a school has been established where every officer and man receives instruction in gas defense. The American gas mask, similar to the British, is as mechanically perfect as the best experts have been able to produce. The face piece, with glass or celluloid eyepieces, is connected by a flexible tube with a canister carried in a knapsack. The incoming breath comes through the canister, which is filled with several layers of chemicals which neutralize or render harmless the gas-laden air. Outgoing breath passes outside the face piece through a small valve.

The student in gas defense soon learns to get his mask on in a hurry, six seconds being the standard time when the knapsack containing the mask is hanging at his chest in the "alert" position. After intensive training a gas attack is arranged. The class is put in trenches, and without warning, clouds of smoke and chlorine are liberated by the instructors, masks are hurriedly put on, alarms sounded, and sleeping men in dugouts aroused. When the attack ceases the trenches are cleared of gas, the air is tested, and permission is given to remove masks.

Describing the American Red Cross as a body authorized to do everything possible for the comfort and welfare of the soldiers, and to make use of such agencies as are authorized and are in a position to contribute to that end in addition to the provisions made by the government, a general statement by the war department outlines certain approved activities:

To distribute sweaters, mufflers, helmets, socks, comfort kits, etc.

To render emergency relief of every kind upon request of an officer in charge.

To relieve anxiety and sustain the morale of soldiers who are worried about their families at home, and to promote the comfort and well being of these families.

To conduct canteen service stations for furnishing refreshments to soldiers when traveling through the country; to furnish emergency relief to the sick and wounded when en route and to see that they are conveyed to a hospital when necessary and requested by the commanding officer.

A representative of the Red Cross may be attached to each base hospital to furnish emergency supplies when called upon, to communicate with families of patients, to render home service to patients and such other assistance as pertains to Red Cross work.

When the first Liberty motor was ready to be tested it was taken to Pike's Peak that it might be studied while running under atmospheric conditions obtaining at high altitudes. This difficulty of bringing the motor to the mountain is now overcome at the department of commerce bureau of standards at Washington, by bringing the mountain to the motor.

Airplane motors are now tested at the bureau of standards in a laboratory where various conditions corresponding to high altitudes and low temperatures are secured. The engine is placed in an air-tight concrete room, provided among other things with refrigerator coils and a large pump to reduce the pressure of the air. By use of this apparatus motors may be observed under conditions similar to those at different altitudes, which might otherwise be done only by actual airplane flights.

Plans of the American Library association include the establishment of book and library service in army and navy hospitals in America and France.

The government is today the greatest employer of labor in the United States, not considering railroad employees.

In normal times approximately 400,000 civilians are employed, and in the last year the number has increased to 600,000. In comparison one steel corporation employs 300,000 men, and one railroad 250,000.

Will The American Farmer Kill The Kaiser's Wolf—Famine

Chas. A. Whittle, Editorial Manager, Farm Service Bureau, Atlanta, Ga.

The farmer can win this war. Only by famine does the Kaiser hope to conquer—famine by force of the submarine. If the submarine brings England and France to their knees, begging bread in the humiliation of defeat, the Kaiser will then turn upon the United States.

England and France can be saved from famine by the farmers of the United States and Canada in spite of the submarine, if they will. The submarine will sink food that England and France so sorely needs but the submarine can not sink enough to starve our allies, if the farmer of the United States will raise maximum crops, raise every pound and give every pound of foods he possibly can.

It's a fight, therefore, between the farmer of the United States on the one hand and the gaunt wolf of the Kaiser, famine, on the other hand.

If the American farmer can raise enough to allow for the submarine toll and enough more food to place "over there" to feed those who are fighting, then victory is ours.

But it's a narrow margin. The whole world is on the verge of starvation. If even a normal crop is produced in this country it is not going to afford enough to feed everybody.

Liberal and rational applications of plant food should be made this year. Farmers who never used commercial fertilizers before should certainly do so now for the nation's sake.

The same modern, labor saving farm machinery that will enable a farm hand to plow two rows while plowing one, heretofore—and plow them better—must be made use of.

It's a hard fight all spring, summer and fall for the American farmer. Will he win?

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

MUST RAISE MORE CORN.

Mr. Hobbie attended a convention last week in Atlanta where the corn millers of Alabama, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee were represented. Upon his return he gave out the following interesting statement of facts, which will appeal to the good sense and patriotism of all our farmers.

"The purpose of the convention was to bring about close co-ordination between the millers and the food administration, with a view to causing an increase in the use of corn meal as a substitute for wheat flour. The millers pledged their entire support.

High Price To Farmers.

"The heavy demand for corn meal is putting the price up, and the food administration and millers want to mill corn meal and corn flour and get the articles to the consumer with as little expense as possible. Farmers need not worry about low prices.

Protect The Corn Crop.

"Farmers are urged not to let corn get weather damaged. They should protect it from weevil. If they do not know how, they are requested to take the matter up with Dr. W. E. Hinds, Auburn, state entomologist. Because we are going to need practically all of the corn in this state for bread.

Allies Use Corn.

"Many questions have been asked as to why the allies do not use corn meal. It developed at the meeting at Atlanta that the allies are using it in large quantities. Not only is the civilian population of England using it in large quantities but that country is also buying corn in large quantities, milling it and mixing it with potatoes to make bread. The demand for corn is so great that the Wheat Export Company, the allies buying company in America, will take all the corn offered.

"The wheat that we are saving in America is being ground into flour in America and shipped to France, where it is used largely for the army. Even there it is mixed with potatoes and other substitutes and is not used in pure form. While some of the wheat is used for the sick, the babies and the infirm, the major portion goes to the army."

FARM IMPLEMENT REPAIR WEEK.

A movement of nation-wide scope that has the endorsement of the Federal Board of Farm Organizations, the U. S. Food Administration and other war work organizations has been urged for this week. It is known as the "Farm Implement Repair Week" and extends from March 4th to 9th, inclusive. During this week farmers are urged to make an inspection of their implements and machinery to determine what repairs are necessary to put them into workable condition. They should then order at once any new machinery or new parts that may be needed.

Manufacturers of farm tools and implements are confronted with a critical situation due to shortage of labor, materials and transportation difficulties. They anticipate trouble and delay in filling orders. Farmers who delay in placing their orders may be disappointed and the season's production may be reduced by reason of such delays.

Every Alabama farmer is urged during this week to get his implements into fighting trim for they are weapons that must be ready and must be used if we are to win this year's campaign against world hunger.

WHAT CAN I DO TO HELP WIN THIS WAR.

(A personal word to the housewives of Alabama.)

I can do my best to prevent the waste of food, in stopping up the six most common leaks in the kitchen, as follows:

1. By buying food raised locally, and in season.
2. By proper handling of food in my kitchen.
3. By planning meals in advance, carefully and thoughtfully.
4. By exerting my best efforts to cook food properly.
5. By saving every particle that may be edible or useful.

By carefully serving to avoid plate waste, especially with growing children.

I will thus help my country, her cause and myself.

SUGAR FOR PRESERVES.

We are pleased to be able to announce to the housewives of Alabama that there will be plenty of sugar for preserving purposes this spring and summer. The Food Administration has announced that it will see that all housewives desiring to can and preserve vegetables and fruits will be allowed to get the necessary supplies of sugar at about the same prices that now prevail.

Shipments of sugar from Cuba are steadily increasing and while every one is urged to save sugar and cut down their regular amount at least 15 per cent, yet it is thought advisable to allow the housewives plenty for preserving purposes. Their preserves, jams and jellies add much to the available food supply and it is hoped that they will put up large quantities where the fruit is available.

A Perfect Baby

To possess a literally perfect child is by no means impossible. The expectant mother should be calm and the days should be filled with sunshine and happiness. Millions of women have used the safe, external, penetrating preparation known as "Mother's Friend". By its use the abdominal muscles, which nature is expanding, relax easily when baby is born.

This naturally makes for infinitely less pain and danger at the crisis. Write to The Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. H, 300 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for interesting free book "Motherhood and the Baby". Do not neglect to get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from your drug store tonight. It is a tried preparation and is of the greatest value to expectant mothers.

BRINGING BACK THE FLOUR

It is going a little bit hard for the fellow who has an excessive amount of flour to load it up and bring it back to town and sell it to the merchant. But that is what Mr. Hobbie says must be done. So if there are any who have bought too much of the dear stuff we look to see them come hauling it back to town and getting straight with the law. The man who bought his flour before the order was passed is not excused from this ruling according to the opinion of the Food Administration.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

VINOL MAKES GOOD BLOOD

Positive—Convincing Proof

Many so-called remedies for anemia are only so in name. Their makers are afraid to prove their claims by telling what their medicines contain. The only way to be honest with the people is to let them know what they are paying for. Here is the Vinol formula. When the doctor knows what a medicine contains, it ceases to be a "patent" medicine.

It Cod Liver and Beef Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptones, Iron and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycophosphates, Cascara.

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol, as named above, will enrich the blood and banish anemia and create strength. When the blood is pure and rich and red, the body is strong and robust.

You can prove this at our expense because your money will be returned if Vinol does not improve your health.

HARRY KANJUTZKY PLEASED WITH PATRIOTIC SERVICES

In commenting upon the patriotic services at the Methodist Church last Sunday, Harry Kanjutzky is loud in his praises of the event. In conversation with the editor, Harry said: "I want you to tell the people through your paper that I feel greatly elated over what I saw and heard at the patriotic services held at the Methodist church last Sunday. The talks made and the music rendered were very inspiring to a man who has a boy in the service of our country. I appreciated it more than I am able to tell in words." Mr. Kanjutzky is the father of Samuel Kanjutzky, who is a member of the medical corps, stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Miss Lummie Murrah of Jemison spent last Thursday night with friends in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Hodges now reside in the Robinson residence on Court Street.

That Terrible Headache

Do you have periodic attacks of headache accompanied by sickness of the stomach or vomiting, a sallow skin and dull eyes? If so, you can get quick relief by taking Chamberlain's Tablets as directed for biliousness, and you may be able to avoid these attacks if you observe the directions with each package.

ALL THE GOOD THINGS

are here in abundance and in wide variety. We extend the greetings of the season and invite your patronage. GROCERIES FOR THE HOLIDAY that make the Thanksgiving feast remembered and anticipated the year around, we can help you prepare.

WANTS THE UNION-BANNER

We received last week a dollar from our friend E. A. Norris of Verbena to pay for his subscription to the Union-Banner. The remittance was accompanied by the following letter:

"Editor Union-Banner: "The government having taken from us the right to use wheat, meat or fats on certain days, the cold having frozen our potatoes, we having left off coffee and tobacco of our own will, and you having stopped the good old Union-Banner last week, what do you think we could have left? "Now, please accept this dollar and send us the Union-Banner for one year. Then you just listen for us to rejoice.

"Yours truly,
"E. A. NORRIS."

Lame back may come from overwork, cold settled in the muscles of the back, or from disease. In the two former cases the right remedy is BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. Attorney B. Guy Smith went down to Montgomery last Thursday on legal business.

Dr. Arthur Hodges of Abanda, was in Clanton last Thursday on a brief visit to his brother, W. Z. Hodges.

Any little wound or abrasion of the flesh occurring in cold weather that is not promptly treated becomes a bad sore and is difficult to heal. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT at once when such accidents happen. The wound heals promptly and soon does away with the annoyance of a bandage. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

UNCLE "DOCK" GENTRY HERE

Last Saturday Mr. D. H. Gentry, better known as "Uncle Dock," of Collins Chapel, was in Clanton greeting his many friends. He said the people in his community have been very busy farming for the past pretty days.

Getting on down the line of conversation to that part which concerns politics, Mr. Gentry kindly left the impression with the Editor that he was thinking somewhat seriously of getting into the race for County Commissioner from his district next time. We can say that he is a popular fellow and has hosts of friends, all of which would give him a good send-off in the race if he should decide to get into it.

The Editor of the Union-Banner attended Prof. McDonald's Sunday School class of the Baptist Church last Sunday, and we want to repeat what we have said before, that it is the greatest treat a young man can give himself to be there and hear the lectures which Prof. McDonald makes to the members of the class. Every young man should attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell Roper of Birmingham were visitors to Clanton last Friday.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX IN BRIEF

The Requirements Boiled Down for Busy Folks.

Returns must be filed on or before April 1, 1918.

Tax due may be paid now or on or before June 15, 1918.

If you are single and your net income for 1917 was $1,000 or more you must file a return.

If you were married and living with wife (or husband) and had a net income of $2,000 or more for 1917 you must file a return.

Husband's and wife's income must be considered jointly, plus income of minor children.

Income of a minor or incompetent, derived from a separate estate, must be reported by his legal representative.

Severe penalties are provided for those who neglect or evade the law.

For false or fraudulent return there is a penalty not exceeding $2,000 fine or year's imprisonment, or both, plus 100 per cent. of tax.

For failure to make return on or before April 1, 1918, fine is from $20 to $1,000, plus 50 per cent. of tax due.

Returns must be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue of district in which you live.

An agent may file return for a person who is ill, absent from the country or otherwise incapacitated.

Each return must be signed and sworn or affirmed by person executing it.

Single persons are allowed $1,000 exemption in computing normal tax.

A married person living with wife (or husband) is allowed $2,000 exemption, plus $200 for each dependent child under 18.

A head of family, though single, is allowed $2,000 exemption if actually supporting one or more relatives.

Returns must show the entire amount of earnings, gains and profits received during the year.

Officials and employees are not taxable on the salaries or wages received from a state, county, city or town in the United States.

Interest on state and municipal bonds issued within the U. S. is exempt from federal income tax and should be omitted.

Interest on United States government bonds is also exempt, except on individual holdings of Liberty Bonds in excess of $5,000 par value.

Dividends are not subject to normal tax, but must be reported and included in net income.

Gifts and legacies are not income and should not be included on the return of the beneficiary.

Life insurance received as a beneficiary or as premiums paid back at maturity or surrender of policy is not income.

Payments received for real or personal property sold is not income, but the profit realized thereon is income for the year of sale.

Amounts received in payment of notes or mortgages is not income, but the interest on such notes or mortgages is taxable income.

From the entire gross income certain allowances are made in arriving at the net income.

Necessary expenses actually paid in the conduct of business, trade or profession may be claimed.

A farmer can claim payments for labor, seed, fertilizer, stock feed, repairs on buildings, except his dwelling; repairs of fences and farm machinery; materials and small tools for immediate use.

The amount of rent paid for a farm may also be claimed as a tenant farmer's expense.

Payments for live stock are allowable if bought for resale. But if bought for breeding purposes cattle are an investment, not an expense, and cannot be allowed.

A storekeeper can claim amounts paid for advertising, clerk hire, telephone, water, light and fuel, also drayage and freight bills and cost of operating and repairing wagons and trucks.

A physician can claim cost of his professional supplies, rent, office help, telephone, expense of team or automobile used in making professional calls and expenses attending medical conventions.

A dentist can claim similar items, except team or auto expense, which are not necessary in his profession.

Expenses that are personal or connected in any way with the support or well being of a person or family are not allowable.

The costs of machines, instruments, vehicles or implements that are more or less permanent in character are not allowable as an expense. They are investments.

Interest paid on a mortgage or other personal indebtedness is allowable on a personal return.

All taxes paid within the year can be taken out on a federal return, except federal income taxes, inheritance taxes and assessments for local improvements.

Losses sustained in business or through fire, storm or shipwreck or by theft, except when compensated by insurance or otherwise.

Wear and tear of rented buildings or machinery used in business may be claimed.

You can also claim the amount paid to the Red Cross and to other charitable, religious or educational organizations to the extent of 15 per cent. of your net income.

NEW PARTY IS NOW CAUSING SOME WORRY

Democrats and Republicans Alike Fear Encroachments of Non-Partisan League.

Washington, March 8.—According to reports received here the Non-Partisan League political movement is rapidly spreading in some of the Western States. There is no evidence so far as can be learned that the movement has taken much, if any hold yet in any of the strictly Southern States.

Farmers constitute the bulk of the strength of the Non-Partisan League. This organization elected John M. Baer, a member of the House of Representatives from one of the North Dakota districts. He boasts in his biographical sketch in the congressional directory that he is the only strictly non-partisan member of congress who has ever been elected.

The states in which the movement is reported to be not only growing much stronger, but also to be giving Democratic and Republican political leaders anxious concern are the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. It does not appear to have struck Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Missouri to any appreciable extent. But if it gains headway in the other states named during the present year the managing politicians of the regular parties are beginning to fear that it may spread more rapidly in 1920, the year in which the next presidential election is to be pulled off.

A United States Senator is to be elected in Nebraska this year. Senator Norris (Republican) is a candidate for re-election. He is one of the "wild twelve" who voted against the declaration of war. Representative Sloan is another Republican candidate. Others are receptive candidates, and the note of alarm reaches Washington that by the time the contest is to be decided there may be from five to six Republicans in the race. If there are as many as three running the fear in the minds of those enthusiastically in favor of pressing war measures is that possibly Norris may get a small plurality. A "run off" is not required in Nebraska to compel the winner to get a majority vote.

This acts as a temptation for other ambitious Republicans to get into the fight. Each seems to think that if it is a "free for all" contest he is just as apt to knock the political persimmon as some man who is supposed to have the best chance.

The non-partisan league fellows are also threatening to make trouble for the old parties in Nebraska, and it is possible that organization will not only trot out a candidate for the Senate, but put up candidates in several of the Congressional districts.

SALE OF WAR SAVINGS STAMPS IN CHILTON COUNTY

Postmaster J. E. Robinson, has completed publication, a statement of the amount of war saving stamps or "baby bonds" sold in this county up to the present time, and the showing is one of good indications. Following are the amounts sold by months: December, $3,160.42; January, $1,684.37; February, $1,243.96; upto March 11, $932.55. Total, $6,401.30. The amounts include the sales at the Clanton post office and at the other post offices in the county.

RURAL CARRIERS EXAMINATION

Last Saturday a rural letter carriers examination was conducted at the Clanton Grammar School building by W. J. Armstrong and E. W. Miller, composing the Board of Civil Service Examiners for Chilton County. The purpose of the examination was to put available men in line to fill temporary vacancies on mail routes while the regular carriers are in the military service. Appointments to the vacancies will hold till the regular carriers are honorably discharged from the service and return to take up their duties as carriers again. Two such vacancies exist at the Clanton post office. John D. Armstrong, carrier on Route 2, is in the army and David Vines, carrier on Route 5 is in the navy. There is one such vacancy at Maplesville. There were sixteen applicants who took the examination, nine of them being school teachers.

30,000 LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS LOST ON THE ANDANIA, SUNK

Thirty thousand letters from our troops in various parts of France were lost on the steamship Andania, which was sunk off the coast of Ireland the latter part of January.

These letters were written by the soldiers between the 15th and 20th of January.

A small quantity of parcel post matter was also lost.

This report from the postal agency in France is given out by the Post Office Department for the information of those who may miss expected letters written about that time.

V. J. Elmore of the United States army, stationed at Camp McClellan, Aniston, was in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday. He was here looking after his store business, which is in charge of W. H. Sartor during the absence of the owner in the army.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON:

You will find a notice in this issue of an election to be held on April 1st, permitting the qualified voters of this county to vote for or against tick eradication; and in order that the people may be posted, I feel it my duty to make the following explanation:

In the first place, the United States government has quarantined against cattle being shipped out of the county, and unless the quarantine is raised, or the majority of the votes are cast in favor of the law, it means that the farmers have no market for the cattle that they raise. If a majority of the voters vote against the law, then it will be two years before we can vote on it again.

For the last few years this county has been making great progress in the raising of cattle. We have just commenced growing velvet beans, which will make our county one of the richest in the state; provided, we can continue to raise cattle to feed them to. But if we cannot sell our cattle, this industry will be a failure. On account of the war, velvet beans are now at good price, but when the European countries go back to raising their own grain, then the price of grain is sure to be very low; and if we cannot raise cattle to feed our beans to, it strikes me that it will be a great calamity on us, for you could hardly sell beans at any price.

Now, this is a question that should interest every voter in Chilton County. The farmers are the ones that will raise the cattle and if they are shut off from the market they are the ones who will suffer.

It may seem that the ruling of the United States Government is very hard in quarantining our cattle, but the ruling has been made, and we will have to abide by it.

I have regarded the dipping of cattle like a great many other people—as being very bad, but the experience that I have had with it convinces me that the dipping of them does not amount to anything. The preparing of the vats and getting cattle into them are about all the trouble.

I dipped seventy-five head of cattle last Saturday. In that number there were three cows that were giving milk. Neither of these cows have failed as much as a pint in their milk.

As we know, our county is very much in debt and it will be a great expense to build these vats, but it will only last one year, and we will then be forever through with it. If the people vote in the law I think I can safely guarantee them that the Commissioners will reduce some other expenses and keep the county on a cash basis.

In conclusion, I want to suggest that each and every voter look well to the interest of this county before he casts his vote on April 1. Figure what the results will be to the farmers, if the law is voted down. The price on cattle is very high now, but in two or three years it may be very low. We all realize that sooner or later, we will have to adopt this law, and we have less cattle to dip now than we will have then.

L. H. REYNOLDS,

THORBY ITEMS

Mrs. P. W. Horn of Clanton spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Thorsby visiting friends and relatives. Mr. P. W. Horn also was here Sunday. They returned to Clanton Sunday evening.

The musical program rendered by the Helen Keller Literary Society last Friday night was greatly enjoyed by all who were present. The next regular meeting of the society will be held Friday night, March 22. At this meeting there will be among other things, several impromptu speeches. You are invited to be present. Come and bring your friends.

Miss Elizabeth Hoopes, one of the teachers of the Institute, spent Sunday near Deatsville, at the home of Mr. Frank Ross. She spoke at the Stony Point Church during the Sunday School hour.

Mr. Charlie Sims was in Thorsby a few days last week. He returned to Camp Wheeler Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald of Clanton were in Thorsby Sunday.

Rev. William Elliott Griffis, D. D., L. H. D., an author and lecturer of nation-wide reputation, will deliver a lecture at Thorsby Institute, Friday, March 15 at 8:00 p.m. on "France, the Hero Nation." This will be the closing number of the Lyceum course and single admissions will be 25 and 15 cents.

Captain Hutchison, Recruiting Agent in Birmingham, recently bought the dairy farm near Thorsby, which has belonged to Mr. M. J. Barrett. Mr. Barrett is moving to his farm near Selma.

Mrs. G. W. Garrick of Senoia, Ga., and Mrs. J. A. Putnam of Brooks, Ga., spent Saturday and Sunday in Thorsby as guests of Mrs. and Mr. C. M. Williams. Their daughters, Miss Inez Garrick and Miss Gladys Putnam, are students in the Institute.

Rev. William Elliott Griffis, former missionary to Japan, will preach at the Congregational Church next Sunday, both morning and evening.

The ladies aid society held its regular monthly social at the home of Mrs. A. K. Horn last Thursday. A good number were present and a good time was enjoyed by all.

800,000 MEN TO BE CALLED TO COLORS DURING YEAR

Washington, March 8.—Eight hundred thousand men are to be called to the colors gradually during the present year under the second draft which begins on March 29.

An announcement today by Provost Marshal General Crowder of the number to be called was followed closely by an order for the mobilization of 95,000 men during the five-day period beginning March 29, some 15,000 of them to be assembled under the second draft. Eighty thousand will be men of the first draft of 687,000 not yet summoned into service.

Details of how the second draft is to be applied will be made public later after congress has acted upon proposed legislation providing for the registration of youths attaining the age of 21 years, and for basing state and district quotas on the number of registrants in class 1. In his first official statement on the subject, however, General Crowder assures the country that no sweeping withdrawal of large numbers of men at one time is contemplated, and that care will be taken to avoid interference with harvesting.

MANY CATTLE DIPPED

There was a wholesale dipping of cattle at the new vat on the north side of town Saturday afternoon. A total number of seventy-seven head were baptized at one service. We don't know whether any of them sang Jap Scotts song or not, but anyway they were plunged beneath the flood and the ticks washed away. Many interested spectators beheld the execution of the ceremony. The performance will be repeated two weeks from last Saturday at the same place.

DON'T FORGET THE LABEL

Subscribers continue to tell us they want us to notify them that their subscription is out before we stop their papers. To them we say: "Keep your eye on your little yellow label." Every week it tells you when your time is out; and when that date comes you can expect to have your paper stopped unless you renew before then. Don't forget to notice this. It is the only notice we give of the expiration of subscriptions.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held at the usual polling places in Chilton County, Alabama, on the 1st day of April, 1918, to determine whether or not the work of tick eradication shall be taken up in said County, under the State Live Stock Sanitary Board, as provided by law.

This, the 20 day of February, 1918.
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court, March 7, 1918.

In the matter of the estate of J. W. Warren, deceased. Please take notice that on this day came J. D. Warren, administrator of the estate of said deceased, and files his accounts, vouchers, evidence and statement for a final settlement of his said administration.

It is ordered that the 2nd day of April, 1918, be appointed a day on which to make settlement, at which time all persons interested may appear and contest the said settlement, if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this the 7 day of March, 1918.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

CAN'T GET NITRATE IN MARCH AND APRIL

GOVERNMENT WIRES CONWAY REGARDING DELIVERY TO THOSE WHO HAVE MONEY DEPOSITED.

Mr. W. H. Conway, County Farm Demonstrator, has received the following telegram from Washington, which will be of especial interest to those farmers of the county who have heretofore made the necessary arrangements to secure quantities of nitrate of soda for use on their farms this spring:

Washington, D.C., March 8.

Mr. W. H. Conway, Jemison, Ala.

Owing to war conditions we have not been able to obtain ships to transport sufficient nitrate from Chile to this country to make to farmers complete delivery during March and April of nitrate needed in those two months. Shipping arrangements indicate ability to fill later needs. We wish to deliver in fairest and most effective manner quantity immediately available. In order to save time that would be consumed in sending money to Washington and to save farmers cost of keeping money on deposit for long periods, and to make delivery as quickly as possible after arrival, and to make best possible use of car space, this department contemplates appointing for excess of a number of cash consumers where conditions require, a special distributor to whom all shipments for the county will be made upon sight draft with bill of lading attached through bank already designated, and who will collect money direct from former applications at or before delivery of nitrate to them. Department will make reasonable allowance to distributor to cover expenses and services. Fifty cents per ton would seem reasonable except in unusual cases where expenses are great. No increase in price to farmers. Please consult designated bank and members of local committee and recommend suitable reliable person willing to serve as distributor for your county, and state rate per ton for which he will serve.

In reply to this telegram Mr. Conway wired the Department at Washington that he had appointed C. C. Conway of Jemison, J. N. Dennis of Clanton and Will Guldge of Verbeena as the committee to distribute the shipment of nitrate. Also the First State Bank of Clanton was designated as the depository for the money, which has already been paid in by farmers making application for nitrate.

COUNTY COURT DOCKET

County Court was held by Judge Reynolds Monday, March 4th. The following cases were disposed of:

Gip Downs, charged with obstructing public roads. Case continued by defendant to April term of court.

Elmer Welch, charged with using abusive, insulting and obscene language in presence of women. Case nolle prossed. Hattie Rogers charged with assault and battery. Tried and found guilty; fined $10.00.

Segal Shaw, charged with deserting wife. Trial and defendant discharged.

We are unable this week to complete the financial report of the Town of Clanton as we expected to do. We publish only that part of it which covers the year 1916. The year 1917 will be covered next week.

Another baby arrived last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Reynolds. His name is Morgan.

The value of Clanton's jail building is more than the value of both its church buildings combined.—Rev. E.
C. Maye.

The Birmingham Ledger says that some Alabama farmers are buying
"Missouri field peas" that were shipped from this state to St. Louis, and are now coming back at a much higher price.

The Clanton Methodist Church will have a most beautiful Easter Service.
A fine program with splendid music will be rendered. Dr. Maye will preach a short sermon setting forth some of the facts of Easter and the Resurrection.

The announcement from the Department of Agriculture that nitrate of soda cannot be delivered to farmers in March and April is going to materially effect the plans of those who intended to use it for oats and wheat this spring. These crops will probably be ready to harvest by the time the soda can be secured.

There are more people in Clanton who ought to have heard Rev. Maye at the Methodist Church Sunday than there are who did hear him. But that's no fault of the pastor. He told everybody what he was going to speak about, and he delivered the goods as per invoice. Now, in this case as in many others, Clanton is the loser by your not coming to hear his message.

Rev. Ernest C. Maye of the Methodist Church stopped by the office of the Union-Banner the other day to talk with the editor about some things and along in his conversation he took particular pains to greatly extol the virtues of Clanton's Women's Civic Improvement League. He made especial mention of the work the league is doing in the way of cleaning up the town at this time. Mr. Maye has a kind of a hobby all his own in regard to doing things for our little city; and thanks to his kindly efforts, he is doing his best to get the rest of us to ride his hobby horse with him. Let us all get on. What you say?

A COMPARISON

The sermon of Rev. E. C. Maye last Sunday on "What Clanton Needs," was inspiring in many ways. He forcefully pointed out some very vital things which Clanton needs, and which Clanton people need to do.
Then too, he fearlessly prescribed the plan of procedure for us to follow
in bringing these needs into reality.

But one thing, perhaps, stood out more vivid in the minds of his hearers than all else, and that was the comparisson the speaker made between the splendid court house, its school buildings, hotels, residences, and jail building of Clanton, and the churches.

Thus point out with the force of language which Rev. Maye commands really did cause a few of us to open our eyes.

Dr. Grady Broadhead is at home
from Camp Wheeler for a few days.
Mrs. Broadhead and Mrs. Heath, who have been living in Macon for the past two onths have returned also.

The Junior Improvement League of the Clanton Grammar School rendered a delightful program at the school on last Friday afternoon. The occasion was the winding up of the present planting season. The little folks improvement league has planted trees and shrubbery on the school grounds to the value of some $35 or more.
The play was an original affair, unique and interesting. Wm. Splawn, Bill Smith and Wm. Pinckard were leading characters. Members representing the Clanton Woman's Civic Improvement League were present, and witnessed the program, and were delighted with the way the little fellows carried out their parts.

Mr. G. W. Hodgins, a merchant of Jemison, Route 2, was in Clanton Wednesday attending to some business matters.

MR. S. M. EDWARDS ON TICK ERADICATION

Thorsby, Ala., March 11, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words regarding the coming election on April 1st. I consider this one of the most uncalled for imaginable.

Who do we find advocating this dipping business mostly? It is the cattle speculators of Chilton County. If we could get rid of these speculators by dipping our old cows I would say duck her; but that we can't do. Who will this dipping benefit? The big fellow and the speculators. Who will the burden be on? The poor old farmers.

They tell us we can't sell any more of our cattle. I never saw more demand for cattle than there is today.
The only difference Mr. Beef Man has to bloody his hands a little to get his share of the doe. The people of this part of the county are being offered more for their cattle since the dead line has been drawn around us than ever before in our history. Cattle are being dressed and shipped every week, and they are nice enough.

As for myself, I haven't seen a dozen cattle ticks in five years, and I have inquired among my neighbors and find it is the same with them.

I learn that there was to be a big dipping take place at Clanton last Saturday to demonstrate its effect on cattle. I'll bet it was so weak that it would faint if you looked straight into the vat. Oh, no. We would not expect that dope to effect them. No.
That was to effect the people. The next dipping will be the real stuff.

There is no argument about it effecting your milk cows. I have talked with several reliable people who live in districts where the dipping is going on, and they all tell you that it almost dries them up. Don't we need all the milk and butter that we can possibly produce at this perilous moment. Sure we do. Then don't let anyone scare you with the idea that you won't be able to sell your surplus stock. There will be a buyer every time you have one to sell. The supply of cattle is entirely inadequate for the demand, and will be for many years to come.

Now, boys, don't let that beautiful sun-shiny morning back you out from going to the polls. Keep the corn out of the ground another day and go and vote. Just think of the trouble you would have driving your cows to be dipped, the agony of the cows, the loss of milk and butter, and possibly half your cattle. Let's go snow her under.

Yours very truly,
S. M. EDWARDS.

To help increase the pork supply the department of agriculture has released to motion picture theaters, through one of the large companies, a film showing the work of the boys' pig clubs which the department is organizing in all parts of the country. The film shows methods of instructing farm boys who have joined the agricultural clubs how to raise better pigs and the methods used by club members in carrying out instructions.

The first pig club was organized in Louisiana in 1910. Now approximately 45,000 members are enrolled throughout the country. Clubs in several states are planning to send carloads of fat hogs to fairs and stock shows, after which they are to be marketed co-operatively.

Other moving pictures being used to show the importance of increased food production show activities in the national forests, important sources of timber and water supply.

Athletic work in army camps and cantonments is in the hands of 32 trained organizers and coaches. They are civilian aids on the staffs of commanding officers, and their salaries are paid by the government.

Particular attention has been given to boxing, as it assists men in bayonet fighting. A committee of best-known boxers worked out plans, and moving pictures to teach boxing have been made. Baseballs, bats, basketballs, and soccer balls, boxing gloves, and other equipment are supplied each company, in part, from a government appropriation.

Boys' and girls' clubs in Northern and Western states pledged for war service in gardening, canning, poultry raising, and other emergency enterprises have more than 800,000 members.

A fireproof solution for treating airplane fabrics is a thing which may be realized in the near future, experiments in a private plant having already developed a comparatively successful solution.

The manufacture and consumption of pastry regarded as a luxury in France has been entirely suppressed,
except on Sundays and holidays.

Government barges have been placed in service on the upper Mississippi, and through government assistance a new fleet is to be built for this service. Sugar is being moved by barge from Louisiana plantations to New Orleans.

The winter of 1916-17 was the most disastrous the range stockmen of the West have ever known. The lamb crop for the entire West was 15 to 20 per cent below the average, and the calf crop was considerably below normal.

Riley Robinson and G. C. Powell of Providence, Beat 16, were in town Monday.

ORDER APPOINTING DAY FOR PROOF OF WILL

State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, March 11, Term 1918.
Present, the Hon. L. H. Reynolds,
Judge of Probate.

This day came Aanen Danielson,
and filed in this court his petition,
together with a paper purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Gunhilda Danielson, deceased, late of

PREPARE SOILS WELL

We have had two weeks of warm, dry weather, during which many farmers have been busily engaged in preparing the soil for another crop.
Soil preparation is laying a foundation for a crop. If you are to have a good crop, it must have a good foundation properly prepared. We notice many fields that have been plowed too wet and allowed to bake, thus breaking up in heavy clods which always prevents the proper germination of seed, resulting in poor stands, slow growth, difficult cultivation and poor yields. It is sometimes necessary for lack of time and the right kind of weather to break some soils before they are sufficiently dry. This is not necessarily so injurious, if the soil is disced or harrowed and thoroughly pulverized before it has had an opportunity to bake and become clodded. All soils should be plowed and thoroughly pulverized while fresh and then exposed to the air and sunshine and allowed to settle for a few days or a few weeks. It should be harrowed either with a disc or drag harrow
after every rain to keep the surface pulverized or mulched before planting. This applies to all cultivated crops and more especially to corn. It makes a crop easily cultivated, increases the yield and is every other way advantageous.

Planting Corn.

Many farmers get into a hurry to plant their upland corn in March, and in order to do so are contented with too poor a preparation. It is all right to plant good dry upland in March unless the preparation is neglected in order to do so. Corn may be planted on upland any time in April and I would prefer it rather than sacrifice
on the preparation.

Good dry uplands should be thoroughly broken broadcast and if thoroughly pulverized it may be ridged
by two furrows with a turning plow and the balk swept out, allowing most of the soil to fall back, forming a loose mulch. The corn should be planted in this mulch commonly called the water furrow. As the corn grows the ridge in the center should be gradually worked to the corn. The fertilizer should be applied at the time of planting or working around the corn about the second cultivation. When corn shows a prospective yield of twenty bushels per acre or more, a top dressing of about sixty pounds of nitrate of soda per acre will be found profitable.

Corn on low lands and bottoms need to be planted not until May, so as to escape the damage from bud worms and to allow the soil to warm up and the acid condition to be improved by dry, warm weather. To hasten this condition, it should be plowed as early as possible and be re-plowed and harrowed two or three times to keep down vegetation and to aid in improving its mechanical condition.
Good surface drainage should be supplied by ditching so as to take care of all surface water. Plant in water furrows the same as on upland unless the soil contains too much water, in which event, planting level or on a bed is advisable. Planting corn on beds is seldom ever advised but is necessary in a few cases with wet soil.
Plant corn on uplands and bottoms
just as thick as, in your judgment,
the soil, fertilizer which you intend to apply, and your method of cultivation will grow and mature good corn. Of course this will vary and you are to be the judge, keeping in mind the probability of a deficiency in moisture in extremely dry weather.

To the Farmers
of Chilton County:

We are Jobson System Dealers for this County, and as such are actively engaged in bringing common sense Methods of easier and more profitable farming to every nook and corner of our section.

These methods and the remarkable Jobson Plow have received the endorsement of great agriculturists,
State Officials and practical farmers
all over the country, and these benefits are being extended to all parts of the country at a rate that certainly proves its merit and genuine, practical advantage. No farmer can afford to overlook the opportunity of a thorough investigation of this System before going further with his spring
work.

The Jobson plow has no equal in preparing the land (late or early, wet or dry) before planting, and it is also of extra ordinary value in working growing crops and getting ready for second crops. In fact it is something the farmer needs every month in the year. A little investigation demonstrates this beyond a doubt.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness,
and that is by a constitutional remedy.
Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

Corn and Cotton Fertilizers

The more valuable the crop, the more exacting the farmer should be as to the class of fertilizer he uses. An inferior fertilizer may jeopardize his entire crop since the materials used in such a fertilizer may either leach out before the crop can utilize it or fail to become available in time for the needs of the crop. Many a farmer has lost a valuable crop from this cause, while others have suffered staggering losses from shedding and premature development.

Our GOLD BOND BRANDS offer absolute protection and security against such losses, and insure quick, steady growth, well fruited stalks and an early, healthy maturity. As corn fertilizers, they are without an equal, and they are made to hurry the cotton crop to early maturity to beat the boll-weevil. Every day the want-ads in the newspapers tell the story of money that vanished because people carry sums in their pockets and purses which they ought to deposit in bank. ## The Till Boll Weevil Catcher

From the information we have on the merit of the Till Boll Weevil Catcher we are convinced that if the farmers will begin using them when cotton is five or six inches high and continue until the plant is too large to pass through the Catcher, and go over the crop at least once every ten days, cotton can be grown successfully and profitably. It is estimated that one man using a Catcher can destroy more Weevils in the same length of time than twenty men can destroy picking the weevils off by hand.

We have only a very few and if you expect to buy one, please write or phone us at once so we can get more of them from the factory by the time they are needed.

The price is $7.50, and judging by the experience of farmers in other sections you can double the yield of cotton by using them as directed.

BOATSWAIN IS CITED FOR GREAT HEROISM

HOW JOHN MACKENZIE SAVED THE REMLIK WHEN A DEPTH CHARGE BROKE LOOSE.

HE CAPTURED THE BIG BOMB

Delivery of Locomotives Ordered by Government Starts in July—German Limits Spending Money of American Prisoners and Interned Civilians.

(From Committee on Public Information.) Washington.—Many members of the United States army and navy are being commended for bravery in action or in emergencies. A typical case is that of John Mackenzie, chief boatswain's mate, of the naval reserve force, described in a navy department statement.

The case is unique in that it has to do with one of the latest engines of war. As is well known, United States destroyers and other submarine fighters carry depth charges containing a large amount of high explosives which are dropped in the path of enemy submarines and explode under water. These have proved effective weapons in the destruction of U-boats, and they are safe enough when the safety pins are affixed; but when they get beyond control and the safety pin comes out they are a source of serious danger to the vessels carrying them. It will be recalled that the men on the U. S. S. Manley who lost their lives in the collision of that destroyer with a British vessel were killed by the explosion of one of these bombs.

In a heavy gale on the morning of December 17, 1917, a depth charge on the Remlik broke loose from its position on the stern. The box went overboard, but the charge was hurled in the opposite direction and went bounding about the deck. As it weighs hundreds of pounds it was impossible for anyone to lift the bomb and carry it to safety. It was even dangerous for anyone to go to that part of the ship, as the seas were washing over the stern. As the officers and crew watched the bomb some one shouted: "The pin's come out!" Realizing the danger, Mackenzie, exclaiming, "Watch me; I'll get it," dashed down the deck and flung himself upon the charging cylinder. Three times he almost had his arms about the bomb, but each time it tore from him, once almost crushing him. The fourth time he got a firm grip on it and heaved it up right on one flat end. Then he sat on it and held it down. The charge might have broken loose again and exploded at any moment, blowing Mackenzie to bits, but he held on firmly until lines could be run to him and man and depth bomb safely lashed. Soon afterward the ship was headed up into the sea and the charge carried to a place of safety.

The commanding officer of the Remlik, in his report recommending that the medal of honor be conferred on Mackenzie, says:

"Mackenzie, in acting as he did, exposed his life and prevented a serious accident to the ship and probable loss of the ship and entire crew. Had this depth charge exploded on the quarter-deck with the sea and wind that existed at the time there is no doubt that the ship would have been lost."

Money intended for interned civilians and prisoners of war in Germany should be remitted through the bureau of prisoners' relief, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C. Remittances so made will probably not be delivered to addressees by the German government in cash, but in the form of credit on prison exchanges.

According to the Spanish ambassador at Berlin, the war department states that there are no restrictions in regard to the remittance of money for civilian and military prisoners. Such money is placed to prisoners' credit, and may be spent under the following regulations:

"Military prisoners. Sixty marks weekly may be spent by officers and others of similar rank; 50 marks weekly by non-commissioned officers and men.

"Civilian prisoners. Sixty marks weekly for men of better social position; 50 marks weekly for others."

A study is being made of the formulae and manufacturing processes of medicines requiring glycerin, and plans for the curtailment of the quantity now used in case it becomes necessary will be submitted to the general medical board of the Council of National Defense.

It is announced in the Bohemian press that experiments made with "paper cloth" have proved so successful that Hungarian state railways are to furnish their employees with summer clothing of this fabric.

In its regulations governing the price of wool the war industries board allows dealers to make a charge of three per cent of the selling price if the wool is not graded, and 3 1/2 per cent if graded. This commission is to cover all storage, cartage and insurance.

An additional credit of $3,250,000 has been extended to Belgium by the United States, making a total of $107,850,000 loaned to that country, and credits to all the allies $5,288,850,000.

EARN 14 CENTS A DAY; HAS WIFE AND BABY

And Yet This True Story Has a Happy Ending.

Even a Frenchman sometimes loses, for awhile at least, his "unfailing" sense of humor.

Take, for instance, the case of a man from Lille, a soldier, Waeltefe by name and only twenty-three. He had done pretty well, for the youngster had already his own printing shop in that northern French town, which is still inside the German lines. In the trenches Waeltefe developed tuberculosis, and he was sent to a hospital at Grenoble. There he was considered incurable, and after the usual three months of treatment he was granted his 14 cents a day pension. Said his fatherly army doctor, "My son, you can perhaps cure yourself if you will live in the mountains, if you will eat plenty of nourishing food and, above all, if you don't worry."

Waeltefe should have smiled, but he didn't. He was thinking of his baby and his wife—and his 14 cents. "Don't worry!" The humor of it entirely escaped him.

Then the Red Cross stepped in. He was found by an American woman with some American Red Cross money for just such cases, and within a few hours he no longer had need to worry. He was sent to the mountains at Lamure, in the French Alps, happy in the knowledge that his family was being cared for by these amazingly kind Americans.

And now the army doctor's words are coming true. Waeltefe's lung is healing fast, and he is dreaming of another printing shop and of living again some day with that little family.

There have been over 400,000 new cases of tuberculosis in France since the war started, and to care for these cases and check the White Plague's spread is merely one of the big jobs the American Red Cross has set out to accomplish.

SUGAR DEALERS MUST CUT SALES

CANDY, SODA WATER, SOFT DRINKS, ETC., MAKE WAY FOR CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Wholesale and retail dealers selling sugar have been notified by the U. S. Food Administration that Rule 4 will be strictly enforced. This rule reads: "Rule 4. On and after May 15, 1918, the wholesaler and retailer shall not ship or deliver sugar to any person engaged in any business of manufacturing, bottling, packing or preparing products in which sugar is used, until he has received from such purchaser a certificate or certificates duly endorsed by the buyer and issued to the buyer by the Federal Food Administrator for the State in which the buyer is located, certifying that the total amount of sugar to be sold or delivered will not give the buyer more than his fair share of the sugar then available for distribution in the United States."

"This rule shall not apply to sales or deliveries to (a) hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, or other public eating places whose products are sold for consumption on the premises; (b) wholesale or retail dealers in sugar holding a license from the United States Food Administration; (c) bakers and cracker manufacturers holding a baker's license from the Food Administration."

Certificates are required by the foregoing rule in selling to any of the following classes: (a) Manufacturers of soft butter, beverage syrups, candy, cake, cereals, chewing gum, Chiffon, chocolate, cocoa, condiments, confectionery, explosives, flavoring extracts, fruit preserves, fruit syrup, glycerine, honey, invert sugar, ice cream, jam, jelly, meat products, medicines, preserves, pickles, soda water, soft drinks, syrups, tobacco, wine; (b) Canneries, Preservers and Packers of every kind of vegetables, fruit, milk and meat; (c) Soda water fountains and dispensers of soft drinks; (d) bottlers of soft drinks.

Federal Food Administrator R. M. Hobbie, in an interview, given to the press today, announced that this rule would be strictly enforced. Any wholesale merchant who violates the rule will have his license revoked at once and retail merchants, not under license, will have their supplies not only of sugar, but of all foodstuffs, stopped at once.

The Food Administration has found it necessary to put on these rules in order that there may be an available supply of sugar for canning and preserving and that housewives may be able to thus save a large amount of perishable food that would otherwise be wasted.

Proprietors of many small soda fountains, confectionery establishments, etc., seem to think that they are not embraced by these sugar conservation rules. But wholesalers and retailers are warned that no matter how small the business, it is embraced in this rule and they must not supply them with sugar unless the proper certificates are delivered to them.

Housewives who desire sugar for preserving and canning are not affected by this rule and may still purchase sugar under the plan already in force for them. By signing a sugar certificate which all merchants, handling sugar, should now have on hand, they can obtain 25 pounds of sugar at a purchase just as they have been doing.

Sugar Rationing for Manufacturers. "After May 15th no manufacturer, using sugar for manufacturing purposes, will be permitted to purchase sugar without the surrender of authorized sugar distribution certificates issued by the State Food Administrator in the State where the manufacturing concern is located, and endorsed on the back by the buyer."

This announcement made by Federal Food Administrator, R. M. Hobbie, is of vital interest to many manufacturing concerns in Alabama and they should at once take the necessary steps to enable them to secure the proper certificates in order that their business may not be interrupted when the rule goes into effect on May 15th. The only exceptions to the rule are that hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and public eating places, whose products are sold for consumption on the premises and bakers and cracker manufacturers engaged exclusively in the manufacture of their products, are not required to have these certificates in order to purchase sugar. All other manufacturers must have them and can secure them with very little trouble provided they follow the plans of the Food Administration and act promptly.

Manufacturers should at once apply to the Federal Food Administrator, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala., for blank forms, which must be filled out and sworn to. When these statements are returned, the amount of sugar which the manufacturer will be allowed, is figured out from a table of percentages of the amount allowed each line of business which is uniform throughout the United States and which all manufacturers are compelled to abide by.

Non-negotiable and non-transferable certificates will then be issued by the Food Administrator to the manufacturer for the amount of sugar he is entitled to. These certificates must be signed and delivered to the seller when sugar is purchased. The seller then cancels the certificate and returns it to the Food Administration for record.

Refiners, sugar brokers, wholesale and retail grocers, after May 15th, will not sell or deliver sugar to any manufacturer, except on delivery of these certificates.

It will be readily seen that this plan will require a very large amount of clerical work in the office of the Federal Food Administrator and all manufacturers are urged to apply for blank statements at once and carefully read and study the instructions accompanying them so that there may be no confusion or delay in securing certificates for the amount of sugar the Government will allow them to purchase.

MILLER FURNISHED; COMMISSION CANCELLED

The commission as a federal miller of M. P. Jarvis & Son, federal corn millers at Jackson Gap, Tallapoosa county, Alabama, was summarily revoked by Federal Food Administrator R. M. Hobbie.

This action was taken after a hearing had been held in the offices of the Food Administration and all of the evidence in the case, including Messrs. Jarvis & Son's statement in their own behalf, had been carefully considered by Mr. Hobbie. The evidence secured by Mr. H. Horzgold, Food Administrator for Tallapoosa county, was to the effect that Jarvis & Son had ground a bushel of corn sent to them by a carpenter who resided in Alexander City. He bought the corn from a farmer living near Jackson's Gap, had it carried to the mill by the farmer and when the same had been ground into meal, Jarvis & Son issued a certificate to the carpenter certifying that he was entitled to purchase 24 pounds of wheat flour without purchasing wheat flour substitutes.

The rules of the Food Administration, copies of which Messrs. Jarvis & Son admitted they had received and had read, provide that no person is entitled to receive these miller's certificates unless they have grown the corn themselves or unless the corn has been grown on a farm of which they are tenants and been delivered to them by landlords for personal use.

The registered miller is required and the certificate which he issues states, that the party having the corn ground and to whom the certificate is delivered has declared under oath that the above facts are true.

After considering the affidavits produced and the written certificate that had been issued by Jarvis & Son, Federal Food Administrator Hobbie stated that the evidence was plain; that the specific rules which Mr. Jarvis and his son both admitted they had in their possession and were familiar with, had been violated; that the authority to issue this certificate was an exception to the nation-wide rule that a pound of substitutes must be bought with each pound of flour and was made for the benefit of the farmers of Alabama who are growing corn; that the federal corn millers who had been registered by the Food Administration and all of whom had taken a solemn oath to conduct their business in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Food Administration, had been accorded the privilege of issuing the certificates, the faith of such oath; that in this emergency no official of the Government could be allowed to deliberately disregard not only his duty as a citizen but a solemn obligation as a sworn official and escape a just and proper punishment for his offense; that in view of the fact that this was the first offense of this kind that had been brought to the attention of the Food Administration and in view of Messrs. Jarvis & Son's expressions of regret for what they had done and the determination to abide by all rules of the Government in the future, he was not inclined to carry their case into the courts.

"Therefore, it is the judgment and order of the Federal Food Administrator for Alabama that their commission as federal millers be and is hereby cancelled and revoked on this May 8, 1918; that any attempt on their part hereafter to issue certificates will subject them to prosecution and that any merchant honoring certificates bearing Register No. C62125, if they attempt to issue them, would also make himself liable to such penalties as might be determined by the Administration."

Messrs. Jarvis & Son were ordered to at once return the commission that had been issued to them and to announce to the public at once that they were no longer members of the U. S. Food Administration and were no longer registered federal corn millers.

PRICE OF ICE MUST BE FAIR

Food Administration Controls Manufacture and Distribution.

The law department has ruled that the manufacture and distribution of ice comes under the Food Control Act. The Food Administration is concerned that there shall be no profiteering in ice and especially that the cost of ice shall be fair and reasonable to those elements of the community which are least able to protect themselves.

No manufacturer of ice has the right to increase prices over last year unless absolute proof can be given as to the necessity therefor. Every ice dealer in Alabama must file with Federal Food Administrator R. M. Hobbie any proposed schedule of increased prices before these increases are put into effect.

Under no circumstances will an unreasonably lower price to commercial users than to domestic consumers be allowed. Ice manufacturers and dealers should take note of these rulings and be careful to submit any proposed increase in prices to the Federal Food Administrator before attempting to put them on.

NOT A COLLECTION AGENCY.

There appears to be an impression in some quarters that the Food Administration will undertake the duty of settling differences between shippers and purchasers of food and feed stuff. In some instances the Federal Food Administrator has been appealed and in other cases parties have been told that unless settlements were made their licenses would be revoked.

Such statements are unwarranted. The Food Administration has no power, nor does it desire to usurp the functions of the courts of the land. It is not a collection agency and has never authorized any person to attempt to use it as such. Persons making statements to the contrary should be reported and will be promptly punished.

The Federal Food Administrator for Alabama only intervenes in such disputes when foodstuffs are liable to deterioration or destruction. Food will not be allowed to spoil in cars, warehouses or anywhere else. When necessary to prevent this, it will be put into channels of consumption by the Food Administration. When that is done, the matter of settlement is left to the disputants. They can adjust the matter between themselves or go to the courts for settlement as they may see fit.

E. B. WREN,
As Administrator.

Sewing Circle With Much Whispering

We Are All Greatly Indebted to Those Who Tell Their Experiences.

Before the arrival of the stork there is much to talk about. The comfort of the expectant mother is the chief topic, and there is sure to be someone who has used or knows of that splendid external help—Mother's Friend.
Nausea, nervousness, bearing-down and stretching pains and other symptoms so familiar to many women are among the dreaded experiences thousands of mothers say they entirely escape by the use of this famous remedy.
Its influence on the fine network of nerves and ligaments just beneath the skin is wonderful.
By the regular use of Mother's Friend during the period the muscles are made and kept soft and elastic; they expand easily, without strain, when baby is born and the pain and danger at the crisis is naturally less.
Mother's Friend is for external use only, is sold by all druggists, and should be used with the utmost regularity. Write to the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a valuable and interesting "Motherhood Book." There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived in reading this little book. It is plainly written and will be a splendid little text book for guidance, not only for yourself but will make you helpful to others. And in the meantime do not fail to get a bottle of Mother's Friend from the drug store and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

FOR A SPRAINED ANKLE

As soon as possible after the injury is received get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and follow the plain printed directions which accompany the bottle.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, April 25, 1918.
In the matter of the estate of J. H. Prichard, deceased.

This day came J. H. Lyle, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, and files his account, vouchers, evidence, statement for final settlement of his said administration.

It is ordered that the 18th day of May, 1918 be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 25th day of April, 1918.
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

Wake up Chilton County citizens. Our boys need help. This is the time for every true American to do his or her part toward winning the war against Germany and against human slavery.

The second Red Cross war fund drive for a hundred million dollars begins in the United States May 20th and continues until May 27th. Chilton County's quota in this Drive is $3,150 and we must raise it and go far "over the top."

This money is used to ease the sufferings of our wounded and dying soldiers who are fighting our battles on the fields of France. If we fail to send them help, how can they have the heart to fight?

God pity the man woman, boy or girl, who lives in this land of peace and plenty and who refuses to give liberally to this Red Cross War Fund during the Drive week.

S. L. Gibson, of Verbena, who has been chosen chairman of the War Fund drive in Chilton County, accompanied by Mrs. Lida Jones, has visited nearly every town and hamlet in the county during the past week, appointing chairmen in each locality and distributing literature necessary to the Drive.

All money or subscriptions collected for the war fund during the drive week, will be sent to H. B. Oliver, Esq., of Verbena, who has been appointed treasurer of the drive.

Citizens of Clanton, have you stopped to consider this fact, that when you bought Liberty Bonds you did not give one cent toward winning the war and toward helping ease the pains of wounded soldiers and toward making comfortable the dying moments of our young American soldiers in France?

You merely loaned your own Government your money at a reasonable rate of interest. Your money will come back to you in full with interest. Now is the time to show your real patriotism by giving freely to alleviate the sufferings of your own boy or your neighbor's boy who is giving his young life freely that we may still live in comfort and safety and still be the masters of our own destinies.

Make a sacrifice and contribute liberally to that Heaven-sent organization which is gently mothering our wounded soldiers and which with tireless hands of mercy soothes the pain-drawn brows of dying American men, yea, and then which gives them a decent burial and sends the last faint words home to American mothers. Chilton County expects every man on her soil to do his best for this Red Cross War Fund.

ABOUT RHUMATISM

Rhumatism causes more pain and suffering than any of her disease for the reason that it is most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that there is a remedy that will afford relief and make rest and sleep possible. It is called Chamberlain's Liniment.

I. O. O. F. GRAND MASTER HERE

Hon. Palmer T. Dauge, State Grand Master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was in Clanton Saturday night to attend a special meeting of the Clanton Lodge.

Mitch Bates has got him a Ford car.

Hardly a Drugstore in the Land That Does Not Sell This Remedy

On the Market Half a Century.

When you are in perfect health, and are enjoying a strong and vigorous vitality, it is then that your blood is free from all impurities.

You should be very careful and give heed to the slightest indication of impure blood. A sluggish circulation is often indicated by an impaired appetite, a feeling of lassitude and a general weakening of the system. It is then that you should promptly take a few bottles of S. S. S., the great blood purifier and strengthener. It will cleanse the blood thoroughly and build up and strengthen the whole system. S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Valuable information about the blood supply can be had free by writing to the Swift Specific Co., 24 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

NOTICE

New Spring Apparel and Millinery

NOW ON DISPLAY

THE NEW SUITS AND DRESSES

We are showing the new season's prettiest models. The assemblage expresses entirely original ideas of designers of note and ability, and we believe the collection will prove the most interesting we have yet shown in any season. There are tailored suits of unusual merit—also dresses that will appeal to those whose requirements are for more fanciful creations. These models offer every woman a liberal choice.

Conservative women will find their ideas respected here. We do not favor shoddy styles of materials, and we feature only such innovations in fashion as are worn by people of the best taste and refinement.

You may be sure when you buy a frock or a suit at our store that it possesses the smart simplicity and quiet elegance which distinguishes the dress of a lady and that it will be found equally suitable wherever you may go.

Fancy Waists.

The New Hats

Are chic beyond the telling. To go with unapproachable head wear means to go into the very center of spring fashion—and be lonesome. Here, and now, are a hundred and one new, effective and distinctive hats for your individual choice.

Men and Boys

You were not forgotten when we selected this new spring stock. We believe that we have unquestionably one of the best assortments of Men's and Boys' Spring & Summer Goods ever shown in Clanton, at absolutely the very best prices obtainable at present.

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

1918 HOME CARDS DISTRIBUTED

The 1918-home cards have been sent out to all county food administrators with the request that they at once pass them on to the hands of their best assistants. This new home card gives the housewife the rules and requests of the Food Administration in a clear and condensed form. Mr. Hoover wants one of them to hang in every kitchen in the United States. Every housewife who has not received one is urged to call on her best or county administrator at once for it.

A large number of pledge cards have also been sent to the best assistants and they are urged to secure as many signatures as possible and return them to the Food Administration. The window cards bearing the emblem of the Food Administration and showing that the person displaying them has signed the pledge card and become a member of the Food Administration, are also in the hands of the County Administrators.

Every person who joins in the great work of conserving food and thereby helping to feed our soldiers, our allies and the starving millions of Europe, should have this window card hanging in a front window of their home. It is not only an incentive to the continued and regular saving of food but also makes its appeal to every passer-by. Ninety per cent of the food purchased in the United States is purchased by the housewives of the country and if Mr. Hoover's plans are carried out it must be through their loyal co-operation. Hence, they are urged to secure the home card and the window display card and read them carefully and see that all their neighbors sign the pledge card and also secure them.

VICTORY GARDENS

The word "Victory" carries an appeal to every patriotic American heart, and the people are applying it not only to Victory bread but they are also talking about Victory gardens. In an address in Washington last week Mr. Hoover requested all people interested in food conservation to urge the planting of gardens in every available spot. Good gardens will not only furnish a great variety of healthful and wholesome food but will diminish the demand made on the supplies of staple foods throughout the country. Every family that has ever had a good garden knows how the grocery bills decreased while the garden was furnishing its supplies to the table.

The Food Administrator for Alabama appeals to all the great host of men and women who are so loyally supporting food conservation to plant and cultivate gardens and use the good stuffs that are raised therein. This is done the gardens of the country may indeed be called Victory gardens for they will exercise a large influence in promoting and hastening victory that must be won to make the world safe for democracy.

LICENSE NUMBERS ON MENUS

The law department of the United States Food Administration has ruled that all hotels, restaurants or other public eating places holding a baker's license must place their license number on all menus used by them in their dining rooms.

Under the President's proclamation of January 30 all bakers, hotels, restaurants and other public eating places and clubs serving bread or other bakery products of their own baking and use as much as three barrels of flour per month, were required to take out a license on or before February 4. Under this rule nearly all hotels and restaurants are licensed and should, by February 4, have secured their license numbers. Hence, the public should see on nearly all menus placed before them in hotels and restaurants the license number of the establishment.

The justice of this rule and the necessity for it lie in the fact that these license numbers will afford a ready method of detecting any proprietors who are not living up to the baking rules and supporting the Food Administration's plans and regulations for saving wheat flour.

The Food Administrator for Alabama today announced that all local administrators would be requested to see that this ruling is strictly complied with by all eating places of whatever nature or character coming under the provision of the ruling.

A CHANGE OF RULES

Mr. Hoover has announced that for the present the people are no longer required to have a meatless meal each day and a porkless Saturday. He does most earnestly request that the meatless Tuesday still be strictly observed. The response of the public to our requests for reduced consumption of meat during the past few months has been most gratifying and this denial of the people alone has enabled the Government during this period to provide such supplies as transportation to the allies permitted. The enlarged supplies are likely to last for two or three months, after which there will be the usual seasonal decrease in the amount of animals coming to market. The perishable character of meats and the limited storage facilities of the country do not permit the carrying of very large surpluses of meat over extended periods. For this reason the rule has been lifted as to meatless meals and porkless Saturdays.

However, this may not be permanent and may last for only a month or two. Mr. Hoover's action in lifting the rule shows that he is keeping faith with the people and is only asking them to do what is absolutely necessary. We believe that if it should become necessary at a later date to put the meatless meals and porkless Saturdays back into use the people would respond as willingly and cheerfully as they have been doing.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudie B. White have moved into their new residence in West Clanton.

A LETTER FROM RUTH JONES

Editor Union-Banner:

It has been a long time since I had the pleasure of writing to our good old county paper; although I have been reading some of the Clanton County news, and enjoyed it very much.

Some folks think that when one of our boys go to France, that he can't come back till this war is over, if then. But on Monday night, my brother, Lonnie Jones, the son of A. J. Jones, returned home from France, and seemed to be glad to get back to his old home and parents. He said that before he left there the rainbow division had not gone into the trenches, but they didn't know how soon they would have to go. While he was with the boys over there they slept in barns, and he says those old French women would raise all kind of "Cain" when they would find a bunch of the Sammies in their barns, but they couldn't tell what they were saying, so they would just laugh at them and go on with their 'rat killing.'

He says they had plenty to eat while he was over there, and never had to go hungry.

If there is anybody who wants to see Lonnie, you will find him at home between the plow handles plowing "old Beck." He left his company on the 19th day of January, when the snow was knee deep. While he was there they hiked three days in the snow, and some of the boys got mighty cold. He reports that there has been no serious sickness in the camp since they landed in France. Lonnie sailed from France on the 27th of January, and landed at an Atlantic port in the United States on February 19th.

My brother, Rufus from Sylacauga came home on Saturday night, March 2. Calvin came on Friday, so we have been having a family reunion ever since.

Respectfully,

RUTH JONES.

WAR PROFITEER PUBLIC NUISANCE

No Extortion to Be Tolerated, but Liberal Disposition Toward Business Needed.

Shrinkage of Values Would Curtail Capacity to Provide Sinews of War.

"Conscription of Men, Conscription of Money," Analyzed.

By OTTO H. KAHN.

Much is being said about the plausible sounding contention that because a certain portion of the young manhood of the nation has been conscripted, therefore money must also be conscripted. Why, that is the very thing the government has been doing. It has conscripted a portion—a relatively small portion—of the men of the nation. It has conscripted a portion—a large portion—of the incomes of the nation. Capital and business pay more than four-fifths of our total war taxation directly and a large share of the remaining fifth indirectly.

If the government went too far in conscripting men the country would be crippled. If it went too far in conscripting incomes and earnings the country would likewise be crippled.

Results of Conscription of Capital.

I would ask those who would go further and conscript not only incomes, but capital, to answer the riddle, not only in what equitable and practicable manner they would do it, but what the nation would gain by it?

It is true that a few years ago a capital levy was made in Germany, but the percentage of that levy was so small as to actually amount to no more than an additional income tax and that at a time when the regular income tax in Germany was very moderate as measured by the present standards of income taxation.

Only a trifling fraction of a man's property is held in cash. If they conscript a certain percentage of his possessions in stocks and bonds, what would the government do with them?

Keep them? That would not answer its purpose, because the government wants cash, not securities.

Sell them? Who is to buy them when every one's funds would be depleted?

If they conscript a certain percentage of a man's real estate or mine or farm or factory, how is that to be expressed and converted into cash?

Are conscripted assets to be used as a basis for the issue of Federal Reserve bank notes? That would mean gross inflation, with all its attendant evils, dangers and deceptions.

Would they repudiate a percentage of the national debt? Repudiation is no less dishonorable in a people than in an individual, and the penalty for failure to respect the sanctity of obligations is no different.

The Thrifty Would Be Penalized.

The fact is that the government would gain nothing in the process of capital conscription and the country would be thrown into chaos for the time being. The man who has saved would be penalized, he who has wasted would be favored. Thrift and constructive effort, resulting in the useful and fruitful accumulation of capital, would be arrested and lastingly discouraged.

I can understand the crude notion of the man who would divide all possessions equally. There would be mighty little coming to any one by such distribution, and it is, of course, an utterly impossible thing to do, but it is an understandable notion. But by the confiscation of capital for government use neither the government nor any individual would be benefited.

A vigorously progressive income tax is both economically and socially sound. A capital tax is wholly unsound and economically destructive.

It may nevertheless become necessary in the case of some of the belligerent countries to resort to this expedient, but I can conceive of no situation likely to arise which would make it necessary or advisable in this country.

More than ever would such a tax be harmful in times of war and post-bellum reconstruction, when beyond almost all other things it is essential to stimulate production and promote thrift, and when everything which tends to have the opposite effect should be rigorously rejected as detrimental to the nation's strength and well-being.

There is an astonishing lot of hazy thinking on the subject of the uses of capital in the hands of its owners.

The rich man can spend only a relatively small sum of money unproductively or selfishly. The money that it is in his power actually to waste is exceedingly limited. The bulk of what he has must be spent and used for productive purposes, just as would be the case if it were spent by the government, with this difference, however, that, generally speaking, the individual is more painstaking and discriminating in the use of his funds and at the same time bolder, more imaginative, enterprising and constructive than the government with its necessarily bureaucratic and routine regime possibly could be. Money in the hands of the individual is continuously and feverishly on the search for opportunities—1. e. for creative and productive use. In the hands of the government it is apt to lose a good deal of its fruitifying energy and ceaseless striving and to sink instead into placid and somnolent repose.

There need not be and there should not be any conflict between profits and patriotism. I am utterly opposed to those who would utilize their country's war as a means to enrich themselves. The "war profiteer," as the term is generally understood, is a public nuisance and an ignominy. Extortionate profits must not be tolerated but, on the other hand, there should be a reasonably liberal disposition toward business and a willingness to see it make substantial earnings.

For taxation presupposes earnings. Our credit structure is based upon values, and values are largely determined by earnings. Shrinkage of values necessarily affects our capacity to provide the government with the sinews of war.

The Conscription of Men.

Reverting now to the subject of the conscription of men, I know I speak the sentiment of all those beyond the years of young manhood when I say that there is not one of us worthy of the name of a man who would not willingly go to fight if the country needed or wanted us to fight. But the country does not want or call its entire manhood to fight. It does not even call anywhere near its entire young manhood. It has called or intends to call in the immediate future perhaps 25 per cent. of its men between twenty and thirty years of age, which means probably about 4 per cent. of its total male population of all ages. But it has called from incomes, business profits and other imposts falling principally on the well to do, approximately ninety per cent. of our war taxation, not to mention the contributions to the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and other war relief activities.

Let me add in passing that the children of the well to do have been taken for the war in proportionately greater numbers than the children of the poor, because those young men who are needed at home to support dependents or to maintain essential war industries are exempted from the draft.

Our Laws Favor Sons of the Poor.

The draft exemption regulations discriminate not, as in former wars, in favor of the rich man's son, but in favor of the poor woman's son.

I realize but too well that the burden of the abnormally high cost of living, caused largely by the war, weighs heavily indeed upon wage earners and still more upon men and women with moderate salaries. I yield to no one in my desire to see everything done that is practicable to have that burden lightened. But excessive taxation on capital will not accomplish that; on the contrary, it will tend to intensify the trouble.

Taxation must be sound and wise and scientific and cannot be laid in a haphazard way or on impulse or according to considerations of politics, otherwise the whole country will suffer. History has shown over and over again that the laws of economics cannot be defied with impunity and that the resulting penalty falls upon all sections and classes.

The question of the individual is not the one that counts. The question is not what sacrifices capital should and would be willing to bear if called upon, but what taxes it is to the public advantage to impose.

I do not say all this to plead for a reduction of the taxation on wealth or in order to urge that no additional taxes be imposed on wealth if need be. There is no limit to the burden which in time of stress and strain those must be willing to bear who can afford it except only that limit which is imposed by the consideration that taxation must not reach a point where the business activity of the country becomes crippled and its economic equilibrium is thrown out of gear, because that would harm every element of the commonwealth and diminish the war-making capacity of the nation.

APRIL 1 LAST DAY FOR FEDERAL RETURNS

Penalties for Income Dodgers Are Severe—Get Your Return in if You Are Liable.

April 1, 1918, is the final day allowed under the federal income tax law for the filing of federal income tax returns. Persons who are required to file returns under the provisions of law and who fail to get their returns in on time are subject to severe penalties, as follows:

For making false or fraudulent return, not exceeding $2,000 or not exceeding one year's imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court, and, in addition, 100 per cent. of the tax evaded.

For failing to make return on time, not less than $20 nor more than $1,000, and, in addition, 50 per cent. of the amount of tax due.

If on account of illness or absence from home you are unable to render your return within the time prescribed by law you may obtain an extension of 30 days if a request therefor is filed with the collector of your district before the due date of the return. In this request you must state the reason why the return cannot be filed within the time prescribed by law.

Collectors of internal revenue are not authorized to grant extensions of more than 30 days, but the commissioner of internal revenue has authority to grant a reasonable extension beyond 30 days in meritorious cases. If you desire an extension of more than 30 days your request should be addressed to the commissioner and should contain a detailed statement covering the reasons which make it impossible for you to file your return on or before April 1.

The internal revenue men are now completing their tour of the country, during which they were in touch with the people of every city and town. If you failed to get in touch with the deputy which visited your section it is not too late to get advice. Consult your postmaster as to where the nearest deputy is now. Get your blank form, study the directions and the requirements as shown thereon and make your return without fail if your income was sufficient to come within the bounds named in the law.

It is pointed out by Commissioner Roper that it is important that the people comply with the federal laws as fully as they are complying with the drafts for men and the conservation of foods and fuel. "The war must be paid for," says Commissioner Roper. "Congress has as much right to conscript a just portion of income as it has to conscript our boys. The tax for 1917 is designed to reach moderate as well as large incomes, so that all persons who are in financial position to bear a portion of the heavy government expenses can be assessed in proportion to their ability to pay."

"The man who is barely making a living or barely supporting a family is not affected by the 1917 law. But the man who is able to bear a share of the burden has been reached by the new law, and he should accept his responsibility in the same patriotic spirit that our young men have shown in offering themselves for this great purpose of the country to make the world safe for people of all kinds to live in and to govern themselves."

This tax is one which recognizes women as on an equal basis with men. The unmarried woman or the married woman with a salary must make tax return just the same as any man. Only the woman supporting her mother or other members of her family may take out $2,000 exemption.

Under the law the head of the family is the one whose earning power contributes to the family's support.

Similarly a widow with small children to support can take out $2,000 exemption and $200 additional exemption for each of her children under eighteen. Thus it is intended that the law shall work no hardship to women having to struggle to get along. But each must file return if her income is $1,000.

A man whose wife dies and who is left with small children to support upon a moderate income may also take full exemption under the new tax law and also claim $200 exemption for each of his children under eighteen.

The widower under the law is a single man and must make tax return accordingly. Married men need not file returns unless they are earning $2,000 or more.

"This is as much a national obligation as the reporting for duty of a man drafted for service with the colors," says D. C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue. "As it stands, it is much a matter of the man or woman's own conscience. It is for him or for her to determine just how far he is liable to the tax. He must figure his own income and if it reaches the figures named in the law must make faithful report upon it to the proper authority."

"This tax is distinctly a war measure and will be in effect during the war."

"This is a people's tax—it reaches right down into the pockets of the small wage earner; it makes him a partner in the job of winning the war."

The Real American Beauty

How glorious and wonderful is the advent of another life. When baby is born there comes into the world a new soul, the real American Beauty. When the hour arrives it should be the dawn of a new and perfect future. The joy of motherhood should be as free from fear and danger as it is possible to make it. Thousands of women have used the safe and reliable application, "Mother's Friend". It is a wonderful help to nature in relieving strain and distress brought about by expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, making the period one of cheerful days and restful nights. The breasts are kept in good condition and the abdominal muscles relax with ease when baby is born. "Mother's Friend" makes it possible for the expectant mother herself to actually aid nature in the glorious work to be performed, and no woman should neglect or fail to give nature a helping hand. It will mean infinitely less pain at the crisis.

Do not fall under any circumstances to get this greatest remedy, ever compounded for expectant mothers. Write to the Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. J, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their book, "Motherhood of Women Baby". They will send it free. It is not only very useful, but will make you helpful to others. Remember to ask your druggist for a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today.

SUGAR SUPPLY IS ASSURED PACKERS

FOOD PRODUCTS MANUFACTURERS ADVISED THEY WILL BE ABLE TO OBTAIN NECESSARY REQUIREMENTS.

EQUIPMENT OF WAR PLANES

Each Aircraft Needs Extra Material and Staff of Skilled Men—Removal of Officers From Medical Reserve Corps.

Washington.—Manufacturers of essential food products have been advised by the food administration that they will be able to obtain their full requirements of sugar for manufacturing purposes during the coming year.

This applies particularly to packers of fruit, condensed milk, such vegetables for the preservation of which sugar may be necessary, as well as to the housewives, for usage in preserving purposes. As soon as the car shortage is relieved, according to the food administration statement, supplies of sugar will be available for these purposes. Shipments from Cuba are steadily increasing.

All canners have been advised to hold for war purposes such quantities of canned corn, peas, tomatoes, string beans, and salmon as they may have on hand. Such quantities as are not wanted will be released within a few days after receipt of reports showing stocks on hand, which must be submitted to the food administration before March 15.

After three years of warfare the total number of airplanes able to take the air at any one time on either side of the western front has not been over 2,500. Each plane in the air requires a force of 46 men, two replacement planes on the ground, and one training plane for every pilot who eventually reaches the front, with an extra engine for each plane.

The life of a plane is not more than two months, and the engine must be overhauled after each 75 hours. Now that American battle planes are going overseas, the great problem is to secure the thousands of skilled mechanics, engineers, motor repair men, wood and metal workers needed to keep the planes in perfect condition. This engineering and mechanical force at the airfields, the flying fields, and repair depots, both here and behind the lines in France, is a vital industrial link in the chain to air supremacy.

From the declaration of war to February 23, the surgeon general of the army has removed 1,050 officers of the Medical Reserve Corps. In the following table the reason assigned for discharge does not isolate under "inaptitude for the service" all those whose dismissal was in considerable degree due to inefficiency or incompetence, since these reasons had weight in many cases otherwise classified.

Discharged for physical disability: 411; inaptitude for the service, 154; to join other branches, 306; domestic difficulties, 59; resignation, 88; needed by communities, hospitals, schools, 82.

During the same period there have been 2,265 promotions, including some officers promoted more than once.

Plans have been announced for the organization of "Junior Four-Minute Men" in every school in the country. According to the division of Four-Minute Men of the committee of public information, bulletins especially prepared for school children will be sent during the third Liberty loan campaign for distribution by superintendents to all schools in the United States. Addresses will be prepared from the material in these bulletins just as regular Four-Minute speakers in motion-picture houses prepare their own speeches from bulletins supplied by the government.

In each school the children submitting the best speeches are to deliver them in public. According to plans the boy or girl awarded first prize is to get a certificate from the United States government as a Junior Four-Minute Man.

Packages containing dutiable gifts sent to members of the expeditionary forces temporarily serving in England will be delivered free of duty, provided the contents contain bona fide gifts, the quantity is not beyond the personal requirements of the addressee, and that the parcels are addressed for delivery to the regimental address of the recipient.

A navy base hospital with a capacity of 500 beds has reached the war zone. It will take care of navy personnel, both ashore and afloat, and if accommodations exist will also be available for army and allied sick and wounded.

All persons or firms engaged in importing, manufacturing, storing, or distributing fertilizers of fertilizer ingredients must secure licenses on or before March 20. Application must be made to the Law Department, License Division, United States food administration, Washington, D. C.

It is reported from Germany that wood is being largely used in place of celluloid, ivory, and other substances for the manufacture of combs. Excellent toilet combs are made from thinly cut birch and beechwood.

A memorandum made public by the war department concerning the use of armed guards about industrial plants contains the following:

"The soldier in training who has offered his life for the defense of country should not sacrifice his effectiveness by performing police duty in the protection of property back of the lines. This is the duty of the citizen at home.

"The theater for operations for armed soldiers is the battlefield of Europe. Each civilian should aid his country by acting as a guard for the detection and prevention of intrigue, deceit, and all the familiar stealthy operations of the enemy, in our midst. Each soldier unnecessarily detailed as a guard in this country aids and abets the enemy in Europe.

"Often a guard may be needed for the safety of a factory. When it is, it should be supplied by the owner of the factory, by the municipality, or by the state.

"These measures apply not only to manufacturing plants, but are equally applicable to shipyards, grain elevators, and stores of supplies."

The necessity for thorough and continuous training of troops in gas defense is shown by a statement proved by captured German documents:

The Germans at a certain position on the western front knew the British were planning to deliver a gas attack on a German division equipped with masks, but poorly trained in their use. In spite of the fact that they had several days to drill before conditions were suitable for the British attack, when it was finally made hundreds of German casualties resulted.

Many kinds of gases are used in modern warfare. Some merely affect the eyes temporarily, and are more inconvenient than serious. Other gases are terrible in their effect unless proper protection is available. They are employed in clouds, or in shells, bombs, and hand grenades.

It is the work of the field training section of the gas defense service to bring home to the American soldier the importance of his gas mask, to thoroughly drill him in its use and to inspire confidence in its efficiency.

According to an announcement by the war trade board a special license has been issued covering shipments made by persons in the United States to, and for the personal use of, individuals serving in the United States army or navy or the American Red Cross abroad.

This license does not permit shipments by persons in this country to American prisoners of war, but has been issued to facilitate small personal shipments to soldiers and sailors and Red Cross workers by doing away with the necessity of securing an individual export license in each case. Shipments by mail under this license must be made in accordance with the regulations of the post office department. If it becomes necessary later to limit this license to certain specified commodities notice will be given through the press.

The United States rifle, model of 1917, commonly called the modified Enfield, has now been tested in the service of the army a sufficient time to warrant the assertion that it more than justifies the claims made for it, according to a statement authorized by the secretary of war.

The new rifle takes a 30-caliber cartridge, which has the advantage over the British Enfield of being rimless. It has been found that unless rim cartridges are fed through the magazine uniformly with the rim of the top cartridge ahead of the rim of the one immediately below, jams are likely to occur.

The model of 1917 has an over-all length of 46.3 inches; a total weight including oiler and thong case and bayonet of ten pounds and five ounces. The breech mechanism is of the bolt type.

In the new school opened at Rochester, N. Y., to train photographers for the Signal corps, the primary training will cover four weeks along highly specialized developments brought out in the war. At its close the successful graduates will be sent on for a month's advanced training, after which they will be organized into units and sent overseas.

Men with the highest grades will be given still further training for commissions as photographic intelligence officers, first at a school and then in actual flights at the flying fields.

During the month of January $11,787,517 were paid out to farmers of the United States by the federal land banks on long-time first-mortgage loans, according to a statement by the federal farm loan board.

On February 1 the total amount of money paid out to farmers since the establishment of the federal land banks was $50,782,432, covering 24,020 loans closed. The total amount of loans applied for up to February 1 was $260,556,891, representing 112,146 applications.

Near beer and temperance drinks coming within the designation of malt liquor are included in the President's proclamation limiting brewers of beer to 70 per cent of the amounts of grains and other food materials that were used last year.

Massachusetts and Michigan chapters of the Daughters of the Revolution are establishing "mending rooms" in cantonments. These departments are opened for hospitals, where hundreds of garments are mended each week.

Don't Let Catarrh Drag You into Consumption

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage. There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hawking and spitting and other distasteful features.

The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, atomizers, jellies and other local applications.

S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source, and removes the germs of the disease from the blood. Get a bottle from your druggist today, and begin the only logical treatment that gives real results. You can obtain special medical advice without charge by writing to Medical Director, 27 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

TRAP INSECTS ON EARLIEST CORN

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The black weevils and other corn eating insects pass the winter principally in the cribs of stored corn—especially where the corn is stored with the shuck on. From the cribs they fly to the fields on any warm days from earliest spring so long as there is corn in the cribs for them to breed on. In the fields they have no other breeding place until the corn begins to mature. The EARLIEST MATURING CORN therefore ACTS AS A CONCENTRATION ENTER for these hungry insects. ATTRACTING BLACK WEEVILS and other insects for at least a QUARTER MILE and often times a HALF MILE. THEREFORE TRAP THE INSECTS BY CONCENTRATING them upon the SMALL AREA which may become a TRAP PLOT or TRAP ROWS if properly handled later. THE ESSENTIAL thing is to have the TRAP MATURE THREE WEEKS before the next early field of corn. The most EFFECTIVE LOCATION for the TRAP is NEAR THE STORAGE CRIB if possible, and next, to plant a few rows from six to ten along the outer sides and especially next to the woods) of the field to be protected.

Seed for the traps may be of the same variety as the main crop if planted earlier, but early maturing prolific corn may be planted at the same time and beside some of the more rank-growing, single seed varieties with little, if any, loss. Remember that there should be a difference of about three weeks in date of tasseling to avoid crossing and to secure the benefit of the trap, do not let trap plot become breeding plot.

To make the EARLIEST MATURING CORN A TRAP PLOT, all ears must be gathered WITHIN THREE WEEKS ON, WITHIN SIX WEEKS AFTER IT IS IN THE ROASTING EAR STAGE. This corn may be fed out immediately or fumigated to control the weevils. No eggs are laid by the black weevil or other insects until the grain hardens and fully a month's time necessary for the development of the first generation. Therefore if the corn is gathered and taken out of the field before this first generation has matured and emerged from the grain, it is possible to control this generation and thus prevent their spread to later maturing corn. In this way the main crop can be very thoroughly protected. DO NOT FAIL to gather the earliest corn promptly or if the first generation is allowed to spread that corn becomes a breeding plot instead of a trap plot.

Dr. J. P. Hayes has been on the sick list for the past few days.

when they are wetted down a half hour or so before using. Then they combine more thoroughly and uniformly with the other forage than the old style hulls. Use Buckeye Hulls properly and you will find them a better roughage than old style hulls and far more economical.

Other Advantages

Buckeye Hulls cost much less than old style hulls. They allow better assimilation of food. No trash or dust. No lint. 2000 pounds real roughage to the ton—not 1500 pounds of roughage and 500 pounds of lint. Sacked—easy to handle. Take less space in the barn.

Mr. E. W. Leonard, Ellendale, Tenn.,

has been feeding Buckeye Hulls to three milch cows. He says that the cows are giving more milk and butter and are in fine condition. He prefers Buckeye Hulls.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

FORCES ARE READY FOR BIG BOND DRIVE

SIXTH DISTRICT ORGANIZED FOR THIRD LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN.

FIELD FORCE IS NOW BUSY

Educational Work Awakens People To Dangers Facing Nation

Atlanta. — With the Third Liberty Loan campaign approaching, every effort is being exerted by the sixth Federal Reserve District Executive Committee to complete the organization of every county. For two months a force of forty field representatives has been paving the way for the loan with a great educational campaign. Committees have been re-organized and everything is in readiness for the drive which is expected to begin early in April.

The reports from field representatives on the organization work have been very encouraging to the executive committee. It is realized, however, that it will take the combined efforts of the bankers, manufacturers, merchants and farmers to put the Sixth District "over the top" in this campaign. The minimum allotment for this district in the second campaign was over-subscribed, but it will take harder work to make the Third Liberty Loan a success.

Committees Organized
The central organization will be the same as in the previous campaign. M. B. Wellborn, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank being chairman. W. C. Wardlaw is chairman of the executive committee. St. Elmo Massengale again will direct the publicity campaign. W. J. Rudland, an experienced sales manager has been placed in charge of the field force.

Money Needed
It has been repeatedly pointed out by Government officials that the result of the world conflict depends very largely upon the success of the successive bond issues. The full force of America, in resources, men and money, must be hurled against the Hun to crush the military ambitions of Germany and make the world safe from the menace of Prussian autocrats. This cannot be accomplished unless the government is given the use of every dollar needed to furnish supplies and ammunition for the army which is being sent to France.

Money is not taken from circulation when invested in Liberty Bonds. It is spent right here at home in the purchase of supplies and furnishes employment to those engaged in work on government contracts. The expenditure of these great sums of money has made this section of the country prosperous. The war is responsible for the high prices farmers are receiving for their products. The wheels of the great industries have been kept busy and the wage earners are drawing high salaries.

Whether the next bond issue is a success will depend upon the effort of every individual in the district. The money cannot be raised without personal sacrifice. The Government appeals to every individual to invest to the extent of his ability.

OLD TIME SINGING AT HELENA

There will be an all-day singing in the old Harp and Harmony, at Helena on the Fifth Sunday in this month and everybody in Chilton and every other county is heartily invited to attend and help sing the good old songs. Bring your books, Prof. Simmons' G. N. M.

Yours for Success,

Maylene, Ala., March 17, 1918.

Dr. A. B. Baxley of Lomax was here Tuesday. He says he has recently opened an optical office at that place; and in addition is putting in a line of drugs. He also has a soda fountain in operation, all in the new Bice brick building recently built.

D. H. Gentry from Collins Chapel was here Saturday. "Uncle Dock" is liable to get prominent a little later on when the candidates begin to bloom out for the August primary.

FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION OF TICK ERADICATION

Cattle cannot be shipped from our county while we have ticks on them. By dipping one season we can get the quarantine raised, so we can ship our cattle to any market in the world.

We will not have to dip each succeeding year, as one year's work properly done raises the quarantine for all the future.

Tick eradication does not help any Beat get stock law.

It is not a fight with many of us against the ticks, for we have none, but a fight to get in a position to sell or ship our cattle to any market, in order to get the best possible price; therefore, the question is whether it will be to our interest to dip one season to get the quarantine raised or it will be to our interest to dip one from five to fifteen dollars each less than our cattle are worth indefinitely.

For the year 1917 there was cattle enough shipped from Chilton County to pay the taxes. What will we do in 1918? If the weevil gets the cotton and we are not allowed to ship our cattle, its only a business proposition; look into it and see if it is not to the farmers' interest to raise the quarantine now, and let's get the top price for our cattle.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

On the nights of March 29th and 30th there will be a most interesting debate—the best ever pulled off in Chilton County. This discussion will take place at Mt. Pleasant. You are cordially invited to attend.

Proposition.
"The New Testament scriptures teach that Baptism preceded by Faith and Repentance, is for or in order to the Remission of Sins, and therefore, is essential to Salvation."

Dr. A. B. Baxley affirms.

Eld. W. G. Riggins denies.

Rules of Debate.

1. The debate is to be held at Mt. Pleasant, Chilton County, Alabama, unless the place is changed by the consent of both disputants.

2. Not less than two nights of two hours each night are to be devoted to the discussion of the proposition.

3. The duty of the moderator shall be to keep time and preserve order.

4. Each disputant shall be at liberty to introduce as argument whatever in his judgment is proof of his proposition.

5. In his closing speech the negative shall not introduce any new argument but shall reply only to the arguments of the affirmative.

We, the undersigned, agree to be governed by the above rules in our debate.

March 16, 1918.

UNION GROVE

Health here is very good at present. But the farmers are behind with their work. I am very glad to say that our community has just gotten rid of measles and mumps, as I think they have been plentiful in this part of Chilton.

We are glad to have Grandma Willis return from Birmingham, and also her daughter, Mrs. Aldridge.

Miss Lummie Murrah of Jenison is spending a few days with Miss Mae Dorminey.

We are glad to have one of our friends of the U. S. A. with us from Camp Wheeler. But his many friends will regret to see him leave for camp, as he is a well known boy in Alabama.

Misses Mollie Vinzant and Bessie Chandler spent Sunday with Miss Leslie Vinzant.

Miss Arella Robinson and Mattie Dorminey spent Saturday night and Sunday at Collins Chapel.

Miss Irene Coleman dined with Miss Bertha Conway Sunday.

The singing given by Mattie Dorminey Sunday night was enjoyed by all present.

I've nothing more to say; only wishing the Union-Banner and its readers joy and success.

Clanton Merchants Wake Up!

If you have anything in your store to sell to the people in this town and county, you had better tell them about it. Do you sit on a soap box in front of your store day after day, waiting and waiting for the people to come in and ask you what you have got to sell?

If you are one of these kinds of merchants, you had better wake up, for if you will look around you will find that some other merchants are gradually piling up gains and profits which you ought to be putting into your bank account.

This week the Union-Banner carries a large advertisement for the well-known mail order house of S. H. KRESS & CO. These people know how to get trade from the people who buy. They pay us $2.00 to carry their message to the readers of our paper. Their catalogues and advertising matter will be sent into this county by loads; and soon, in fact already there has been, many dollars slipping out of Clanton by this mail order route that ought by all means to have stayed here at home.

But who is to blame? Do you cuss the fellow out on the mail route for sending his dollar to Sears, Roebuck & Co., Kress & Co., Bellas, Hess & Co., and a long list of others, J. Lynn & Co., not excepted?

Don't lay the blame on the customer. These mail order houses invite, plead and insist that he take advantage of their offers, giving him every assurance of honest and fair treatment.

Unless you tell this people that you have something which they need and want, and invite and insist that they come into your store and buy it from you, and show your appreciation for their patronage, they are very likely to keep on buying postal money orders for their goods, and filling the coffers of the rich jews of Chicago and New York.

Wake up, Clanton Merchants! Can't you afford to tell the people what you have to sell them?

Or can you better afford to sit still on your soap box and watch the dollars pass you by unnoticed?

MINERAL SPRINGS

Dear Editor:
Please allow me space to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County concerning this cattle dipping. I want to say that we have business of more importance now than dipping cows, for we have no ticks at all on our cows, and too, the people who have been through this part of the county say that there will be no cost to it. Who ever knew of anything being run without cost that was any good? There is going to be more cost than the people will get good out of it. The vats will cost thousands of dollars, and that will come from the state. We are taxed to pay it, and then every cow that is dipped will cost us 25c a head and that will amount to $6 a year for one cow, besides the cost of the vats; and if you do not carry her you will be fined for not doing so. Then, if they kill your cow you will be the loser. They will not pay you one cent for her. If she isn't killed she will soon be so you get no milk and butter, and what will the poor people do when their milk and butter is taken from them?

There is no one's interest in this business except the speculators of cattle. The farmers have all they can do to handle their business in the fields, and his wife generally manages the cows. I guess she will have to start leading her cow two or three miles to be dipped, when she hasn't had a tick on her in three years. God pity these speculators.

Some people say we had just as well vote for this for we are going to have it. I think that we have as much right to say we shall not have it. Gentlemen, we have all the taxes we can pay, and think of one cow being taxed at $6 for one year. Please consider this thing well before you vote, for you know that some must rule and govern where others must submit and obey. While I trust that if this is left to the vote of the people that we will never dip a single cow.

Wishing you much success.
W. P. CLECKLER.

POST OFFICE AT LOMAX

The old post office at Lomax has recently been put into operation again by the post office department, after a lapse of several years. The postmaster is Mr. Bill Jones, who lives on the hill near the station. The postoffice will serve a great many people there who have been getting service on Clanton Route 8. The big mill plant of the Vida Lumber Co. located there has brought many people to the little town, hence the reason for reopening the post office to take the place of the rural route.

E. B. Popwell and daughter, and Miss Melvie Hayes of Thorsby were visitors to Clanton Saturday. Mr. Popwell made his usual welcome call to the Banner office.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mr. J. P. Rogers recently moved to Thorsby, and is staying with his father, Rev. Charles T. Rogers. Thorsby welcomes Mr. Rogers and his family into our midst, and hopes that he may like it here.

Corporal Bernard Landrum unexpectedly arrived in Thorsby Thursday night of last week. He received a hearty welcome from all of his friends and former classmates. He left for Camp Wheeler Saturday morning.

The Helen Keller Literary Society announces that its next meeting that was to be held on Friday of this week will be postponed until Saturday night on account of the lecture which is to be held at Bates Hall on Friday night. A hearty invitation is extended to everybody to be present at this meeting.

Rev. Charles L. Fisk, of Cleveland, Ohio, spoke to the students of Thorsby Institute and others on Sunday School work on Monday and Tuesday of last week. His talks were much appreciated by those who heard him.

The services which were announced for the Swedish Lutheran Church for next Sunday have been postponed until further announcement, as Rev. Lief and Rev. Stone cannot come at this time.

Rev. W. E. Griffith preached at the Congregational Church at both morning and evening services last Sunday. The subject for the morning sermon was "The King in His Beauty, and that of his evening service "The Pillgrim Fathers."

Rev. J. M. Graham was in Thorsby with his family over Sunday.

Mr. Dewey Truitt, who has been attending Thorsby Institute, left last Saturday for his home, where he is going to take up farm work and help to win the war. His home is in Clay County.

STOP WHEN OUT

"Stop my paper on the day my subscription is out. That is the best plan." Thus spoke Rev. E. A. Norris Saturday when he called on the Union-Banner for a little visit. There are a good number and in fact practically all our subscribers, who have come to approve of our "stop when out" plan. It is the best for us and the subscriber too, and we are glad to have the approval of the subscribers.

W. E. Robinson of Beat 16 was in Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Robinson is soliciting members for the Lodge of Columbia Woodmen, which is proposed to be organized in Clanton.

Guy Smith and J. B. Atkinson went to the creek fishing one night last week. Guy caught a blind perch and J. B. caught a crazy craw fish. Mr. Ocie Rich was along, but he didn't do anything but get stuck in the mud.

SQUIRE DENNIS AGAINST TICK ERADICATION BY DIPPING

Editor Union-Banner:

Allow me a few lines from Beat 11. I see that the first day of April is the time set for us all to come to the polls and vote on the cattle dipping question. I want to appeal to everybody to go vote and put the proposition down good and true. I have been here sixty years and I have never lost a cent of ticks yet.

The dipping business is all stuff, boys. Don't fail to come and cast your vote against it. Don't let the speculator out talk you. Come on and vote it down.

I see some of the boys have gone back on their promises since we gave them an office. They said they would not go against the wishes of the people; and I see some of them arguing for this devilish thing to be put on the poor farmer who has all the expense to bear.

We can sell all the stock that we can raise without that dipping business. So, boys, come out on the first day of April. Let us not be like slaves, and forced to do what the big man says do.

Yours truly,
JOHN S. DENNIS.

STREET TAX DUE

City Marshal J. Wiley Littlejohn requests us to announce that street taxes for the Town of Clanton are now due and payable.

Payments should be made to him promptly without fail. He can be found on the streets at any time and will be glad to write you a receipt. This matter should not be neglected by anyone.

O. R. Robinson of Beat 16 was in Clanton Saturday. When questioned about the cattle dipping election he stated that his opinion is that his Beat will vote heavily against the proposition.

ANOTHER PLANT MAY BE BUILT AT LOCK 12

Reported that Government Will Locate a Nitrate Plant on the Coosa River.

Washington, March 19.—Alabama is to have another large government industrial plant for the manufacture of nitrates, or some other product needed in the conduct of war. The location will probably be at or near the hydro-electric plant of the Alabama Power Company at Lock 12 on the Coosa River.

The location of one of the four to five new plants slated for the southeast is bound to come to Alabama, because the Alabama Power Company made the best showing of the eight southeastern power companies at the conference recently held with Frederick Darlington of the war industries board. At this conference the power companies of the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama made a showing of power that could be developed through government aid by co-ordination and connection of their various systems. As a result, it appeared that 150,000 horse-power was immediately available by the end of 1918 and 650,000 by the end of 1919. The showing was a great surprise to the engineers, but it was iron-clad and presages several big plants for the southeast.

The Coosa River site of the Alabama Power Company is regarded favorably because of the most advantageous load centers in the entire southeastern power system and this company's power most evenly distributed by day and night.

The Alabama Power Company would connect with the Georgia Railway and Power Company and the Columbus, Ga., Power Company by extending lines from Anniston to Cedartown, from Roanoke to LaGrange and from Opelika to West Point.

The result of co-ordination and connection of the various systems is to have them so correlated that when one is shy of power it can borrow of another; when one can spare power it can help out another.

Operate Steam Plants.
The co-ordination process and the extra demand for power which will follow by the installation of government plants will be met by steam as well as water power plants of the various companies. This will call for a vast amount of coal and will add considerably to the drain on the coal capacity of this section. Both the Birmingham and Gadsden steam plants of the Alabama Power Company will have to be requisitioned and it is more than probable that large customers of the company having steam power plants of their own, but now using hydro-electricity furnished by the Alabama companies, may, under government necessity, be forced to return to steam and generate their own power again.

As for Alabama, the impression is that it may look for great development at Lock 12 on the Coosa River of character somewhat similar to that a Muscle Shoals.—B'ham Ledger.

period of the war.....

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

If the people of the county do not want to dip their cows, we say all good. The fellow who has no cow should let the fellow who has got one say whether or not he wants to dip
her. That's how the Union-Banner looks at the proposition.

We learn that Bill Benson, the famous singer of Collins Chapel, is preparing himself another song relating to cattle dipping. The chances are you will get to hear him sing it soon after April 1st. Bill had a famous song which he sang two years ago, you know.

Mr. John W. Hayes of Thorsby was here Saturday. We didn't get a very fair look at him, but from what we could see he still has the outward appearance of a candidate for county commissioner. One thing is certain about this man—if he were to be commissioner, he would be a good one. But to get there he would have to put it over some more good men who are liable to be bidding for the honors.

If there is any plan by which cattle could be shipped out of this county should the dipping law fail at the election on April 1st, we would like to know about it. We don't mean just somebody's idea about it; we mean an authoritative statement on the question. Some say it is humbug that we can't ship our cattle any more.
Others say it is a fact that we can't.
That's about the only point that has been raised that is worth argument,
and we would like to have the minds of the people cleared up on it before election day.

Is there a direct cost to the farmer
when he has his cattle dipped under the standard dipping laws as are proposed for this county? In the letter of Mr. W. P. Cleckler in this issue
he states that it will cost the farmer 25 cents each time one of his cattle is dipped. We are inclined to think that this statement is erroneous.

In another place in this issue we have the statement on authority from the agricultural department that there is no cost for dipping. They say it is free. It is not likely that the government authorities in charge of this work would deliberately misstate the facts.

Discussion of the cattle dipping question is getting rather warm. People over the county are getting stirred up over the proposition. This week we have a number of letters from citizens who are vigorously opposed to the eradication of ticks by means of dipping. Also we are publishing some items furnished us
by the advocates of the measure.
Both sides are given space in our columns and we hope everybody will take due consideration of all the arguments presented. We are entirely willing to give a hearing in our paper to all who are sincere in their views. This thing should be threshed out to the last analysis by the voters of the county. There should not be any of the bitterness and prejudice brought into the discussions. If compulsory dipping and the eradication of the ticks is to the best advantage of the people of the county, then, we should have it. If, however, the people do not feel that it is the best,
then they should have the privilege of saying so and governing themselves accordingly. But there is much danger of acting on the proposition without searching the facts and securing the proper convictions. If you are against it you should listen to the arguments that are in favor of it and think over them honestly and without prejudice. If you are for it you should not too hastily condemn the man who is against it.

CANNON-KILLEBREW

The Cannon-Killebrew wedding of last Sunday was an incident of much interest to Clanton people. In the social circles of Clanton Mrs. Killebrew was a prominent figure, and during her residence here the past few years has by her noble character
made a great number of friends. Dr.
Cannon is a prominent physician of the Birmingham district.

SHIPPING CATTLE

In regard to shipping of cattle out of Chilton County, now, the Union-
Banner has on file a letter from Dr.
C. A. Cary, State Veterinarian, which says as follows:

"I have given no permits for movement of cattle out of Chilton County, because we want them to do something. Mr. Marbury has been after me for permission to move some oxen to Randolph County, but I have informed him that it cannot be done
until the county takes up tick work.
I hope you people will keep after the proper authorities till something is done."

From this letter it seems at present that no permits will be granted for movement of cattle out of this county.
Now the question is, will this order forbidding the shipment of cattle be kept on us all this year, and hereafter indefinitely, if the county fails to vote for tick eradication April 1st.
Dr. Cary and the State Live Stock Sanitary Board have it in their power to keep anybody from removing a single cow from the county, if they so choose. If there is to be no permits issued for the movement of the cattle, it will mean that nobody can sell any cattle. Then what about it?
Can this county better afford not to sell any cattle, rather than go to the expense of dipping? Last year there was enough cattle shipped out of the county to pay the entire taxes of the people of the county. Think on these things, Mr. Voter, and be sure you determine which is best for the people of the county. We do not urge anybody to vote for or against the dipping law. But we do want the people to think rightly on this matter, and not be guided by merely blind prejudice and wrong judgment.

THE BURDEN OF EXPENSES

Clanton, Ala., March 18, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

This is a day of high prices and great expenses. We do not discuss small prices any more. We mention hundreds and thousands, and pass on and dwell on millions and billions.
And we should ask ourselves who pays all this. The manufacturer does not pay it. He adds all cost to the user and consumer. The transportation organizations do not pay it;
they figure a certain profit over and above all cost or transportation. The dealer does not pay it; for he too, counts all the expense of operating business. Then who is the one who pays it all? Answer—the producer and the consumer. How do they figure themselves. They say if we fail to produce, we starve. We must produce whether production is profitable or not. The consumer has but little choice; he must pay the price,
no matter how high, for prices cut but a small figure when a man is hungry. On these two classes rest
the burden of all expenses.

Can't we in the counties and in the state, unload some of our taxes by cutting out some county and state offices, and by reducing the salaries of some others? Would it not be patriotic for state and county officers to come to the front and show willingness to help win the war by supporting a move for legislation of this character?

I think the time is here when we should test the patriotism of the people along these lines. Most certainly the tax payer, the producer and the consumer will join hands and hearts in a move to help relieve the burden which they have so much complained of. The only way to make such a move effective is to begin now while men are asking the tax payers for their support for the Legislature.

Let the people demand of the men who want to make laws a pledge to do what the people want done.

Respectfully,
S. M. ADAMS.

DR. HYMAN'S MOTHER NOT DEAD

We are glad to say that the news item we had in our last week's paper
to the effect that the mother of Dr.
E. G. Hyman had died at Troy, was a mistake. It came about in this way:
Dr. Hyman was wired at his home in Jemison that his mother was dead.
His friends here of course got the sad news shortly afterwards. But when Dr. Hyman arrived in Troy he found his mother still alive. Since that time she has improved considerably.

SPECIAL EASTER SERVICES
AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

We are informed that there is in the course of preparation, a special program of Easter services to be held at the Baptist Church in Clanton on Easter Sunday. There will be three services during the day. Sunday School and preaching in the morning and another service at night. All these services will carry a part of the special Easter arrangements. There will be 200 pupils of the Sunday School to take part in the first of the services.
A class of girls will have charge of the decorations of the church for the occasion. Dr. Norman and his daughter, Miss Helen, will have charge of the special musical program, which will be a big feature of all the three services. Everybody in Clanton is cordially invited to attend all the three services.

Bill Goodgame is at present working in Birmingham. Mrs. Goodgame has in charge the management of the Exchange Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sims are the proud parents of a new baby girl who arrived at their home this week.

"THE 'RICH MAN'S WAR'
A HATEFUL CALUMNY"

American Business Men Ready to Make Sacrifices Without Stint.

TAXES HERE AND ABROAD.

American Taxation the Most Democratic in the World.

By OTTO H. KAHN.

Nothing is plainer than that business and business men had everything to gain by preserving the conditions which existed during the two and a half years prior to April, 1917, under which many of them made very large profits by furnishing supplies, provisions and financial aid to the allied nations. Taxes were light, and this country was rapidly becoming the great economic reservoir of the world.

Nothing is plainer than that any sane business man in this country must have foreseen that, if America entered the war, these profits would be immensely reduced and some of them cut off entirely, because our government would step in and take charge; that it would cut prices right and left, as, in fact, it has done; that enormous burdens of taxation would have to be imposed, the bulk of which would naturally be borne by the well-to-do; in short, that the unprecedented golden flow into the coffers of business was bound to stop with our joining the war, or, at any rate, to be much diminished.

But it is said the big financiers of New York were afraid that the money loaned by them to the allied nations might be lost if these nations were defeated, and therefore they maneuvered to get America into the war in order to save their investments.

Proof That the Charge is Absurd.

A moment's reflection will show the utter absurdity of that charge. Let us assume, for argument's sake, that the allies had been defeated. Let us make the wildly improbable assumption that they had defaulted for the time being upon these foreign debts, the greater part of which, by the way, is secured by the deposits of collateral in the shape of American railroad bonds and stocks and of bonds of neutral countries, aggregating more than sufficient in value to cover these debts. Let us assume that the entire amount of allied bonds placed in America had been held by rich men in New York and the east instead of being distributed, as it is, throughout the country.

Is it not perfectly manifest that a single year's American war taxation and reduction of profits would take out of the pockets of such assumed holders a vastly greater sum than any possible loss they could have suffered by a default on their allied bonds, not to mention the heavy taxation which is bound to follow the war for years to come and the shrinkage of fortunes through the decline of all American securities in consequence of our entrance into the war?

Not only is the "rich man's war" an absurd myth; the charge is a hateful calumny.

Business men, great or small, are no different from other Americans, and we reject the thought that any American, rich or poor, would be capable of the hideous and dastardly plot to bring upon his country the sorrows and sufferings of war in order to enrich himself. Business men are bound to be exceedingly heavy financial losers through America's entrance into the war. Every element of self-interest should have caused them to use their utmost efforts to preserve America's neutrality, from which they drew so much profit during the two and a half years before April, 1917. Every consideration of personal advantage commanded men of affairs to stand with and support the agitation of the "peace-at-any-price" party. They spurned such ignoble reasoning; they rejected that affiliation; they stood for war when it was no longer possible, with safety and honor, to maintain peace,

because they are patriotic citizens
first and business men afterwards.

Our Income Tax and Taxes Abroad.

(1.) The largest incomes are taxed far more heavily here than anywhere else in the world.

The maximum rate of income taxation here is 67 per cent. In England it is 42½ per cent. Ours is therefore 50 per cent. higher than England's, and the rate in England is the highest prevailing anywhere in Europe. And in addition to the federal tax we must bear in mind our state and municipal taxes.

(2.) Moderate and small incomes, the other hand, are subject to smaller rate of taxation than England.

In America incomes of married men up to $2,000 are not subject to any federal income tax at all.

In England the income tax is:
4½ per cent. on $1,000
6 " " " 1,500
7½ " " " 2,000

(These are the rates if the income is derived from salaries or wages; they are still higher if the income is derived from rents or investments.)

The English scale of taxation on incomes of, say, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000
and $15,000 respectively averages, as follows as compared to the American rates for married men:

Income tax	In	In
rate on	England	America
$3,000	14 per cent.	1-2 of 1 p. c.
5,000	16 per cent.	1½ p. c.
10,000	20 per cent.	3½ p. c.
15,000	25 per cent.	5 p. c.

(If we add the so called "occupational" tax our total taxation on incomes of $10,000 is 6½ per cent. and on incomes of $15,000 9½ per cent.)

In other words, our income taxation is more democratic than that of any other country in that the largest incomes are taxed much more heavily and the small and moderate incomes much more lightly than anywhere else and incomes up to $2,000 for married men not taxed at all.

(3.) It is true, on the other hand, that on very large incomes—as distinguished from the largest incomes—our income tax is somewhat lower than the English tax, but the difference by which our tax is lower than the English tax is incomparably more pronounced in the case of small and moderate incomes than of large incomes.

The "Excess Profits" Tax Here and Abroad.

Moreover, if we add to our income tax our so called "excess profit tax,"
which is merely an additional income tax on earnings derived from business, we shall find that the total tax to which rich men are subject is in the great majority of cases heavier here than in England or anywhere else.

(4.) It is likewise true that the English war excess profit tax is 80 per cent. (less various offsets and allowances), whilst our so called excess profit tax ranges from 20 per cent. to 60 per cent.

But it is entirely misleading to base
a conclusion as to the relative heaviness of the American and British tax merely on a comparison of the rates,
because the English tax is assessed on a wholly different basis from the American tax.

The American excess profit law (so called) taxes all profits derived from business over and above a certain moderate percentage, regardless of whether or not such profits are the result of war conditions. The American tax is a general tax on income derived from business in addition to the regular income tax. The English tax applies only to excess war profits—that is, only to the sum by which profits in the war years exceed the profits in the three years

Watch Your Blood Supply,
Don't Let Impurities Creep In

Pure Blood Means Perfect Health.

The average druggist has handled
hundreds of medicines in his day, some of which have long since been forgotten.

But there is one that has been sold by the druggists throughout this country, for more than fifty years, and that is S. S. S., the reliable blood medicine, that is purely vegetable.

Many druggists have seen wonderful results accomplished among their customers by this great old medicine, and they know that S. S. S. is one of the most reliable blood purifiers ever made. Keep your blood free of im-

LITERARY SOCIETY

The Mt. Pleasant Literary Society
will render a program next Friday night consisting of songs, recitations, readings; and will engage in a debate
against the Collins Chapel School.
The subject of the debate will be resolved that we need Woman Suffrage.
The speakers for the affirmative are Dewey Foshee and Tipton Eiland, negative Dewey Benson and Lloyd Maddox.

The public is cordially invited to attend the exercises. J. M. DYE.

It Helps!

There can be no doubt
as to the merit of Cardui,
the woman's tonic, in the treatment of many troubles peculiar to women. The thousands of women who have been helped by Cardui in the past 40 years, is conclusive proof that it is a good medicine for women who suffer. It should help you, too.

Would you mix your cattle-feed with cotton?

YOU know that such a combination would be carried through the digestive tract without giving the milk-producing and fat-producing food a chance to be assimilated. The lint on old style hulls acts the same way. It forms a pad or cushion-like covering around the concentrates that prevents the digestive juices from extracting the full amount of protein.

contain no lint to clog or flux the digestive tract. They are digested and they allow the other forage to be digested the same as hay or any other roughage.

When you mix your feed with Buckeye Hulls you know that you are using roughage that will help—not hinder—the meal, corn, oats, or whatever concentrate you prefer.

Other Advantages

2000 pounds of real roughage to No trash or dust.
the ton—not 1500. Easy to handle because sacked.
Cost much less per ton. They mix well with other forage.
Go much farther. They take less space in the barn.

Mr. C. K. Henderson, Aiken, S. C., says:
that he would rather have Buckeye Hulls than any others.
He uses Buckeye Hulls altogether—says they are cheaper and better.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Read the News of Chilton County In The Union-BannerFACTS ABOUT TICK ERADICATION

1. No charges will be made for dipping. It will be free.

2. Out of five million dippings of cattle in Alabama only one animal was injured or killed in every 45,000.

3. In tick infested counties 1 to 20 die out of every 100 cattle each year.

4. Active tick eradication does not require a stock law. Range counties in Alabama larger than Chilton have been cleaned of ticks in one year.

5. Tick free cattle make more growth, more beef and more milk; and more money for the owner.

6. Tick free cattle bring on the market from 5 to 10 dollars more per head than exposed or ticky cattle.

7. Tick free hides bring one to two cents per pound more than tick marked hides.

8. It will cost the county relatively small amounts and will raise the total value of cattle in Chilton County $50,000.00 to $100,000.00.

9. The vat inspectors will be selected from Chilton County people and all the money spent by the county will be distributed in Chilton County.

10. When the county is released from quarantine (when ticks are eradicated) cattle can be shipped to any market and be sold as free cattle at one to one and a half cents more per pound than quarantined cattle.

11. Tick eradication is cooperative work. The people, the county, the state and the United States combine and cooperate in eradicating the cattle tick.

12. The farmer gets the benefit. He has healthy cattle, prevents losses saves cattle and makes money out of cattle.

13. When the quarantine is raised from the county, the farmer can bring in tick free registered breeding cattle and tick free feeders without fear of losses from tick fever or quarantine.

14. If you want to improve the cattle business, make money out of cattle raising, ticks must be eradicated. Ticky cattle are now not profitable.

Why not make the world safe for Republicanism as well as Democracy as we go along?

Charley Bowles from Beat 9 was in town on Saturday. He is vigorously opposed to cattle dipping.

VINOL MAKES CHILDREN STRONG

And Invigorates Old People

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol as printed below contain the elements needed to improve the health of delicate children and restore strength to old people.

It Cod Liver and Beef Potatoes, Iron and Manganese Peptonates, Iron and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycerophosphates, Casein.

Those who have puny, ailing or run-down children or aged parents may prove this at our expense.

Besides the good it does children and the aged there is nothing like Vinol to restore strength and vitality to weak, nervous women and overworked, run-down men.

Try it. If you are not entirely satisfied, we will return your money without question; that proves our fairness and your protection. Millions of people have been convinced this way.

BASIS FOR LOANS TO FARM OWNERS

Federal Board Issues Rules for the Guidance of Land Banks.

MANY MECHANICS ARE NEEDED

Ten Thousand Skilled Men Wanted for Service in the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps—New Kind of Bullets.

Washington.—The federal farm loan board has issued the following rules for the guidance of the land banks in determining what area constitutes a farm for loaning purposes:

"First, Generally.—The farm must be of sufficient area to yield at the hands of an ordinarily capable farmer, putting it to the use to which it is generally adapted and using average methods, an income sufficient to maintain the family of the applicant and discharge the interest and amortization payments.

"Second, Specially.—Where through intensive farming or the practice of a specialty a sufficient income has been regularly derived from a tract deficient in area for ordinary farming, or where the application of the prospective borrower shows that he is by experience capable of producing such an income from such a tract, such area may be accepted as sufficient, provided the land has a stable and permanent market value sufficient to warrant the loan applied for. This ruling does not apply to fruit and orchard lands which have already been the subjects of definite rulings by this board."

Under the first paragraph of this ruling loans may be made to the ordinary farmer on the basis of average skill and efficiency, and no tract of land will be accepted as a farm eligible for a loan under the federal farm loan act unless it is large enough to support the family and take care of the loan under the average farm conditions of the neighborhood.

But under the second paragraph of the ruling the intensive farmer or the man who practices a profitable specialty, or who shows himself able to do so, will be given financial support by the federal loan system, even though his farm may be too small for ordinary farming purposes, provided that the land quite apart from its use has a stable and permanent land value which will make the loan safe whether it is well operated, or badly operated, or not operated at all.

Qualified men registered under the selective service law may be inducted into service to fill the call for 10,000 skilled mechanics needed by the aviation section of the signal corps, by applying to their local boards. Men not registered may enlist at recruiting stations.

The present call is particularly for machinists, auto mechanics, engine repairmen, gunsmiths, chauffeurs, carpenters, blacksmiths, tinsmiths, sheet-metal workers, propeller makers, wireless operators and constructors, tailors, tent-makers, sail-makers, truck masters, vulcanizers, welders, and experts on magnetos, ignition systems, cameras, watches, and clocks.

Men will be sent to San Antonio, Tex., for segregation by trades, followed by a brief course of instruction at flying fields or factories, then organized into squadrons mostly for service overseas. Additional information may be secured by application to the air division, personnel department, Washington, D. C.

The present war has brought forth a new kind of ammunition for airplane use in the form of special cartridges containing bullets for armor-piercing, tracing, and incendiary purposes. All of these cartridges are of the small rifle calibers, according to a statement authorized by the war department. The three-tenths of an inch diameter and short length of the bullet left little space for the armor-piercing element or for tracer and incendiary composition, but such combinations have been made.

The bullets developed by the United States ordnance department have been tested on land and from airplanes to see if there is any difference in their performance when fired from a quickly moving airplane in the upper atmosphere and when fired on land. These tests indicate that the United States has developed a class of special cartridges with a performance fully equal to or surpassing that attained abroad.

More than 1,600 tons of anthracite coal were condemned in Pennsylvania markets by representatives of the fuel administration recently in the campaign to compel the delivery of clean coal.

Following the plan adopted for California and Colorado, the food administration has appointed a commission to determine the cost of producing sugar beets in Nebraska. The commission has no power to fix prices, but it is expected that its figures will serve as the basis for voluntary price agreements between growers and purchasers of sugar beets.

All cheese now in storage must be marketed before June 15, unless special permission to hold is given by the food administration.

The use of gas in warfare dates back to about 400 B. C. The Spartans saturated wood with pitch and sulphur and burned it under the walls of cities which they were attacking. For several centuries gas has not been used in warfare, and The Hague convention definitely ruled against it. However, on April 22, 1915, the Germans liberated great clouds of gas against Canadian troops near Ypres. Terrible destruction and demoralization resulted from this first gas attack, and within a week England was making plans for gas warfare against the Germans.

Soon after the first German gas attack English and French women sent to the front hundreds of thousands of home-made gas masks. For the most part they were merely bandages impregnated with chemicals to wrap around the mouth and nose. These emergency masks saved many lives, but afforded only limited protection.

Commenting on the decision to regulate the consumption of bread in Paris by means of tickets, reference is made by some of the Paris newspapers to the success of the bread card in Switzerland, where the bread has been rationed for several months, resulting in an economy of 45 per cent of the amount consumed previously.

The average amount allotted per person per day is 250 grams (which will soon be reduced to 200 grams). Each individual card contains a certain number of coupons for 250, 100, 50 and 25 grams of bread, amounting in all to the total monthly allotment. These coupons may be used whenever the holder desires, either at the baker's or at a restaurant; in fact, guests in private families are expected to detach from their individual bread cards the coupons equivalent to the amount of bread consumed.

More than $11,000,000,000 of war-risk insurance has so far been written, covering over 1,500,000 persons in the military and naval services. The average amount of insurance applied for is nearly $9,000. The maximum permitted is $10,000, and the minimum $1,000.

Final figures show the United States army, both here and abroad, is well over 90 per cent insured. In many camps 99 per cent of the personnel is protected by government insurance. The insurance now on the books of the bureau is more than three times as great as the ordinary insurance held by the largest commercial company in the world.

All new persons joining the service may apply for insurance within 120 days after joining the colors. Automatic insurance ceased for all men, regardless of enlistment date, on February 12.

An ordinance base that will cost approximately $25,000,000 is under construction in France. It will include a gun-repair plant equipped to refine more than 800 guns a month; a large capacity carriage repair plant; a motor-vehicle repair plant capable of overhauling more than 1,200 vehicles a month; a small-arms repair plant to handle 58,000 rifles and machine guns a month; a large shop for the repair of horse and infantry equipment; a reloading plant capable of reloading about 100,000 artillery cartridges a day.

The ordinance base will include 20 large storehouses, 12 shop buildings, 100 smaller shops and magazines, and machine and tool equipment costing $5,000,000. Approximately 450 officers and 16,000 men will be required for maintenance.

According to an announcement by Secretary Lane additional parks will be open to tourists this year on the following dates:

Yosemite, California, May 1 to November 1; Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado, May 1 to November 1; Sequoia National park, California, May 15 to October 10; General Grant National park, California, May 15 to October 10; Mesa Verde National park, Colorado, June 1 to September 30; Mount Ranier National park, Washington, June 1 to September 16; Glacier National park, Montana, June 15 to September 15; Crater Lake National park, Oregon, July 1 to September 30; Yellowstone National park, Wyoming, June 25 to September 15.

An illustrated catalogue of official war photographs and stereopticon slides has been issued by the division of pictures of the committee on public information. In it are listed about 1,000 pictures available to the public, including photographs taken by the signal corps, navy, marine corps and French and Belgian official photographers.

Each picture listed may be had either as a photographic print or as a stereopticon slide at a small price. The catalogue may be secured by sending five cents to the division of pictures, committee on public information, Washington, D. C.

About twenty English woman gardeners are going to France, where they will take up the duty tending to the graves of dead British soldiers.

The new "Mexican service badge" will soon be issued to officers and enlisted men who served under certain conditions in Mexico and on the border. Persons not now in the army who would have been entitled to the badge and whose separation from the service has been honorable may secure authority from the adjutant general to purchase and wear the service badge.

The mayor of a suburb of Antwerp has been ordered to deliver to the Germans forty fat cats.

The Coming of the Sun Beam

The coming of the sunbeam—the new baby—should be a happy time for the expectant mother. She should help nature by the daily use of the safe, penetrating external preparation, "Mother's Friend." By its regular use the breasts are kept in good condition, the tendency to morning sickness is avoided. The abdominal muscles relax without strain when baby is born and the crisis is naturally one of less pain and danger.

To neglect the use of "Mother's Friend" for a single night is a mistake. Send or phone to the druggist for a bottle today and write for valuable free book, "Motherhood and the Baby". Address The Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. K, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga.

LECTURES BY REV. W. E. GRIFFIS

Noted Traveler and Author Speaks At Thorsby.

Rep. William Elliot Griffis, D.D., L. H. D., of Ithaca, N. Y., is delivering a series of very interesting lectures during the present week in Thorsby at Thorsby Institute. These lectures are based on personal knowledge gained in eight visits to Europe and residence in the countries of which he speaks. Several of the lectures are illustrated with stereopticon slides showing interesting scenes and events in the countries told about.

The opening lecture of the series given last Friday night, dealt with the World War and its causes. Following this, on Monday night, came a lecture on "Belgium Legends, Art, History, Heroism," then one on "Fun, Fact and Fancy" about the Japanese and their country, another on "France the hero nation." The subject for the lecture for Thursday night will be determined by vote of the audience on Wednesday night. The closing lecture of the series, and one of the most interesting will be given Friday night, March 22 on "Brave Little Holland and What She Has Taught us." The opportunity to hear these lectures is a rare privilege for the people of Thorsby and vicinity.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court in Equity.

Sidney Scott, Complainant, vs. Quincey Scott, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Sidney Scott that the Defendant, Quincey Scott is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and resides in a place unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Quincey Scott is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Union-Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Quincey Scott to answer, plead or demur to the Bill of Complaint in the above cause, on or before the 16th day of April, 1918, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a Decree Pro Confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 16th day of March, 1918.

H. M. Simpson, Register.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts directly on the blood in the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, Etc.

E. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

LONG STAPLE COTTON

Why will farmers raise short staple cotton, when they can raise long staple practically at the same cost, and also get from eight to ten cents per pound more for long staple than you can for short staple? I have experienced this myself. If you wish to try a small amount of the seed, you will find them for sale at Taylor Bros. Poultry House, Clanton, Ala., for $2.50 per bushel, and also a stalk of cotton showing how it grows and produces.

T. G. TAYLOR,
 Clanton, Ala., R. 2.

COUNTY MAPS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has made arrangements to print a number of Best Maps of Chilton County, and now have them for sale to anyone desiring them, at the price of 25 cents each.

DEATH OF L. O. LARSEN

Mr. L. O. Larsen, who has been confined to his bed for some weeks past died Tuesday night, March 11. Funeral services were held in the Congregational Church Wednesday afternoon and interment was made in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Larsen Olaf Larsen was born in Slagelse, Denmark, in 1864. He came to America at the age of fourteen and was married to Marie Nelson on July 1, 1896. They came to Thorsby in 1902 and have resided here most of the time since then. Mr. Larsen has been in ill health for a number of years and suffered from a partial stroke of paralysis about six months ago. He leaves a wife and three children. He was honored and respected by all who knew him and he will be very much missed by his many friends. He was a member of the Danish Lutheran Church.

PLENTY OF SEED CORN

W. Z. Hodges has plenty of seed corn now. His shipment which was expected to get here some time ago was delayed, and has just gotten here. Farmers who want seed corn can get it from him now.

NOTICE—Velvet Bean Thrash will be at my gin Saturday, March 23 and Saturday, March 30. Last chance to get your beans thrashed.

MRS. J. B. ATKINSON HOSTESS TO CLANTON LADIES AID CLUB

An interesting meeting was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Atkinson.

After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, the hostess being assisted by Miss Conradine Lane, who served delicious refreshments.

Those present were: Mrs. W. I. Mullins, Mrs. Watts Moore, Mrs. J. J. Pickens, Mrs. A. H. Bowers, Mrs. Ed Plier, Mrs. C. V. Heath, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. H. C. McDonald, Mrs. Renfro Mullins, Mrs. J. F. Gable, Mrs. Bama Cox, Mrs. Earl Gowan, Mrs. E. B. Deason, Mrs. J. A. Hester, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. P. D. Wilson, and others.

Jim Cox of Billingsley was here Tuesday. Mr. Cox says he is getting ready to do some farming right away. He was buying some tools, plows, wire, implements, and other things.

Bad Taste in Mouth.

When you have a bad taste in your mouth you may know that your digestion is faulty. A dose of Chamberlain's Tablets will usually correct the disorder. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. You will find this to be one of the best medicines you have ever become acquainted with.

FARMERS' RIGHTS STAKED IN WAR

"Freedom Of Seas" Will Keep European Markets Open To American Producers.

Southern farmers have as much at stake in this war as any other Americans.—It is their war.

We are fighting for the "freedom of the seas"—the farmers' right to sell cotton, corn, wheat, rice, etc., abroad. The determination of the United States to send supplies and food to the Allies sent the price of cotton to 30 cents and above, and put the price of food crop up to the highest figure in fifty years.

If the Allies win this war American farmers always can find a ready market in Europe for their products. Thousands of ships are being built to send the crops abroad after the war. But we must win to do it. Germany plans to invade this country just as it overran Belgium. Evidence in the hands of government officials proves this statement. Southern farmers are enjoying the benefit of their crops now, but if Germany invades this country their wives and daughters will be forced to raise crops for Germany just as Belgian and French women and children are forced in the fields to feed the German army. Their land will be devastated just as Belgian farms have been—their land then will be used to feed Germany and their crops will bring them nothing.

Farmers Depended Upon

The government always has depended upon the Southern farmer to do his duty, whether to raise more food, fight or finance. They have been exempted from fighting thus far to enable them to raise more food, and they have received the highest prices for their products. Now the government wants the farmer to help finance the war. It is just as much his duty to help finance the war as it is to raise food.

The third Liberty Loan will soon be floated. It is the farmer's duty to invest as much money as they can in these United States government bonds. There is nothing hard to understand about a United States government bond. You merely subscribe through your banker and the government pays you interest on the investment, giving you the wealth of the whole country as security. Liberty bonds are as sound as a dollar.

For a Bad Cold.

Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has stood the test of time and can be depended upon.

Try this For Sour Stomach.

Eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly. Eat but little meat, and none at all for supper. If you are still troubled with sour stomach take one of Chamberlain's Tablets before going to bed.

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

SOLDIERS LEADING.

American soldiers are setting the pace for stay-at-homes in conservation of flour. Despite rumors that there is waste in the cantonments the actual figures show that the soldier boys are consuming less flour per capita than the civilians.

Wars are no longer all bullets and blades; they are also bread and beef. It has been the business of any army to lead in fighting, and the business of civilians to lead in supplying food. In this war, especially, it is the proud part of the men and women at home to lead in food conservation. We know as never before that the soldier cannot fight unless he is well fed; that people cannot support all the abnormal conditions of war unless they are well fed.

Bread is the foundation on which we all rest. The most insistent drive of the Food Administration has been "save the wheat." We must send 100,000 bushels of wheat overseas before the first of June. It cannot come out of our surplus, because there isn't any. It must come out of our saving.

Who is helping to save it? Are you? You used to consume 215 pounds of flour a year in pre-war days. The Food Administration wants you to consume only 150 pounds a year now, so that this imperatively needed wheat may get to the war workers and fighters in Europe.

One hundred and fifty pounds of flour per person a year! But you must look to your laurels. Our brave army is leading you on your own field. The soldier boy is consuming flour at the rate of 131 pounds per person a year. He is 19 pounds ahead of you Stay-at-Homes. Salute the soldier who is leading you, but make up your mind that in this which is particularly YOUR job he shall not continue to stay 19 pounds of flour ahead.

If you run your household on three pounds of sugar a month per person, when fall comes the grocer won't have to hang up the sign, "No sugar."

Uncle Sam is in a race against Germany for ships and food. Are you with him?

Forgot What He Needed.

From the Republican, Mt. Gillad, O.

The editor had an interesting experience some time ago, when a young gentleman came to his office and asked for a copy of the Morrow County Republican. He scrutinized it carefully when a copy was handed him, and then said: "Now I know!" "What is it you are looking for," we inquired. "My wife sent me after a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I forgot the name. I went to several stores and the clerks named over everything in the line of the shelf except 'Chamberlain's.' I'll try again, and I'll never go home without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." The Republican would suggest to the proprietors of stores, that they post their clerks, and never let them substitute. Customers lose faith in stores where substituting is permitted, to say nothing of the injustice to makers of good goods and the disappointment of customers.

"COLORED PATRIOTISM"

Of the Colored People of Chilton Co.

This meeting is to be held at the Court House at Clanton, Ala., on Thursday night, March 28th, 1918. The meeting will open at 7:30 o'clock.

Devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. J. S. Prentice, of Aldrich, Ala. The pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church. Music will be rendered by the choir. The different speakers of the occasion are: Rev. L. S. Stineback, Pastor of Friendship Baptist Church Clanton; Rev. Hilliard, pastor of Thompsons Chapel, A.M.E. Church of Clanton; Rev. R. C. Mixon, pastor of Salem Baptist Church, Clanton, Master of Ceremony.

The white ministers of Chilton County are asked to be present to speak on the occasion.

We urge that every colored person in the county be present. We also expect the white people of the county to attend.

There will be thirty colored men present in this meeting who are to take leave on March 29 to the training camps to prepare to raise armies against the imposing nations to the United States, to listen to what we shall say in behalf of their going to sacrifice their lives for the rights and privileges of the country. Our aim is to encourage them to be patriotic. Again we urge all to be present. Yours for the cause, R. C. MIXON.

On Saturday, March 30th, there will be another demonstration of dipping at the vat north of Clanton on the highway. The vat will be charged with the standard dipping solution that is being used everywhere by the government and will be tested before everybody witnessing the dipping to show that it is the proper strength and is no fake. Everybody welcome.

MALCOLM R. PATTERSON WILL SPEAK FOR PROHIBITION AMDT.

Will deliver Address at Court House in Clanton, Wednesday, March 27, at 7:30, P. M.

"The Mind of a Nation," will be the subject of Hon. Malcolm R. Patterson, who will speak at the Court House in Clanton, at 7:30, p.m., on Wednesday, March 27. This is one of the hundreds of "dry America" rallies now being conducted by the Anti-Saloon League of American with speakers of national fame.

The man who will address this meeting is truly a renowned character in the history of his home state of Tennessee, of which he has had the honor of being governor in the past. And too, his fame has spread over our whole country. He is now devoting his entire time toward fighting old "John Barleycorn."

All are welcome to this lecture. Clanton should turn out a great audience to hear him on this most vital issue. No admission will be charged.

A. W. M. U. WORKER TO BE IN CLANTON ON MARCH 26

Miss Addie Cox, a field worker for the Woman's Missionary Union, with headquarters at Montgomery, will be in Clanton on next Tuesday, the 26th of March. As she speaks in Thorsby on the day and night before, it is probable that she will come here on an early train and spend the day in Clanton. She desires to meet with the Women's Societies, Young Peoples organizations, Sunbeam Bands, etc., and curios that will be of interest to all ages. The meetings will be of profit to all who will come. The afternoon and night of Tuesday will be filled with an interesting program, helpful to all ages and organizations.

Prof. R. A. Smith of Enterprise School was here Saturday. Mr. Smith's school will not be out till the third of May.

DIRECTORS FARM LOAN BOARD

The Board of Directors of the Chilton County National Farm Loan Association will hold a meeting in Clanton next Tuesday, March 26, 1918. A meeting of the loan committee will be held at the same time. Several of the members received their money through this association during the past week. All those desiring to place applications are urged to do so at once. The appraising committee will make an appraisal next week.

"Your Money's Worth or Your Money Back."

THE TAX SLACKERS TO BE VIGOROUSLY PROSECUTED

Tax slackers will be prosecuted as vigorously and relentlessly under the war revenue act as draft slackers were prosecuted under the selective service act. The aid of all good citizens is invoked in bringing to justice the man who deliberately seeks to evade his just share of the war burden.

This was the statement today of Internal Revenue Commissioner C. Roper. With only nine days left in which to file income tax returns, he has practically completed the organization of a huge dragnet for bringing into camp all persons who fail to file their returns by April 1. Revenue officers in every section of the country are checking up returns with a view to beginning prosecutions against tax dodgers. The word has gone forth that such offenders need expect no leniency.

Through its educational campaign the Bureau of Internal Revenue has endeavored to cover the field so thoroughly that ignorance of the law cannot be consistently offered as an excuse, said Commissioner Roper today. The press, four minute men, the state and county councils of National Defense, the field force of the Department of Agriculture and other government departments, banks, post offices and hundreds of voluntary agencies have cooperated in bringing home to the taxpayer his duty.

The man who failed to register under the selective draft act was regarded by the war department as a slacker and prosecuted as such. The man who fails to file his income tax return will be regarded as a money slacker, and when discovered, as he will be, will be made to suffer full penalties of the law.

To the credit of the nation it may be said that I have gratifying and conclusive evidence that these income taxes will be paid by the great majority of the American people very cheerfully and willingly. But the duty of the honest man does not end with the payment of his own tax. I call upon him to aid in bringing into camp the tax dodger. A man so niggardly as to seek to evade his just share of a tax imposed for the support of our arms is deserving of no consideration and will receive none.

Congress has distributed this tax justly and equitably. The rate is fixed so that the rich man and the man of moderate means are assessed, each according to his income. No man can offer the excuse that his neighbor escapes what he is made to pay. Therefore, it is incumbent upon all good citizens to aid in carrying out the intent and spirit of the law, which is that the burden of the war tax be evenly distributed and every man compelled to pay his just quota.

LOCALS FROM MYRTLEWOOD

Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper for a few words.

I am a reader of the Union-Banner and am always glad to see it come.

The farmers in this section are very busy planting cotton. We were needing a rain very badly until we were blessed with a nice shower Tuesday.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. The members on roll is seventy-two, attendance last Sunday was sixty-five.

The dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Headley last Tuesday was enjoyed by all who were present, especially the turkey and cake.

There is quite a number of cars in Myrtlewood, judging from those that run up and down "Lovers Lane."

I'll close for this time. Hoping to read the Union-Banner and wishing it and its readers splendid success, I remain, A READER.

THE CATTLE TICK IS A PUBLIC NUISANCE

The cattle tick is a public nuisance. A public nuisance is anything offensive, injurious, vexatious or annoying to the public in general. The cattle tick is all of that. The state has through its Live Stock Sanitary Board adopted regulations to stop this nuisance and protect its people.

Under these regulations and with your active cooperation, cattle ticks can be, have been, and are being, eradicated by means of the systematic dipping of cattle in one year.

Thirty-nine counties in Alabama have to date been freed from that pernicious pest, the cattle tick, and the cattle in these free counties bring at least $10,000 per head more, grade for grade, than the cattle from tick infested, quarantined counties. No quarantine restrictions hinder their movement to other counties. The cattle tick with its attendant danger to other communities has been abated, so no further regulatory restrictions are needed.

Eradicate the cattle tick, remove the quarantine restrictions from your county, protect your and your neighbors' cattle, make it possible to get larger returns from your one or more head of cattle. DIP THAT TICK—don't allow it to live and breed more seed ticks to spread disease, reduce the beef and dairy products and damage the leather made on your farm.

At this time when the nation is calling upon each and every one of us to produce all we can, to conserve every bit of food, will you allow that unnecessary evil, the cattle tick, to reduce your production of beef, milk, butter and leather or will you give your active cooperation in ridding your county of this food wasting, blood sucking parasite? Tick eradication is food conservation. Keep cattle not the cattle tick.

Very respectfully,

R. E. JACKSON,
Inspector in Charge.

CITIZEN OF BEAT 5 WRITES ABOUT CATTLE DIPPING

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the cattle dipping.

As Mr. Edwards says, who do we find advocating this dipping business? Not the farmer, for he knows the trouble it would be him to carry his cow every two weeks to have her dipped, and how valuable his time is at home in his crop! And when I have talked to—responsible men from Coosa and Elmore—say it will not kill ticks; and two men in Elmore told me that their cows had more ticks on them after they had been dipped fourteen times than they had the first time, and besides ruined them for milk and butter. Was there ever a time when we needed our milk and butter more than we need it now? Just think of the widow and children who have no one to carry their cows to be dipped. Only a short way from my home are three old maids that are not physically able to carry their cows, and have no one to carry them for them. What are such as they to do? Sell their cows and have no milk and butter, is the only thing they can do.

Shall the voters of Chilton County bring such a thing on them just for the sake of the speculators, while we farmers do not need it and do not want it? Now men, don't let them fool you up. You can sell all the cows you can raise. Only the other day I was offered one hundred dollars for my cow. Chilton County needs all the cattle she can raise and a lot more. Some would say that if we all had cows to sell we couldn't sell them. If such were the case, we couldn't; but we haven't them. We find more buyers than cows.

Wishing the Union-Banner and her readers much success,
Yours very truly,
R. H. TAYLOR.

DIPPING CATTLE

Well, I thought I would not say anything in regard to the dipping subject through the paper, but it is so important I hate not to.

First I will give my personal experience. I own a nice bunch of cattle just across the river in Coosa County, some of them I have raised and owned for three or four years. And last year Coosa County voted in tick eradication, so I was compelled to fix my vat and dip. Now I will say with all the honor I have that I had heard so much about it till I noticed my cattle very closely to see if they did better generally. I fully believe that they did 20 per cent better than any year before as they kept clean from lice, ticks and other parasites.

When I was in the cattle business 12 years ago I lost $250.00 in one year from tick fever before I ever knew of the tick trouble. So friends, now let's lay down all talk of prejudice, for we have got a far greater question before the people of Chilton County than the tick and his family.

As I see it, we have got to have a dipping vat in self defense. We are practically disfranchised so far as the market for cattle is concerned. Everyone knows that right at this time we have the boll weevil and this country is fixing to go more into cattle raising and velvet beans as they go hand in hand. And right in the face of it we can't get a cow out of our county. Now, when I raise a bale of cotton, bushel of corn, hog or cow, I feel like me and my stuff is as good as anyone's else, and I don't want to have anybody say you live in Chilton County and you must take a back seat. Further, anyone ought to say it is sufficient for me to abide by the thing for which this government of ours has spent untold sums in experimenting on and have found it good for the people and are still sending their men and money here to our rescue to help us out of this quarantine mess; and we are kicking and saying we don't need you. If you stop a car in this county to ship mules, hogs or any live stock, you have to pay $2.50 for having that car disinfecting; I know for I have just paid for one.

Yours for no prejudice but good will for all.

B. F. HIGGINS.

THE UNION-BANNER PRAISED
BY SOLDIER IN NEW YORK

New York City, March 23, 1918.

Here come a few words from your old friend. A copy of the Union-Banner came to me this afternoon and was read with great interest. Having taught two years in the county, I am very anxious to know how my old friends are.

This leaves me a soldier in the medical corps stationed at U. S. A. General Hospital No. 1, New York. I enlisted last December at St. Louis and was sent down in Georgia where we trained for three months. I have been here about six weeks. This is a very large hospital for both soldiers and sailors. The hospital was built and given to the government by Columbia University of this city. The original building cost them $400,000. The government has put up many more buildings.

We have about fifteen hundred patients here now—most of them from France. About two-thirds of those who have come back are not wounded, but broken down by disease. The percentage of rheumatic and tubercular patients is large. They claim the French climate has a tendency to produce these diseases. Many of the boys are "shell shocked." When those big shells exploded near them their nerves were torn to pieces. These men jump and dodge when any slight noise is made. We have a good number of patients who have been gassed. They have a most miserable time. The boys are usually happy and some day they wish to go back. They are well treated here. Everything reasonable is provided; the best surgeons to be had are here. The wards are well equipped, which hold twenty-four men—twelve beds on each side. Each ward has both a shower and tub bath. There is one surgeon to every three or four wards besides the medical officer who makes his rounds day and night. There is one ward master, one assistant and from one to two Red Cross or army nurses to the ward; so you see our boys receive the best of care. The Red Cross nurses are doing a very great work, they labor so unselfishly.

I find New York to be a wonderful place indeed. I have seen many sections of it. The people are very nice to us. I have met several of the "high ups." I met an old lady who was reared in Georgia. She always introduces me as the Southerner. Through this medium I have had quite a number of car rides over the city and to historic places. I am happy up here and have plenty of good food, fine place to sleep and a good position. I am ward master in one of the wards. This is one of the best jobs here.

Yours truly,
GEORGE R. LEWIS,
U. S. A. General Hospital No. 1,
New York City.

E. L. Manning of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday attending to some business matters connected with his farm operations.

THORSBY ITEMS

Te Cristian Endeavor Society held a "Dixie Endeavor Meeting" at the Congregational Church last Sunday evening beginning at 7:30. The purpose of the meeting was to emphasize Christian Endeavor work and aims. There was special music by the girls' quartette which was enjoyed by all present.

Miss Payne, matron of the Girls' Dormitory, spent Monday in Montgomery.

The Thorsby Institute basket ball team went down to Clanton Friday of last week and came near beating the Chilton County High School five on their home grounds. At the close of the first half of the game the Chilton County boys had a decided lead on the score, but the Institute boys were not beaten, and soon had the score coming their way. Then there was a battle royal, and not until the time-keeper's whistle sounded at the close was the struggle decided. A goal by the Chilton County boys in the last few minutes of the play left the score 21 to 2 in favor of the Chilton County High.

A party celebrating the birthday of Lucile Adams, was given at her home last Saturday night. Everyone attending the party enjoyed themselves very much.

Mass Slayton, a teacher in the Institute, returned to Thorsby Wednesday of last week. She had been in Birmingham to have her tonsils removed. She returned to her school work Monday of this week.

Mrs. I. E. Sarber, of Elmore, is in Thorsby this week visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Snyder. Her friends here are very glad to see her again.

Rev. Charles T. Rogers spent Friday night of last week at home here. He left Saturday morning.

Mr. Herbert Hughes, a former student in Thorsby Institute, was in Thorsby Sunday. He left Monday morning for his home at Pigeon Creek in Butler County, Alabama.

The boarding students and the teachers of the Institute had a picnic supper out near Long Bridge last Saturday evening. After supper the fire which had been used to cook supper by was increased and the crowd was entertained by songs and recitations. They all welcomed the relief thus afforded from school work and everyone had a good time.

FACTS ABOUT PROPOSED
TICK ERADICATION

Dip that Tick and be Released from Federal Quarantine.

If you wish to put your cattle on the world's markets vote for tick eradication on April 1st. Take up systematic work; dip your cattle one season; be released from Federal Quarantine and you can ship healthy cattle anywhere anytime.

Did you know that the cattle tick sucking blood from your cattle gave them tick fever, the same as the mosquito will give you malaria if he bites you?

From the "Montgomery Times" and The "Elba Clipper."

"A Coffee County citizen last week sold a car load of cattle at 9½ c per pound. These cattle were high grade and considered among the very best in the country. At the same time over in Pike County, a man sold a car load of cattle for 11 cents per pound. These cattle did not grade up nearly so well as the cattle from Coffee County.

"Here's the reason:—Pike County is free from cattle ticks and released from quarantine, while Coffee is not." This alone should cause the voters of Chilton County to think twice before voting on April 1st.

The question has been asked: "Can cattle be shipped from Chilton County should the election for Tick Eradication fail on April 1st?" According to the ruling of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board no cattle in Alabama in counties infested with cattle ticks shall be shipped to any state or any place within the state, unless a permit is given by the proper authorities. According to these authorities no permits are being given for the shipment of Chilton County cattle.

April 1st is the date set to decide whether Chilton County will take up systematic dipping for one year, and then be released from quarantine, so Chilton County farmers can build up their herds and be able to ship anywhere at any time.

Some say that it will cost 25 cents per head for every dipping. That is a mistake, for it will not cost you a cent to dip your cattle, for the vats are public property for public use. I don't think that you will have to drive 5 or 6 miles for by the communities asking the Judge or commissioners for cement and giving them the locations vats will be placed so there will be no long drives. If there is no vat in your community ask for one.

JUDGE BRANDON HERE

Judge Wm. W. Brandon of Tuscaloosa, candidate for Governor of Alabama, was in Clanton a short while last Saturday, in the interest of his campaign. The judge is confident of his chances and expressed encouragement at the reception he is receiving over the state. He called on the editor of the Union-Banner while here, and left us a copy of his platform which we are publishing elsewhere in this issue.

MR. BEN VINES GIVES ADVICE ON THE CATTLE TICK MOVE

Clanton, Ala., March 25, 1918.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words about dipping cattle, as there has been a great deal said about it. Most people who are opposed to dipping are those who have never dipped any cattle and know nothing about it, for I have never seen a man who had dipped who was opposed to the method. I once knew nothing about it and was like the rest opposed to it. People who knew told me later, but I did not believe them. But finally they got me to dip and I found it just like they said.

I had a cow that never had been fat till last summer. When I dipped her she began to pick up right along and got mighty fat and would have made good beef. She gave more milk than ever before. I found it a mistake about drying up a milk cow. I think everybody ought to dip one time before they talk so much.

One who dips,
BEN VINES.

MR. J. N. DENNIS WRITES
ON TICK ERADICATION

Clanton, Ala., March 26, 1918.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to say to the voters of our county that I believe that the election on nex Monday is of as much importance to the citizens of our county in a financial way as any local matter that we have ever voted upon.

The State Live Stock Sanitary Board says that we cannot ship our cattle until the necessary work is done to raise the federal quarantine.

Therefore, it is simply up to us to comply with the regulations and get the quarantine raised or suffer the enormous loss in our cattle as shown below.

On April the first we will either vote to raise the quarantine by systematic dipping all cattle every two weeks for fourteen times, or we will vote to continue the loss of from five to ten dollars per head on all cattle sold to any person, though he be farmer, dealer or speculator, for the next two years.

There is no fee charged for dipping as some seem to think. The only cost to us as farmers will be the loss of time to construct the vats and to carry the cattle to and from the vats once every two weeks for fourteen times.

Under the present quarantine regulations we are forced to take from one to two cents per pound less for our cattle than farmers are getting in Autauga, Elmore, Coosa, Dallas or any other county in which the quarantine has been raised.

According to the assessments for the past two years we have a little over ten thousand cattle in our county and according to the average increase would give us more than four thousand head to sell each year without decreasing our breeding stock and a loss of from $5 to $10 per head would be twenty to forty thousand dollars lost to the farmers and cattle owners each year, and this loss is not to the buyers or speculators but to the farmers.

The speculator does not raise cattle, he skins us out of them, but when the quarantine is raised we can sell on any market as well as he can.

If we say that cattle are already too high, why not argue that eggs should not be over ten cents per dozen, so the farmers could eat them.

Let the shipment of eggs be stopped from Chilton County and in less than thirty days they will not bring ten cents per dozen.

I wish to appeal to every voter to study the matter in a business way and then vote your honest convictions, free from prejudice, and then let us all make the best of matters regardless of which way it may go.

Yours truly,
J. N. DENNIS.

DR. JOHNSON LEAVES FOR U.S. ARMY TRAINING CAMP

Dr. Arthur Johnson, one of Clanton's most popular physicians, left Sunday for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Dr. Johnson enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps of the army a few weeks ago and was commissioned as First Lieutenant. He is the second of the three brothers to give his services to "Uncle Sam."

He leaves a host of friends, who wish him the best of success.

NOTICE

The demonstration of cattle dipping will be given at the vat in Clanton on Saturday, March 30, 1918. If you have never seen cattle dipped come and see for yourself how it is done. Everyone welcome.

A pain in the side or back that catches you when you straighten up call for a rubbing application of BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It relaxes the contracted muscles and permits ordinary bodily motion without suffering or inconvenience.

CLANTON WILL OBSERVE CLEAN-UP-WEEK APR. 1-6

Order Issued by Mayor Kemp Calling for Co-operation of Citizens.

Clanton is going to observe Clean Up Week this spring in the full sense of the word.

Our Mayor has issued a call for this purpose, in order to enlist the active co-operation of every citizen in this laudable undertaking.

As is said in the beginning of the Mayor's proclamation, Clanton has a reputation of being a clean and average high-class little city, so far as sanitary conditions go, and we all want to keep our reputation going higher and higher every year.

Let everybody get him a hoe or a rake and be prepared to take hold of the Mayor's suggestion and make a showing during clean-up week that we all will be proud of.

The Mayor's Proclamation.

Whereas, it is a well-known fact that Clanton has had the reputation of being a clean and healthy town, and it is our desire as far as possible to perpetuate this reputation and make for Clanton a record that we will be proud of.

Therefore, I, W. A. Kemp, acting mayor of the Town of Clanton, do hereby name the week of April 1st to 6th as clean-up week, and urge every person—man, woman and child, to take part in this work. Special attention should be given to yards and gardens, seeing that they are well drained and that no pools of water remain on the premises. The vacant lots and parcels of land that has heretofore been allowed to grow up in weeds could well be cultivated in potatoes, vegetables or some kind of crop that will produce something to eat, and thereby keep clean and healthy. I sincerely hope every person will take an active interest in this work, as it means so much to the health and progress of the town.

W. A. KEMP, Acting Mayor.

PROF. R. A. SMITH ON CATTLE DIPPING

Verbena, Ala., March 25, 1918.

According to our governmental inspectors, thirty-nine counties in Alabama have to date been freed from the cattle tick, and the cattle in these free counties bring at least $10 per head more, grade for grade, than the cattle from tick-infested, quarantined counties. No quarantine restrictions hinder their movement to other counties. The cattle tick nuisance with its attendant dangers to other communities, has been abated, so no further regulatory restrictions are needed.

Eradicate the cattle tick, remove the quarantine restrictions from your county, protect your own and your neighbors' cattle, make it possible to get larger returns from your one or more head of cattle.

Dip that tick. Don't allow it to live and breed more seed ticks to spread disease, reduce the beef and dairy products and damage the leather made on your farm.

At this time when the nation is calling upon each and everyone of us to produce every bit of food, will you allow that unnecessary evil, the cattle tick, to reduce your production of beef, milk, butter and leather, or will you give your active cooperation by voting to rid your county of this food-wasting, blood-sucking parasite? Tick eradication is food conservation. Keep cattle, not the cattle tick. Yours for success in all things.

R. A. SMITH.

Cooley J. Eiland, of Myrtlewood was in Clanton last week attending to some business matters. Mr. Eiland is an old citizen of this county, having been in the mercantile business at Coopers for many years. He is now operating a big lumber mill in Marengo County.

Henderson H. Hayes of Thorsby Route 1 was in Clanton Saturday. Mr. Hayes buys cattle and ships them. He said that he was not in favor of compulsory dipping.

CATTLE DIPPING DENOUNCED

Clanton, Ala., March 26, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

Allow me space in your paper to say that Mr. John S. Dennis has the right view of this cattle dipping, now being argued so much. I fail to see where it would do any good to pass such a law for the simple reason that we have no law which condemns a man from building a vat and dipping his cow, if he pleases to do so. Then why do the people want to force those who do not want to do so to dip theirs? It is for the following purpose only, that such a law could be wanted: That the man who depends on other ways of making his living than raising cattle or farming might have a job. Look around boys, and see if the ones who are working so hard for it are not the ones who generally reap the profits. After the work is done by some one else. A certain man remarked to me the other day that it was not what we wanted that did us good, it was what we got. Are we going to sit back forever and let the larger man make slaves of us. Don't stand back. If you will all come out and stand up for justice, we'll all be better off. Go out in Arkansas or any other state which has cattle dipping and see if milk and butter are not things of the past, for the reason that the dipping kills the cattle. There's no need to say it doesn't. I was speaking with a person from a dipping state the other day who told me that if it didn't kill them the first dip it would the second, and they failed anywhere from one pint to a quart of milk every dipping. They also have seen young calves die in the vat.

Since wheat is almost abandoned and food is scarce, what will the poor class of people do when the milk and butter is gone? I am like the editor in believing that the man who owns the cow should be the one to say whether to dip or not. Things are getting to the point where the poor people are not much more than slaves. I think things are getting pretty fine when the privilege of bossing his stock is not allowed.

Come on out boys, and let's make a tough fight of it. They haven't got it half like they think, so don't forget the first of April, and that every vote helps.

Thanking you in advance,
R. A. ALDRIDGE.

T. C. Jones, a farmer from West Chilton, was in Clanton Wednesday. He says he is about done laying by till there comes a rain. It is a complaint among many farmers that their lands are hard and dry and in need of rain.

PLATFORM OF GEN. W. W. BRANDON, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF ALA.

As a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, I desire to make this declaration of certain principles and policies for which I stand.

While the world war into which this country has been forced is in progress the people of Alabama should as a unit uphold the hands of the president, and remain unbroken in the faith of the success of our arms and the final triumph of democracy for the world. To this end I promise my best efforts to keep bitterness, discord and unnecessary issues out of my campaign and leave the people united in the great cause to which we have pledged our men and material resources.

1. The paramount issue of the administration of the affairs of the state is the solution of its financial problem. The ultimate solution of this vexed problem obviously lies in a revision of the present constitution. Since, however, the present international crisis renders impracticable the holding of a convention at this time, another solution must for the time being be invoked. Nor will the mere adoption of the so-called "budget system" of itself and by itself accomplish the end designated. Practically every business man subscribes to the policy of applying such a system to the fiscal problems of the state. For years I have advocated this policy and applied it in the administration of the affairs of Tuscaloosa County. Since men recognize, however, the outstanding fact that we face a concrete situation of very definite facts and figures. It is well understood that the so-called "general fund" has for more than a decade been the burden-bearer of most every conceivable kind of legislation. The result is that the deficit in that fund has been excessive.

We should face the situation candidly. I have no desire to be elected governor on a platform of evasion. I am therefore, saying plainly to the people of Alabama that, since little more than one-third of the regular levy of the state is paid into the general fund, it would require a huge increase in the ordinary revenues of the state to wipe out the large deficit in this fund.

Furthermore, during this war period the federal government is, directly or indirectly, making a tremendous demand upon the resources of the people who ought not to be oppressed by excessive state taxation.

I, therefore, favor a gradual reduction of the state's floating indebtedness, first by the exercise of rigid economy in the administration of the affairs of the state and, secondly, by the enactment of an adequate revenue bill in advance of the voting of a single dollar from the treasury. I shall not approve of any appropriation in excess of the revenues of the state carefully and scientifically determined in advance.

I announce my purpose, if elected, to enforce the law requiring a complete separation of the general fund, the school fund and the old soldiers pension fund, thereby insuring the prompt payment of teachers' salaries and soldiers' pensions.

Fixed charges, such as salaries and other urgent needs of the State, should be specifically provided for in advance of appropriations for other purposes.

I favor an inheritance tax, as provided in the constitution, on large estates. The revenue derived from this source should be devoted to the liquidation of the state's indebtedness. Recently the State of Kentucky as stated in the public press, derived from a single large estate sufficient revenue to wipe out its entire debt.

I favor the payment, as rapidly as possible, of all outstanding warrants of the state. These warrants should be promptly funded and the interest on all warrants whose payment must, for any cause, be deferred should be borne by the state as a matter of right and of sound business policy.

2. I stand for prohibition of the liquor traffic, and the maintenance and strict enforcement of the present prohibition laws, and the strengthening of the same, if necessary, for their enforcement.

3. The separation of church and state is a cardinal doctrine enunciated in the federal constitution. I subscribe to this provision of the constitution. In civil matters the first duty of the citizen is to the nation and the state.

I favor the inspection of public officials, at proper times, of all public institutions. The public schools are the bulwark of American liberty, and I favor their enlargement. I further favor as liberal appropriations for this purpose as are consistent with the other financial demands of the state. I am unalterably opposed to an appropriation of public funds for any sectarian institution.

4. I favor the removal of all convicts from the mines as rapidly as is consistent with existing contracts. The convicts should be worked on the public highways of the state. I favor the progressive improvement of the public highways, and I believe that permanent roads can be built and maintained by working convicts thereon under a properly devised system.

I favor setting aside all funds derived from the payment of the automobile tax for the building and maintenance of roads, and the use of such funds for this and for no other purpose.

5. Believing that all extravagance in governmental affairs should be eliminated, I favor the establishment of a state purchasing board, to be composed of the governor, the auditor and the attorney general, or other executive officers, to serve without extra compensation whose duty it will be to purchase all articles required in every department upon requisition, to receive competitive bids and to let contracts to the lowest responsible bidder.

6. I favor simplification of pleading at law and in equity, so as to abolish those technicalities which sometimes defeat justice and frequently cause delays and expense in the administration of justice.

7. I shall not use the appointive power of the Governor to influence legislation or to build up any political machine, believing that the legislative, judicial and executive departments should be kept separate as provided in the constitution.

8. Believing that the man who fights for his country in time of war is entitled to vote, I advocate the adoption of some plan (in the absence of legislation) by which Alabamians in the service may express their choice in the coming primaries by casting their vote. I am willing to sign a pledge with other candidates to file no contest of any vote so cast and to allow the state committee of the party to which I belong to work out some plan by which our soldiers may vote without legal controversy.

I favor the enactment of legislation giving to all soldiers who are otherwise qualified the right to vote.

9. I favor an amendment to our laws requiring the compulsory payment of the poll tax, thus increasing the school fund.

10. I favor the simplification of the registration laws.

I favor laws that are fair and just to both labor and capital. Mutual cooperation and understanding will result in the up-building of our state without dissension or hardship. I favor a fair workman's compensation act.

12. I favor the enactment of a law authorizing the courts of county commissioners to appropriate money for health purposes and for the building of hospitals or houses for the seclusion of persons suffering from contagious diseases, and for such other purposes as may be necessary for the protection of the life and health of our people. An all-time health officer in each county would materially aid in making this law effective.

13. All counties and municipalities of the state should be required to publish in a local newspaper semi-annual financial statements, and a penalty should be provided for failure to comply with the law.

14. Officers handling public funds should be required to give bond. All officers receiving or disbursing state funds should be required to give sufficient bond to guarantee the safety of public money.

15. All wise and conservative legislation which seeks to improve living conditions, to provide for the unfortunate, to advance the agricultural, mining, manufacturing, or other interests of the state, to the improvement of our harbor at Mobile, to contribute to the moral uplift or to the material welfare and development will receive my steadfast support.

And all of my powers and energies will be used to bring our state government close to the homes of our people and to unite in the bonds of brotherly love, our citizenship to the end that we may thus contribute to the success of our arms and the prosperity of our state.

Wm. W. BRANDON.

MR. D. F. JONES FAVORS TICK ERADICATION

Clanton, Ala., March 23, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

I have been dipping my cattle last year and I want to tell the people of the county of my experience with it.

First I will say that since my cattle have been dipped they have done twice as well as they did before. I have found that there is nothing to the saying that it will dry up milch cows and injure them in the several ways that are being argued by opponents of dipping.

I had two head of cattle on my place that I did not dip last year and both of them died of tick fever. I had one yearling that was covered all over in warts, and after I had dipped him a while all the warts were removed, and the animal got along well.

All the people in my community who have dipped their cattle are well satisfied with it. They have found that it is better for the cattle in many ways.

I think we should have the cattle in our county dipped so we can have a free market for what we have to sell.

A few days ago I tried to sell a cow hide in Thorsby, and I was absolutely unable to sell it because of the quarantine that is on us because we are not dipping our cattle all over the county. I will add that this is just the way it will be with us when we go to sell our cattle in the future.

With the experience I have had with dipping, I will say that I think the people of the county would be doing the best thing if they would consent to have their cattle dipped.

Respectfully

D. F. JONES.

The Slackers Song.

(By C. H. Latham.)

They have generals in the Army,
They have admirals upon the sea,
They have soldiers in the trenches;
What do you want with me?

There's a bleeding heart in Russia,
There's a noble France so free,
There's a baby dead in Belgium;
Yet, what are they worth to me?

There's a wounded girl in Flanders
That is nothing bad to see;
There are others that are able
And what do you want with me?

There's a God we know in heaven,
There's a Kaiser living free;
He has got the world against him,
So why not let him be.

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

WHAT PRICE WILL YOU PAY.

The man or woman who insists on going along as usual during this crisis should some time stop and face this question. How many lives will you pay for your ease and convenience? How much blood of American boys will you barter for the pride of your own opinion? These are not idle questions.

When our soldiers first reached the front line trenches the Germans met them with a tremendous gas attack. Over fifty boys were suffocated, strangled, paralyzed, blinded and nerve-wrecked. If it had not been for gas masks and the training they had in the use of them, probably two thousand or more would have met the same fate. They had the masks and knew how to use them because English, French and Italian blood had been poured out willingly that we might have the time to prepare our men.

Every day's time that we now have is being bought for us with the same awful price. Every day of ease, luxury and indifference that you enjoy now will be paid for with the lives of American soldiers who are fighting your battles. How long will you sleep when these facts are daily crying to you to awake and do your duty?

Wheat, sugar and meat can be saved by every man, woman and child in Alabama. Are you doing your part? If not, between your prayers and closing your eyes for sleep tonight, ask yourself the question, how much blood have I bartered to gratify my appetite today?

HOMES MUST WIN WAR.

The Food Administration finds from careful figures, that only about 12 per cent of the food stuffs consumed by the nation is used in hotels, restaurants and public eating places. The remaining 88 per cent is used in the homes of the country. If food is to win this war, the homes of the land must do the biggest part of the work.

As the days go by Mr. Hoover's appeal to the housewives of the country is found to be more and more logical and practical. No matter how closely public eating places are held to the rules the savings that they can effect will be small compared to the savings that can and should come from the households of America.

The house that has a service flag hanging over the door and wheat on the table at wheatless meals and on wheatless days and meat on the table on Tuesdays, is like unto a whitened sepulchre, "which indeed appears beautiful outwardly but within is full of dead men's bones and all uncleanness."

The homes of the nation must conserve food as well as give the lives of the boys if the world is to be saved from the German beast.

FIFTY INSTEAD OF SEVENTY.

In view of the necessity of furnishing our Allies with 90 million bushels of wheat without which they cannot maintain the morale of their peoples and armies and the further necessity of spreading out our own supply so that every one, rich and poor alike, can have a fair share until the new harvest, the Food Administration must make the following request of all wholesale and retail grocers.

It most earnestly urges that they limit their sales of wheat flour to 50 instead of 70 per cent of sales of last year at this time and that they sell only to customers who purchased from them during the corresponding months of 1917. This may be hard on those just going into business and some people may consider it a hardship to have their purchases thus limited. However, war means hardships and it is necessary that we request and the people make this small sacrifice.

THE NEW COTTONSEED CONTROLLER.

President George H. Denny, of the University of Alabama, has been appointed by Mr. Hoover as Cottonseed Controller for the United States Food Administration. Dr. Denny has been granted a leave of absence by the trustees of the University in order that he may undertake the important work of reorganizing and administering the department of the Food Administration that has control of the cottonseed industry.

Alabama farmers who know Dr. Denny's business sagacity, his high intellectual attainments and his fair and equitable business temperament, will be pleased to know that he will be at the head of this department, the proper administration of which means so much to the farmers of the south.

BLACKSTRAP MOLOSSES.

Blackstrap molasses is used in the manufacture of over 1,700,000 tons of feeding stuffs annually in the United States. Farmers use thousands of tons of these feeds. They will be glad to hear that Herbert Hoover has ruled that 18 cents a gallon at points of origin should be the maximum price for blackstrap. This means that profiteering in this essential commodity will not be allowed and will insure a supply of this splendid feed ingredient at a reasonable price.

MR. SIMPKINS PAYS HIS INCOME TAX

By ROBERT McBLAIR.

Mr. Simpkins gazed at the portrait on the wall till his eyes filled with tears. It was a portrait of his father, Colonel Simpkins, who had four times been promoted for valor during the Civil War and had died bravely on the field of action. Mr. Simpkins' throat ached now for two reasons: First, he revered and adored the memory of his father; secondly, his age and his eyes and his game leg wouldn't let him go to war himself. And as he observed the martial bearing and uncompromising gaze of Colonel Simpkins he saw, in imagination, the khaki-clad lads of the new generation marching forth and crossing three thousand miles of sea to fight, maybe die, for liberty.

Mr. Simpkins peered around to make sure that neither Bess nor John (who were at the teasing ages of sixteen and seventeen) were where they could see him, then he straightened and threw his right arm up for a salute. But his gouty shoulder twinged, and he groaned. He couldn't even salute.

"Damn!" said Mr. Simpkins, and with his other hand he nervously twirled his white mustachios.

He turned and limped into the library and sat down creakily before the mahogany desk on which were lying the blanks for his income tax statement, blanks which he had rather grumpily got from the Internal Revenue officer only that day after limping on his way home from the club.

Mr. Simpkins' income for 1917 had amounted to just about $15,000, and he had been rather snappy on the subject of taxes ever since he had discovered that the more income a man has the greater the percentage of it he pays in taxes. He could think of several men who, like himself, were married and had two children, and yet, although their incomes were nearly half of his, they would pay only a small fraction of the amount he paid. He gloomily drew the blank nearer and began filling in the information that it asked for.

As Mr. Simpkins' income was $15,000 he had to figure out the amounts payable on each of the successive smaller classes of incomes in order to arrive at the total due from himself. He passed over the first class who must pay taxes, that is, single men making over 1,000. His calculation for married men then showed up as follows:

First, they pay 2 per cent. (under the 1916 law) on all income over $4,000, deducting $200 for each of their children under eighteen years. In Mr. Simpkins' case this was $212, which he put down in the "payable" column.

He saw next that, under the 1917 law, married men pay an additional 5 per cent. on all over $2,000—with the same allowance for children. This added $252 to his "payable" column.

He then observed that for every $2,500 jump in his income over $5,000 he had to pay a Surtax, the percentage growing larger with each jump. This was $250 more added to his burden. And on top of all this came an "Excess Profits" tax of 8 per cent. on "occupation" income over $8,000, making $720 more.

The total, then, he must pay was four hundred and thirty-four dollars.

"When!" exclaimed Mr. Simpkins angrily. "There's young Henry Wilkins, who married Jake Johnson's girl, he makes $2,000 and he doesn't pay a cent of taxes. I guess this is his war as well as mine."

Thinking of young Henry Wilkins, he remembered that Mrs. Wilkins went every afternoon to make bandages for the Red Cross and that Henry, who was a lawyer, was adding the Local Draft Board with its questionnaires. "Well," he admitted to himself, "that makes a difference."

He thought next of Judge Willoughby, whose income was about $3,000.

"He only pays $20," commented Mr. Simpkins, not quite so angrily this time, and then a thought struck him and he sat up rigidly in his chair.

Judge Willoughby's son had been drowned on the Tuscania when it was submerged with the loss of two hundred soldiers.

"Judge Willoughby gave his son to America," muttered Mr. Simpkins.

He leaned forward suddenly and put his face in his hands.

For a long time Mr. Simpkins sat very still in that position. There was no sound in the library except the ticking of the tall clock and an occasional trill of laughter from the children skylarking upstairs. The square of light on the carpet gradually withdrew itself through the window, and first twilight and then darkness settled in about the quiet, white haired, sometimes frascible old man.

Mr. Simpkins was thinking things which he would never afterward speak of, he was thinking things that were too sacred ever to be put into words. But some inkling of his thoughts may be found in his rejoinder to Mrs. Simpkins when that placid lady came in and turned on the lights, and asked him whether he was ready for dinner.

"Judge Willoughby's only son was worth as much as fourteen hundred and thirty-four dollars, wasn't he?" Mr. Simpkins demanded of her.

As his wife, who was not unused to his superficial irritations, watched him in mild astonishment, Mr. Simpkins limped out to the hall and took his old felt hat and silver-headed cane from the hat rack. Letting himself out into the foggy evening, he tapped his way down to the corner, and mailed his income tax statement and check with his own hands.

"Now God be thanked," said Mr. Simpkins as the lid clanked shut over his missive, "I can do this much for my country, anyhow."

COTTON CULTURE

COMMISSIONER J. A. WADE GIVES PERSONAL EXPERIENCE IN COTTON RAISING

Cotton is now being planted in south Alabama and as the season progresses, planting will become general up the state, reaching the central portion from April the first to fifteen and in Northern Alabama from April fifteenth to May the first. There is a feeling of optimism on the part of many farmers due to favorable yields in some localities last year and the present high prices of the staple. It is well enough to be optimistic on cotton, if you have the required labor in your own household, if the season is favorable and you can feed your family and live stock in advance from the product of the farm without depending on the proceeds of the cotton crop with which to buy food and feed. You cannot plant cotton extensively without neglecting the crops necessary to maintain your cotton prosperity if the yield is good, nor to afford a living, if the yield is bad. One thing sure, if the war goes on, and there is no other prospect, you cannot buy food and feed with cotton money cheaper than you can grow it. What will be the condition if you fail to grow food and feed, if the summer is wet and the boll weevil gets the cotton? What if wheat, corn, meat and sugar becomes so scarce that money will not buy it? This condition is very likely to occur and its rapid approach is indicated as the war struggle goes on. What then is the safe solution? It is undoubtedly diversified farming and intensive and not extensive cotton culture. Putting it stronger, it means the greatest number of bales of cotton that can be grown on a few acres.

Preparation.

Cotton should be planted on well drained upland. The soil should be well broken six inches deep, bedded well pulverized and allowed to settle if possible before planting. Plant on pea and bean stubbles where possible. Use stable manure as far as it will go. Use from three to five hundred pounds of standard commercial fertilizer per acre. Make rows four feet apart on most soils and wider where plants grow larger. One of the best ways of applying fertilizer the writer has ever found is to run it in the top of the bed with a long plow on the distributor. Follow the distributor with a springtooth harrow or drag harrow and then with the cotton planter.

Summary of Varieties.

There are so many varieties and different names applied to the same variety as to be confusing to many farmers. All short staple varieties may be practically discussed in the two following general classes: Big boll and little boll varieties. These may be divided into two classes according to their maturity, early big boll and late big boll; early little boll and late little boll. Some of these varieties are wilt resistant and some are not. Some of them have other advantages and disadvantages, depending very much on the management and efforts of the grower. There is absolutely no such thing as boll weevil proof cotton. The only real practical advantage that any cotton has over boll weevil is earliness, and must be planted at the proper time and backed up by proper preparation, fertilization and cultivation, if it succeeds. The principal things a farmer wants to know are whether the variety is early or late, big boll or small boll, fruit thick or thin, wilt resistant or not, or whether it is subject to boll rot or not (anthracnose), rust, premature shedding under normal conditions, etc. With these facts in mind, you had better know more about the character of the man you buy seed from, rather than minor details about the variety.

Cultivation.

The writer wishes to give here his own method of cultivating cotton, which has proved most satisfactory and to offer it for the consideration of the reader.

After the cotton seed has been planted and is beginning to come up, a spike tooth harrow should be run astride the row and a few days later cross harrow the rows with a weeder. A section harrow will do the same work, if the stand is good and the field is free from coarse litter, provided the harrow is driven diagonally across the rows. Allow the little plants to straighten up and grow a few days and then run a one or two-horse spring tooth cultivator astride the rows and chop the cotton after this. It is all folly to bar off cotton with two furrows to the row and then sweep it up with two more furrows to the row in order to get ready to chop. After the cotton is chopped, run a wide sharp scrape shallow in the middles and run the spring tooth cultivator astride the row. After cotton has been chopped and cultivated in the manner described, a shallow plowing once a week is necessary. A good plan is to sweep both sides of the row shallow and flat one week and then sweep the middle the next week with a broad scrape running flat. This system makes three furrows every week and a cultivation every week and should be kept up until the plants are large and full of mature bolls such as to make the plants heavy and serious breakage from cultivating possible.

Weevil Control.

Get every weevil that you can possibly find out of your field before squares come and the weevil has a chance to lay eggs. This can be done by hand picking or a machine constructed for that purpose. There are machines that do very effective work, if used when cotton is from six to eight inches high. They are of practically no value after the cotton is full of squares and limbs. Neither is hand picking of weevils and squares of much value after the plants are squaring and blooming freely. The time to pick weevils is the week before squares occur. The time to pick up squares is the week the first blooms occur. If these two precautions are not observed, it will be tedious, laborious, expensive and practically useless to pick weevils after plants are large and heavily infested with weevils. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" always.

J. A. WADE, Commissioner of Agr.

Keep in your mind the days that are proclaimed by Mayor Kemp as Clean-up-Days for Clanton. Our citizenship can not justify itself by anything less than a vigorous effort to comply with his suggestion fully and unreservedly. The movement is one in the direct way of civic uplift, and of course no man, woman or child in our town will be inclined to neglect any duty in this respect. Let us all as citizens, meet our Mayor on half-way ground and show our respect for him and our town and ourselves by cleaning up this burg to where she will look the very neatest possible.

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a recent letter from Lemuel Sims, a well-known Chilton county boy in the United States Navy. He is now stationed at Bridgeport Conn.

Gerald Hubbard of Jemison made another of his hurry-up trips to this city Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. P. I. Hopkins and children of Dothan were in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday. They made the trip in the doctor's big motor car.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. C. V. Heath and Mrs. Grady Broadhead motored to Montgomery last Friday. Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Broadhead continued the trip from Montgomery on to Macon, Ga., where they temporarily reside during the period of training of Dr. Broadhead at Camp Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilvie O. McKee of Maplesville are the proud parents of a new baby boy who arrived at their house a few weeks ago.

If anybody votes against the dipping law in the belief that he can sell his cattle just the same without dipping as he could with it, and then when it is all over and too late, finds that the cattle cannot be moved out of the county, it will be a rather serious joke on him.

Would Clanton like to see the government install one of its nitrate plants at Lock 12 on the Coosa River?
If so, why don't somebody say so?
Things like that are not usually pushed on communities that do not invite their coming.

It is said by reliable authorities that if the dipping laws are adopted by this county, there will be vats built convenient to everybody so that no person will have to drive his cattle a great distance to dip them. Some oppose the law on these grounds, and it is stated for their benefit that vats will be provided convenient to everybody.

It has been announced that there is a probability of the government building a nitrate plant at Lock 12. Which reminds us that we have not heard anybody in Chilton County invite them to do so. Concerted action by an organized citizenship has done great things in some places.

C. REESE MULLINS WRITES
ON DIPPING FOR TICK EVILS

Clanton, Ala., March 25, 1918.
Dear Editor:

Will you please publish the following letter?

There has been much said for and against the use of dipping vats for our stock, and I confess with shame that my first experience was last week, when I dipped my first cattle including a small calf 3 months old and one cow due to calve May 8th.
They are all doing well and I believe I can see an improvement in their looks even in this short time.

But now listen. I believe the only danger is in having the solution too strong; so I had it tested by Dr.
Strickler before dipping. I also had my cows sacks thoroughly greased with hog lard before dipping, and in my opinion there can't possibly be any danger of injuring your cattle when the proper care is taken as in my case. By this process you get rid of all ticks and lice and leave your cattle clean and healthy. I would suggest the greasing of small calves before dipping.

I am in hopes that a majority of our people will favor this proposition and vote for its adoption, which in my opinion will be exceedingly helpful to all. We should all stand together on any proposition which will be of general benefit. We have some good men who oppose this dipping of cattle, and I take it that they are honest in their opinion; but as I see it, they are shooting off hand and have not thoroughly looked into the merits of the proposition. Is it possible that men in the cattle business handling hundreds of cattle annually are mistaken about the dipping vat being a good thing after personal experience for several years? I have a brother living near Lock 12 who has been dipping his cattle for more than a year,
and he is well pleased with the results.
I was talking with a cattle man in Montgomery a few weeks ago, who was the first man to dip a cow in Montgomery County, and he told me that if, with his experience, he had to give up his dipping vat, he would not think of continuing in business.

Now, I am very much in favor of the dipping business from a personal standpoint and in general, and I want someone to tell me how we are going to get rid of the ticks and lice on our cattle and hogs other than through the dipping vat. Do you mean to say that you are going to attempt to catch and grease every cow and hog on your place by hand, which would perhaps take several days, when you can run them all through a dipping vat in one hour. This, as you are bound to see, is a great saving of time, and in the course of a year will amount to something. Now, something has got to be done. I am sure you are no longer going to let the ticks and lice ruin your cattle and hogs, which has been the case ever since I can remember. The government has spent thousands of dollars experimenting on this proposition and they have now got it down to a scientific certainty as to the mixing of the solution, and will teach us free. Since this is true there can't possibly be anything to it but good.

As for me, I heartily favor it, and shall vote and use my influence for its adoption on the day of election.
If this is adopted it will mean from one and a half to two cents a pound more for the cattle we have to sell and a better and more healthy condition for the ones we keep at home.
And again, we can't ship any more cattle out of Chilton County until we raise the quarantine. But someone will say we do not have to ship any more of our cattle but keep them at home. I am sure we need cattle at home and we perhaps have families that are needing milk cows
now, and we will always have them,
but we also have some men who are raising cattle for sale, and isn't it fair that those people should have the best price possible for their cattle. We also have cattle dealers which are of benefit to us and they will come to our homes and buy what we have to spare at any time provided they can ship, and if free from ticks give us the top of the market, which in all probability will increase from time to time, if we will only put the ticks to flight and raise this quarantine now on us.

Now, let's all vote for dipping vats and add one more cog in the great wheel of progress which is trying to roll over us. We will come to the front if we will only just give a little shove forward and quit kicking backward at plain and simple propositions like this, which it seems to me that even the wayfaring man ought to see will be of great benefit to all our people. Let's build dipping vats all over the county and then some,
let's quit drinking tick juice in our milk and eating it in our steak, and at the same time treat our god given cattle of the fields humane, which will increase our bank account.

Some years ago when diversification of our crops was introduced we did not think we could live without making mostly all cotton but now we see we can and much better, and no man could now be persuaded to return to all cotton crops. So will it be with dipping vats as soon as we realize and see what it is going to mean to us.

Yours for diversification of crops,
prohibition and dipping vats.
C. REESE MULLINS.

NEW RULES FOR FLOUR

First: Household to use not to exceed a total of one and one-half pounds per week of wheat products per person. This means not more than one and three-fourths pounds of victory bread containing the required percentage of substitutes and about one-half pound of cooking flour, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes,
wheat, breakfast cereals all combined.

Second: Public eating places and clubs to observe two wheatless days per week, Monday and Wednesday, as at present. In addition thereto not to serve in the aggregate total of more breadstuffs, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes or wheat breakfast cereals containing a total of more than two ounces of wheat flour,
to any one guest at any one meal.
No wheat products to be served unless specially ordered and public eating establishments not to buy more than six pounds of wheat products per month per guest, thus conforming with the limitations required of the householder.

Third: Retailers to sell not more than 24 pounds of flour to any town customer at any one time and not more than 48 pounds to any country customer at any one time and in no case to sell wheat products without the sale of an equal weight of other cereals except to farmers who sign regular farmers' certificate and then only 48 pounds at a sale.

Fourth: We ask the bakers and grocers to reduce the volume of victory bread sold by delivery of the three-quarter pound loaf where one pound was sold before and corresponding proportions in other weights. We also ask the bakers not to increase the amount of their wheat flour purchases beyond seventy percent of the average monthly amount purchased in the four months prior to March first.

Fifth: Manufacturers using wheat products for non-food purposes should cease such use entirely.

Sixth: There is no limit upon the use of other cereals, flours and meals,
corn, barley, buckwheat, potato flour,
etc. Many thousands of families throughout the land are now using no wheat products whatever except a very small amount for cooking purposes and are doing so in perfect health and satisfaction. There is no reason why all of the American people who are able to cook in their own houses cannot subsist perfectly well with the use of less wheat products than one and one-half pounds per week, and we especially ask the well-to-do householders in the country to follow this additional program
in order that we may provide the necessary marginal supplies to so large a proportion of substitutes.

CLANTON, ALA.

PLANT BREEDING AND THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD SEED

By H. B. Tisdale, Associate Plant Breeder.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The laws governing the breeding of animals apply also to the breeding of plants. The methods of breeding animals and plants are somewhat different, but much in favor of the plant breeder. The plant breeder can obtain results much quicker, because he has a larger number of individuals with which to deal and the life history of plants is shorter.

There are two general methods of breeding plants; namely, straight selection and hybridization.

The method of straight selection requires less skill and good results are obtained quicker than by hybrid-ization. Ordinary varieties of field crops are usually made up of a number of types or subvarieties. Each of these types has the power of transmitting its qualities to its offspring.
The different types differ in their yielding ability and by straight selection the best yielding types can be isolated. Plants also have the inherent characteristic of variation. There are no two plants exactly alike even from the same parents. Offspring of the same parent vary considerably in all characters, while at the same time they hold a striking similarity to the parent.

Hybridization may be practiced in order to combine the good qualities of two varieties of the same species.
This method is a long and tedious process, and requires close observation and careful attention.

A good stock or breed of seed is just as important to production as a good stock or breed of animals. In the light of the approaching shortage of food supply it behooves every farmer to give his most careful attention to the selection of his stock of seed for planting. If one variety of corn, for example, produces as little as one bushel per acre more than another variety under the same conditions, it would not be noticed by the ordinary farmer, but the increase in yield for the state would amount to several thousands of bushels. However, high grade seed obtained by continuous selection will yield from 5 to 20 percent more per acre than seed which have not been so obtained.

We have under way a plan to organize a plant breeders association for Alabama. We want members for this association who are well qualified and who have had experience in improving some variety of plants. Through such an association better methods of plant breeding can be studied and at the same time a supply of high grade seed furnished to the farmers of Alabama. The benefits obtained will be mutual, as the breeder receives extra pay for his improved seed, and the farmer receives extra production from the same.

It would be well for farmers who are interested in becoming a member of such an organization to begin breeding the variety of crop in which he is most interested.

SAW MILL MAN AGAINST DIP

Milstead, Ala., March 25, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the cattle dipping. It seems to me that the most of the farmers in Chilton County are not in favor of dipping their cattle. It seems that the people around Clanton want to dip.
That can be seen through pretty well.
If you voters stand back in the mountains and on your farms and allow the folks around Clanton to issue out your medicine for what you must do with your poor old cows, they will have to hit the vat.

Come out voting day and vote it down. That will be one day's work you will not regret. Any man who wants the ticks off his cattle can get them off without running them thru a vat. As for any cattle being shipped out of Chilton County, there is no use in any being shipped out because I am satisfied that all the meat is needed there. You can save your beef as same as hog meat. Why not do it? That is the trouble; there has been too much gone off and nothing come back.

I was on the train not long ago
coming from Clanton to Montgomery when I heard a speculator sitting just ahead of me say he was going to do all he could to get that law to pass.
Now, if it were not money to him he would not fool with it. Gentlemen,
I lived in Montgomery County one year and eleven months, and we had to dip every two weeks. What did worry me it made no difference how busy you were, the man would walk up with fine clothing on; you could say we have got no ticks on our cattle; he would push his hat way back and say they must go and be dipped.
He said he got $100 a month. Well, boys, that money had to come from somewhere; it certainly did come out of the man who owned the cattle.

Now, before you vote you remember that you have always been where there was not any boss over you and your cow. If you vote this it doesn't make any difference how busy you are planting, hoeing or plowing, nor how much you lack of being done with this piece, when it comes your time to dip the other fellow will say come along with your cow. Some people seem to think that it does not hurt them to dip them, but it's all a mistake. If you let them drink one swallow of it it will kill them; and as far as injuring stock it nearly kills them, especially work steers. If you have got any work oxen you had better come out and vote every time you can against it, because it nearly kills them when you dip them.

If you haven't got but one cow and you dip her and she dies, I guess that these speculators will probably give you another one. So, boys, I will say this much. If you set the speculators up in this wagon and give him
the lines he will drive your little red wagons. If it were not for the money some fellow was getting out of this

I am certain there would not be a vat in Chilton County. I hope that you all will vote it down. If you don't you will be sorry of it. Freedom is what we all need. Boys, if you are going to dip, there is already enough vats built. You all dip your speculators first and make the ooze good and stout. You know they have got ticks on them by starting to dipping so soon.

Respectfully,
TOM JONES.

Our SUPREME and PACKING HOUSE BRANDS being ammoniated 100% with the highest grades of genuine old time Packing House Tankage and Blood, are not leached away by excessive rains like ordinary fertilizers. Their ammoniates, being slowly soluble, insure constant feeding of the plant till late maturity, thus preventing shedding and promoting vigorous, healthy growth. The Tankage in them is rich in potash and also liberates idle potash in the soil, thus supplying the potash requirements of ordinary field crops without extra cost. Read what our customers say about them in our Year Book.

We use the same grade of Tankage and Blood in our GOLD BOND BRANDS which insures their high quality and continuous service.

SHOE PRICES CUT IN TWO COUNTRIES

ENGLAND AND ITALY BENEFIT BY STANDARDIZATION AND CONTROL OF PROFITS.

GOODS ARE ALL OF LEATHER

Agricultural Department Estimates Show Range of War Emergency Work—Vast Amount of Food Sent by America to Allies.

(From the Committee on Public Information.)

Washington.—There has already been a drop in the prices charged by retailers for footwear in England in view of the government's action in placing on the market standardized shoes made at controlled rates of profit, according to a report to the United States department of commerce.

At a recent exhibition of "wartime" boots 39 samples were shown, ranging from heavy boots for carters and laborers to shoes for ordinary street use, and children's shoes. Prices range from $2.06 to $6.38 a pair. The shoes are made entirely of leather and the retailer's price is stamped on the sole.

Italian shoe factories are manufacturing standardized shoes, using leather furnished by the government, which controls the system of sales to the public.

In England the manufacture of standard cloth for men's suits has made rapid progress, 24 patterns being included in the first goods shown. As now planned, provision is made for 750,000 to 1,000,000 suits ready for delivery from June to August. The project may later include production of certain classes of cloth for woman's wear.

Of the total of nearly $20,000,000 asked for war emergency activities by the department of agriculture it is proposed to use $8,000,000 for the purchase and sale of seed to farmers for cash at cost; $6,100,000 for the development of the co-operative agricultural extension work in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges; $1,260,655 for combating animal diseases, stimulating the production of live stock, and encouraging the conservation and utilization of meat, poultry, dairy and other animal products; $911,300 for the prevention, control, and eradication of insects and plant diseases, and the conservation and utilization of plant products; $2,368,958 for extending and enlarging the market news service of the bureau of markets, preventing waste of food in storage, in transit or held for sale, giving advice concerning the market movement or distribution of perishable products, making inspections and certifications regarding the condition of perishable agricultural products, and gathering information in connection with the demand for and the production, supply, distribution and utilization of food; and $1,080,980 for dealing with the farm-labor problem, enlarging the informational work of the department, printing and distributing emergency leaflets, posters and other publications, and extending the work of the bureau of chemistry, the bureau of entomology, and the bureau of biological survey.

Statistics compiled by the food administration show that the grand total of all food exported to the four allies—the United Kingdom, France, Italy and Russia—from July 1, 1914, to January 1, 1918, would furnish complete yearly rations for 57,100,033 adult persons, with a surplus of protein capable of supplying this portion of the diet for 22,194,570 additional men.

Since the beginning of the war the United States has averaged to supply the allies with food enough each year to support 16,314,552 persons, and with an excess of both protein and fats sufficient for several millions more.

The total exports of wheat and wheat flour to the three principal allies, Russia getting but a very small per cent of the whole, were equivalent to about 384,000,000 bushels, or an average of about 110,000,000 bushels a year. Of this total amount the United Kingdom got 145,348,000 bushels of wheat and 8,512,000 barrels of wheat flour; France got 79,798,000 bushels of wheat and 5,462,000 barrels of wheat flour; Italy 87,136,000 bushels of wheat and 1,895,000 barrels of wheat flour. Russia received only 130,000 bushels of wheat and 25,000 barrels of wheat flour.

The total exports of pork products were nearly 2,000,000,000 pounds, a yearly average of about 570,000,000 pounds. The total sugar exports were over 2,269,000,000 pounds, a yearly average of about 648,000,000. Of corn there was exported 23,332,000 bushels; oats, 207,981,000; rye, 3,407,000.

Reports based on figures from the department of agriculture show that January 1, 1918, the number of meat animals in the United States was greater by more than 6,000,000 head than it was January 1, 1917. The number of inspections for slaughter indicate a decrease in consumption.

The summary shows the total number of cattle in the United States January 1, 1918, was 69,830,000, an increase of 1,247,000 head over the same day the year before. Hogs increased 3,781,000 head, or 5.7 per cent. The increase in sheep was 1,284,000 head.

Of the 3,082,949 persons called under the selective service act, 252,294, or 8.18 per cent, mailed to appear for examination, according to a statement issued by the provost marshal general. This number, however, included men who had previously enlisted or been commissioned and had failed to notify their boards, some who had died, and many who were transferred to other boards but by mistake had been carried on the books of their local boards—estimated at 100,000.

Many of the remaining 150,000 were aliens, a number of whom left the country to enlist in their own armies.

The statement estimates the number of real "slackers" at not more than 50,000, or an average of less than ten for each local board.

Translations of editorial comment in the German press, made public by the committee on public information, include the following from the Berliner Tageblatt:

"The terms of the ultimatum to Russia will please even the most unrelenting advocates of violence. It would be interesting to hear Hertling, who accepted Wilson's second principle that people are not to be bartered about from sovereign to sovereign, explain just what differences exist between the political methods of the past and those of today. It may be conceded that today the German reichstag is informed of coming changes, but not until the matter has been settled without it. We all hope this policy will bring peace and prosperity, but we cannot conceal our anxiety at the birth of these new states."

Soldiers, sailors, or their beneficiaries under the soldiers' and sailors' insurance law need not employ attorneys or claim agents to collect the insurance, according to the treasury department. Circulars have lately been sent out by claim agents and attorneys offering to assist persons entitled to the benefits of this insurance in collecting their claims.

The procedure for the presentation and collection of insurance claims is simple. Blanks may be secured from the bureau of war-risk insurance at Washington. The name of the person in service who was killed or injured, and the relationship which he bore to the person making the claim, should be given.

Germany's war leaders are using the submarine to prevent fulfillment of America's agreements to feed and relieve European neutrals, according to a statement by the war trade board. It says:

"A mass of cumulative evidence and indications in the possession of the war trade board shows that Germany is employing the submarine menace to prevent neighbor neutrals receiving any food or favors at the hands of the United States and its associates in the war, and to coerce these neutrals through starvation and political and economic dependence upon Germany, quite as much as to strike at the communications of its opponents—Germany's ostensible aim in proclaiming the ruthless submarine campaign.

"Further indications tend to show that the submarines are being used along similar dog-in-the-manger lines, to destroy neutral shipping without regard to its employment."

Persons who send mail to members of the expeditionary forces are particularly requested, in a statement issued by the post office department, to use ink only in writing the addresses. Every piece of mail matter should also bear the name and address of the sender.

Heavy paper, canvas, or cloth should be used for wrapping packages. When canvas or cloth is used the address should be written on a shipping tag, with the name and address of the sender on the reverse side.

Given names should be written in full, instead of initials. The title of the addressee and the full name of the unit or organization to which he is assigned should be added, it being sufficient in the way of further address to use the words "American Expeditionary Forces."

Over $41,000 in 5-cent Smilge coupons has come in from the big camps to headquarters at the commission on training camp activities in Washington. These coupons represent admissions to theatrical events at the camps. Soldiers from the smaller towns received their books early, because of the prompt response of these places when Smilge books were placed on sale, and in many cases have used them up.

An investigation for the purpose of improving methods for prevention and control of communicable diseases, especially near army camps, is being made by the United States public health service. The work will relate largely to the standardization and preparation of serums.

The first serum to be studied will be that used in cerebro-spinal meningitis, which has lately been prevalent in camps.

Admire Babies?

Every normal woman's heart thrills with the thought of possessing a baby. What man can fully perceive the sympathetic understanding and the loveliness that glows in a woman's eyes at the sight of her flesh and blood represented in the tiny infant. Every woman in the joy of coming motherhood should prepare her system for the crisis and the unusual strain. Three generations have found the tried and reliable external application, "Mother's Friend" of the greatest help at such a time. By its daily use throughout the period, the skin of the abdomen is made soft and elastic, the expanding muscles relax naturally and with ease, when baby arrives, and the inflammation of breast glands is soothed.

By no chance neglect to obtain this great preparation which science has offered for so many years to expectant mothers. Write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. L, 200 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their helpful and interesting book, "Motherhood and the Baby". It is free and is well worth writing for. No woman should fail to help nature in the severest strain ever put upon her. "Mother's Friend" is procurable from any druggist and is a real help to nature in her glorious work. "Mother's Friend" is absolutely and entirely safe.

Catarrah Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 15c. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

CORN BUD WORM CONTROL

By Dr. W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The insect variously called "bud worm," "southern corn root worm," or "drill worm," which causes the death of young corn plants, is the grub-stage of a familiar beetle about one-fourth inch long and having a greenish yellow body color with twelve black spots on the wing covers. These beetles live through the winter and may be found feeding around early spring flowers and on tender plants of many kinds.

The beetles are most abundant during April. Therefore the injury to corn is most severe during that month and especially upon certain types of soil in which the surface soil remains cool and moist continuously.

The eggs are deposited at the base of the young corn plants and hatch in about a week. From seventy-five to 200 eggs may be laid by one beetle. The grubs eat their way into the corn stalk usually near the upper circle of roots, and may break or destroy the stand. They may travel some little distance through moist soil but cannot live long in very dry soil. Hence the damage is usually confined to bottom lands.

In from two to four weeks (depending upon temperatures) the grubs grow to a length of one-half inch and are slender, white, or yellowish white in color with brown heads.

There is no insecticide for this insect. Control measures consist in general of, (1) good drainage, (2) avoiding planting corn during April on soils that are favorable to these bud worms. After May first to tenth—according to the season and also the latitude in the State—most of the eggs of this beetle will have been deposited elsewhere and corn can then be planted with more safety. (3) On susceptible soils it is always wise to use plenty of seed. (4) Keep the surface soil as loose and well stirred as possible and, (5) thin out rather late so as to assure a good stand.

A perfect stand is essential to the largest yields of corn. Control of the bud worm contributes directly both to maximum yield and minimum cost of production. Particular attention should be paid to these points this year. Guard the stand of corn against the bud worm by these simple methods.

Forgot What He Needed.

From the Republican, Mt. Gilead, O.

The editor had an interesting experience some time ago, when a young gentleman came to his office and asked for a copy of the Morrow County Republican. He scrutinized it carefully when a copy was handed him, and then said: "Now I know!" "What is it you are looking for," we inquired. "My wife sent me after a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I forgot the name. I went to several stores and the clerks named over everything in the line of the shelf except 'Chamberlain's.' I'll try again, and I'll never go home without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." The Republican would suggest to the proprietors of stores, that they post their clerks, and never let them substitute. Customers lose faith in stores where substituting is permitted, to say nothing of the injustice to makers of good goods and the disappointment of customers.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1918 farm and garden operations depends prosperity or our "going broke."

Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit and make money. Food and grain is higher in proportion than are present cotton prices.

It's a time above all others to play safe; to produce all possible food, grain and forage supplies on your own acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground, rightly planted, rightly tended and kept planted the year round, can be made to pay nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you made on the best three acres of cotton you ever grew!

Hastings' 1918 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. 18¢ Free. Send for it today to H. C. HASTINGS CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

ALA. POWER CO. OFFICIALS VISIT LOCK 12 PLANT

Tuesday of this week a party of Alabama Power Company Officials, including the President, R. A. Mitchell, were at the Lock 12 plant on Coosa River making an inspection of the operations. It is not positively stated, but is thought that this visit of officials may have something to do with the government plan to locate one of its nitrate plants at Lock 12.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Miss Addie Cox spent the day in Clanton on Tuesday of this week, the guest of Mrs. E. E. Upchurch.

Miss Cox is a field representative of the Baptist Womens Missionary Union of the state, with headquarters in Montgomery. At 3:30 o'clock a large gathering of the ladies of the Church was addressed by Miss Cox on the various subjects of interest to them in their work. She is an enthusiastic expert whose words are stimulating and helpful. A unique feature was the presence by special arrangement of about a dozen earnest women from the Negro Baptist Church, who seemed to appreciate and get much help from Miss Cox's lecture.

After the schools were dismissed a number of young girls and children came to the church and the exercises were diverted in their special interest. Miss Cox explained a W. M. U. organization called the G. A. S., or girls' Auxiliary, and a society was formed consisting of ten members. Officers were elected as follows: President, Minnie Gable; Vice-President, Mary Mullins; Secretary, Inez Higgins; and Treasurer, Lucile Smith.

On next Sunday the Baptist Sunday School expects to present a special program of songs, recitations and other exercises, beginning at 10:00 o'clock. It is hoped and expected that the full goal of 200 attendants will be present at this time. The pastor will preach an Easter Sermon, if conditions will allow.

The newspapers have told us late of other towns and cities observing a short period of daily concert prayer for the success of our warfare in Europe in behalf of the Christian civilization. The angelus bell is rung at six, p.m., and then each, whoever he may be, turns his soul in supplication to the Most High, for the speedy conquest of a lasting and humane peace for all the nations of the world. Surely the serious and critical condition demands our prayer.

The idea has appealed to many here in Clanton and request has been made for the ringing of such a bell here. This will be done, and on next Sunday a manifestation may be asked for as to whether or not it shall be continued.

TO SPEAK ON LIBERTY LOAN

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton will speak at Mt. Pleasant School House next Sunday afternoon. His subject will be relative to the Third Liberty Loan of our government for prosecution of the war. All citizens of the community are urged to hear him. Farmers are especially urged to come.

W. C. Scarbrough of Birmingham is spending a few days with relatives near Clanton.

Ugly, Unsightly Pimples Are Signals of Bad Blood

Give Heed to the Warning. Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire. They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to purify it and cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This remedy is the greatest vegetable blood purifier known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drugstore, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and get rid of those unsightly and disfiguring pimples, and other skin irritations. And it will cleanse your blood thoroughly. If you wish special medical advice, you can obtain it without charge by writing to Medical Director, 29 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

JOHN L. GORE FIRES
THE OPENING GUNFIRST APPEAL IS MADE TO VOTERS ASKING THEIR SUPPORT IN RACE
FOR SHERIFF.

Clanton, Ala., April 4, 1918.

In making my announcement as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton County, and asking the people for their support, I do so at the conclusion of my own serious consideration of the proposition, and also at the solicitation of many of my friends over the county.

Under the present status of conditions that have arisen among the people in connection with the filling of the office of Sheriff next time, I deem it well and proper to accompany my announcement for the office with a few words relating to these conditions.

As I see it, the first duty of a man in the office of Sheriff is to execute the laws of our county and state. This is the broadest foundation principle upon which his acts should be based. In carrying out this first and most important duty, his official guardianship of the proper enforcement of the laws should be done with the best interests of all the people in the county sufficiently safeguarded.

I believe that the above are the most important factors included in the scope of duty of the Sheriff. And I wish to state in the beginning that such views of these duties will be followed out unreservedly by myself, if ever the voters should designate me to fill the office. Furthermore I wish to say that my conduct and acts in enforcing the various laws of the county and state shall be absolutely impartial. I would not pledge myself to any conduct as sheriff that would be favorable to any special or certain set of men, no matter what their position might be on any question. I hold to the view that the Sheriff must be the same officer for all the people of the county.

If I shall be honored with holding the office to which I aspire, I want to say that I will go into it free and unhampered by any promises whatsoever. The only promise I have in the past, now or will in the future make, is as I have stated above, namely: The full and unqualified enforcement of the laws, with no respect of persons. I feel that I am no stranger in Chilton County. I was born and reared in the county, and have been before the people for several years in one capacity or another. I made the race against the present Sheriff four years ago, and was defeated. I realized that it was the will of the people who chose him in preference to me, and I consented gracefully to abide by the majority. My interest in the welfare of the county and the success of the Republican party was not lessened one bit.

I am now serving my fourth year as deputy sheriff under Mr. Harris, and I feel that this experience is sufficient recommendation for my ability to fill the office of Sheriff, if I should be elected by the people.

My acts and conduct have ever been with the full intention of a just and proper execution of the law.

As stated above, I was born and reared in Chilton County. I invite the voters to investigate my life and record up to the present time, and if you find that my character and qualifications entitle me to your sincere consideration as a man worthy of the office of Sheriff, I ask you to favor me with your support in the primary next August.

I am now, have ever been, and shall always be found upholding the rights and privileges of the masses of the people. I believe in those things which give to the common people the fullest limits of liberty and freedom. Whether I am elected as Sheriff or not I shall continue in that which I believe to be the rights of the common people in everything.

I do not believe in extremes in politics or government. I do not favor a display of authority by any officer. I believe in being conservative, and at the same time, just, always regarding the privileges of my fellow man. I do not believe in the use of issues and discussions that are improper. In my campaign before the people, I shall refrain from using arguments that are of an offensive nature. Such tactics as little personalities and so-called "mudslinging" are not to be found in my program.

With these few remarks, I place before the people my intentions and purposes, broadly stated. As the campaign progresses I shall meet any rising issues with fortitude and confidence, believing that the consideration of the people will give me a just and fair hearing.

I ask the voters to consider these things well, and if your support can be given me upon my word and honor to stand by what I have herein said, I assure you it will be most sincerely appreciated.

Yours truly,
J. L. GORE.

Deputy Sheriff B. L. Cobb from Jemison was in Clanton Tuesday on legal business at the Sheriff's office.

TICK ERADICATION IN CHILTON
DEFEATED AT POLLS MONDAYHeavy Vote is Cast Against Cattle Dipping Proposition all Over
The County.

As the ballot boxes began to come in from the various election precincts over the county Tuesday, the majority against the cattle dipping proposition began to mount up, and continued to grow higher and higher as more returns were received.

The count was started off with something like a three-to-one vote against eradication in Beat Four. Telephone communications with Thorsby late Monday afternoon showed a heavy vote against the proposition; and likewise from Coopers and other voting places.

The following is a tabulated vote from the different beats, as the figures were given in by the returning officers who brought the boxes to the Sheriff's office Tuesday:

PAINTING THE JAIL

Workmen are busy this week painting the inside of the Chilton County jail. There are but few prisoners contained in the bastille at present, in fact there are not a great many there at any one time of late years. But it is the duty of the county to provide a clean and sanitary place for those who are there, and the court of county commissioners are having it fixed up in good shape.

T. J. Deason, Moderator,
Ed Giles, Secretary.

F. Iven Popwell of Shiloh community left Monday with some other boys to join the national army at Camp Gordon. He is the son of Joseph Popwell, and is the third son of this noble old man to be given to the cause. His two other boys, Rufus and Joseph, Jr., are already in France.

J. M. Curlee stated to the editor Saturday that he has given three boys to Uncle Sam in this war. His oldest boy, Cabot, is in France. Hubbard is in the army in a northern state, or in France possibly by now, and George left on Monday for Camp Gordon.

J. N. Gentry from Lawley came to Clanton Tuesday to bring the returns of the election in his beat. Mr. Gentry says he believes that the people of the county don't want to dip their cattle.

Akins Collins and Herbert Lowery, two sterling young men from Collins Chapel were visitors to Clanton on Saturday.

Squire John S. Dennis from Beat 11 was in town Tuesday. He says there was only one man in Beat 11 who voted for cattle dipping. 58 voted against it.

Joe W. Foshee brought the election returns from Beat 16 to the Sheriff Tuesday. That beat voted heavily against it.

TOO MUCH COTTON BEING PLANTED THIS SEASONFarmers are Warned of Dangers that may Come later to Upset their Extensive Plans.

NECESSARY CRITICISM

Ordinarily, it is not good for one to indulge too freely in criticism, unless it is presented in a purely psychological, self-conscious and kindly manner. A critic is always in danger of becoming self-righteous to the extent of finding fault with everybody but himself. Such critics never accomplish any good by their criticisms. To accomplish results with criticism the critic must employ good logic, abstain from self conceit and personal abuse. Some criticism of our habits and present tendencies is necessary and should be taken seriously and corrected before it is too late.

Too Much Cotton.

Statistics gathered from the farms of Alabama show a tendency to increase the acreage planted to cotton eighteen per cent, corn five per cent, peanuts fifteen per cent, velvet bean fifteen per cent, and all other crops about the same as last year. Last year was dry and crops were easily cultivated. Labor is scarcer and higher this year, therefore, these crop increases cannot be successfully maintained through wet seasons. It is a mistake to increase the cotton crop to this extent in the face of the war and economical conditions. If the dry weather now prevailing should extend several weeks further into the season, stands of cotton will be seriously belated. Extreme wet weather may follow this dry spell. With belated stands and wet weather in May and June, cotton in Southern and Central Alabama would hardly make half a crop. This allusion is a form of "crossing the bridge before we get to it," but certain signs, possibilities and probabilities must be taken into consideration. When approaching an era of bottoms, it is evident that a stream is not far distant and that the bridge must inevitably be approached, if the journey is continued. Again we repeat that too much cotton planting is contemplated under present conditions.

Country Asleep on War.

The country people who do not read papers extensively and who do not have the opportunity of visiting cities or hearing the best informed speakers, do not realize why this country is at war. They do not know how dangerously near we are to the loss of liberty and what the loss of this struggle would mean to this country and themselves. I am convinced that this country would have remained out of the war, if it could have done so and retained its security, rights and the respect of the nations of the world. We have got to win this war. Criticizing, boasting or bluffing will not win it. Food, fight and finance is the slogan. Since food is the first and biggest item, it is incumbent upon the farmers to produce it in the largest possible abundance. Your house is not on fire but your country is under fire by the most brutal, feudalistic and cruel enemy the world has ever known. Wake up! my countrymen, and contribute your best services on farms, battle fields, and invest all you can spare in war stamps and liberty bonds. If life is worth living, it is worth living well. Democracy and liberty must be preserved at any price.

If I were a Farmer.

If I were a farmer I would keep at hand a few reliable medicines for minor ailments that are not so serious as to require the attention of a physician, such as Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds and croup.

Chamberlain's Liniment for sprains, bruises and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's tablets for stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation.

By having these articles at hand it would often save the trouble of a trip to town in the busiest season or in the night, and would enable me to treat slight ailments as soon as they appear, and thereby avoid the more serious diseases that so often follow.

Commissioner W. T. Herrod was here this week attending Commissioners Court. He stated that he has recently installed a cream separator on his farm, and is now making daily shipments of cream from Fletcher to Aberdeen, Mississippi. There is a good market for such products, and according to Mr. Herrod's statement the returns are good.

Dudley Collins, Tax Collector, is good for something more than raising hogs and collecting taxes. He went out to the river one day last week and caught a car load of fish.

Tom Littlejohn of Tuscaloosa was in Clanton Tuesday.

B. O. Glover was here from Maplesville Tuesday to bring the election returns from that place. Beat 7 gave a majority of nine against dipping. It was a surprise to some who thought that that beat would vote a majority favorable to dipping.

The Election Monday.

The election on the proposition of cattle dipping for tick eradication was held Monday in Chilton county. The vote of the people was heavily against dipping and now we shall go forward and abide by the voice of the majority. Those on the losing side are willing to consent to the expressed will of the people, and let them have what they voted for. The election settled the matter, and so we all will agree to let it be. But there is one thing which is being intimated by some which is a wrong idea, and we feel that in justice to all it should be corrected.

Some seem to have an idea that Judge Reynolds and the Commissioners are to blame for calling the election. It is being talked that they could have kept the proposition down if they had tried. This is wrong and misleading, and no one should do these officials the injustice to censure them for the calling of the election.

The law plainly says that if a petition bearing the names of 25 per cent of the qualified voters who voted in the last preceding election for governor,
shall be presented to the Probate Judge asking for an election on the proposition, it is his duty to call such election not less than 20 days and not more than 40 days from the time the petition is submitted.

The petition that was presented to Judge Reynolds asking for the election contained 34
more names than the necessary 25 per cent.

It is unjust to blame Judge
Reynolds for calling the election for he was duty bound by law to do what he did in the matter.

WORKING COUNTY ROADS

In a conversation the other day
County Commissioner Herrod expressed what we believe to be a most important assertion in regard to the working, improvement and maintenance of the county public roads.
He stated that, owing to the fact that such a large percentage of the men subject to road duty have been drafted or otherwise entered into the military service, it has left our road-working forces seriously depleted. His opinion was further given, and wisely stated too, that unless men who are able to do so, are willing to put their teams to work on the roads and make up for the loss, our roads will suffer
a most serious lack of attention.

This appeal has often been made recently by the commissioners court, seeking to enlist the aid of men not subject to road duty in the work of roads with their teams at times which they can easily afford to spare. This should be done in this time of emergency. The roads should not have to suffer the loss of work that they will have to suffer if the work of these young men who have gone is not made up.

Mr. John W. Hayes breaks the ice this week with his announcement as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner from the Second District of Chilton County. Mr. Hayes was a candidate for this same office four years ago against Mr. R. J. Williams.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

Montgomery, Ala.

A PLEDGE OF LOYALTY FOR WIN-
THE-WAR DAY, APRIL 6, 1918.

"On the anniversary of America's entrance in the great war, I affirm my undivided loyalty to the cause of Justice and human liberty. I gladly lay upon the altar of the Nation's need,
my material possessions, my bodily strength and my mental powers. To serve and to save America and these ideals for which it stands and to keep the Stars and Stripes floating with honor, I pledge my hand, my heart and life."

HOUSEWIVES CAN WIN THE WAR.

President Wilson has recently made a still further appeal to the loyalty of the American housewife. He says to them, "I am confident that the great body of our women who have labored so loyally in co-operation with the Food Administration for the success of food conservation will strengthen their efforts and will take it as a part of their burden in this period of national service to see that the Food Administration suggestions are observed throughout the land."

This appeal comes from our great President, who has upon his shoulders
the burden of taking care of the army
we have in France and the men we plan to keep sending over there. This army will eat 13,350,000 pounds of beef a month, 3,375,000 pounds of bacon, 1,375,000 cans of fresh roast beef, hashed corn beef, corned beef and salmon, 13,350,000 pounds of flour and 3,000,000 pounds of sugar a month.

A large part of this enormous amount of food stuffs must come from the savings of the homes of the nation. Mr.
Hoover, helped by many experts, both men and women, is working day and night to show the American housewife how she can do her part in this great program in the most effective manner and with the smallest inconvenience to herself. American housekeepers have already saved over 30 million bushels of wheat. Now they are asked to save 75 million bushels.

Here are some figures which every housewife should ponder over. IF EACH HOME SAVES:

One ounce of meat daily it means 465,000,000 pounds annually.

One slice of bread, 365,000,000 loaves annually.

One piece of butter, 114,000,000
pounds annually.

One cup of milk, 912,000,000 quarts
or the product of 400,000 cows annually.
Let us do our part.

One ounce less of meat each day
for every one means a saving of 4,400-000 meat animals a year. Save your ounce. The sacrifice is small, but the result for your country is large.

1,185,000 tons of sugar will be saved
the first year if each of us uses one ounce less each day. This will keep sugar plentiful and cheap.

MEATLESS DAYS SUSPENDED

Suspension of the meatless day regulations for thirty days has been ordered by the Food Administration.

"Temporary relaxation of the restrictions was decided upon because thousands of hogs now coming to the market have increased the meat supply beyond the country's shipping and storing capacity. In a statement announcing the order Food Administrator Hoover expressed confidence that the producers would not take advantage of the "holiday" to ask more than fair prices,
and that "the packers and retailers will have sense enough to realize that this is not to be a holiday of high
prices."

"The consumer should not take this announcement as in any way a departure from the general principles of conservation of all foods which the Food Administration preaches. The need of food on the other side is greater than ever—the need of economy in America greater than ever."

100 WAYS TO COOK THEM.

It is said that there are more than 100 ways to cook Irish potatoes. They are plentiful now and are a splendid food. They are good body fuel. One medium sized potato gives you as much starch as two slices of bread and like other vegetables, they give you salts, which you need to build and renew all the parts of your body and keep it in order. They furnish starch, which burns in your muscles to let you work, much as the gasoline burns in an automobile engine to make the car go. When you have potatoes for a meal you need not eat less bread.
Potatoes can save wheat. The Food Administration urges a larger consumption of potatoes by all our people.

STARS AND GARDENS.

A service flag on the front porch and an unused plot of ground around the house is not a harmonious picture in this time of need. Every flag should be backed by a "war garden" where any space is available for such a purpose. The amount of staple food saved by a well tended "war garden"
will support many soldiers on the battlefront. Let the star in your service flag point to a thriving "war garden," and you have a picture that will ease the heart of your soldier boy.

PREPARING HOGS FOR MARKETBy L. T. Wells, Assistant in Marketing.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The butcher demands a hog that produces a big percentage of salable meat and a correspondingly low percentage of waste. To get the best price for his hog the farmer must keep in mind what the butcher demands and try to have his hogs in such condition that they will meet these requirements.

Poor or rough hogs carry a high percentage of waste material and will never bring as good price as well finished, smooth hogs. The meat from such animals is inferior in quality, consequently such hogs are often handled at a loss. Stags, sows carrying pigs and those that have suckled are classed as "rough" and are docked.

At this time when the country is facing a serious meat shortage, we need to retain every serviceable sow
on the farm from breeding purposes.
If feed is short and some sows must be sold, it is much better to sell them to a neighbor than sacrifice them at a low price for meat.

Hogs placed on the market should be graded according to size and finish before being sold. If smooth fat barrows and gilts weighing above 165 pounds are sold together, they will bring a better price than if sold along with small or rough hogs. This is because rough or small hogs detract from the uniform appearance of the better ones.

The market demands a well finished hog. Those weighing about 200 pounds seem to be most desirable.

If you are thinking of selling rough or unfinished hogs remember that a few pounds of feed and a few days of care may mean an increase in price that will return a good profit. Also remember that the country is facing a shortage of fats, and if you can put a few more pounds of fat on your hogs before selling them you will do something towards winning the war and at the same time be repaid for your feed and labor.

BULLETIN ON THE FEEDING
VALUE OF VELVET BEANS.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The Animal Husbandry Department of the Alabama Experiment Station has completed some experiments which were conducted for the purpose of determining the value of velvet beans as a feed for sters, dairy cattle and hogs. Part of the work was done under the provision of the Local Experiment Law passed by the Legislature of 1911. The results of these experiments have been published by the Experiment Station as bulletin No. 198.

The bulletin consists of three parts,
each part reporting the result of a separate and distinct experiment. The titles are as follows:

Part I. Velvet Beans Compared with Cottonseed Meal for Fattening Steers.

Part II. Velvet Beans, Cottonseed
Meal and Corn as Feeds for Dairy Cattle.

Part III. Velvet Bean Pasture Compared with Corn and Dried Blood; Velvet Bean Meal Compared with Corn
for Fattening Hogs.

In one experiment with steers it was found that one pound of cottonseed meal took the place of 2.05
pounds of velvet beans in the pod.
However, the steers receiving velvet beans required only approximately two-thirds as much silage as the sters receiving cottonseed meal.

On the basis of one of these experiments, two and one half pounds of velvet beans with pods, ground, were equal in feeding value to one pound of good cottonseed meal as feed for dairy cattle.

The experiment reported in Part III was conducted at Auburn on three lots of pigs. Lot one had only a mixture of corn ten parts and dried blood one part, full ration, in dry lot.
Lot two had the same mixture, one half ration, and ran on velvet bean pasture. Lot three had one-fourth ration of above mixture and ran on velvet bean pasture. Among other interesting conclusions, it was found that when corn was worth $1.00 per bushel, dried blood $60.00 per ton and velvet bean pasture $2.83 per acre, it cost $6.55 to produce 100 pounds
increase in weight in lot one, $4.91
in lot two, and $4.02 in lot three.

This bulletin has been mailed out to all addresses on the Station's mailing list. Copies may also be obtained free of charge by writing the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama.

ANALYSIS OF VELVET BEANS

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The feeding value and the fertilizing value of velvet beans are indicated by the following analyses made by Prof. B. B. Ross, Chemist, Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama:

	Feeding Value
	Pro. Per Cent	Fat Per Cent	Carb. Per Cent
Beans and Pods	19.19	4.35	48.49
Beans Without Pod	24.86	5.88	49.38
Hulls	4.81	1.48	47.11
	Fertilizing Value
	Phos. Per Cent	Amn. Per Cent	Pot. Per Cent
Beans and pods	0.64	3.37	1.37
Beans Without Pods	0.84	4.82	1.44
Hulls	0.80	0.93	2.04

MANUFACTURE OF
VELVET BEAN MEAL

To the people of Chilton County:
I desire to thank the public for their patronage and support of my
mill during this season.

In order that the people may have ample time to have their velvet beans
manufactured into meal, and to have their corn and hay ground for feeding purposes during the summer and
early Fall, I hereby announce that
on Saturday April 20th, 1918, or on Tuesday April 23rd, 1918, I will close my bean mill until the 15th of October next, for the purpose of devoting my time to the manufacture of lumber, and for the further purpose of having installed a flour
mill in time to serve the people in manufacturing their wheat.

Requesting the co-operation of every one, and especially those whose interests are involved in, and identical with this industry, I am

Yours respectfully
Wm. M. ADAMS.

REPORT OF BOOK DRIVE

The report of the book drive in Chilton County, of March 18 to 25, to secure contribution of books for soldiers, was made last Saturday by Miss O. A. Angell, of Thorsby Institute, in charge of the committee for this county.

It showed that Thorsby contributed
6 books, Thorsby Institute Library
24 books, Jamison, 15 books; total for the county 45 books.

Miss Angell states that all further gifts received will be reported weekly to Dr. Owen. It is hoped to make a good showing as early as possible.
All classes of reading of interest to men are acceptable, the books to be of cloth binding. Address all gifts to Thorsby Library.

THORSBY ITEMS

Mr. Shelby Riggins, who joined the navy about six months ago, spent a few days last week visiting friends in and near Thorsby. He was accompanied by his mother and small brother who live in Birmingham.

The Institute is having school on Saturday and having vacation on Monday at present. This is done so that the students will be at liberty to pick strawberries on Monday without interfering with their school
work.

The strawberry season has again opened so nobody need be idle in Thorsby for a while at least. The prospects are for a good crop and if weather conditions are favorable the Thorsby farmers will be able to buy their share of the "Third Liberty Loan" bonds. Thirty-six crates of berries were shipped from here Monday.

Rev. A. A. Swanlund, former pastor of the Lutheran church here, was in Thorsby a few days of last week and this week. Rev. Stone, who came to Thorsby with him, preached both morning and evening at the Lutheran church Friday of last week and left town Saturday morning.
Rev. Swanlund preached at both the morning and evening services of the Lutheran church last Sunday. Mr.
Swanlund reports that his son, Oscar,
whom we all remember well, is going to enlist in the army soon.

Messrs. Albert and Einar Anderson are in Thorsby this week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Anderson.
Mr. Einar Anderson at present has a position with a munition manufacturing company in New Jersey. Mr.
Albert Anderson works for the Alabama Power Company on the Warrior River at Parrish, Ala.

The students of Thorsby's two schools had their Easter vacation last Friday. The teachers were thus giving an opportunity to attend the A.
E. A. convention in Birmingham.
Professors S. H. Herbert and C. M.
Williams, of the Institute, and Mr.
Cowan Woodham, a student in the Institute, attended the convention.

Mrs. Jones of Clanton was in Thors-by last Friday afternoon and gave a demonstration at the Girls' Dormitory on War Breads. This is the last demonstration Mrs. Jones will give in Thorsby. This and the other demonstrations she has given here have helped the women of Thorsby to understand Hooverizing better so they may do their part to win the war.

The Thorsby Boy Scouts took advantage of the vacation last Friday and spent the day out at Charlotte Creek. They enjoyed the day in the wood and their dinner cooked in the open.

An Easter program was given at the Congregational church last Sunday night. The verdict of all who were there was that it was well worth attending.

Mr. Gay Flummer is at home now with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J.
Flummer.

LITERARY SOCIETY

The Mt. Pleasant Literary Society
will render a program next Friday evening beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

The program will consist of songs, reading, recitations, etc., and will close with a debate the subject of which is, resolved that we should have compulsory dipping of cattle for the purpose of tick eradication. The speakers for the Affirmative are K. C. Foshee and Homer Dye; Negative, Tipton Eiland and Hermon Foshee.

The public is cordially invited to attend the exercises.

"Who is Col. House?"—thousands
are asking. Why was he sent to Europe? What is his official position? How did he change the Allies'
war plans? Why is he consulted on all state matters? "Who is Col.
House?" Everything is fully explained in a series of articles, beginning April 8th, in THE BIRMING-HAM NEWS—65c a month.

Deputy Sheriff John L. Gore an-

AMERICAN RIFLE IS BETTER THAN HUN'S

QUICKER FIRING, EASIER SIGHT-ING AND GREATER ACCURACY CLAIMED FOR WEAPON.

BIG SUM FOR MOBILE CANNON

Bureau of Ordnance Program Calls for $2,000,000,000 Expenditure By Gun Division—Employment Service
Plans to Supply Farm Workers.

(From Committee on Public Information.)

Washington—American troops are armed with a faster firing and more accurate rifle than used by the Germans, according to our expert designers, manufacturers, and marksmen, says a statement by the bureau of ordnance. One military critic and writer claims the German Mauser does not permit the most skilled user to get more than 50 per cent of the firing speed of the modified Enfield adopted for the United States service.

The superiority claimed for the American weapon is supported on three counts: Quicker firing as a result of bolt-handle design, easier and quicker sighting as a result of sight design, greater accuracy of bullet flight resulting from bullet design and greater mechanical accuracy of chamber and bore.

A summary of the work of the gun division of the bureau of ordnance shows it has been necessary to equip 16 large plants for manufacture of mobile artillery cannon. The total program of the gun division calls for an expenditure of nearly $2,000,000,000.

The major projects have included: Construction of smokeless powder plants in face of the necessity of doubling the present output. These are now under way.

Expenditure of approximately $40,000,000 for plant facilities to manufacture artillery cannon, with an estimate that $300,000,000 will be spent for cannon alone within two years after the beginning of the war.

Preparations for the erection of plants to extract tallow from the illuminating gas being furnished cities by private gas companies.

Conservation of the supply of ammonium nitrate and acids and construction at government expense of a plant for the fixation of nitrogen and its final conversion into ammonium nitrate.

Construction, now undertaken, of a gas filling plant to cost approximately $1,500,000 and five large shell filling plants with a total cost of $25,000,000.

A special farm-service division is being established in most of the 100 offices of the United States employment service as one of the plans for meeting the labor requirements of the farmers. Special field agents are being sent into districts where acute farm-labor shortage exists or where unusually large numbers will be needed.

A weekly bulletin will be issued in which opportunities for farm employment and the needs of certain districts will be listed. Posters announcing the location of federal and state employment offices are being hung in post offices, railway stations, and other public places.

All third and fourth class post offices, of which there are 55,000, are now authorized farm-labor employment offices. During the harvest season in certain states temporary offices will be opened in a number of cities for the purpose of furnishing accurate information as to where harvest hands are needed.

A weekly report of farm-labor conditions is being sent to the main office at Washington by all the branch offices and by many state employment offices.

The use of gas as a substitute for gasoline for motor traction is increasing in England. According to a report to the United States department of commerce about 4,500 commercial vehicles have already been equipped to run on coal gas, with an estimated saving of gasoline of 3,000,000 gallons a year.

Over 20 large companies are manufacturing airplanes, 15 are producing engines, and more than 400 are producing spare parts, accessories, and supplies.

Naval training camps have a capacity of 102,000 in summer, 94,000 men in winter.

In 16 cantonments 650,000,000 feet of lumber were used.

Paymaster general of the navy drew checks for more than $30,000,000 in one day—February 23—for munitions; total advertised purchases for the navy for 1915 were $19,000,000.

During February, with 23 business days, $13,878,811 were loaned to farmers by the federal land banks, according to a statement of the farm loan board. This is $2,091,294 more than the January total.

On March 1 the total amount of mortgage loans placed since the establishment of the federal land banks is $64,532,343, covering 28,495 loans.

Since the declaration of war 1,591 employees of the department of commerce have entered military and naval services.

The following statements are from the official review of the first year of war, made public by the committee on public information.

The total estimated expense of the United States government in the first year of war, without loans to the allies, is $12,067,278,679.07.

During the first year of war the United States army has increased in actual strength from 9,524 officers and 202,510 enlisted men to 123,801 officers and 1,528,924 enlisted men. Strength of the navy today is nearly 21,000 officers and 330,000 enlisted men; strength a year ago was 4,792 officers and 77,946 enlisted men. The total number of persons now in the naval establishment exceeds 425,000.

The first contingent of the expeditionary forces landed safely at a French port 88 days after war was declared. American troops went on the line for their baptism of fire 187 days after war was declared.

Nearly 78,000 mechanics and other civilian employees are working at navy yards and stations.

More than 700 privately owned vessels have been purchased or chartered by the navy.

Some 300 woolen mills are working on army contracts.

Over 20,000,000 pairs of shoes have been ordered for the army.

Treasury department floated $6,616,532,300 subscriptions to Liberty bonds. Loans to a total of $3,882,900,000 had been made to co-belligerent nations to end of 1917.

Total weight of steel thrown by a single broadside from the Pennsylvania today is 17,508 pounds; maximum broadside of largest ship during Spanish-American war was 5,660 pounds.

Two weeks after war was declared, contracts had been made covering the requirements of an army of 1,000,000 men, this material comprising 8,700,000 items.

More than 11,000 manufacturers bid for navy business.

Total deaths in the army from April 6, 1917, to March 14, 1918, for all causes was reported by the Adjutant General's office to be 1,191. Of this number, 132 were reported as killed in action and 237 died or were lost at sea. The total number wounded in action was 404. Thirty-five men have been reported as missing; 28 of them are said to have been captured. Casualties in the navy and marine corps from April 6 to December 31, 1917, include 5 naval officers and 139 enlisted men, killed or died from wounds. No officers were reported as wounded in action, but 10 enlisted men were so reported.

Government now operates 260,000 miles of railway, employing 1,000,600 men and representing investment of $17,500,000.

Bonds, certificates of indebtedness, war-savings certificates, and thrift stamps is issued by the treasury up to March 12 totaled $8,560,802,052.96.

The United States government had loaned to foreign governments associated in the war on March 12, 1918, $4,436,329,750.

To March 12 the war-risk insurance bureau had issued policies for a total of $12,465,116,500 to the armed forces. Allotments and allowances to soldiers' and sailors' dependents paid by the government in February amounted to $19,976,543.

The ordnance department manufactures about 100,000 items. One type of gun with its carriage has 7,990 parts, exclusive of accessories.

For training troops in cantonments 1,000,000,000 rounds of ammunition have been bought.

The navy has developed an American mine believed to combine all the good points of various types of mines, and is manufacturing them in quantities.

Army medical training schools have been created with capacity of 21,000 officers and men—15,000 enlisted men and 6,000 officers already trained and graduated.

Naval communication service operates all radio service; 5,000 youths are studying radiotelegraphy at two naval schools.

Medical officers numbering 1,675 are members of the medical department of the navy. Navy maintains 12,000 hospital beds and 5,000 are being added.

Of 63,203 candidates for officers' commissions at two officers' training camps 44,578 were successful; a third series is now in progress with 18,000 attendance.

During the year the latest type of naval 16-inch gun was completed for our new battleships; it throws a projectile weighing 2,100 pounds.

When war was declared, 123 naval vessels were building or authorized, and contracts have been placed since that time for 949 vessels.

Before the war a total of $1,500,000 had been appropriated for air service. Congress has made $691,000,000 available for aircraft production in first year of war.

There are now 180 firms employed in Germany in the manufacture of whole wood soles for new footwear with an output of 400,000 pairs weekly. Beechwood has been chiefly used, but any hardwood with the exception of oak, will serve equally well.

As a provision to maintain the supply of gas in districts where it is urgently needed for national work an order has been issued under which the use of gas manufactured or supplied by any specific undertaking may be prohibited in motor vehicles other than those used by the undertaking itself.

The Australian wheat crop for the season of 1917-18 is estimated at 114,020,000 bushels, compared with last year's yield of 132,565,000. The 25 per cent decrease is a result of reduced acreage and unfavorable conditions.

The Perfect Baby Of The Future

A Simple Method That Has a Wonderful Influence upon The Future Infant.

Before the arrival of baby knowing women for over half a century have used with regularity the time-honored preparation, Mother's Friend.

Here is a most wonderful application for the abdomen and breast. It penetrates the muscles, ligaments and tissues, rendering them pliant to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion.

By its use the anxious weeks of pregnancy are made comfortable. The usual wrenching strain, bearing-down and stretching pains are counteracted. The system is prepared for the coming event, and its use brings rest, repose and happy anticipation.

By the regular use of Mother's Friend during the period the muscles expand easier when baby arrives, and naturally the pain and danger at the crisis is less.

Mother's Friend is prepared after the formula of a noted family doctor by the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is for external use only; is absolutely and entirely safe and wonderfully effective. Write them for their instructive and interesting "Motherhood Book." There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived in reading this little book. It is plainly written just what every woman wants to know and will be a splendid little text book of guidance, not only for yourself but will make you helpful to others, and in the meantime obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist, and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

LONG STAPLE COTTON

Why will farmers raise short staple cotton, when they can raise long staple practically at the same cost, and also get from eight to ten cents per pound more for long staple than you can for short staple? I have experienced this myself. If you wish to try a small amount of the seed, you will find them for sale at Taylor Bros. ## POLITICS AT THE CAPITAL

BIG PARADE OF SOLDIERS AT MONTGOMERY NEXT SATURDAY.

Montgomery, Ala., April 2.—Political interest this week is centered about the anti-amendment meeting called for Thursday. Ed Smith and Forney Johnson have opened up headquarters in the Exchange Hotel, and every effort has been made to get out a large crowd. It is now stated that no candidate will be endorsed, especially in view of the fact that several of the candidates now in the field have gone out of their way to see that they have sufficient friends on hand to stop the endorsement of any candidate. The common report is that Forney Johnson will either announce within ten days after the anti-amendment meeting or not at all.

The candidacy of Judge Charles B. Teasley is picking up. He has returned from a trip to South Alabama and those who have been with him are bringing back stories of conquest, the Montgomery man being an ideal campaigner. The fact that he was raised in the country aids him in mixing with the people of the rural communities. Judge Teasley has engaged seven rooms at the Exchange Hotel, so he could offer accommodations for any of his friends who failed to find quarters in Montgomery.

John Wallace is to strike for North Alabama just as soon as the anti-amendment convention is over. Very little is being heard from other gubernatorial candidates, but it is presumed that all will get busy next week.

State Superintendent of Education Spright Dowell, is not going to have any opposition for the job he now holds.

Montgomery will have a great celebration on April 6th, when the Montgomery Liberty Loan drive is launched. The entire 37th division will be seen in its first review, marching up Dexter Avenue. It will take over three hours for the parade to pass any given point.

Over a hundred airplanes have been put together at the Taylor Field aviation camp.

The $25,000 depot at Sheffield was burned Sunday and Germans are blamed for it.

Automobile thieves are busy in Montgomery, three handsome cars being stolen Sunday night.

The airplane machine shops to be built at Montgomery will consist of fifty buildings, and from 1500 to 2,000 men will be needed to construct them.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor and his family desire to express their highest appreciation of the many acts of kindness extended to them by the friends in general, but at this time to return special thanks for a special occasion.

The special occasion was the visit of the Easter Rabbitt. On last Friday night the doorbell of the parsonage was rung by some unknown hand, and when it was answered, a basket was found just outside. Now, we have all heard of occasions when nicely covered baskets have been left at people's doors containing a sweetly sleeping appeal to the parental instincts of those within. So there came a thump or two to the preacher's heart. But it soon developed that the basket was solidly packed with the prettiest kind of useful clothing, and something more or less for every member of the family. It was easy to see that loving hands had put many stitches into ornamental effects as well as necessary seams. A card attached to the handle of the basket announced that it had been brought by the "Easter Rabbitt," but evidently a number of people had co-operated in preparing his burden for him. After a number of delighted exclamations by the family, Mrs. Preacher went "rabbitt hunting" by telephone, she said she wanted to return the basket. It took some time to find the "rabbitt's tracks" as several guileless voices answered her inquiries in almost blank innocence.

The Childrens Day Missionary Exercises of the Baptist Sunday School on Easter Sunday were a complete success. Although the change of time had caused a little confusion in the attendance, and the program did not begin quite as early as planned, all of the parts were carried out. The amount of $60 had been agreed upon as the contribution to be made for Missionary purposes, and the classes raised over $35 in their regular offering. When the children's program was completed it was agreed that what had been begun so auspiciously should be finished. Meantime the house had filled with interested spectators and when subscriptions were called for enough was added to make the sum total $71.50, for which all are proudly grateful.

The Lord's Supper will be observed on next Sunday morning, the first in the new quarter.

The over-sea guests who will attend the "Womanless Wedding" are General Foch and Secretary Baker.

SOME IMPORTANT POINTS ABOUT PEANUT CULTURE.

The question of growing peanuts is one that has caused considerable discussion for the past few years, especially in certain sections of Alabama. Peanuts may be grown on a wide range of soil, but those best adapted are sandy or loamy. Soils having considerable clay and lime produce good crops of peanuts, however, a hard compact soil is not suitable because it will not allow the pod stems or "pegs" to penetrate the soil. Peanuts will not do well on a poorly drained or sour soil. If the soil is sour it will be advisable to add an application of lime the amount depending upon the acidity of the soil.

Lands intended for peanuts, that is, not occupied by a cover crop should be turned early in the spring. If there is considerable trash on the land it should be turned under in time for it to rot or at least permit the soil to settle before planting.

The advantages of planting peanuts after a clean cultivated crop should not be overlooked. If the preceding crop was poorly cultivated and had an abundance of weeds and grass, the cultivation of the peanuts crop will be very difficult.

In some sections of Alabama planting a row of peanuts between corn rows has been successful. Where it is intended to "hog off" the crop, this method is advisable, but where the crop is grown for the market the corn stalks hinder the harvesting of the peanuts.

The amount of seed per acre will depend upon the variety, the width of rows, distance in the drill and the fertility of the land. For the white and Red Spanish varieties it will require six to eight pecks. For the running varieties such as the North Carolina from five to seven pecks will be sufficient.

It is not necessary to hull or shell the Spanish varieties, however, shelling will insure a better stand. Some people have had good success by soaking the peanuts 36 to 48 hours before planting and plant immediately after taking the seed from the water. If this method is used the peanuts should always be planted in moist soil (good season) to prevent the seed from drying out before sprouting. All running varieties should be hulled for planting.

A very good fertilizer for peanuts is 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate, approximately 600 pounds of slacked lime per acre. Potash as a rule will not pay unless on poor sandy soils. Stable manure is not advisable because of the vast number of weed and grass seed it contains, making the cultivation very difficult.

In cultivating it is well to harrow the rows once or twice before the peanuts are up to destroy the crop of young weeds and grass. This may be done with a weeder or spring-tooth harrow. The ordinary implements used for the cultivation of cotton will be sufficient for peanuts. Cultivations may continue close up to the plants until the fruit stems begin to form, after which time the implements should not run close to the plants. The covering of the blooms with dirt is not necessary.

Dr. O. C. Mastin, coming here from James, Ala., has located an office in Clanton for the practice of medicine and surgery. He is an experienced man in the profession, and has many friends in the county. He is welcomed to Clanton by everybody. The family will live in the Mahan residence in the Gowan addition.

Gentlemen:

Please allow me to state that I have sold your hog cholera remedy for one season and have ordered more for this season. Last year I sold it to 12 or 15 men who raise hogs. I told each of them to take the remedy, feed it to their hogs, and if they lost a single hog from disease of any kind not to pay me a cent for the remedy, but when they began to sell cotton every man came in and paid me for the medicine and everyone of them told me that it was the best hog medicine they ever used. ## Why Morris Brands Are Best

Our SUPREME and PACKING HOUSE BRANDS being ammoniated 100% with the highest grades of genuine old time Packing House Tankage and Blood, are not leached away by excessive rains like ordinary fertilizers. Their ammoniates, being slowly soluble, insure constant feeding of the plant till late maturity, thus preventing shedding and promoting vigorous, healthy growth. The Tankage in them is rich in potash and also liberates idle potash in the soil, thus supplying the potash requirements of ordinary field crops without extra cost. Read what our customers say about them in our Year Book.

We use the same grade of Tankage and Blood in our GOLD BOND BRANDS which insures their high quality and continuous service.

WOMEN ASK FOR RATIONING PLAN

American Women Volunteer to Buy Fixed Amounts of Meat, Bread Flour, Sugar and Butter.

PLAN STARTED IN NEW YORK.

Idea Supplements U. S. Food Administration's New Home Card Now in 10,000,000 Homes.

The women of America, who are anxious to do their great part in the winning of the war, are now, as a whole, familiar with the most important aspects of food conservation. The Home Card, both in its original form and in the revised edition for 1918, which provides for two wheatless days, one meatless day a week, in addition to a wheatless meal every day, has been placed by the Food Administration after a vigorous campaign in 10,000,000 American homes. An intelligent and conscientious observance of the Home Card's requirements is all the Food Administration asks of the housewives of the country.

The Food Administration has had a great many requests, however, particularly from the homes of the well-to-do, that it should issue a worked out plan for a voluntary system of rationing.

This desire for a voluntary ration springs from two causes—first, because it is far simpler for the housewife to save food when she has a concrete working plan by which to proceed, and, second, because the loyal women of America desire, unselfishly, to put themselves on the same basis as the women of the Allied countries. The ration proposed by the Food Administration is almost the same as that adopted in England for voluntary observance. All over the United Kingdom, in hundreds of houses there hangs in the front window a card with the stirring pledge, "IN HONOR BOUND WE ADOPT THE NATIONAL SCALE OF VOLUNTARY RATIONING."

The ration recommended by the Food Administration, and adopted first in New York city, whence the idea has spread through the entire country, is the following:

	Weekly Allowance Per Person.
Meat—1 lb. (fresh, salted, tinned and hashed); mutton, lamb and veal (mutton by preference).....	2 1/2 lbs.
Butter.....	1/2 lb.
Cooking Fats (margarine, lard, lard substitutes, vegetable oils).....	1/2 lb.
Wheat Flour (for use in cooking gravies, etc., where corn starch, cracker dust or bread crumbs cannot be substituted).....	1/2 lb.
Victory Bread (containing at least 20 per cent. of a substitute for wheat flour).....	1 1/2 lbs.
Sugar (including all sugar used on the table and in cooking and all sweetmeats and candies, but not that used for canning and preserving).....	3/4 lb.

The items listed above are the only ones which are definitely limited. In the case of milk and cream, as much may be used as necessary, and children, of course, must have their full allowance of whole milk. Fish and poultry, any cereal other than wheat, vegetables and fruits and cheese may be used as freely as is desired.

The above ration is in no wise intended to supplant the Home Card, but rather to supplement it. It has been published with the idea that it will be a very real aid to the American woman in her splendid effort to carry out the great food conservation program.

FARM WORKERS EXEMPT FROM MILITARY SERVICE

FARM PRODUCTION WILL NOT BE HAMPERED BY WORKING OF THE DRAFT LAW

Auburn, Ala., April 1, 1918. To all County Farm Demonstration Agents and Local Agents:

Copies of the Official Bulletin of March 12, 1918, have been mailed to all county agents from Washington. Your attention is called especially to the following two paragraphs on page two:

"There are difficulties confronting the Nation in the supply of labor appurtenant to agriculture. Class 1, from which new levies are to be withdrawn, will contain many more men than are at present required for the Army. It would be a most unscientific and fatuous step if the men in Class 1 were called indiscriminately without regard to the labor situation in agriculture. Therefore, the Local Boards will be directed to fill their quotas in the order of liability of men in Class 1 as determined by the national drawing, except that, where it is shown that a registrant is completely and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or reaping of a crop, his call to the colors shall be deferred to the foot of the quota of his board as long as he continues to be so engaged. Whenever any registrant, whose call to the colors has been deferred by reason of his engagement in agriculture, is shown to have been idle on the farm on which he is engaged or to have trifled with the deferment that has been accorded him, the boards will forthwith induct him into military service if his order number has been reached in the meantime. The effect of this expedient is to grant furloughs from service prior to actual call to the colors to the men so greatly needed in the production of this year's crop."

"This is not, however, the only expedient that is to be adopted to conserve the supply of labor appurtenant to agriculture and to mobilize all means for increasing the harvest for the agricultural season of 1918. There is now pending before Congress a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to grant furloughs, with or without pay, to men in the Army to enable them to engage in industrial and agricultural pursuits. The purpose of this bill is to relieve serious situation in particular instances in which men who are the main stay of farms have been inducted into the service either through enlistment or selection and whose services during the present emergency in agriculture are needed. These furloughs will be granted after consideration of the circumstances of the individual case in which they arise and when the military situation is such that they can be granted without too great disruption and disorganization of the Army or of any particular organization of the Army."

The President has signed the Furlough Law referred to above. This should result in making available a considerable amount of farm labor for this crop. However, deferred classification cannot be made without affidavits. In order that you may be informed as to the proper steps to be taken in having the call of skilled farm laborers deferred I quote the following paragraphs from the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor, as appearing in the Official Bulletin of March 20, 1918:

"A new draft of about 90,000 men shortly will be called to the colors. The Provost Marshall General has ordered that 'men actively, assiduously and completely engaged in the planting or cultivation of a crop, but who are listed in Class 1 of the draft and within the new quota should be deferred until the end of the new quota.'"

"The local draft boards, being judicial bodies, cannot defer the call of such men, unless the farmers employing them support their claims for such deferred classification with affidavits. It is therefore, of vital importance that farmers immediately execute and file such affidavits with the local boards."

"If farmers whose hands are affected in this new call fail to follow this advice, they should have no cause for complaint if their men are taken from them at this critical time. It will be useless and unreasonable later to protest if they have done nothing to retain their help. Immediate action on the part of every farmer whose employees are affected is essential and should not be delayed under any circumstances."

I think it would be wise for you to have this information published in county papers so that it may have wide publicity. This service in the interest of the Nation would not only aid in the increase of food production, but would assist many farmers to obtain credit, by assuring creditors that the Government is disposed to let labor remain on the farms until the crop is made.

Yours very truly,
J. F. DUGGAR,
Director.

We have just received several sacks of Hickory King, white and golden dent seed corn, which is very fine.

UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION

RED CROSS WORK

The following report of work done by the Red Cross in Chilton county is submitted for publication:

Verbena—13 pairs of pajamas; 15 pairs of socks; 5 sweaters; 30 bandages.

Clanton—25 sweaters; 10 hospital shirts.

Mt. Creek—6 sweaters; 3 pairs of bed socks; 4 pairs wristlets; 8 pairs socks; 14 hospital shirts; 1 helmet.

WAR PLANE PASSED OVER

Monday afternoon Clanton had her first view of one of Uncle Sam's real war planes. It passed over the city in flight from Birmingham to Montgomery. It was the plane that made the flight from Memphis to Birmingham last week and took part in the Liberty Bond celebration there Saturday. As the big machine passed here hundreds of eyes turned skyward to get the view. Its course was with the L. & N. Railroad toward Montgomery.

Mrs. Stewart has returned from a visit to Montgomery.

Auburn, Ala., April 1, 1918. To All Farm Demonstration Agents: This is to advise that the Drainage Engineer, Mr. Guy A. Hart, Montgomery, Alabama, who is cooperating with the Experiment Station in tile drainage, and even in open-drainage work, is well up with his work and open for requests for assistance in making drainage surveys by anyone who contemplates putting in tiling at an early date.

Should you have such need for his help please write direct to him at the Federal Building, Montgomery, Alabama.

Yours very truly,
J. F. DUGGAR,
Director.

USE LESS WHEAT.

The allied nations have made further increased demands on us for breadstuffs—demands that Americans are obligated to meet.

In the meantime America's meat supply has been greatly increased for some months to come by the unprecedented shipping to market of hogs that averaged 232 pounds each instead of 203 pounds—the normal.

The United States Food Administration, endeavoring to adjust the international food balance, promptly removed certain restrictions in this country on the use of meat and at the same time asked for a smaller consumption of breadstuffs.

We are asked to observe only one meatless day each week—Tuesday. We will have larger meat stocks for awhile. But our bread ration must be held to a minimum.

In altering its food conservation program the Food Administration emphasizes that the food situation is of necessity, subject to radical changes, caused by crop conditions at home and abroad and by the precarious transportation problem, both in overseas shipping and in America's overburdened transportation system.

The Food Administration will keep the American people fully and frankly advised of each change in the developing situation that they may know definitely the part their food sacrifices play in the world war.

MONEY IN CLANTON

There is some money in Clanton yet. It has not all been spent yet by any means. Look at the statements of the two banks published this week.

You will find represented at these two institutions combined, total deposits to the amount of $300,939.14.

This speaks well for our town in a financial way. It is evident that there is some among us yet who are not "busted."

MR. GENTRY ANNOUNCES

This week Mr. D. H. Gentry of Collins Chapel announces himself a candidate for the office of county commissioner from the Second District on the Republican ticket. His letter to the people is published in another column. This makes three candidates already out for that office.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE

The second candidate to announce for the office of County Commissioner from the second district is Mr. A. D. Duke. He made his announcement last Saturday and filed his papers with the Probate Judge. It is expected that in addition to Mr. Hayes and Mr. Duke there will be probably two or three other candidates for that place.

Judge L. H. Reynolds and Attorney H. G. Reynolds spent last Saturday in Montgomery, taking in the special military program in connection with the Liberty Bond celebration.

Perry Glass is seeing a lonely time in jail now. He is the only person at present behind the bars. Glass has been confined in jail nine months, for the killing of Jim Campbell in Stumps Hills last summer. He is in jail awaiting a plea for new trial. He is under a sentence of life imprisonment.

Mr. Ben Dawson, a store-keeper at Mountain Creek, was in Clanton Monday.

Walter Gillespie announces to his friends that he has a new boy at his house. He says the youngster is a bouncing Republican to start with.

Mr. G. O. Foshee is confined to his room with a severe case of small pox.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The next state examination for teachers will be held at Clanton at the Court House beginning at ten o'clock A. M. (standard time) on the third Monday in April, 1918. All applicants should be present for registration by 9 o'clock except those who intend to file a third grade and apply for a second and they should be present by 2 o'clock P. M. Monday, and those who intend to file a second grade and take for a first need not be present until 2 o'clock Tuesday.

All applicants with whom I am not acquainted must be identified before they can be admitted to the examination, and each applicant is required to take the examination in the county in which he is living, teaching or attending school, unless he has a permit from the state superintendent to take elsewhere.

W. T. BEAN,
County Supt. Education.

NEW CENTRAL OPERATOR ELECTED

At a meeting of the Directors of the Peoples Telephone Company at the Court House, the resignation of A. M. Giles as Central Operator was accepted. Mr. Giles has accepted a position with the Alabama Power Company at Parrish, Ala.

At this meeting Mr. John Farley was elected as Central operator to succeed Mr. Giles.

HOWARD GLEE CLUB COMING HERE

Announcement is made that the Glee Club of Howard College is scheduled to render an entertainment at the County High School Auditorium in Clanton on Monday night, April 22.

This promises to be one of the best entertainments which the people of Clanton have had the pleasure of witnessing in a long time. The proceeds of the night are to go to the Piano fund of the High School.

W. G. Davis, a prominent farmer near Mt. Creek, was in Clanton Monday. Mr. Davis says he is devoting a great deal of time to his farm now and trying hard to overcome the many handicaps that confront him. He raises hogs and cattle quite extensively in connection with his farm.

Lewis T. Dennis of Mt. Creek was in town on Monday. Mr. Dennis is connected with the graphite mining interests at Mt. Creek, and says that the business is rushing now owing to the war influence.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reynolds have a new baby boy at their house. The young fellow arrived last week.

Dudley Thompson of Parrish, Ala., was here last week. Mr. Thompson has a position at Parrish in the plant of the Alabama Power Co., and will remove his family there from his farm near Clanton.

W. A. Gullledge of Verbena was here Saturday looking after business matters.

E. L. Manning of Mt. Creek was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday.

FOR SALE—One horse 8 years old, weight, about 900 pounds; one surry in good condition will sell cheap or trade as part payment on Ford car. E. L. GLASSCOCK, 4-11-18. Jemison, Ala.

Hon. Leon McCord, Judge of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, was here this week holding the non-jury term of Circuit Court.

USE MORE POTATOES.

WLP consume the 1917 record breaking potato crop.

Government experts have estimated that over 700,000 extra acres of potatoes were planted last year. The United States Food Administration is endeavoring to push the nation's big potato stocks into channels of trade and has placed potatoes on the list of substitutes that may be bought along with wheat flour.

Potato soup has become a war dish. Here is a recipe that has been tested by United States Food Administration experts. Ingredients needed are three potatoes, one quart of milk, two slices onion, three tablespoons butter substitute, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half tablespoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne and one teaspoon chopped parsley.

Cook potatoes in boiled salted water. When soft run through a strainer. Scald milk with onion, remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes. Melt the fat, add dry ingredients, stir until well mixed, then stir into boiling soup. Cook one minute, strain and sprinkle with barley.

HELP IN 50-50 WHEAT PROGRAM

Thousands of Retail Grocers Support Food Administration Rules.

SIGN PLEDGE VOLUNTARILY.

New Wheat Saving Program Demanded—Allied Food Shortage Increases—America Must Feed Fighters.

Explaining the United States Food Administration's new 50-50 wheat regulations is a war time task the American grocer has gladly shouldered. Many stores are already displaying their Food Administration wheat saving pledge cards, that they have signed, agreeing to carry out the new wheat program.

Each flour customer is now required to buy one pound of cereal substitute for every pound of wheat flour. The substitute may be of one kind or assorted. This 50-50 sale is made by weight and not by value of the commodities. There is, of course, no regulation demanding the consumer to buy wheat flour at all.

A wide variety of substitutes has been provided: Cornmeal, corn flour, edible cornstarch, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour, Feterita flour and meals, rice, rice flour, oatmeal, rolled oats and buck wheat flour.

Graham and whole wheat flour constitute an exception to the national regulation. Either of these commodities may be sold at the ratio of three pounds to five pounds of wheat flour—that is, five pounds of graham or wheat flour counts the same as three pounds of the usual wheat flour.

Mixed flours form another exception. Where any flour contains 50 per cent. or less of wheat it may be sold without any substitutes. Where the flour is mixed at the rate of 60 per cent. wheat and 40 per cent. of other ingredients an additional 20 per cent. of substitutes must be purchased by the consumer.

Where necessity is shown specially prepared infant's and invalid's food containing flour may be sold.

That the approved substitutes may be assorted is a fact many grocers and housewives overlooked for a time. For instance, if a customer wishes to buy a 24 pound sack of flour the necessary substitutes might be assorted as follows: Cornmeal, 8 pounds; corn grits, 4 pounds; rice, 4 pounds; buckwheat, 2 pounds; cornstarch, 1 pound; hominy, 2 pounds; rolled oats, 3 pounds.

None of the substitutes should be considered as a waste purchase. There are many household uses for each. The eight pounds of cornmeal can be made into cornbread, corn muffins or used in the baking of wheat bread.

Cornstarch is useful in making custard, thickening gravy or may be used in cake baking. Corn grits fried like mush forms a delicious dish, or it may be used in baking corn bread. Rolled oats are used largely as breakfast porridge or in oatmeal cookies or in making muffins.

Buckwheat flour may be used in bread making, forming an excellent substitute for one-quarter of the wheat flour, but is especially choice in the form of buckwheat cakes for breakfast.

With 11 wheatless meals needed each week in America to provide enough wheat for the allies, the Food Administration believes the substitutes will all be used to advantage.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Christian Harmony Singing Convention will meet at Cedar Grove Church on the Fourth Saturday and Sunday in April. Everybody is invited to come and bring your Christian Harmony Note Books, and a well-filled basket. Help us to make the day a success.

STICKING TO THE FARMERS

The Union-Banner is proud to say that as a newspaper for the people of Chilton County, we have tried especially during our whole career, to cater to the farmer citizens of the county, and give them the kind of a paper they most want. A man was in our office this week commending us for "sticking to the farmers," and we are proud of the compliment.

The hands that make the Union-Banner every week are not strange to the plow handle, the hoe and the rake. We boys who set the type for you to read were raised on a farm in Chilton county, and no wonder our hearts go back to you who are still on the farm.

Of course we want to make a paper
that our town citizens will be interested in too; but that is not hard to do. Just make it of interest to the farmers and it will interest the town people too, for most of them came from the farm to the store or office;
and they yearn to get back there among the corn and cotton and potatoes. While those few who did not come from the farm are continually wishing that they had had the supreme honor. They find nothing in the world that charms them like life
on the farm out in the open.

So we are glad to be accused of "sticking to the farmers." If we live and the good lord is willing we will keep on sticking to them. A person who will not stand up and fight for the farmers of this land and country is not worthy of his daily bread.

It may be worth while to note that in the recent election on the cattle dipping proposition the movement was more heavily endorsed in those sections of the county where dipping had previously been practiced than in those places where the operations of the work were most unknown. Down in the beats next to Antaugua, where something has been seen of the dipping business, the vote was heavier in favor of dipping. Up in Beat 1 where several farmers have been dipping their cattle, the vote was an even tie for and against dipping.

By a resolution recently passed by the court of county commissioners,
the building of dipping vats will not be aided any further by the county funds. This step was taken by the court when they had seen by the vote of the people that cattle dipping was not wanted by a great majority of the people of the county. Hereafter if anyone in the county desires a dipping vat constructed, he will have to bear the expense personally, and will have to do the work of construction without the aid of the experts from the Department of Agriculture.
Dr. Strickler, the government representative for Chilton county has already been removed from here by his authorities. The people said by their votes that they desired no more of dipping cattle, and the authorities, county, state and national, seem to have concluded to let them have what they voted for.

We thought we would quit saying anything about it when old "T. J."
from Stumps Hills came to Clanton.
He got to where he came so much that it kept us all the time writing about him. But now he comes down and kindly hints around like he is thinking of getting into politics soon,
and we have got our pencil sharpened up for him again. Of course if he becomes a candidate for something,
we will have to blow him up every time he comes around. Candidates expect to be noticed you know. But somehow Mr. Dorminey is always noticed where he goes, no matter whether he is a candidate or not. He is now a member of the county Board of Education.

"Who is Col. House?"—thousands
are asking. Why was he sent to Europe? What is his official position? How did he change the Allies'
war plans? Why is he consulted on
all state matters? "Who is Col.
House?" Everything is fully explained in a series of articles, beginning April 8th, in THE BIRMING-
HAM NEWS—65c a month.

Speak a good word for Clanton

TO QUALIFIED VOTERS

In this issue of The Union-Banner
we are publishing a list of the qualified voters of Chilton county. The list is prepared by the Probate Judge in accordance with the requirements of the law, from records in his office.
But it is not presumed to be absolutely correct. This first list is published in order that errors may be rectified,
and the list made correct.

Therefore ten days is given voters whose names appear in any way incorrectly on the list to come to the probate's office and have correction made. There are a number of ways in which errors may appear on the list. A voters name or initials may be wrong; his name may appear listed in the wrong beat; or if he has moved from one beat to another, his name on the list may appear in the beat from which he moved, and need to be changed to the Beat of his present residence; or a man may have come to this county from another county and be entitled to vote, and his name may not be on this list.

Every voter should read the list carefully and see if his name appears properly on the list. If not, then he should notify the Probate Judge and have correction made. After the ten days have expired, and all correction made, the revised list will be published. This final list will be the one that will be adhered to in the elections that are to be held this year.

This is an important matter and should be looked after by every qualified voter in the county.

MR. GENTRY'S LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Clanton, Ala., April 9, 1918.
Having made my announcement as a candidate for commissioner for the second district of Chilton County, Alabama, in another column of this paper I deem it best to say a few words to the voters of the county in connection therewith. As I have entered the race for this office, after due consideration as to the responsibilities which are placed upon a commissioner and believing that I am qualified for the place and after considering the solicitation of my friends to enter the race; I think it would be fair to the voters to state my ideas as to the conduct of the office. I think it is the duty of a commissioner to look well to the financial interest of the county and see that the county's funds are spent in a way so that it will benefit the people of the county as much as a whole as possible and to accomplish this I believe that a commissioner should in spending the funds of the county at all times adhere to the wish of the people even though his personal ideas may not be as theirs. I further believe that the commissioners court should reduce the expenses of the county as much as possible to the end that the present indebtedness may be reduced and the county placed upon a cash basis and save the money which the county is now paying for interest on its indebtedness. I think a commissioner should be the representative of the people and at all times in managing the affairs of the county look to the best interest of the citizens and so conduct himself, and if the voters of the county elect me to this office
I assure them that I shall at all times adhere strictly to the foregoing. I also wish to state that if the voters
at the primary deem it best to nominate another man for this office that I shall as heretofore use my full support and influence to elect the man whom the people want and if the voters should elect me to this office
I assure them that I shall conduct myself and the affairs of the office that they will never have cause to regret placing their confidence in me.

Respectfully submitted, (Paid adv.) D. H. GENTRY.

THE WOMANLESS WEDDING

Of all the weddings that ever took place in Clanton that one of last Friday night was without doubt or exception, the fitting climax of them all.

The incident was participated in by a number of well known characters
as W. W. Fox, Harry Kanjutzky, C. F. Jones, Hosea Downs, J. C.
Jones and numerous others. All of the actors pulled down honors for the way they did their parts.

Generally at a wedding the bride is quite the center of attraction but Friday night she came very near taking second place on account of her mother's clever acting. This character impersonated by Mr. W. W. Fox captivated the entire audience.

Mr. Hodge's rendition of his part in the play added materially to the program. Hearty applause greeted the butler's announcement of each distinguished guest. Each character was admirably conceived and cleverly done.

If you were not there you really missed a treat.

GUARDIAN'S SETTLEMENT

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

Probate Court, March 21, 1918.
This day came Miss Minnie Muse
Guardian of Marie and Alice Williams
and files her accounts, vouchers,
evidence and statement for a partial settlement of her Guardianship.
It is ordered that the 27th day of April, 1918, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand this 21st day
of March, 1918.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
4-11-3c, Judge of Probate.

MANY BOOKKEEPERS NEEDED

Civil Service Examinations for Such Positions to Be Held Weekly—Raw Cotton From the United States Goes to Spain.

(From Committee on Public Information.)
Washington.—Among the standard motor vehicles being provided by the ordnance bureau are the following:

The ammunition truck, which has a steel body designed to accommodate packing boxes of any type of ammunition mounted on a four-wheel drive truck chassis. The equipment repair truck, making use of the same type of chassis, has bins and drawers for spare parts and material for repairing personnel equipment, rifles and machine guns, leather equipment, etc.

The artillery repair truck has a four-wheel drive chassis and a small machine-shop body with equipment consisting of a lathe, drill press, bench grinder, electric drill, welding outfit, air riveting hammer, milling attachment, blacksmith outfit, and other tools. Electric power is supplied by a gasoline-driven generator.

The 2½-ton artillery tractor weighs about 5,000 pounds and is capable of making 12 miles an hour under favorable road conditions. The five-ton artillery tractor, weighing 9,000 pounds and capable of a speed of six miles an hour, will handle a load of 10,000 pounds. It is intended for use with 4.7-inch gun and 6-inch howitzer material. A load of 18,000 pounds is the maximum for the 10-ton artillery tractor, which will make about 4½ miles an hour on high speed.

The 15-ton artillery tractor and the 120-horsepower artillery tractor will be supplied in limited numbers. They are of the track-laying type similar to those used by the French and British governments and are for heavy loads which are not subdivided for transportation.

Other standard motor equipment consists of the reel and fire-control truck with a four-wheel drive truck chassis and rear wheels replaced by caterpillar tracks; reconnaissance car, a 1-ton truck capable of a speed of from 30 to 40 miles an hour; the light repair truck, weighing about 2,400 pounds; the 1½-ton trailer for anti-aircraft guns; the 3-inch field gun trailer, which is utilized for hauling ammunition as well as the 3-inch gun material.

Tanks and other armored land vehicles are designed, procured, and maintained by the ordnance bureau.

There has been a constant effort to keep the variety of vehicles and parts to a minimum. Only one size of tire is used on all the heavier trucks and trailers, this size also being used on similar vehicles by the quartermaster corps, signal corps and engineers.
The same magneto is used on all types of ordnance vehicles. All types of ordnance truck bodies are interchangeable on all truck chassis issued to the artillery.

So urgent is the government's need for bookkeepers that civil service examinations to fill positions of this character will be held throughout the United States each Tuesday until further notice. Women as well as men are eligible.

Two classes of examinations are announced. A grammar school education or its equivalent is required of applicants for each class, with the further stipulation that those who wish to take the bookkeeper-typewriter examination must have had at least six months' experience in bookkeeping, and those who would undertake the clerk-bookkeeper examination, one year's experience in clerical work, six months of which must have been in bookkeeping. The vacancies to be filled from the register obtained from these examinations are in the departmental service at Washington and offer entrance salaries of $1,000 a year.

These examinations are open not only to all citizens of the United States but also to subjects of allied nations who are otherwise qualified for the positions offered.

There is being prepared in the adjutant general's office a new "pay card" which will be kept by the personnel officer and will show the pay status of the man at all times. Should a man be transferred or detached from his company he will carry his card with him. This is expected to eliminate the many causes for delayed payments of men so transferred,
and to do away with many of the an-noyances that have heretofore existed.

During the first year of war the army paid $60,000,000 for horse-drawn vehicles and harness; more than $50-000,000 for horses, mules and harness.
Expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, for fuel and forage are estimated at more than $500,000-000.

A standard system of inspection by which federal food administrators may keep a check on commercial bakers is being worked out by the department of agriculture and the food administration.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, CHILTON COUNTY.

Before me came T. E. WILLIAMS, Cashier of the FIRST STATE BANK OF CLANTON, who being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is true and gives the actual condition of said Bank, as shown by the Books on file in said Bank.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 5th day of April, 1918.

COULD HARDLY STAND ALONE

Terrible Suffering From Headache, Sideache, Backache, and Weakness, Relieved by Cardui, Says This Texas Lady.

Gonzales, Tex.—Mrs. Minnie Phil-pot, of this place, writes: "Five years ago I was taken with a pain in my left side. It was right under my left rib. It would commence with an aching and extend up into my left shoulder and on down into my back.
By that time the pain would be so severe I would have to take to bed, and suffered usually about three days
...I suffered this way for three years, and got to be a mere skeleton and was so weak I could hardly stand alone.
Was not able to go anywhere and had to let my house work go...I suffered awful with a pain in my back and I had the headache all the time. I just was unable to do a thing. My life was a misery, my stomach got in an awful condition, caused from taking so much medicine. I suffered so much pain. I had just about given up all hopes of our getting anything to help me.

One day a Birthday Almanac was thrown in my yard. After reading its testimonials I decided to try Cardium, and am so thankful that I did,
for I began to improve when on the second bottle...I am now a well woman and feeling fine and the cure has been permanent for it has been two years since my awful bad health.
I will always praise and recommend Cardui." Try Cardui today. E 78

Judge S. M. Adams has been very much afflicted all winter with rheumatism. Some think that if he were able to get around that things would be a little more lively on the Amendment to the National Constitution in some section of the State.

E. S. Myers of Talladega was here Tuesday in the interest of Liberty Bond sales in Chilton County.

MANUFACTURE OF
VELVET BEAN MEAL

To the people of Chilton County:
I desire to thank the public for
their patronage and support of my
mill during this season.

In order that the people may have
ample time to have their velvet beans
manufactured into meal, and to have
their corn and hay ground for feeding purposes during the summer and
early fall, I hereby announce that
on Saturday April 20th, 1918, or on Tuesday April 23rd, 1918, I will close my bean mill until the 15th of October next, for the purpose of devoting my time to the manufacture of lumber, and for the further
purpose of having installed a flour
mill in time to serve the people in manufacturing their wheat.

Requesting the co-operation of
every one, and especially those whose
interests are involved in, and identical with this industry, I am
Yours respectfully
Wm. M. ADAMS.

If I were a Farmer.

If I were a farmer I would keep
at hand a few reliable medicines for minor ailments that are not so serious as to require the attention of a physician, such as Chamberlain's Colic
and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel
complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds and croup.

Chamberlain's Liniment for sprains
bruises and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's tablets for stomach
troubles, biliousness and constipation.
By having these articles at hand
it would often save the trouble of a trip to town in the busiest season or
in the night, and would enable me to treat slight ailments as soon as they appear, and thereby avoid the more serious diseases that so often follow.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Circuit Court in Equity.

Sidney Scott, Complainant, vs.
Quincey Scott, Defendant.
In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of Sidney Scott that the Defendant, Quincey Scott is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and resides
in a place unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said
affiant, the Defendant, Quincey Scott is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Union-Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Quincey Scott to answer, plead or demur to the Bill of Complaint in the above cause, on or before the 16th day of April, 1918, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a Decree Pro Confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 16th day of March, 1918.

H. M. Simpson, Register.

Many a Poor House will Have a Little Duchess to Brighten It

Could and the stark are held up to vergation. They are rated as cunning plotters to gladden the hearts and brighten the homes of a host of happy families.

This is a most remarkable preparation known as Mother's Friend, which has been used by women for over half a century before the arrival of the stark. This is a satisfying external application for the affliction and brought by doing so there-about the walking monthly period and the suffering. The remedy is not harmful and pleasing so that a woman may avoid many distresses, such as nervousness, nausea, bearing down and stretching pains, anguish, the discomfort and debilitating experiences women who have used Mother's Friend say they have entirely escaped by the application of this time-honored remedy.

Thousands of women have used Mother's Friend and know from experience that it is one of the greatest contributions to healthy, happy motherhood.

Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Lancaster Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their "Motherhood Book." There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived from reading this little book. It is plainly written just what every woman wants to know. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist today, and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

Why We Are Here.

Everything exists in the world because there is a place for it to fill.
When we began business in Clanton on Nov. 21, 1917, we believed there was a place here for us to fill, and the success we have attained so far, and the patronage we have received has fully substantiated our belief. As an evidence of the fact that we are filling a well-deserved place in the financial activities of Clanton and Chilton County, we call your attention to the showing which our business made in a recent report to the State Bank and Department as follows:

RESOURCES.

Cash on hand,	$23952.45
Loans and Discounts,	31059.39
Furniture and Fixtures,	1300.00
Other Resources,	97.63
Government Bills and Certificates,	16000.00
Overdrafts (None),
Total Resources,	$72409.47

We heartily appreciate the business we have received, and we desire to say that we shall continue to fill with credit, the place which we feel rightfully is ours. All we want is our just share of the business that is here to be done. An invitation is extended to you.

First State Bank of Clanton.

SENATOR UNDERWOOD'S OPEN LETTER TO THE DEMOCRATS OF ALABAMA

Warns Party Leaders of Great Danger in Proposed Amendments—Shall Alabama Be Policed by Federal Authorities?

In an open letter to Hon. E. D. Smith, National Committee-man from Alabama, in response to an invitation to attend the mass meeting of Democrats, held in Montgomery April 4th, to oppose the Federal Amendments, Senator Oscar W. Underwood endorsed the calling of the meeting in the form of an open letter to the people of Alabama, in which he gives warning to the danger threatened the Democratic party in the proposed Amendments.

Senator Underwood's Letter

Washington, D. C., March 29, 1918.
Mr. E. D. Smith, Birmingham, Ala.
My Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter and thank you for your invitation to attend the Democratic Convention at Montgomery on the fourth of April, next.

I am in thorough accord with the movement to gather together men who believe in the fundamental principles of the Democratic party and to announce in a platform the expression of their faith to the people of the State on the grave political issues that now confront us.

The Congress of the United States has submitted to the several states for their ratification an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors throughout the confines of our country and also granting to the Federal government at Washington the power to establish a federal police force in the states and territories of the Union to enforce the terms of the proposed amendment.

House Passes Suff Amendment
The National House of Representatives has also passed a resolution to amend the constitution so as to force upon all the states the mandate that hereafter women shall be granted the right to vote in all elections regardless of the constitutional restrictions now imposed by the states.

This resolution is pending in the Senate with a favorable report and may be acted upon at any time.

The Legislature to be elected in Alabama next November, will therefore have before it for ratification or rejection at least one and possibly two amendments to the Constitution of the United States that seriously change the fundamental law of the land and invade the right of the people of each state to control the making of laws relating to their domestic affairs.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people. Thus speeds the Tenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, recognizing the sovereign government of each state in the Union as to all matters that were not delegated expressly to the central government at Washington when the Constitution was adopted.

Revoke Sovereign Powers
It is the intention of the proponents of the pending amendment to in part revoke the sovereign powers reserved to the people to manage their local affairs. The unrestricted right to control the manufacture and sale of commodities within the state is vested in the people of the state of Alabama unless three-fourths of the states in the Union do so in conformity with that power on the government at Washington.

The police powers in regard to local matters are exercised through the local county officers and will continue to be exercised in this way unless by the adoption of the proposed amendment the right to invade the home and arrest the person of the citizen is given to a federal police force appointed and directed from the City of Washington.

The absolute control of the franchise was in the beginning left with the states and remains with them except in so far as the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution gave to the negro race the opportunity to govern the state. It is proposed to again invade the right of the state and to establish new qualifications for voters under the power of the central government.

Administer Local Affairs Next
How long will it be before we shall be compelled to face proposals to administer our local affairs in relation to all matters affecting the qualifications of voters, the selection of local officers, the powers to control the levy and collection of state and county taxes, and the control of all labor problems by the government of the United States?

The advocates of a central federal government have already advanced these proposals by bills and resolutions or amendments in congress. When we yield the principle of local self-government as to one we may be compelled ultimately to yield them as to all.

If present tendencies are not checked the people of the states will soon be so far removed from an effective control over their local affairs that they will cease to have a real voice in their determination.

It is difficult to discuss a question of government without prejudice and without partisanship when it has become so acute and subject to political alignment as has the issue now presented to the people of Alabama, but we must not forget that the determination of the question involves the fundamental principle of our government, and to reach a mistaken conclusion may in the end lead to the overthrow of the Democratic institution established and maintained by our patriotic fathers for more than a century.

Grave Crisis
Let us approach this grave crisis with due sense of responsibility and the determination to reach our conclusions from the high standard of principle and not from the dictates of policy or prejudice. If the prohibition amendment should be ratified it will result in unprecedented conditions in many ways. For the first time in the history of our country it will impose upon the people of one state the controlling power of other states in matters affecting the mode of life and the personal liberty of the individual. It will be a departure from the method and object of the prohibition laws heretofore adopted by the states where prohibition statutes have been enacted both in the method of enforcement and in the future right of the citizens to amend or repeal the law.

When you remove the desire and determination of the people of a state to control and manage its domestic policies in accordance with the sentiment of its citizens, you inevitably consign to destruction the local government of the state.

Abolish State Lines
Every invasion of the right of the local people to govern themselves weakens the power by which the states are united to the abolition of state lines and the destruction of local self-government.

The issue that confronts the people of Alabama is not whether men shall temperate in their habits, for temperance is a matter of personal determination. It is not the question as to whether or not the sale of liquor shall be prohibited in the state of Alabama for our state through legislative enactment, has already determined that question and the enforcement of the law is guarded and protected by every state and federal statute that it is possible to enact to strenuously and rigorously enforce the law.

The Real Issue
The real issue that confronts us is whether the people of Alabama are prepared to surrender to government of the United States the right and power to administer their local affairs and live under a system of laws relating solely to their personal life that may some day be enacted over their protest and against their wishes by majorities coming from other states in the Union.

Mr. Miner in his "Institutes" has well said:
"Let us not forget that while the proper reaction of the states to the Union does not now assume the same threatening and fearful aspect it had before the war between the states, it is yet of tremendous political importance, pregnant with evils or with blessing in the future, according to the way in which it is handled and settled by the generations to come."

I hope that new and dangerous conditions will never confront us but if they must come, let our people not be a party to the establishment of the precedent. If we must drink of the poisoned chalice that may destroy our state integrity, let it be forced upon us by others and not agreed to by the acquiescence of the people of our own state.

Very truly yours,
O. W. UNDERWOOD.

Circuit Court in Equity.

Pearl Endress, complainant vs. Arthur Endress, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of G. C. Walker, that the Defendant, Arthur Endress is a non resident of the State of Alabama, and resides
in a place unknown to affiant; and
further, that in belief of said affiant,
the Defendant, Arthur Endress, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in the Union-Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Chilton County, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Arthur Endress to answer, plead or demur to the Bill of Complaint in the above cause, on or before the 16th day of April, 1918, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a Decree Pro Confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 16th day of March, 1918.

W. F. BARTLETT

Oakfield, Ga., May 10, 1917.
Old Kentucky Mfg. Co.,
Paducah, Ky.

Gentlemen:
Please allow me to state that I have sold your hog cholera remedy for one season and have ordered more for this season. Last year I sold it to 12 or 15 men who raise hogs. I told each of them to take the remedy, feed it to their hogs, and if they lost
a single hog from disease of any kind not to pay me a cent for the remedy, but when they began to sell cotton every man came in and paid me for the medicine and everyone of them told me that it was the best hog medicine they ever used. One man paid me for the small package and bought $5 worth more and said it was the best that he had ever tried.

Yours very truly,
W. F. BARTLETT,

AMERICA NOT SAFE FROM HUN ATTACK

Germany Determined To Keep Farmers From Shipping Products to European Markets.

Atlanta. — The average Southern farmer, situated far from the seacoast, thinks he is secure even should the Kaiser, in his mad desire for conquest, attempt an invasion of America.

He is enjoying the most prosperous period of his life. Cotton is bringing thirty cents a pound—and more; there is a ready market for hogs and cattle at fancy prices; food crops are being sold at unprecedented prices; and the manufacturers have paid top notch figures for velvet beans and other crops.

It is but natural that the farmer, contented with life, should have no thought of the dangers surrounding him.

"Why should this war worry me?" the farmer asks himself, thinking of the miles of hills and valleys that separate him from the seacoast. "I am not concerned with the freedom of the seas and Germany's right to overrun Belgium, France and Italy. If they should ever send an army here, why I'd fight," he says.

Anything that affects the general welfare of the country affects the farmer. And the "freedom of the seas"—no other policy established by the United States has been and will be more beneficial to the Southern farmer.

Keep Seas Free. It was the government's determination to keep the seas free that has enabled the Southern farmer to market his cotton crop for thirty cents a pound instead of six.

When the war is over a steady stream of agricultural products manufactured articles and materials of all kinds will continue to flow to war-stricken Europe. Thousands of vessels will be engaged in this commerce. With a hungry market and plenty of bottoms available, freight rates will be correspondingly lower. The Southern farmer should be as vitally interested in ocean transportation as in rail transportation.

The rugged hills and vast plains will not stop Germany from winning the commerce off the seas and cutting off the rest of Europe from trade with the Southern farmer. Neither will they protect the farmer should Germany actually invade America. A hostile army would not strike first at the farms. It would attack the seat of government—Washington—situated only a short distance from the sea. And once in control of Washington it would have the reins and from there would force the farmer to do its bidding.

Building Many Ships. The United States Government has determined to check, not only Germany's greed for territory but its ambition to control the seas. The government has undertaken a shipbuilding program that will supply the vessels for the farmer to send his products to European markets, not only during the war but afterwards. These projects cannot be successfully carried out unless the government is given support by the people. Billions of dollars are needed. The farmer not only displays his patriotism by lending the Government money through subscribing to Liberty Bonds, but protects his future interests.

NEW ABSTRACT BOOK FOR CHILTON BEING PREPARED

We wish to announce that a new Abstract Book of land titles in Chilton County is now being prepared, and that it will be operated by the Clanton Abstract Company, at Clanton, Ala., under the management of F. B. Collier and M. D. Foshee. We are now in position to prepare abstracts of title to any land in Chilton County, and can do so without delay and at a reasonable charge. We ask the members of the Farm Loan Association to give us a trial.

The Clanton Abstract Co., F. B. Collier, Manager, Wilson Building.

MONEY TO LOAN—I represent a Mortgage Company lending money on real estate at a low rate of interest. All charges less than 8 per cent. If loan is desired see me and place application. F. B. COLLIER, Clanton, Ala.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT SERVICE FOR FARM HELP

The government has established a branch employment service office at Birmingham, Alabama, in order to aid, without charges of any kind, in bringing together employers desiring help, and workers seeking a place of employment. It is believed that this employment service can be and will be of great advantage in remedying the situation as to farm labor. Therefore, it is urged upon all men desiring to help win the war by working on a farm, and thus increase food production, to immediately communicate with the United States Employment Service, No. 26, North 19th Street, Birmingham, Alabama, Farm Labor Department, advising whether they want to work for wages or on shares of crop, and they can rest assured of being placed very shortly, and can then feel the consciousness that they are doing a very necessary and useful work in producing food and supplies for the country's need. The situation is urgent, the cause good, and the need is great, so let none delay in enlisting in this work who feel they can better serve their country in this way. All that is necessary is to write a short letter to the above address, stating your age, size, family, whether white or colored, and giving your address.

Also it is the desire of this employment service that all employers of farm labor write or wire their needs, and the wages, or share of crop they offer, to the above address.

U. S. Employment Service, Birmingham, Ala.

RED CROSS INCOME

J. Osmond Middleton starts an income for the Red Cross by sending us a check for five dollars. This is to be duplicated each month says Mr. Middleton while the war lasts. Who will follow? Surely there are other patriotic men in our town eager to contribute this amount to the chapter.

CHURCH WORK IN CHILTON CO.

Editor Union-Banner: Please give me space in your valuable paper to say a few words about the work of our churches in Chilton County.

The services at Pates Chapel and Center Hill were good Sunday and Saturday too. Attendance was good, and the Sunday School progressive.

The writer went over to Mars Hill Saturday night to hear Bro. Derasum preach, but he failed to come. But also, I was glad to get to preach to that large attentive congregation. Mars Hill has kindly agreed to entertain the next Fifth Sunday Meeting. I hope the pastors will take the matter up with their churches, and send at least one delegate and come themselves. Brethren, why don't you come? You don't know what you are missing nor how much good you might do by coming. The Book says "He that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." Now if the preachers won't go how can we expect the laity to go?

I long to see the day when all the churches in Chilton County shall be united into one association; then divided into districts so we can have three or four general meetings a quarter in the place of one. I don't see any reason why the churches in Chilton County should be in two associations while nearly all the other counties have organized themselves together, and we lagging behind. Even if we are split up in politics and cow dipping and stock law, we ought not to be in our church work. Some of us are a stiff-necked people like Israel of old.

Yours for the cause, T. J. DEASON, Moderator Chilton Co. Assn.

FIRE DESTROYED DORMITORY THORSBY INSTITUTE

HEAVY LOSS MAKES SERIOUS HANDICAP TO THE SCHOOL.

Thorsby has, in recent years, become painfully well acquainted with the cry of "Fire!" This time it was, perhaps, the most conspicuous building in the village—the girls dormitory of Thorsby Institute. It caught fire in the roof, presumably from a defective flue, about 8 a.m. Monday. It burned slowly enough to give time for the saving of nearly all the contents of the building. Other buildings were threatened and the roofs of the dwelling of L. C. Robinson and of a barn near Thorsby Inn caught fire in two or three places, but the only other structure burned was the water tank of the Thorsby Light and Water Company. The loss is estimated at $5000, insurance $1500.

The dormitory family will occupy Thorsby Inn for the balance of the school year.

Rev. J. M. Graham occupied the pulpit of the Congregational Church last Sunday morning, and Rev. C. T. Rogers Sunday night.

Miss Helen Jenkins, Miss Elizabeth Rogers, Miss Odie Lee Arthur, Master Wilber Peterson and Principal S. H. Herbert attended the State Christian Endeavor Convention in Bessemer April 12 to 14.

VOTE OF THANKS

The trustees of Thorsby Institute met in special session Monday evening, April 15th, on account of the burning of the Girls Dormitory earlier in the day. They ask for the publication in the county papers of the following minute:—

We desire to express heartfelt appreciation of the many kindnesses and courtesies shown to us today. Several loads of people came from Jemison and Clanton to help as they might be able. Homes were opened and offers to feed and lodge our teachers and students were pressed upon us far beyond our needs. More teams came to help haul our goods to shelter than we could use.

We desire especially to name Mr. T. W. Robinson, who, with his crew of men from the L. & N., worked so effectively to remove our furniture from the burning building; also the trustees of the Swedish Lutheran Church, who opened the doors of their parsonage for the storage of the goods which had been saved.

To these and the many others who gave practical expressions of sympathetic helpfulness, we are truly grateful. (Signed) E. W. BUTLER, Chm., S. H. HERBERT, Prin.

WILL WAGE FIGHT AGAINST MEN WHO SELL BAD EGGS

State Department says all Eggs Must Be Canceled Before Being Sold in Alabama.

Because of "conclusive evidence" that decomposed eggs are being "promiscuously offered for sale in the markets of this state," to quote an announcement made by J. M. Moore, special food and drug clerk of the state department, notices have been sent out calling attention to the fact that the Alabama law forbids the sale, offer or exposure for sale of adulterated food and fixes the penalty for each offense at a fine not to exceed $500 or a sentence to one year's imprisonment or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Bad Eggs Under Ban

The law provides, the notice says that "decomposed, putrid or rotten eggs are adulterated food."

"For the sake of thousands of wounded Alabama soldiers who may soon return to be nourished back to strength on sound, wholesome eggs; for the sake of all soldiers who spill their blood for the cause of liberty, and are to be nourished back to their strength as useful men; for the redemption from a shameful, sinful waste in the great food, let there be no market in Alabama for inedible eggs or by the dealer who distributes them to another dealer or to the consumer who cannot consume bad eggs."

Mr. Moore in his notice says that notice will follow of the states and places in Alabama where experts of the Federal government will conduct candle demonstrations for the benefit of those who need instructions.

Representatives of the State Department of Agriculture, the State Chemist, duly authorized municipal or county inspectors, and all police officers and sheriffs of the State, are charged with the duties of inspection and analysis required for the proper enforcement of these provisions, the notice says.

Unjust to All.

"A practice which is unjust to producers who sell their sound, fresh eggs at the same price paid for stale, decomposed eggs; unjust to the careful, honest, patriotic dealer who uses every precaution to keep the eggs sound for consumption and who sells them in competition with the decomposed, filthy food of the careless, wasteful slacker; unjust to the consumers who have the inedible eggs thrust upon them only to be wasted and a practice in violation of a State law," says the notice.

For the instruction of egg buyers, merchants, hucksters and others engaged in the production and handling of eggs and with the advice of Governor Charles Henderson and attorney general Lloyd Tate, the following notice has been given out:

That the Alabama Pure Food Laws forbid the sale, offer or exposure for sale, of adulterated food, and fix the penalty for each offense at a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars, or a sentence to one year's imprisonment, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(a) That paragraph seven, Section 4, provides that "An article of food is adulterated * * * if it consists in whole or in part of a filthy * * * decomposed or putrid * * * animal substance." (b) That decomposed putrid or rotten eggs are adulterated food.

That eggs being offered or exposed for sale, or having been sold to the consumer, shall be considered adulterated within the meaning of the Food and Drug Act of this State, if, upon official examination, it is found that more than five per cent of the lot examined is unfit for food.

That on and after May 1, 1918, eggs must not be sold "straight count" or "case count" but only on the "loss off" basis. Eggs must not be sold to the consumer without first having been candled. Eggs must be sold to merchants or produce dealers without first having been candled, and guaranteed as such, or sold with the distinct understanding that they be candled, and the seller receive pay for only good eggs.

That by "candled" is meant that process whereby the content of the egg shell have been made visible by means of a transmitted light, and by which process any inedible eggs or eggs unfit for food is meant those classed as "Black Rots," "Blood Ringers," "Spot Rots," "Moldy Eggs," "Mixed Rots," or "Adulterated Eggs."

WOMANS LIBERTY LOAN FOR CHILTON COUNTY

Mrs. Thad McSwain was the first woman in Chilton County to buy a Third Liberty Loan Bond.

The women of Chilton County have subscribed $600 to the third liberty loan. This is only a start.

Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Lida Jones visited Verbena Monday afternoon, finding the women of that town very patriotic and enthusiastic in regard to Liberty Loan.

Mrs. W. I. Mullins, W. H. Foshee, J. P. VanDerveer, Sr., visited Jemison and Thorsby Tuesday afternoon in the interest of the Liberty Loan. They found these towns well organized and eager to do their share of work in selling bonds. Chilton county women are now thoroughly organized for this work, Mrs. Stewart being County Chairman, Mrs. W. I. Mullins Chairman for Clanton, Mrs. H. B. Oliver Chairman for Verbena, Mrs. Henry Honeycutt Chairman for Jemison, Mrs. S. E. Norton Chairman for Thorsby, Mrs. W. C. Dyer Chairman for Stanton.

FEDERAL REGULATIONS REGARDING SALE OF SUGAR

Montgomery, Ala., April 10, 1918. TO ALL RETAIL DEALERS IN FOOD SUPPLIES IN ALABAMA:

For preserving and canning purposes the consumer may purchase and the retail dealer may sell sugar in deliveries not to exceed 25 pounds at one time, provided certificate Form No. 6, as per copy below, is signed by the purchaser. The retailer must also sign the certificate and mail it within one week from its date to Federal Food Administrator for Alabama, at Montgomery, Alabama. No other form of certificate must be used. Telephone or other orders may be taken for sugar for preserving and canning purposes, provided the actual delivery into the hands of the purchaser is NOT made UNTIL signed certificate is received. In all sales of sugar for other than preserving and canning purposes the following regulation must be strictly observed.

"Sugar should be sold to town and city consumers in not more than two to five-pound quantities; to farm and rural customers in not more than five to ten-pound quantities."

The profit on sugar to wholesale dealers should not exceed 25c per hundred pounds over actual invoice cost; the profit on sugar to retail dealers should not exceed 1c cent per pound on actual invoice cost.

The food administration does not approve of advertisements of sugar naming special prices, deliveries, schemes or other inducements that would tend to lead the consumer to purchase sugar in quantities larger than the amount specified above, and we ask that such advertisements be discontinued.

The above regulations apply to all retailers, whether licensed or not.

R. M. HOBBS, U. S. Food Adm. for Ala. (Form No. 6.)

U. S. Food Administration for Ala. Certificate for Consumer to purchase Sugar for Preserving and Canning. (Misuse of this Certificate will result in the forfeiture of the right to purchase any Sugar.)

Ala., 1918

I hereby declare to the U. S. Food Administration that I desire to purchase from _____ _____ pounds of sugar, and pledge myself that such sugar is for my immediate use for preserving and canning purposes only.

I hereby certify that the above amount of sugar was this day sold for use by the above purchaser for preserving and canning purposes only.

When this certificate is properly signed, retailer may sell at one time not to exceed twenty-five (25) lbs. of sugar to person signing same. All other sugar sales must be limited as heretofore not to exceed five pounds to city and ten pounds to country consumers.

This certificate must be mailed within one week to Federal Food Administrator for Alabama, at Montgomery, Alabama.

These certificates will not be furnished by the Food Administration, but should be secured by the dealer.

Judge Reynolds has been in Birmingham this week on business for the county.

WAR RELIC TRAINS GREETED BY CROWDS

Many Buy Liberty Bonds When They See Horrors Of German Militarism As Shown By Exhibits Now Touring District

Atlanta.—The two special war relic trains being operated through the Sixth Federal Reserve District by the Liberty Loan Committee to stimulate interest in the third bond issue are being greeted with enthusiasms at every stop, according to reports from the superintendents on board. These trains left Atlanta on April 6, one to tour Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, the other to visit points in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Each train carries a baggage car and two flat cars laden with relics from the field of battle. Among the relics are parts of aeroplanes which have taken part in some of the most thrilling fights of the war; huge cannons; hand grenades; shells, helmets and a vast collection of photographs showing German atrocities in France and Belgium. The exhibits were collected through the War Department. Some of them were captured from the Germans; others were contributed by the French and British armies.

Many Buy Bonds. The Government decided to operate the special trains to stimulate interest in the Liberty Loan, although the great demand for transportation equipment has caused a shortage of cars. This is an evidence of the seriousness with which the need for money to finance the war is viewed by Government officials.

At every station the trains have been visited by thousands of people. The farmers especially have been attracted by the exhibit which brings home to them for the first time, in some instances, the horrors of this war. Thousands of dollars have been subscribed by visitors to the trains, showing how the evidences of battle have impressed the people.

Those in Charge. The trains will be operated through out the campaign and will stop only at the small towns. They are under the direction of the publicity organization of which St. Elmo Massengale is director. W. R. C. Smith, of Atlanta, is directly in charge of the operation of the trains.

The farmer's plea that he has not bought Liberty Bonds because he is helping his country by speeding up food production will not stand. Every manufacturer who is making supplies for the army and navy is doing as much. They're buying bonds, too.

WITH FAITH IN HIM HOLD FAST

The other evening a very influential lawyer and church layman said
this:

"I have almost reached the point where I'm ready to surrender my religion. I can't go much further and believe in the justice of a God who permits this bloody war business to continue. How can I explain or defend the motive of a God who permits
the Germans to invent a gun that shoots seventy miles and kills women and children worshipping in a church?"

Hold fast, friend lawyer and church man!

There comes a time in the affairs of men when all that is material is dead, hopeless material, and the thought, heart and soul of a man can turn to the spiritual alone. In the darkness at the bottom of a pit, with man are man's power to reason, his boasted logic, his moiety of understanding of God's works, his demands for explanation or defense of the Creator's acts and purposes, and man can look up toward the bit of heaven that is still bright and assuring above the mouth of the pit. Hope in his own efforts may be gasping at last breath.
Charity may be impossible in times ruled by slaughter and hatred. But to man there is always left faith.

Twenty centuries ago the world was ruled by the few. It was the rule of lust, luxury and oppression, at the expense of the millions. The masses were dogs or worse, their efforts, their lives, their very thoughts so fixed by the world-power that they should not, could not rise above the level of brutes. On the one hand were lust, luxury, force, injustice, wrong, all the possible forms of degeneracy, rampant and dominant. On the other hand were millions of the souls of men, unenlightened and helpless. Hope? These millions had none.
Charity? These millions had not.
But faith came! Christ's spirit went from the cross out among the millions, never to fail those who were atheist and would drink.

In our times, we have what we call a high order of civilization, the product of Christianity. How did it come about and what is it?

Did it come about because men,
after Calvary, build big buildings, organized autocracies of financial or political power, made great discoveries and inventions in the material world, developed or improved any of the sources of means of material power, maintaining the doctrine that might is right, in any respect? No!

It came about because men died for liberty's sake, and hence for their brothers, as they are doing today.

It came about because men were butchered or burnt for living up to that greatest of sermons—"Love ye,
one another!" and His Golden Rule.

It came about because martyrs stood torture and death to prove that right is might. As men are bleeding and dying for it on the fields of France this day.

Civilization, Christianity's seed, fruit and harvest, has come through the blood and sacrifice of heroes and martyrs, not through the peaceful figuring of profits in the counting house, or the taking of dividends more or less just from concentrated wealth, nor through the advancements in mechanics and sciences. Christianity is brotherhood and liberty, and 'twas for these that Christ drank of the bitter cup.

And are we wholly satisfied, when we come to examine closely our present civilization, which we call of a very high order? Materially considered our status shows remarkable progression. It is enough to say that men are better housed, fed and clothed than in olden times? Even slaves are usually well cared for—they're valuable. Is our administration of justice impartial? Have we autocracies of wealth or social prestige? Are we all brothers? Are we all born equal or some of us born to "divine right" to something? Has our civilization been drifting toward brutal autocracy or toward the common brotherhood for which Christ taught and died?

Does not the answer to these questions lie in the fact that, after 20 centuries of civilizing it takes all the blood and treasure of Great Britain, great America, great France and great Italy to hold back from world-domination a nation that boldly proclaims the brutal doctrine that might is right and that God is with them to establish it?

The issue in Europe today, and all the sacrifice, heroism and martyrdom are such as Christ saw from His place up on the cross. Each step toward universal brotherhood of man is thru suffering, blood and Christianized civilization, and the sons of Wellington and Bonaparte fight and die side by side for it.

Amiens may fall. The British army may be beaten back home. The French may be eliminated, Italy crushed and all the little nations struggling for freedom be bound. BUT AMERICA MUST HOLD FAST TO FAITH! Her soul is for human liberty. Into her records she has engraved "In God We Trust." In the darkest hour of civilization's rejuvenation, she must believe, SHE MUST BELIEVE!

The right, liberty, fellow-love are God's own. America may not know
His will or understand His methods,
but she must hold fast to her faith.

Our lawyer churchman is almost no longer able to explain the motive of God who permits the Germans a seventy-mile gun. Put a tiny mustard seed in the ground and it become a tall shrub bearing seed ten thousand fold. Let the wisest amongst us explain that.

"He doeth all things well." This is the beginning, the continuance, and the end. But most of us don't fully grasp it when a great trial or loss im-pends.—Montgomery Journal.

MORE THE MERRIER

This week we have one more man added to the list of candidates for Commissioner of the Second District of Chilton County in the splendid person of Uncle Jim Mims, of Col-

the many who are acquainted with him and he promises to make it a lively race for the man who beats him, if there is such a man in the race.

Do You Sleep Well?

To be at his best a man must have sound, refreshing sleep. When wakeful and restless at night he is in no condition for work or business during the day. Weakfulness is often caused by indigestion and constipation, and is quickly relieved by Chamberlain's Tablets. Try a dose of these tablets and see how much better you feel with a clear head and good digestion.

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

Montgomery.—Federal Food Administrator R. M. Hobbie issued instructions to all county food administrators and to all retail and wholesale merchants and consumers that beginning on April 20th, the farmers' certificates, which have been in effect since the fifty-fifty or one pound of substitutes with every pound of flour rules were announced, will be withdrawn. This step has been made necessary in order that the wheat conservation program may be properly carried out in Alabama.

In order that consumers who have grown their own corn and who have meal ground from it, may still be relieved of the necessity of buying substitutes when buying flour, it has been determined to allow Licensed and Registered corn millers to issue a certificate to such person, which certificate will enable them to purchase the authorized amount of flour; that is, six pounds for each individual in the family, per month, without the necessity of buying an equal weight of substitutes.

Over 1,200 of the small corn millers of the state have patriotically agreed to assume the duty and burden of issuing certificates in the prescribed form to all persons bringing them corn to grind which they have grown. They have also agreed to issue certificates to retail merchants who have corn ground at their mills and these certificates may be used by the retail merchant in purchasing flour without the necessity of purchasing a corresponding number of pounds of substitutes.

Copies of these certificates are herewith printed and from April 20th the only exception to the fifty-fifty rule will be as provided by them.

ing month last year; that all flour I
We sell will be on the basis of the Federal allowance to each person not to exceed six pounds per month; that in every case where this certificate is not presented to us by the producer
I We will sell an equal weight of substitutes with every pound of wheat flour; that I We will not sell at one time, more than Federal limit of 48 pounds of wheat flour.

..... Retail Merchant, ..... Ala.

These certificates will not be furnished by the Food Administration but should be secured from the miller.

THE CRISIS

A fascinating Romance of North and South, treating with loyalty, honor and love.

An awe-inspiring monumental spectacle that surges with the life and spirit of America, for the atmosphere throughout
is one of patriotism.

A gigantic, monumental screen classic, overwhelming with spectacularism, awe-inspiring with its scenes of heroism, appealing with its beautiful romance and absorb-

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-draught, Relief From Headache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user
of Theodor's Black-Draught; in fact,
it was one of our family medicines.
Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regularly until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Theodor's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit.

If your liver is not doing its duty,
you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.

Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Theodor's the original and genuine. E 79

CHILTON FARMERS GET NITRATE

This week there is being delivered to farmers here 76 tons of nitrate of soda furnished them by the government. This includes orders put in by farmers for nitrate to be used in March and April. Orders for that to be used in May and June will be filled later.

The nitrate furnished by the government costs the farmers a little less than $8 per sack, while there has been some sold to farmers by local dealers as high as $12 this season. A considerable saving is made by purchasing through the medium that is offered by the government.

If I were a Farmer.

If I were a farmer I would keep
at hand a few reliable medicines for
minor ailments that are not so serious as to require the attention of a
physician, such as Chamberlain's Colic
and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel
complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for
coughs, colds and croup.

Chamberlain's Liniment for sprains
bruises and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's tablets for stomach
troubles, biliousness and constipation.
By having these articles at hand it would often save the trouble of a trip to town in the busiest season or
in the night, and would enable me to treat slight ailments as soon as they
appear, and thereby avoid the more
serious diseases that so often follow.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The Pastor earnestly desires that every member, especially the male members, will make it a point to attend church at the eleven o'clock service next Sunday morning. Matters of the gravest importance are to be considered and the entire hour will be devoted to their discussion. No call for money, excepting the regular offering, is contemplated.

The Sunday School is increasing in attendance and interest. The teachers are meeting their classes and better preparation for the sessions of the Bible School is the trend of the time.
A higher standard for the individual giving has been set and it is hoped that every attendant will do his part in reaching and maintaining the total.
All giving is with Christ in view and to carry out his commission—"teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you; and lo! I am with you."

The hours for meeting are: Sunday School, 10, a.m.; Preaching at 11,
a.m. and 8:30, P.M.; Sunbeams, 4, p.m.; B. Y. P. U., 7:30, p.m.; Ladies meeting on Monday, 4, p.m.; Prayer meeting 8:30 Wednesday nights.

Can't Help But Admire Babies

Every Woman Casts Loving Glances at the Nestling Cuddled in its Mother's Arm.

It is a joy and comfort to know that those much-tried pains and other distresses that are so hard to proceed child-bearing may be avoided. No woman need fear discomfort if she will fortify herself with the well known and time-honored remedy, Mother's Friend.

This is a most grateful, penetrating, external application that at once softens and makes pliant the abdominal muscles and ligaments.
By regular use the muscles expand without the usual strain when baby is born and pain and danger at the crisis is consequently less.

Women everywhere who have used this famous remedy tell how they entirely avoided nervousness, twisting spasms, bearing down and stretching pains, and relate how they enjoyed entire freedom from the many debilitating and distressing experiences usually incident to approaching motherhood.

Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers, thousands of whom have used and recommended it. It is for external use only and is absolutely and entirely safe and wonderfully effective.

Write the Broadland Remedy Co., Lancaster, Pa., for their "Mother's Friend" so valuable to expectant mothers, and in the meantime obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist today and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire. There is a harrassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source. The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle to-day at any drugstore, and you will see results from the right treatment. Write for expert medical advice, which you can get without cost, by addressing Medical Director, 21 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

THE MONTGOMERY CONVENTION PASSED STRONG RESOLUTIONS FOR PRESERVATION STATE RIGHTS

FORNEY JOHNSTON, ELOQUENTLY READS PLAN OF CAMPAIGN FOR DEFEAT OF EFFORT TO DESTROY FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE OF CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT—NO CHANGE TO BE MADE IN PRESENT PROHIBITION LAWS.

An Address To The Democrats Of Alabama.

As Democrats of the sovereign State of Alabama, assembled in mass meeting at Montgomery to reassert our loyalty to the one fundamental and unchangeable principle of Constitutional government which has kept America free, preserved the civilization of the South and builded a nation to which the embattled free people of the world look for deliverance, we do solemnly declare:

Loyalty To The Nation.

The first and continuing obligation of every inhabitant of Alabama is undivided loyalty to the United States in the tragic struggle in Europe and upon the high seas for the right of self-government and human liberty. To the support of its armies and its aims in the war and to the defeat of the barbarism in morals, in government and in the sinister usages of peace practiced by the German Federation, we pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honors, with the same high spirit with which the great Democrats of the Revolution dedicated themselves to the war of liberation from the oppression of George the Third the half mad German monarch who sat upon the British throne.

The Constitution.

To the Constitution of the United States, drafted by the most extraordinary body of men ever gathered to frame a charter for free people, adopted by the several States without coercion from sister States, we renew our allegiance. It stands today as the model of popular government throughout the world. It has made us a great nation and has supplied the American people with a tradition and steadfastness more enduring than traditions of loyalty to privileged classes, royal houses or titled dynasties. It stands with those amendments adopted by free States without coercion from Federal bayonets, as the outstanding and inspiring accomplishment of the American people.

The Democratic Party.

We assert that the foremost agency in formulating and in maintaining the Constitution free from autocratic change by legislation and construction is and has been the Democratic party and its founders.

Driven out of power in 1801 upon the issue of Federal aggression of power the Federalist party, that arch enemy of Democracy, disappeared from American politics, carrying with it into oblivion all open contempt for the people, all declared advocacy of centralization—a treasonable doctrine supported since that day solely by those who have sought speculation in public lands, in tariff outrages, in the exploitation of public resources and in encouraging great Federal establishments for power or private gain. Until today those sinister agencies have never dared to seek sanctuary under the banner of Democracy.

Platforms.

From the defeat and the destruction of the Federalist party in 1801 by the Democrats led by Jefferson to the declaration of faith on which Woodrow Wilson became President of the United States the Democratic party has denounced Federal aggression of local power. It has asserted in every platform in its history of more than one hundred years that the one fundamental and unchanging maxim of American freedom is that the States must not be subordinated in their internal governance to Federal authority.

The War And The States.

The Supreme Court of the United States declared for all time in the Slaughterhouse Case that the Civil War amendments did not impair the sovereignty of the States and that the Court is opposed to hold with a steady and even hand the balance between State and Federal power.

The Fundamental Principle.

The Democratic party has survived for more than a century under that single principle, and stands today the most ancient, steadfast and noblest political organization for high purposes on the face of the earth. It is the one party in the history of the world which has survived by its adherence to an ideal as against a succession of parties sustained by interests working under cover for Federal aggression.

To that party we renew our allegiance and to its elder statesmen, canonized by succeeding generations for conspicuous service in establishing popular government on the earth our proud acknowledgments.

We denounce the proposed amendment as treason to the party, as an unconditional surrender of sovereignty by the State, as a tool for Federal profiteers bent on robber tariffs and the exploitation of centralized finance, public works and governmental establishments, and as a measure being forced by methods which we regret to say, have not been equalled since the enforced and fraudulent ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment by the aid of spotted Legislatures and Federal bayonets.

The German Blot.

That is the single German blot upon the Constitution of the United States—the Fifteenth Amendment. Out of it has sprung the menace to Southern civilization. Conceived to maintain the Republican party in power with its spawn of Civil Rights and Force Bills it was forced on the State, under the momentum, the power and the venom of war. It was never ratified in Alabama, even by her carpet-baggers and scalawags then in power. Its twin sister now confronts the people of Alabama—forced on the States in the time of America's supreme peril, pressed through Southern Legislatures by methods which have given no opportunity for their people to be heard—by leaders arrogantly reasserting the doctrine of Hamilton's that "the people!

Why, Sir, Your People is a Beast."

The proposed Eighteenth Amendment stands to day alone among the written constitutions of the great nations of the earth as the only other threatened instance of Federal interference with local and domestic concerns. The Constitution of the German Empire contains no such outworn and discredited menace to popular government.

Conflicting Jurisdiction.

It attempts to confer concurrent jurisdiction and concurrent sovereignty upon two independent authorities, for the first time in the history of any republic. The free people of the earth have applauded and pledged success to the Serbian people for repudiating the doctrine of hybrid and concurrent sovereignty; but this amendment, made up of traffic and compromises, discovers a monstrous, bisexual sovereignty, inviting conflicting legislation, conflicting jurisdictions, with neither paramount, and fatal conflicts in administration.

Espionage and Extradition.

For the first time in the history of the American people it would permit petty or ignorant offenders against police provisions to be removed without extradition for trial in alien jurisdictions. It would open the home to Federal spies and agents. And with the permanent return to power of the Republican administrations which assure to follow its blood-sister, the suffrage amendment, Alabama will again be dealing with the scalawag and his brood. It would give Congress the power for the first time in over one hundred and forty years to force the governors of sovereign states to honor requisitions and destroy the discretion now vested in the executive to prevent oppression and abuse.

Death of Liquor Traffic.

We denounce the amendment as unnecessary in Alabama, ever were prohibition in Alabama not upon the statute books. The organized liquor traffic in Alabama is as dead as the men who lived before the flood. The great proportion of licensed dealers have accepted the status of suppression of saloons and have taken up their work in occupations more consistent with the spirit of the age. We assert that there is no harmful agency so easy to combat, to curtail and to suppress, state by state, under the enlightened action of self-governing people, as the local liquor traffic; and we denounce as libellous the assertion that Alabama is unequal or unwilling to assume or to continue the task, or that it is the purpose or intent of this meeting or of the war we are now declaring on Federal Junkerism to restore the licensed sale of liquor to Alabama, or to give aid or comfort to the liquor traffic. In protecting the one fundamental Democratic principle, the Democrats of Alabama owe apology to no man.

Constitutions and Police Regulations.

We do further denounce the pending effort to destroy the unity of our people, the integrity and demonstrated safety of our state and federal system and humiliate the American people with the exaltation of a police measure leveled at sots and weaklings to the plane of the great maxims of civil liberty and government which have been carried into the great constitutions of the world, proven by martyrdom and ennobled by the blood of free people. The amazing spectacle of self-governing Americans submitting their necks to a yoke designed for police court culprits and blasphemously calling it "the greatest boon vouchsafed to mankind since the Babe of Bethlehem" is a confession of degradation and weakness which we protest against in the name of the great principles of human freedom now besieged by the apostles of Autocratic and Central power on the continent of Europe and in the United States of America.

Scalawags and the Churches in 1867. We denounce the practice of hiring alien speakers, men without a state, to conduct propaganda for universal suffrage, universal marriage laws and like Federal menaces, in this commonwealth of Christian citizens under cover of prohibition; and we protest against the use of profanation of houses of God for their work. We appeal from the ill-omened precedent of the '69's, when foreign corruptionists and scalawags made use of the negro churches of the state for their renegade meetings, to the glorious example of the men of God of that day who declined the free use of their temples when tendered by the invader subject to the condition that they would hold "loyal" services and invoke the blessings of God upon the Federal vandals then in authority.

The Mantle of the Constitution.

We admonish our people that naught save the majesty of the great Charter spread like a mantle over the land, could have healed the wounds of Federal aggression after the Civil War. The doctrine of state sovereignty, indomitably sustained by the supreme court of the United States, wiped out the stain of corruption, vandalism, confiscation and outrage for which a Federal congress stood sponsor. We admonish our people that no power under the sun preserved the South from massacre or hybridization except the single principle of state sovereignty over internal affairs now being bartered for a Federal police regulation already within the plenary power of the state.

The Bulwark of Progress and Safety.

We warn the Democrats of Alabama that principles of government cannot be deflowered or compromised and remain principles. A principle that has protected the chastity of our women against Federal interference that has preserved the purity of southern blood from unappealable pollution that has carried us, by its high appeal to the right of self-determination, over the shoals of force bills and Crumpacker resolutions and has permitted us to wash our hands of ballot stuffing; that has given to Alabama, to her courts, to her statesmen and to her people the privilege of experiment and self-reliant progress and a place of honor among her sister states and in the nation, is no principle to be thrown into the discard at the behest of alien influences.

Constitutional Government and Participation by the People.

Central authority is of necessity autocratic. The success and safety of a constitutional government lies in a wide participation by the people in their local governments. Every local function surrendered to remote central authority with local initiative and resistance, suppresses the great schools of experiment in forty-eight states and immeasurably increases the central power.

In what respect has the Federal government anticipated the free people of the states in enlightened legislation? Alabama had her employers' liability act for over twenty-five years before Congress put one in effect among interstate carriers. The principle of state regulation was developed by the experience of states. Prohibition itself came from the states. From the testing ground of the states came the essential principles of the constitution itself, and from the same source have come the enlightened legislative policies of the nation. As asserted by the British Ambassador, the relation of the states with the national government has received the unqualified admiration of the whole world. That is the status, the opportunity and the glory which Alabamians are asked to destroy!

Warning to Invaders.

We warn our people that the adoption of this amendment means Federal suffrage, whether the Federal amendments in Alabama profess opposition or not; that Federal suffrage means universal suffrage, or the reduction of representation; that the close of this war will release a rapacity for control of the vast Federal organism faintly forecast by Republican gluttony after the Civil War, and that the black ballot, male and female, in the border states and controlling the electoral college, will be the prize for Republican and western cajolery in Congress.

This mass meeting expresses no attitude on the question of women suffrage in Alabama, but it vehemently repudiates the doctrine of this amendment which breaks down the barrier to Federal and universal suffrage. We propose to stand by the Southern darter and accord him fair treatment and opportunity, but we assert that this is a white man's state and that universal suffrage, hybrid government and defensive ballot stuffing shall not be forced in its borders without a reckoning.

Policy on Prohibition Laws.

We compromise no principles and trade with no enemy, yet so foreign to the purpose of this meeting and so immaterial to the great question involved is the question of prohibition that we pledge all Democrats in Alabama assenting to these resolutions, now and for all time, to the withdrawal of the liquor issue as a partisan asset by adherence to a program of opposition to any measure changing any existing general policy, unless conditioned on approval by the people at a general election; but without limitation upon the right or duty of legislators to strengthen and supplement existing laws to assure their rigid observance.

The Hand of Jacob.

We do most earnestly warn the people of Alabama against the sinister forces working behind this amendment for Federal centralization; for profit in Federal establishments, and in the control of Federal patronage; for the absorption into a Federal system of the great taxable properties, leaving them immune from local and State taxation; against the "tariffs of abominations" which constitute a part of this program—in short, against the certain evils of central oppression and the certain dissolution of the State governments which the anti-Democrats responsible for this measure have set in motion.

Federal Kultur.

We denounce the spirit of Prussianism, of Federal "Kultur" behind this amendment; the Prussian method of its proposal to the states and of its enforced passage without fair opportunity for instructions from the people; its treasonable assertion in a time of national peril, when the nation must be united against the Blind Beast of War; and we denounce the intolerant attacks being made by the hired men who owe allegiance only to their paymaster, in their abuse of citizens whose lives, whose fortunes and affections are in and for their native State.

Call to Arms.

We count upon the militant assistance of every genuine Democrat in Alabama in the fight to defeat this amendment and any companion piece of Federal aggression which may be proposed. We assert that no citizen can fairly and honorably enter the Democratic primary for the purpose of voting into existence a measure so destructive of the one essential principle of Democratic faith. We demand of those servants of the party upon the State Committee who have evaded the petition of Democrats for a direct vote on this question that they give the Democrats of Alabama a hearing, that they require sworn loyalty to the party's fundamental principles as a condition by candidates or electors, or else that they resign their duties to Democrats who will execute the trust.

In conclusion we do solemnly pledge our united efforts, over all personal interest, to the defeat of the proposed amendment and to the recall by subsequent legislatures of any resolution of the Legislature of 1919 ratifying the same, which shall not be conditioned upon the approval of such resolution by a majority of the electors of Alabama at a general election.

In witness of the purity of our motives and in aid of our high endeavor we call upon the God of all Democrats who respect constitutional liberty and possess the manhood essential to self-government.—Paid political advertisements by State Anti-Amendment Campaign Committee.

RED CROSS FAMILY REMEDIES

Many able Chemists and Doctors were called into service in perfecting this line of Red Cross Remedies.

This is an age of Specialists, and while one may have distinguished achievements to his credit in one particular line, another is excelling in something else. That very thing makes it possible for us to have a Red Cross Remedy for each ailment, and enables us to give the consumer more than we promise or charge for. Each formula is compounded with as much care and precision as if our entire success depended upon that one Remedy. That's why NEURITONE repairs shattered nerves, and Red Cross STONE ROOT and BUCHU puts your kidneys in a normal and Healthy condition.

Red Cross Remedies are not Patent Medicines. The formula is printed on each carton in plain English, so that you know what they are composed of and what you are taking. More than one hundred Red Cross Remedies and Toilet Preparations are sold and guaranteed only by

This 14-year-old youngster of Perry, Taylor county, Florida, is pointing the way to other boys, and men, too, in this national crisis when men and money are needed by the government in the fight against Prussian autocracy. He invested $250 of his earnings from the sale of newspapers in his home town in bonds of the Second Liberty Loan. He accumulated this money without help from his father or anyone else. Since that time he has been saving his money and expects to subscribe to the Third Liberty Loan. John is so proud of his bonds that he has determined to keep on buying just as long as he can earn money and the Government has any bonds to offer.

W. F. BARTLETT

Oakfield, Ga., May 10, 1917. Old Kentucky Mfg. Co., Paducah, Ky. Gentlemen:

Please allow me to state that I have sold your hog cholera remedy for one season and have ordered more for this season. Last year I sold it to 12 or 15 men who raise hogs. I told each of them to take the remedy, feed it to their hogs, and if they lost a single hog from disease of any kind not to pay me a cent for the remedy, but when they began to sell cotton every man came in and paid me for the medicine and everyone of them told me that it was the best hog medicine they ever used. One man paid me for the small package and bought $5 worth more and said it was the best that he had ever tried.

Yours very truly,

W. F. BARTLETT.

TO CUT WHEAT
USE ONE-HALF

Military Necessity Demands That Each American Eat Only 1½ Pounds Wheat Products Weekly.

CORN AND OATS SUBSTITUTES.

Allies Must Have Wheat Enough to Maintain Their War Bread Till Next Harvest.

If we are to furnish the allies with the necessary proportion of wheat to maintain their war bread from now until the next harvest, and this is a military necessity, we must reduce our monthly consumption to 21,000,000 bushels a month as against our normal consumption of about 42,000,000 bushels, or 50 per cent. of our normal consumption. This is the situation as set forth by the U. S. Food Administration at Washington. Reserving a margin for distribution to the army and for special cases, leaves for general consumption approximately 14½ pounds of wheat products weekly per person, the Food Administration's statement continues: Many of our consumers are dependent upon bakers' bread. Such bread must be durable and therefore requires a larger proportion of wheat products than cereal breads baked in the household. Our army and navy require a full allowance. The well-to-do in our population can make greater sacrifices in the consumption of wheat products than can the poor. In addition, our population in the agricultural districts, where the other cereals are abundant, are more skilled in the preparation of breads from these other cereals than the crowded city and industrial populations.

With improved transportation conditions we now have available a surplus of potatoes. We also have in the spring months a surplus of milk, and we have ample corn and oats for human consumption. The drain on rye and barley as substitutes has already greatly exhausted the supply of these grains.

To effect the needed saving of wheat, we are wholly dependent upon the voluntary assistance of the American people and we ask that the following rules shall be observed:

1. Householders to use not to exceed a total of 1½ pounds per week of wheat products per person. This means not more than 1½ pounds of Victory bread containing the required percentage of substitutes and one-half pound of cooking flour, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, all combined.

2. Public eating places and clubs to observe two wheatless days per week, Monday and Wednesday, as at present. In addition thereto, not to serve to any one guest at any one meal an aggregate of breadstuffs, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, containing a total of more than two ounces of wheat flour. No wheat products to be served unless specially ordered. Public eating establishments not to buy more than six pounds of wheat products for each ninety meals served, thus conforming with the limitations requested of the householders.

3. Retailers to sell not more than one-eighth of a barrel of flour to any town customer at any one time and not more than one-quarter of a barrel to any country customer at any one time, and in no case to sell wheat products without the sale of an equal weight of other cereals.

4. We ask the bakers and grocers to reduce the volume of Victory bread sold, by delivery of the three-quarter pound loaf where one pound was sold before, and corresponding proportions in other weights. We also ask bakers not to increase the amount of their wheat flour purchases beyond 70 per cent. of the average monthly amount purchased in the four months prior to March 1.

5. Manufacturers using wheat products for non-food purposes should cease such use entirely.

6. There is no limit upon the use of other cereals, flours, and meals, corn barley, buckwheat, potato flour, etc.

Many thousand families throughout the land are now using no wheat products whatever, except a very small amount for cooking purposes, and are doing so in perfect health and satisfaction. There is no reason why all of the American people who are able to cook in their own households cannot subsist perfectly well with the use of less wheat products than one and one-half pounds a week, and we specially ask the well-to-do households in the country to follow this additional programme in order that we may provide the necessary marginal supplies for those parts of the community less able to adapt themselves to so large a proportion of substitutes.

In order that we shall be able to make the wheat exports that are absolutely demanded of us to maintain the civil population and soldiers of the allies and our own army, we propose to supplement the voluntary co-operation of the public by a further limitation of distribution, and we shall place at once restrictions on distribution which will be adjusted from time to time to secure as nearly equitable distribution as possible. With the arrival of harvest we should be able to relax such restrictions. Until then we ask for the necessary patience, sacrifice and co-operation of the distributing trades.

DESTROY FRENCH FOOD SOURCES

FRUIT TREES OF NORTHERN FRANCE
DESTROYED BY RETREATING GERMANS

When the Germans retreated from long held positions in Northern France they gnarled every fruit tree that time permitted. Here is such a tree, hacked beyond chance of the tree's surviving unless first aid measures were quickly adopted. In many cases the advancing French troops brought the first aid material and sometimes succeeded in saving the trees. Where the tree was absolutely cut down—as hundreds were—there was, of course, no relief measure to employ. Members of the U. S. Food Administration brought this picture to America. Early in the war the German government introduced a policy of strict food conservation, at home and has endeavored to curtail in every possible manner the French and English supply. U. boat warfare and destruction of farming property are parts of the same campaign.

Grand Total for County $1323.83

There were no contributions from Beats Nos. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16. This is the correct amount as turned over to me as Treasurer for the Y. M. C. A. Army fund for Chilton County, and if there is any mistake I would be glad to have my attention called to this fact. This money has been sent to W. H. Manly, Treasurer of the army Y.M.C.A. fund, and if anyone wants to see these receipts from Mr. Manly, I will be glad to show them to you.

While this county was called upon to furnish $4,000, and we have only got up this amount, and while, as we see it, some people's names do not appear on this list that should be on there, that of course is with them and their conscience. And as this

NEWS ITEMS FROM THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION

SUGAR FOR PRESERVING.

Some time ago the Food Administration announced through this column that the housewives could rest assured they would have sugar for preserving purposes at the right time. Mr. Hobbie has just issued a form of certificate to the merchants which allows them to sell 25 pounds of sugar at a sale to every person who will sign the certificate, thereby pledging themselves to use the sugar immediately for preserving and canning purposes. Any merchant who has not received forms for these certificates should go to his County Administrator at once and get the proper form and have them printed. The housewives of the country saved an enormous amount of perishable food last year and the Food Administration is very anxious for them to do so again this year.

BAKERS' MEETING.

A special meeting of all bakers doing business in the state of Alabama, has been called by Mr. Hobbie for Thursday, April 25, in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala. In calling this meeting, Mr. Hobbie wrote the bakers as follows:

"The necessity for saving wheat flour has become so great, and knowing that your business and your industry as a whole, is so vitally affected, I deem it important and necessary to have a conference of the Bakers of this State, in order that they may understand clearly and definitely the rules of the Administration."

"I am therefore requesting every Baker who uses as much as three (3) barrels or more of flour per month, to come to this conference, at the time and place above indicated. This will be a one-day session, and you will have the opportunity of getting a clear understanding of the rules, and assistance in the matter of formulas and other data that will be of service in the further conduct of your business."

EXPERT HANDLING OF EGGS.

Mr. R. L. Cochran of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is now in Alabama, visiting different points and lecturing and demonstrating the proper way to handle eggs and prepare them for market. Every poultry raiser should endeavor to reach one of these meetings and hear Mr. Cochran. Thousands of dozens of eggs are lost every year by reason of improper methods of marketing them. The meetings will be held at times and places as follows:

April 25—Roanoke.
April 26—Lafayette.
April 27—Badeville.
April 29—Selma.
April 30—Tuscaloosa.
May 1—Fayette.
May 2—Jasper.
May 3—Russellville.
May 6—Fort Payne.
May 7—Collinsville.

LOOK OUT FOR IMPOSTERS.

Every person in the employ of the Food Administration, whose duties bring him in contact with the public carries an identification card and statement of his position, signed by R. M. Hobbie, Federal Food Administrator for Alabama. Every citizen has the right and should require any person claiming to represent the Food Administration to exhibit his authority to him. Officials of the Food Administration are always glad to do this. There is now a County Food Administrator for each county and a Beat Assistant in nearly every beat in the State. Our people are urged to consult them on all questions in reference to the work of the Food Administration and also to look to the newspapers for official announcements of rules and regulations.

The Federal Administrator has found that many rumors are circulated about the state in reference to various matters pertaining to the work of the Administration and is of the opinion that pro-Germans are endeavoring to promote confusion in the minds of the people by starting false rumors in reference to rules and regulations. This will not be tolerated and the U. S. courts will promptly deal with all persons who assume authority to speak for the Food Administration or to interfere with its operation. All patriotic citizens are urged to promptly give information to their County Food Administrator or Beat Assistant of any such enemy propaganda comes to their knowledge.

"MUST HAVE FOOD."

Messages come from the battle front asking many things from the United States in order that the war may be won. But the messages about food do not come as requests. The food messages all use the word "must." If the war is to be won the United States "must" send food.

At this time flour is the food that must be kept going to our boys and our Allies. Every home in Alabama can easily determine whether it is doing its duty. Six pounds of flour a month for each individual in the family is the test. Is your home a patriotic one? You can decide the question as quickly as you can multiply the number in your family by six.

SELL CHICKENS GRADUALLY.

Just because the prohibition against selling hens was removed on April 20 is no reason why you should glut the market with chickens at this time. The Department of Agriculture is very anxious for the farmers to realize that too many fowls rushed to the market at this time may result in food losses and a poorer market. Your State Food Administrator urges to sell your poultry stock gradually. Avoid glutting the markets and thus get better prices and conserve food.

JUDGE REYNOLDS
SAYS RAISE FOOD

WARNS FARMERS AGAINST NEGLECTING TO GROW FOOD STUFF ON THE FARMS.

Editor Union-Banner:

I have just been out in the country and I have discovered that the farmers are preparing to plant and have planted too much cotton. It seems to me we have reached the critical time in the history of this country. We see what an awful condition Europe is in—thousands starving to death. We have a great army to feed and we must help feed our allies.

Farmers, we cannot expect to have any kind of food shipped into this country next year if the war continues. We must feed ourselves and we ought to help feed others. Think for a moment that we have only been in the war for one year, and now we have to regulate our eatables. What will be the condition if the war continues?

Farmers, raise all the food crops you can, push your corn, fertilize it, work it fast, raise beans, peas, sorghum, and pick you out a place to plant wheat this fall. If you had known the flour condition was going to be as it is now we would all have made more flour. Now, we are put on notice what the condition will be, and if we are wise, we will certainly prepare to meet the emergency. We can raise all we will need if we will only try.

We must look after the cattle business, we must prepare to handle them under the circumstances as best we can. I would suggest that all farmers change their male calves while they are young, for they will make so much better beef, will grow much faster and we can keep them longer on the farm with so much less trouble, and then, a steer is worth about two cents per pound more. The change ought to be made before they are three months old.

It looks like that it will be two years or more before cattle can be shipped out of this county. Some say the legislature will force tick eradication on us. Now, I am opposed to this. The people have voted against the law and I am certainly opposed to the legislature running rough-shod over any people, and I will not vote for any man, if I know it, that will favor running any law over the majority of the people. So we must prepare to take care of our cattle for two years—plant plenty of beans, prepare to pasture them with cattle.

I hope all merchants in the county have posted themselves and will adopt the new regulations on flour. I have heard that some merchants are selling sugar for more than a 1c profit per pound. The profit that a retail merchant is allowed to make on sugar is one cent per pound, and no more.

I have made arrangements with this paper to publish all the changes and regulations by the food administration, and if all people will watch this paper they will keep up with the changes.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Food Adm. for Chilton Co.

GEORGE MIMS RESIDENCE
DESTROYED BY FIRE

The residence of Mr. George Mims (Little George), a prominent citizen who lives on Mulberry, 8 miles west of Clanton, was destroyed by fire early last Sunday morning. The house was with practically all its contents was a total loss. The fire started from the stove flue in the kitchen.

Tax Assessor J. N. Dennis has been over in Tuscaloosa County this week visiting his father-in-law, J. W. Kicker, who is in a state of ill health just at present. Dr. Dennis says he took special notice of farming conditions and operations on his trip, and observed a great amount of cotton being planted.

ARTHUR HODGENS DEAD

Arthur R. Hodgins departed this life at his father's home on April 19.
He was a son of D. H. and Edna Hod-gens. He was a lovely young man of fine promise. Loving friends and faithful physicians did all they could for him, but all was in vain. To see the brilliant young life snatched away is a sad picture, but in this dark hour the beautiful bow of hope spans the grave. Arthur has escaped the present world-wide distress. He now sleeps in death while his loved ones must meet the fiery trials. His parents can think of him now without fear, looking with hope to when he will come back again.

He was a saved young man, and among the innumerable company before the Throne we expect him to be found happy under the administration of the approaching Heavenly Kingdom, which will be the desire of all nations, for which the world is rapidly getting ready.

Christ will banish sin and sorrow
And triumph o'er the grave,
When from death on the glad morrow
Earth's ransomed hosts to save.
The precious body was laid to rest in Pleasant Grove Cemetery. He leaves many friends and relatives to mourn his departure.

SALEM CHURCH, BEAT 16.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words through your paper.

The singing at this place Sunday afternoon was a success. The house was called to order at 2 o'clock by T. L. Robinson, who was appointed Chairman for the evening. The following directors were put on the floor: L. F. Cleckler, C. H. Robinson, E. L. Powell, R. M. Robinson, A. L.
Robinson, with Lee Robinson and Fannie B. Connell as organists. After the singing the Sunday School at this place was reinstated. T. L.
Robinson was elected Superintendent and Lee Robinson, Secretary-Treasurer.

The afternoon was greatly enjoyed by all present.

There will be an evening singing at Providence the first Sunday evening in May, at 1 o'clock.

MYSTERY OF MURDER SOLVED
AFTER FOUR YEARS OF SEARCH

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please print this letter in your paper?

The mystery of the murder and robbery of our father, M.B. Manning, who was found murdered and robbed on the evening of May 4, 1914, two miles south of Selauga, is now solved. The man has been found.
The search which has lasted four years is ended. The case is now closed. He will not bother anyone else, for all criminals come to their end sooner or later. The man was a white man and a native of this state.

Respectfully,
A. B. MANNING.

WHAT ABOUT CHILTON?

There are twelve counties in the Montgomery District in Liberty Loan Campaign. They are, Chilton, Bullock, Pike, Conecuh, Elmore, Lowndes, Barbour, Crenshaw, Autauga, Butler, and Montgomery.

The quota of each county was reached in precisely the same manner on a basis of banking resources of the county.

Lowndes has not only reached but doubled its quota.

Conecuh has allotted $120,000 and
on Feb. 19, 1918, had in hand $150, 000. Chairman Long hopes to go on to 200,000.

Chilton is able to reach its quota if Conecuh and Lowndes reached theirs.
Chilton is just as patriotic as Lowndes and Conecuh.

Chilton people are just as well informed and awake to the issues of this terrible war as are the people of Conecuh and Lowndes.

Chilton will enlist in the supporting army just as enthusiastically as the citizens of Lowndes and Conecuh.

Chilton will stand squarely behind
the boys in the trenches.

Chilton will place its name upon the nation's honor roll.

Chilton will earn and fly an honor
flag.

CHILTON WILL REACH AND EXCEED ITS QUOTA.

The men in the fighting army carry guns on their shoulders. The men and women in the great army of finance carry Liberty Bonds in their hands.

America expects every citizen of Chilton, Male and female, to do his duty in this hour of crisis.

"LET DEMOCRACY RULE"

(By J. Clark Christian.)

What is this we hear, come floating through the air?

"Let Democracy rule the world," our nation to declare.

Woodrow Wilson in the White House
to steer the ship of State,
No time to waste in congress in criticizing debate.

Our boys are on the battlefield,— somewhere in Sunny France;
So back up the Liberty Loan and give the boys a chance.

'Tis treason to be a slacker: come everyone along,
Buy your Liberty Bonds and join the patriotic song—

"America, America," let the anthem swell the breeze,
Strike down the Hun of the Kaiser,
and bring them to their knees;

Strike for home and freedom—let
all the nations see,
We accept no "scraps of paper" from
"Bill of Germany."

Hurrah for the boys in khaki, your country calls on you To strike a blow for freedom, your willing hands to do;

Hurrah for Pershing, veterans, now
fighting beyond the sea,
Needs everyone's assistance to gain
our victory.

Pull yourself together and pull with all your might,
There's room for everybody to help us win the fight.

Hurrah for dear "Old Glory," may
her stars forever shine;
Hurrah for the darling sweethearts
the boys have left behind.

No joking in the matter, the war is up to you;
Don't look around at neighbor to ask him what to do;

If you cannot be a soldier in helping
Uncle Sam,
Do something else instantly or you're not worth a Dam.

Isaac Scarbrough of the U. S.
Marines, stationed at Newport News, Va., was here the past week. It was the first time he has been at home
since his enlistment seven years ago.

The friends of Mr. G. O. Foshee are glad to see him out again after recovery from a severe case of small pox.

V. J. Elmore, of the Quartermasters Corps U. S. Army, stationed at Camp McClellan, Aniston, was in Clanton Saturday. He was here to see his friends and to look after his store which is being managed for him by W. H. Sartor.

DECORATION DAY AT OLD SOLDIERS HOME

Sunday, the 28th will be the time, and the occasion will be fraught with interest.

Hon. Ray Rushton has accepted an invitation to deliver an address and such announcement will be sufficient to attract a large audience.

Mrs. Rushton, President of the Ladies Memorial Association will be present and will add to the interest of the exercises.

A quartette of young men from Montgomery will furnish the music.
Come and enjoy the fruit of song
and story.

John D. Armstrong of the Quartermasters Corps U. S. Army, stationed at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, was in Clanton Saturday and Sunday. His many friends were glad to see him.

Will Teel, who is at work in Birmingham, was at home with his family here Sunday.

GUARDIAN'S SETTLEMENT
NOTICE

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

Probate Court, March 21, 1918.
This day came Miss Minnie Muse
Guardian of Marie and Alice Williams
and files her accounts, vouchers,
evidence and statement for a partial settlement of her Guardianship.

It is ordered that the 27th day of April, 1918, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at
which time all persons interested can
appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand this 21st day
of March, 1918.

Civic Chairman of A. F. W. C. urges all Civic Clubs to be tireless in their efforts to achieve wonderful results in this year's "Baby Week" Campaign which is of two fold importance.

April 6 1918—April 6 1919 being Children's year the Department of Labor at Washington has called on the entire country for the observance.
The future American shall try to rival the old Greeks in development of physical perfection. The drafting of men into service has revealed appalling physical defects all of which is amenable to early treatment and cor-

100,000 little children before April 6
1919. Only by attention to the children can the rising generation be assured of more physical fitness and a higher standard in every way.

To save 100,000 children under five is only one part of the big program for the welfare of 30,000,000 children
under fifteen in the country.

Let us labor then as Lovers of the Children not alone as Civic Workers, and feel, in celebrating "Baby Week"
the first week in May that no sacrifice is too great to arouse the people to this serious need.

The lack of birth registration is deplorable, what are we going to do to remedy this highly essential thing?
Let us have one day for "Birth Registration," and see to it that something is done.

Material and information may be secured from the Children's bureau, Washington, D. C. Please write for same immediately.

As chairman of Civics I appeal to you to mail a report of your campaign to Miss Fonde, Mobile, Ala., and to Miss Lathrop, Children's Bureau,
Washington. Do not wait to be asked for these reports, but mail them. This is an important war work, and we are all eager and anxious to become burden-bearers, in this sweetest branch of service, "Laboring for the children."

A meeting to arrange plans for opening week of "Children's year" to take the place of "Baby Week" will be held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones Friday evening at 5 o'clock.

All clubs are urged to be represented at this meeting.

The celebration will be held the week of May 5th. The ladies of the rural districts are especially invited to co-operate. Further plans will be published in next week's paper.

est. All charges less than 8 per cent.
If loan is desired see me and place
application. F. B. COLLIER,
Clanton, Ala.

If I were a Farmer.

If I were a farmer I would keep
at hand a few reliable medicines for
minor ailments that are not so serious as to require the attention of a physician, such as Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel
complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for
coughs, colds and croup.

Chamberlain's Liniment for sprains
bruises and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's tablets for stomach
troubles, biliousness and constipation.

By having these articles at hand
it would often save the trouble of a
trip to town in the busiest season or
in the night, and would enable me to treat slight ailments as soon as they
appear, and thereby avoid the more
serious diseases that so often follow.

VELVET BEANS

Until further notice, my mill will grind velvet beans on Tuesdays and Saturdays as before.

Respectfully,
Wm. M. ADAMS.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a Commission dated the 4th day of April, 1918, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction

On the Fourth day of May, 1918, between the hours of 11 o'clock, a.
m. and 4 o'clock, p.m., at the court house in Clanton, Alabama, the following described property:

A part of the east half of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, Section 18, Township 20, Range 12,
and a part of the west half of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of Section 18, Township 20,
Range 12, and bounded as follows:

Commencing at an old ford on Bogles Creek below the mill, and running west to the public road where it joins the lands of J. W. Broadhead, thence north with said public road and line of J.W. Broadhead's land, to the point of beginning, so as to include the bed or run of the creek containing four acres, more or less; also that portion of the northeast fourth of Section 18, lying south of a straight line, commencing at the ford on Bogles Creek above mentioned and running through the middle of a lane separating the premises now being described from the lands formerly belonging to J. W. Broadhead, to a point on the railroad formerly known as the E. T. & G. R. R.; to gether with the west half of the southwest quarter and part of the west half of the northwest quarter of Section 17, west of Bogles Creek, in all 164 acres, more or less, and being the same lands conveyed by Mary H. Stephens and husband, Jas.
H. Stephens and J. G. M. Burke on the 1st day of December, 1888, the said deed being recorded in Volume 24, at page 551, in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama; all being in Township 20, Range 12, Chilton County, Alabama.

Which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz: P. A. Darby, Leon Slaughter, John Burke, Genie Wal-

EVERYONE MUST HELP.

Wars cannot be fought without money, and upon the Treasury centers every financial demand upon the Nation.

The rich of this country cannot alone meet the needs of the Nation; the men of the country cannot do it alone; the women of the country cannot do it alone; but all of us, the people of the United States, disregarding partisanship, forgetting selfish interests, thinking only of the supremacy of right and determining to vindicate the majesty of American ideals and secure the safety of America and civilization, can do the great and splendid work which God has called upon us to do.

W. G. McADOO,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Reasons!

Why you should use Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles, have been shown in thousands of letters from actual users of this medicine, who speak from personal experience. If the results obtained by other women for so many years have been so uniformly good, why not give Cardui a trial?

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Mary J. Irvin, of Cullen, Va., writes: "About 17 years ago, I suffered untold misery with female trouble, bearing-down pains, headache, numbness... I would go for three weeks almost bent double... My husband went to Dr. For Cardui... After taking about two bottles I began going around and when I took three bottles I could do all my work." E-80

How to Avoid Those Pains and Distress Which So Many Mothers Have Suffered.

Too much cannot be said for a wonderful preparation, familiar to many women as Mother's Friend.

It is more effective in its action than all the household remedies laid down for the guidance of expectant mothers. It is an external application that spreads its influence upon the cords, tendons and muscles of the abdomen, rendering them pliant, and they relax gracefully without that peculiar stretching strain.

The occasion is, therefore, one of unimagined joyful anticipation and too much stress cannot be laid upon the remarkable influence which a mother's happy prenatal disposition has upon the health and fortunes of the generations to come.

Her pain at the crisis is infinitely less when Mother's Friend is used during the period of expectancy for the muscles expand with less strain when baby is born.

Mother's Friend is for external use only. It is prepared by the Bradford English Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write them to mail you their interest-free booklet, and you will find it a wonderful aid to not neglect for a single moment to apply Mother's Friend according to directions around the bottle. It is a sure and safe way to avoid pain and distress.

QUALITY IN GROCERIES

Our constant effort is directed toward securing Groceries that shall possess that subtle something that for want of a better term, we call QUALITY.

Food may be perfectly pure, wholesome, and healthful, and still not possess that peculiar distinction that sets it in a class by itself for QUALITY.

If you would be known as a person of discriminating taste in eating, come to the store that cultivates that taste. Your appetite may be cultivated till it asks and demands the best, or it may be depraved till "any old thing" will answer.

Gentlemen:

Please allow me to state that I have sold your hog cholera remedy for one season and have ordered more for this season. Last year I sold it to 12 or 15 men who raise hogs. I told each of them to take the remedy, feed it to their hogs, and if they lost a single hog from disease of any kind not to pay me a cent for the remedy, but when they began to sell cotton every man came in and paid me for the medicine and everyone of them told me that it was the best hog medicine they ever used. One man paid me for the small package and bought $5 worth more and said it was the best that he had ever tried.

Yours very truly,

“Keep the Home Fires Burning” 99

Tonight there will be American boys in lonely listening posts far out in the desolation of No Man's Land, American boys in the darkness and the mud and cold of the trenches under the ceaseless thunder of guns and the scream of shells, American boys tramping along the pitch-black, shell-torn roads.

Through the long, dreary hours, as they wait and watch in the dark, while dangers lurk on every hand, their thoughts turn to the homes they have left behind, homes on distant farms, in scattered villages, in great cities, and they see in imagination the pleasant home lights shining out into the night.

They Are Fighting to Keep Those Home Fires Burning

You, back here in the peace and safety of the homes they love, can help in the bitter struggle that our boys must face tonight, and tomorrow night, and every day, and every night, until the final VICTORY is won. You, too, must work to keep the home fires burning—for our sons in France.

They need guns and more guns, shells and more shells,

they need tanks and transports and airplanes, good food and warm clothes and medicines and hospital supplies—an ever increasing abundance of all the vital materials of war, if they are to drive the ruthless German invaders back within their own borders, and establish for all time the sacredness of American liberty and the safety of America's homes—their homes, our homes.

For these lads that are fighting and dying for you—do your share to send them to VICTORY. Invest today in Bonds of the Third Liberty Loan—ALL the bonds you can. Keep the home fires burning.

"Teddy" Berates Man who will Not Give his Support to Country in this Crisis

One of Many Speakers in New York
District—Speaks for Liberty Loan Campaign.

New York, April 28.—No American has a right to a night's sleep, unless during the day he has done something to aid in the war against Germany, declared Col. Roosevelt tonight in urging a large audience at the Brooklyn Academy of Music to invest in the Third Liberty Loan.

A Man's Duty.

"The man who does not think it was America's duty to fight for her own sake, in view of the infamous conduct of Germany toward us, is standing on a level with a man who wouldn't think it necessary to fight in a private quarrel because his wife's face was slapped," asserted the former president, prefacing an attack on the "conscientious objector."

"I would try to find out what he is conscientious about," said the colonel. "He may be conscientious about killing somebody else; he may be conscientious about keeping his own carcass safe from injury."

Conscientious Objectors.

"If he merely objects to killing someone else, then send him to the front to dig trenches in the danger zone, or else put him on a mine sweeper. If he says that his conscience forbids him to do any of the necessary work of national self-defense, then I would answer that my conscience would forbid me to let him vote."

"The American who is not now heart and soul in favor of fighting this war through to a victorious conclusion is a traitor to this country and to mankind. He is unfit to live in America. He is unfit to be a free man, for his soul is the soul of a slave."

The loan meeting addressed by Colonel Roosevelt was only one of many held today in this district which on entering the last week of the campaign, is credited officially with less than 60 per cent of its quota of $900,000,000. The loan committee has determined that not only shall that quota be filled but that New York State northern New Jersey, and Fairfield County, Connecticut, shall contribute $1,500,000,000, or half of the total bond issue.

Children Help.

The committee announced tonight that public school children in this city have raised $27,530,940, representing 254,401 subscriptions. Children in one district whose residents are chiefly of German descent have sold more than $1,000,000 worth of bonds.

OBITUARY

On Monday, April 22, 1918 the beautiful spirit of Mrs. Lula E. Herrod of Plantersville, Ala. made its flight into that great beyond. Dear Lula was 32 years, 9 months and 13 days old.

As a Christian she simply lived it. As a wife, the word "faithful" fades into oblivion before the radiant light of her service. Every thought, word and deed, was lived for that which was right and for her husband. His interests, his tastes and his desires were her continued study.

She was a faithful member of Alpine Baptist Church from young womanhood. Alpine has lost one of its best members in losing dear Lula. She was ever ready to work for the interest of her church. She was a fine Sunday School teacher and her pupils all loved her, for she always had some plan or drawing with which to impress the lesson on the tender minds of her pupils.

As a mother, she was the personal friend, the companion of her child. No service was too great for her to render, nor sacrifice too hard for her to endure.

As a friend and neighbor, she had few equals. Mrs. Herrod seldom had the time to shine in that light, but when trouble came, she was always present—there with cheerful encouragement, a warm heart and willing hands to do what she could.

The community has lost a useful, unselfish Christian woman; and too, Chilton County has lost one of her educators. For "Miss Lula" as she was called, taught school for many years before her marriage, and the citizens expressed their appreciation of her many virtues on the day of her burial by their presence and the beautiful floral displays.

She was married to Mr. Henry G. Herrod October 3, 1914, from which union sprung one son, Henry Grady, Jr., and one girl. The little infant girl died a few days before her mother.

She leaves to mourn for her a husband, a darling son, father and mother, and four brothers, with many relatives, loved ones and friends. These have lost more than human language can express. May they catch the light of her peaceful, unbroken trust, and as they "cross over the river" one by one, join her at the pearly gates, where she is patiently waiting for their coming, to eventually complete the family circle in heaven, without the loss of one. And God shall wipe all tears away from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain.

Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Moore, after which the body was laid to rest in Alpine Cemetery.

Weep not, loved ones, for the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord.

An affectionate friend,

Mrs. C. C. Gay.

THORSEY GIVE BOOKSWhy are not other Communities Responsive to the Call of Patriotism?

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the following facts from Miss A. O. Angell, Librarian of Thorsby Institute, in regard to the donation of books from Chilton County to the war library work:

"A box of over 128 books is shipped today. (29th) to Camp Sheridan, free library. They have been kindly donated to the war library by Verbena, Jemison and Thorsby, in response to my appeal made to the entire county. Our school year closes June 6, and on or before that date further gifts from Chilton County may be referred to Dr. Thomas M. Owen, State Director, Montgomery, Ala."

Miss Angell is the Director of the book campaign for Chilton County.

FROM A CHILTON BOY ON THE FIELDS IN FRANCE

Mr. J. Bice hands us a letter from his son, Stroughton, who is with the army in France. We print the letter written to his father, as follows:

April 10, 1918.

Dear Father:

Was very glad indeed to hear from you yesterday and I also to receive the newspapers. It may sound funny but we are always anxious to get newspapers and find out how the war is getting along. The most we find out is vague rumors floating around, however, once in a while a grim truth comes our way which we have to keep to ourselves, and such things serve only to make our boys more determined to revenge the many activities committed by our enemy.

The battle of Somme is causing the Huns to suffer dreadful losses; of course the allies don't go unharmed, but everything is in our favor.

Tell the boys to keep drilling. I don't think we will need any more over here, but "safety first" is a very good plan. I know that you are awfully lonesome since all the boys have gone, but dad, you have the consolation of knowing that everyone of them are doing their duty.

Don't forget us in your prayers, and please remember me to all my friends.

Very Affectionately,

Your Son,

Stroughton M. Bice,

167, U. S. Inf. Band,

A. E. F., France.

CHILTON TO ORGANIZE
FOR Y. M. C. A. WORK

Letter is Received from District
Chairman in Regard to Local Work Here.

Chilton County will shortly be organized to have a part toward the enlistment of 1200 Y. M. C. A. Secretaries for over-sea war work. The name of the committee who will have charge of this county will be announced in the next few days.

The National War Council of the Y. M. C. A. is making urgent appeal to the various state, district and county enlistment boards to send 1200 men a month for over-sea work amongst the soldiers. Mr. T. L. McGill, a business man of Selma, has taken charge of the work for this state and has headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. building at Birmingham, Ala. This county is in the Montgomery District and the chairman of this District is Dr. R. H. McCaslin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Montgomery, Ala. Dr. McCaslin, in a letter to the editor of this paper has the following to say regarding the character and qualifications of men who desire to enlist in this great war work:

"Alabama is now called upon to furnish her quota of men for the Army Y. M. C. A. work. Montgomery and her district also is being urged to supply men who can meet the requirements for the Y. M. C. A. war council work. These requirements are very stringent, but of a necessity so. Men of unquestionable character only will be considered. No man under thirty-one years of age can go over-sea in the Army Y. M. C. A. unless in rare instances, a man's physical disqualifications are so apparent as to enable him to go.

Men in class one, two, or three of the draft can not be used. Men in class four and class five, who have the other qualifications may be taken for the home camps.

"The Montgomery committee has been instructed to appeal to men to make sacrifices for the good of the boys in the camps. Y. M. C. A. war workers are not paid salaries, but are given an allowance according to their financial needs. No man in Y. M. C. A. work need expect more than the amount of his salary previous to entering the war work. In most cases he must get on with less.

"There are many attractive features that will appeal to men of patriotic and unselfish purposes, that the committee will be very glad to explain more fully upon inquiry. The Y. M. C. A. National Council is urgently calling for men for over-sea work. Many Alabamians, no doubt, will respond to this call as they have to all others when properly presented."

Anyone in this county desiring to know about the details connected with the Army Y. M. C. A. war work please communicate for the present with Dr. R. H. McCaslin, First National Bank Building, Montgomery, Ala."

TOM PARRISH WRITES
LETTER TO BANNER

Clanton Boy now in Remount Company, Stationed at Jacksonville, Fla.

Dear fellows:

As per, your request, I shall endeavor to tell you about this place and some of my experiences since I came to the army.

I arrived here at Camp Johnson on December 27, 1917, with two other fellows from Clanton, these being John Armstrong and Frank Callen. We walked around oh, so long, before we found headquarters, as the camp was entirely new and no one could tell us of such a place. There was abundance of ice here even in this "land of flowers and sunshine."

This camp is located on the St. John's River about twelve or fourteen miles from Jacksonville, and the land in and surrounding it is almost perfectly level and is sandy. The shade trees are principally palmetto, and on the river banks they are covered with moss, and are very picturesque.

Well, after we found headquarters they marched us around a while and at last found room for us and we went in to call it home for the time being. This was called a receiving company, where all the recruits were placed upon entering camp. From here they are assigned to regular companies. They issued us three blankets, medium weight and on them was stamped in large letters "U.S." but it looked like "ME" to me. Here I spent my first night—not asleep though. The coming morning we were put on the "stump gang" and believe me, it was some blue crowd the next morning. We were put on K. P. (kitchen police.) I did not know what this was but soon after entering the "mess hall" I found out. I was introduced to dish-pan and tub and soon was completely interned with dishes. Here we had it all day among the pots, pans, etc. I shall never forget Armstrong's looks peering over those dishes. You could just barely see his eyes.

For the next fifteen or twenty days we had drill fatigue in general. Then they tore into our bunch and transferred Armstrong away. In a few days I was transferred and landed in Auxiliary Remount Station No. 333, and here I am yet. From Auxiliary Remounts they get out wagon companies, field remounts and train horses and mules for such purposes. We must have about five thousand horses and mules here now. You can very often see a rookie coming down the road leading six mules, and just behind him six fellows trying to lead one mule. There is lots of excitement here.

We have cavalry drill and its some real sight. I might say I am at present looking after the feeding of the service corral, which contains about one hundred and fifty mules and horses, principally mules.

Have been down to the oldest town in the United States—St. Augustine, and saw many interesting things. This sleepy old town contains stately pile of Moorish art, among them being old Fort Marion, which was founded in 1690. It is the only example of mediaeval fortification on this continent and was built from the plans of Marechal de Vauban, the famous French engineer, and is a superb example illustrating the art of military engineering as developed at that time. The fort with its auxiliaries covers twenty acres. In the walls of the stairway of the barbacon are carved the "Arms of Spain." It was considered for many years the strongest fortification in Alabama. It glories in the military record of having never been captured.

I was in the oldest church and the oldest house in America, said to have been finished in the year of 1797 and was built on the old Moorish type. I also had a drink from the "Fountain of Youth," searched for so long by DeSoto. Inscriptions in several old buildings showed that they were crumbling when New York was in her infancy.

They have a wireless station here, and on the bay have submarine chasers to protect the city.

I must conclude, but how about adding just a few locans to the Union-Banner, as the boys away from home look for this section first.

As lots of my new friends have gone from here and are "over there" (of course they are not the good old southerners who meet you with a smile, and take it from me, the boys whom you can depend on most), and in my apportion I have decided that I feel about like the following:

Now listen my fellows and you shall hear

From the lips of one who was there,

How the three-thirty-three battled and fought

Without losing a hair.

The camp was laid near Jacksonville town

At the time of the great world war,

And not one of us who is living today

Knows what we were put there for.

We drilled and trampled through mud and slime,

We marched to the target range,

And though we did all they asked us to,

We now bow our heads in shame;

For many were called and many were chosen.

And many were sent across

To aid France in her gallant fight,

But we are still at a loss

To understand why it was wished upon us.

The bravest and best of them all

To stay at home and read the reports

Of our comrades who answered the call.

The recruits came in and we drilled them hard,

But they left ere we'd fairly begun;

For they were the ones that were privileged to go

And help France clean up the Hun.

They are the ones who are honored today,

They are the ones whom you cheer.

But for us we stayed at home and drilled these men.

The days are gloomy and drear;

We can't tell of glory and honor won

On the fields that were red with blood

But I tell you fellows when they left us behind

We were mighty sorrow and sore,

So when you're cheering the boys who come back,

When you thrill at the war songs they chant,

Don't forget that the men who fought hardest of all,

Fought the battle of old Comp Johnson.

ABOUT RHUMATISM

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that there is a remedy that will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. It is called Chamberlain's Liniment.

JOHN JONES KILLED
AT MOUNTAIN CREEK

Body Run Over and Horribly Mangled by Freight Train.
Early Thursday Night.

One of the most horrible accidents ever occurring within this county was that enacted on last Thursday night at Mountain Creek, when the body of John Jones, aged 16, was run over and cut to pieces by a freight train. The accident happened at the public crossing at the station. The boy was struck by the engine, and the entire train of cars passed over the body. The pieces of the body strewn up and down the track were assembled and removed some time the following day. The report coming to us has it that the young man was passing the crossing when the train came along and struck him.

The deceased was the son of Mr. Rory Jones, who lives between Mountain Creek and Verbena.

It was indeed a gruesome spectacle that was presented when friends of the young man went to the scene of the tragedy, and piece by piece, picked up the mangled form, and assembled the remains for burial.

A SERVICE RECORD

To go to France to fight in the army if this country is at present regarded as a supreme honor. But close to this honor stands the man, who, too old to go, sends his sons
for the cause.

As one of the latter class of patriot, we believe Mr. J. Bice, Treasurer of Chilton County stands out in a class by himself. Mr. Bice has at present five sons who are bearing arms with Uncle Sam's forces. Some of these boys are already on foreign soil, while the others are on their way "over there."

Mr. Bice's patriotism does not stop with sending his boys to fight the battles. For, as we write this, he is on his way to the Bank to buy a Liberty Bond to back them up and help them to come home again, if they are lucky enough to survive
the conflict.

We nominate Mr. Bice to head Chilton's list of patriotic men who are sacrificing to conquer the foes of liberty who would ravage the world of humanity.

COMMISSIONERS SALE

CAUSE OF HEADACHE

By knowing the cause, a disease
may often be avoided. This is particularly true of headache. The most common cause of headache is a dis-ordered stomach or constipation, and
may be corrected by taking a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try
it. Many others have obtained permanent relief by taking these tablets. They are easy to take and are mild and gentle in effect.

GROUND GLASS IN FOOD ONLY ONCE

MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED CAS-ES OF THIS ALLEGED OUTRAGE HAVE BEEN INVESTIGATED.

PREFERENCE LIST FOR COAL

Issued by Priorities Board for Gul-dence of Distributing Agencies—Council of Defense Favors School District Organizations.

(From Committee on Public Information.)
Washington.—The frequent and widespread publication of statements concerning the presence of ground glass in foodstuffs has led the committee on public information to inquire into the authenticity of these reports.
It has been advised by the food administration that thorough investigations, of more than 200 of the cases has disclosed only one instance in which ground glass was found in the foodstuffs inspected.

The case in which glass was found occurred at Fort Smith, Ark. A baker in that town had had trouble with his employees, one of whom, desiring to destroy his employer's business, had filled with glass a loaf of bread which was to be delivered to an orphanage.
When the bread was served to the inmates of the institution several of them suffered lacerations of their lips.
No more serious injuries resulted.

The first preference list issued by the priorities board, which names industries whose operation is considered of exceptional importance to the country during the war, is for the guidance of all agencies of the United States in the distribution of coal and coke. Included in the list are plants engaged in the manufacture of the following:

Aircraft and supplies; ammunition and small arms for the United States government or the allies; chemicals;
coke; electrical equipment; electrodes;
explosives; farm implements and farm operating equipment; feed; ferro-alloys; fertilizers; fire brick; food; food containers; gas; gas-producing machinery; guns; hemp, jute, and cotton bags; insecticides; iron and steel; machine tools; mining tools and equipment; oil-well equipment; locomotives, cars, and other railway supplies; ships (not including pleasure craft); soap;
tanned leather; save for patent leather;
tanning extracts; tin plate; binder twine and rope; wire rope and rope wire.

Army and navy camps and cantonments are included in the list as well as mines, newspapers and periodicals, oil refineries, public institutions and buildings, public utilities, railways, producers and wholesalers of seeds, except flower seeds.

In a statement urging the creation of "community councils" the council of national defense cites these advantages of the school district as a unit
of community organization:

The school district is small enough to permit individual contact, and is non-political.

The schoolhouse supplies a meeting place in each district, and in many schools includes domestic science, manual training, and other facilities.

The school district reaches children and parents alike, and in the cities the school is, to a large extent, already in touch with the alien population.

The school is an established center
of information and education.

The school principal or faculty provides a tried agency through whose assistance community organization can be quickly effected.

The school district, with the schoolhouse as its center, is already a social community, especially in farm districts.

Wage increases in the United States are not keeping pace with the advance in the cost of living. Assistant Secretary of Labor Post asserts. Figures compiled by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor, he says, show that while the cost of food last year increased 25 per cent for the entire country, wages rose only one-half or two-thirds of that rate.

The statement issued by the bureau of labor statistics showing the increased living costs throughout the United States for the year ending January 15 says:

"Comparing January 15, 1918, with January 15, 1917, the rate of food as a whole increased 25 per cent. All articles show decided increases with the exception of potatoes, which decreased 16 per cent. Cornmeal shows the greatest price change, an increase of 77 per cent. Bacon increased 64 per cent; lard, 58 per cent; pork chops, 44 per cent; ham, 42 per cent; milk, 35 per cent; beans, 29 per cent; butter, 25 per cent; eggs, 23 per cent; bread, 19
per cent; sugar, 18 per cent; and flour,
17 per cent."

A review of the first year of operation of the federal farm loan system shows that 2,308 national farm loan associations were incorporated, representing about four associations to each five counties of the United States. They average 20 members, or a total membership of about 56,000 farmers.

The 12 land banks have received applications for over 120,000 loans, amounting to about $300,000,000. About 80,000 loans, amounting to over $160,- 000,000, have been approved, and on $30,000 of these loans over $80,000,000
has been paid to the farmers.

fact that a contribution of money toward the winning of the war is quite as essential as the contribution of men, the officials of the treasury department have put this idea into effect.

This is a new idea incorporated in the Liberty Loan honor campaign.
There is to be great rivalry all over the United States for the honor of winning one of these flags. Every individual subscriber will have a window card, on which his name is to be inscribed for display from the windows of his residence or place of business.

The new flag has the red border and the white field of the Red Cross membership flag. But instead of the crosses on the field the Liberty Loan flag will have three vertical blue stripes to indicate the number of the loan. Honor flags furnished to cities and towns are to be 36x54 inches and are to be made of the best material
as furnished to the navy.

Rivalry is Growing.
A blue star will be inserted on the white field in addition to the stripes
if the community doubles its quota.
In event that it is tripled or quadrupled, two or three stars will then be added.

Each state which reaches its allotment will receive a large flag. In addition to the stripes, this state flag

will also bear on the white field the names of the towns in the state that have completed the required quota.
As rapidly as the various towns report, their names will be added.

Over the treasury department building in Washington will float the largest flag of the entire series. This flag will bear the names of the different states which will reach their quota. There will be the liveliest rivalry between every state in the Union to secure the honor of having its name go on this national flag, just as competition between cities and towns will be of the most exciting kind.

The idea that the name of each community is to go down on the state honor flag just as soon as its limit is reached is already being widely discussed. Committees in towns where much rivalry has already existed with neighboring towns are already organizing for a whirlwind campaign in order to beat their rivals to the state honor list. Ambitious towns that are anxious for municipal publicity are catching at the idea with a view of having their success in the campaign flash throughout the state and Federal Reserve District.

The first town in the United States
above two thousand in population which reports to the secretary of the treasury the full subscription of its quota will be signally honored. Its name and achievement will be flashed over the entire country by all press associations, giving the fact of its success. Secretary McAdoo may visit the town in person, and present the honor flag with his own hands to the committee which has been able to lead the nation in the campaign.

With the secretary's party will go motion picture camera men from the Hearst-Pathe News Pictorial, who will make pictures of the presentation ceremonies and other interesting views of the town; and these pictures will be displayed from one end of the country to the other.

Honor Rolls Given Out.
Every community will be furnished with an honor roll to add the committee in securing subscriptions. This honor roll, a large sheet 25x38 inches, will bear at the top a reproduction of the honor flag, with the words: "Help our town win the right to fly this flag." Below will be left space for the signatures of all those who buy bonds. This honor roll will be similar to that on the state and national service flags.

Just as soon as the full quota is subscribed, and the right to fly the flag has been won, special exercises will be prepared in each community to mark the flag raising. The governors of the states in the Sixth district have learned of the plans with interest, and it is probable that they will be present at the flag raising in their different states.

Practically every committee
throughout the district is hard at work with their organizations, making special efforts to land a flag as shortly after the opening of the campaign
as possible. The many rivalries which will arise between the towns in this part of the country will be watched with keen interest.

McADOO APPEALS TO FARMERS TO BUY BONDS

Twenty Million Subscribers Needed To Make Third Liberty Loan
Complete Success

Atlanta.—"The more people who buy $50 bonds and $100 bonds and $500 bonds, the better it is for America and the more discouraging it is to our enemies!"

This is the message which Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo bore to the people of the Sixth Federal Reserve District in his tour of the district last week in the interest of the third Liberty Bond campaign.

Speaking before thousands of people in six cities of the Southeast, the Secretary was cheered to the echo by his immense audiences, as he told of the needs of the government, the character of the bonds, and made a stirring plea for every man, woman and child in the district to get into this war which is now being waged for their liberties,
if only by the purchase of the smallest bond.

Mr. McAdoo made it plain that without the aid of the farmers of the South, and the merchants and professional men and all the laboring classes,
the third loan would be a failure,
which would be worse than a German defeat.

"The banks must perform their necessary functions and keep their funds in liquid form to supply credits to the industries engaged in the manufacture of munitions of war and in carrying on the general business of the country, and we must not take the only American citizens, as in the last loan, had subscribed, but that this issue was taken by fifteen or twenty millions of American citizens!"

Want Twenty Million Buyers.
"Do you know, it would be a most impressive thing if we could say to the Kaiser that not 9,600,000 American citizens, as in the last loan, had
subscribed, but that this issue was taken by fifteen or twenty millions of American citizens!"

In his speech, which rang from one end of the district to the other, the head of the treasury traced the part which America has played in her one year of war; how she was forced into the struggle against her wish, and only took up arms after all her sacred rights had been contravened by the unprincipled Hun. He told how the American flag was ordered of the high seas by Berlin, and how the only American ships that were allowed to sail would have had to be painted like a barber pole in order to escape the torpedoes of the submarines.

In defense of freedom and the world's liberty, America has in one short year marshalled her resources to a wonderful extent, and now at this great crisis, when the supreme struggles are being waged in Picardy and our allies are crying for more men and supplies, it is our problem to mobilize America's might for the battlefield as quickly and effectively as possible. The only way this can be done is through the Liberty Loan;
through the subscriptions which must come from the rank and file of the people of America.

Appealed to Women.

Mr. McAdoo spoke of the fine work that is being done by the women of the nation, and urged them on to greater efforts. He stressed the absolute necessity for saving, both food and materials of clothing, that our armies may be fed and our allies supplied. He insisted that the people of this country must learn to sacrifice in order that the war may be won.

"We must realize that we are really in this war, and that war does mean sacrifice," the secretary emphasized.
"We must learn in the second year of the war that we must not indulge ourselves to the extent that we have in the first. We must purify our soul, and fortify our souls for this great and mighty contest which is now proceeding upon the battlefields of Picardy. And the extent to which we do that is the extent to which we are going to help ourselves."

"I have been told by some people that the rate of interest on Liberty Bonds is too low, and, therefore, we could not rely upon the patriotism of the American people to buy these bonds. I have been urged to make the rate of interest higher than it is today, in order that the bonds might sell more readily. I do not believe, my friends, that it is necessary to raise the rate of interest on the bonds in order to sell them. I do not believe that the patriotism of America is expressed in the rate of interest on a Government Bond. I do not believe that the American dollar is a fugitive and must be chased by high rates of interest when the government's credit is back of them."

"I want to tell you, fellow-citizens, because this is your problem, as well as mine, that if we do not all take an intelligent stand now in favor of keeping the rate of interest on government bonds stabilized at 4 1/2 per annum, unless we are willing to make a fight to preserve the Government's credit upon that basis, then it is going to be the most unfortunate thing that can possibly happen to the American people. We have got to make it clear to every man, to every woman,
and to every child who buys a government bond, that while it may be true that they could invest their money in something else that would pay a larger return, they can invest their money in nothing else that is so full of blood and necessity as a United States Government Bond. If we do the wrong thing at this time, it comes back to you."

The response to Secretary McAdoo's appeal in this territory has been immediate. Wherever he appeared, the sales have been boosted to a wonderful extent. It is now the duty of every man, woman and child in the Sixth district who reads his words to make his or her subscription without delay through the local Liberty Loan
committee.

More than a billion dollars of American agricultural exports were sold to the European nations at war with Germany during 1917. Had this nation maintained peace at the price of obedience to the German war zone decree,
this market would have been closed,
and this billion dollars' worth of agricultural products would, most of them, have rotted on farms and in warehouses.

QUALITY IN GROCERIES

Our constant effort is directed toward securing Groceries that shall possess that subtle something that for want of a better term, we call QUALITY.

Food may be perfectly pure, wholesome, and healthful, and still not possess that peculiar distinction that sets it in a class by itself for QUALITY.

If you would be known as a person of discriminating taste in eating, come to the store that cultivates that taste. Your appetite may be cultivated till it asks and demands the best, or it may be depraved till "any old thing" will answer.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady. Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prine, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child... I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time... I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. Cardui about my taking Cardui. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles... After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved... before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to all my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.

Coming of The Sunbeam

How to Avoid Those Pains and Distress Which so Many Mothers Have Suffered.

Too much cannot be said for a wonderful preparation, familiar to many women as Mother's Friend.

It is more effective in its action than all the health rules ever laid down for the guidance of expectant mothers. It is an external application that spreads its influence upon the cords, tendons and muscles of the abdomen, rendering them pliant, and they expand gracefully without that peculiar wrenching strain.

The occasion is, therefore, one of unbounded joyful anticipation and too much stress cannot be laid upon the remarkable influence which a mother's happy prenatal disposition has upon the health and fortunes of the generations to come.

The pain at the crisis is infinitely less when Mother's Friend is used during the period of expectancy for the muscles expand easier and with less strain when baby is born.

Mother's Friend is for external use only, is entirely safe and may be had of your druggist. It is prepared by the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write them to mail you their interesting "Motherhood Book." They will send it at once, without charge, and you will find it very helpful. Do not neglect for a single night and morning to apply Mother's Friend according to directions around the bottle, and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

FOOD CONTROL MEANS VICTORY

European Shortage Places Problem Before American Government—Farsighted Policy Adopted.

NEED 75,000,000 BU. WHFAT.

Food Administration Asks Aid of Every American in Gigantic Task of Feeding Millions.

It is the food problem over there that makes a food problem over here. If we wished to be supremely selfish—and supremely shortsighted—we could go on eating as much as we like and whatever we like, without much difficulty or interruption—at least, until the Germans came!

But we are not doing things in that selfish and suicidal way. We are trying to make a great common pool of all of our food, and all of the food of the allies, and all of the food we can get from South American and other neutrals, and dividing it up fairly among America, England, France, Belgium and Italy.

This does not mean that all of the people in the great pool are going to have the same ration, but means that we are trying to arrange to have enough for everybody, so that the soldiers—our soldiers and their soldiers—will be well fed, as they have to be to fight hard and continuously, and that the munitions workers and the workers in all the other necessary industries, and the men and women at home will all have enough to keep alive and well. It is absolutely necessary to do this if the war is to be won, and we are going to do it, but it means planning, working, arranging co-operating, being careful, not wasting, saving.

And it means that each and every one of us has got to help.

Now, we have enough and more than enough food for ourselves, and the Government is going to see to it that we keep here at home a sufficient supply of every essential kind of food to support our people. But over there they simply have not enough. Lord Rhonda, the English food controller, recently cabled the American food administrator, that unless we can send the allies before the next European harvest 75,000,000 bushels of wheat in addition to what had been sent up to January 1 of this year he could not assure the people of the allies that they would have a sufficient supply of food to carry on the war.

He did not say anything in this cable about the other food necessary, but he has told of these needs in other cables—and by his actions in England. For example, his latest regulation compels a reduction of meat eating in the United Kingdom to a maximum of one pound per week per person, this pound including the bone and other waste parts in the meat as bought in the shop.

The allies must have more wheat, more meat, more fats, more dairy products, more sugar. Their harvests were very short—France had less than half her normal crop of wheat—and the available shipping is small in amount and constantly being lessened by submarines, so that it is now practically impossible to use any ships for the long voyage necessary to bring food from Australia and other remote markets. The food must come chiefly from America. In specific figures it is necessary for us to send to the allies 1,100,000 tons of foodstuffs a month. This is a great responsibility and a great problem. The food must be found, and also the ships to carry it. It is being done, but can only continue to be done by the help and full co-operation of all of us over our broad land. We must produce and save more.

To supply the wheat necessary until the next harvest, we must reduce our consumption by from one-fourth to one-third; we must cut down our usual average consumption of meats and fats by from 10 to 15 per cent, and dairy products by about 10 per cent.

Over there they are tightening their belts and doing everything they can. They are eating war bread; they are cutting down their sugar in England to two pounds per person per month, and in France and Italy to one pound—how much are you eating?—and they are using ration cards for most of the staples. We must meet sacrifice with sacrifice. If we don't, we are helping to lose the war instead of helping to win it.

Will You HELP Bring Back The Boys of This Community?

Our boys, the boys from this town and this county and this state, are fighting the Huns. They are in the trenches in France, they are sailing the U-boat-infested seas, they are going "over the top" in the face of German cannon and machine gun fire.

Many, many more of our boys are now training and will soon be in France, and more are yet to be called.

And, remember, these are our boys; those who are near and dear to us. They are doing their ALL. They are giving their ALL. They are prepared to make the extreme sacrifice that our homes, our town, our nation, may escape the ravages of the Hun.

We want them—one and all—to come back to us—

Will You Help to Bring Them Back?

Will you help to provide them with the things they need, with clothes and food and munitions, that they may complete as quickly as possible the terrible task assigned to them?

Will you support our boys while they are fighting for us, fighting the German autocracy that seeks to destroy our ideals of liberty and justice?

Compared to their heroic sacrifice our part is but small—that of providing the funds to keep them equipped; to build and man the ships that will transport their food, their clothes, their guns and their ammunition, and to pay for these things.

Yes, we, the people of this community, will support our boys.

We will do it by buying bonds of the Third Liberty Loan; by buying all these bonds we can; by making such sacrifices as are necessary to do this. That will be our support for Our Boys.

OUR MEN TRAINED BY RIFLE EXPERTS

SOLDIERS IN TRAINING CAMPS TAUGHT HOW TO USE AND CARE FOR WEAPONS.

BRITISH COMMUNAL KITCHENS

They Prove Successful in Saving Food and Fuel — State Councils of Defense Will Advise War Risk Claimants.

(From Committee on Public Information.)

Washington.—The National army and many organizations of the National Guard having been equipped with the United States rifle, model of 1917 (modified Enfield), it became necessary to devise some plan whereby troops could be efficiently trained in the use of this weapon in short time.

A statement authorized by the ordnance department tells how experts in shooting, many of them members of United States teams which won international shooting matches, were commissioned and sent to various camps to instruct officers and men in shooting and in the operation and care of the rifle.

In one camp officers under instruction from these men gave a demonstration in dismounting and assembling this rifle while blindfolded, the record time being 7 minutes for dismounting and 22 minutes for assembling. There are 86 parts to the rifle, chaucles' classes, the mechanics being taught to make repairs to rifles in the field. Frequently they will have to do their work at night, when they will not be allowed to use lights, and therefore they must be thoroughly trained in taking down the rifle and putting in new parts by sense of touch.

Communal kitchens are being established throughout Great Britain and are proving successful in saving food and fuel, according to reports to the department of commerce. An article from a recent issue of an English newspaper is quoted:

"The war has brought home to the public that the communal or national kitchen is a necessity and can be made a success. Within a comparatively short period there will probably be installed many hundreds of these establishments throughout the country. The national kitchen was originally intended to supply poor people with nourishing and attractively prepared food at low prices, but there is considerable prospect—certainly, in fact—that the more prosperous will form a fair proportion of the customers."

"As an example of the outfit of a people's kitchen that at Hammersmith (London) may be taken as a model. This supplies about 6,000 customers a week, which probably represents 12,000 to 15,000 consumers, as a customer commonly purchases for his or her family."

The council of national defense has urged the state councils to provide voluntary aid for dependents of men in the service in collecting arrears of pay and family allowances, arrears of pay, travel pay, extra pay, or other money due estates of deceased soldiers and sailors.

Allotments and allowances under the war-risk insurance law are paid directly by the treasury department to the persons entitled thereto; claims for insurance taken out under the law should be addressed to bureau of war-risk insurance, treasury department, Washington, D. C.; claims for arrears of pay, extra pay and travel pay of deceased soldiers and sailors and all other claims should be addressed to auditor of the war department, Washington, D. C.

Consul General Thackara, at Paris, cables: "A decree of April 5, published April 6, gives notice that all merchandise prohibited from importation by law of May 6, 1916, will be seized and sold for profit of the state unless a regular import authorization be presented within five days after arrival. For first 30 days after promulgation of this decree requests for derogations from its provision can be addressed to the minister of finance, in case particular circumstances justify an exception."

Two per cent of the enlisted personnel of the divisions and detached units of the regular army, National Guard, and National army, excepting the coast artillery and various staff corps, will be designated to attend the fourth series of officers' training schools, which will open May 15. Admission has also been granted to some men who have had at least one year's military training under army officers at educational institutions which have earned government recognition.

Night driving of motor-truck supply trains from the West to the seaboard has been started by the quartermaster's department as a step toward final training to fit men for service in France.

According to the council of national defense, the experience gained in cross-country convoy work has made the truck companies able to travel entirely independent of the countryside. Camps are made at the regular hour, no matter where the company is located, except that open country is given preference over cities.

Optical glass equaling the product of European manufacturers, from whom only it formerly could be obtained, is now being produced for military use by the bureau of standards of the United States department of commerce and several privately owned factories. One shipment from the glass factory in Pittsburgh, for use by the navy department, contained 780 pounds of high-grade optical glass—enough to provide lenses for probably 750 binoculars.

Development in glass manufacturing in the United States has been similar to that of dye making. Before the war manufacturers of optical goods in this country were content to import all their glass from Europe, themselves doing only the grinding, polishing, and mounting. European glass factories, one of the three largest being located in England, one in France, and one in Germany were closely guarded to protect secrets of the trade sometimes a century old. It was considered impossible to produce efficient glass without formulas and factory processes developed by many years of experimentation.

One of the problems facing the bureau of standards when, with optical companies in America, it started to replace with locally made products the supply of European optical glass which had been cut off by the war, was to provide suitable pots for melting. In one process of its manufacture the glass must be kept at temperatures as high as 2,000 degrees F., when it would rapidly dissolve a container made of iron, steel, or other metal. Pots now being used which satisfactorily withstand the heat and chemical actions of molten glass are made of clay found in the United States.

In addition to the factory operated by the bureau of standards at Pittsburgh, several privately owned companies are now furnishing optical glass for military use in telescopes, binoculars, field glasses, periscopes, and other technical and scientific instruments.

The quartermaster corps, charged with the responsibility of feeding and clothing the soldiers, is rigidly inspecting the food purchased for the troops to see that only pure articles are supplied. As an indication of the amount of food that must be obtained, says a statement authorized by the quartermaster general, 1,500,000 men consume daily 1,500,000 pounds of beef, 225,000 pounds of bacon, 210,000 pounds of ham, 135,000 cans of tomatoes, and 225,000 cans of jam—with other articles aggregating 6,750,000 pounds.

These quantities of foodstuffs are subjected to thorough inspection which begin at the source and continue until the food is actually consumed. Each depot of the quartermaster corps is a central subsistence business of its own, supplying the camps, cantonments, aviation fields and other posts in its territory. The subsistence officers are held responsible for the quality of the goods they receive.

Before the supplies reach the depots, however, they are passed upon by inspectors in the packing houses, canneries, and other sources of origin. The records at Washington show the capabilities, character, and standard of every establishment furnishing food for the army. The specifications which their products must meet are clear and exact.

The inspection branch maintains a current file of unreliable dealers and unreliable products, insuring the elimination of dealers who, having been denied the right to supply some of the many depots of the army, make subsequent attempts to obtain contracts at other points.

Relatives and friends of several soldiers in army camps have been victimized by swindlers who wired or wrote for funds under soldiers' names. In each instance it was requested that money be sent by wire waiving identification, or by mail to general delivery the customary explanation being that the soldier had been discharged and would have no way of securing identification, nor of getting mail addressed to his company.

The following is a typical telegram, sent to the father of a soldier in a southern camp:

"Have been discharged. Coming home. Going to Atlanta through country tonight. Please wire me $60 at Atlanta so I may pay for uniform and come home direct. Wave identification as I am not known in Atlanta. Wire cash quick so I can get it tomorrow morning."

Before being complied with, any request for money to be sent under such conditions should be verified by a letter or telegram to the commanding officer of the camp in which the man whose name is signed to the request is stationed.

The United States government is looking for men who can take charge of branch offices of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, and men to act as assistants in these offices. Branches are located in the principal commercial cities. The salaries range from $1,800 to $3,000 for managers and from $1,200 to $1,800 for assistants.

A noncompetitive examination will be held May 16 in various parts of the country. Applicants will be examined in export-trade technique, promotion of commerce, and economic geography, and credit will be given for knowledge of foreign languages. The examinations will be under the direction of the civil service.

The minister of agriculture of Brazil has been authorized to establish modern experimental farms and agricultural colonies, especially for the education of orphans and abandoned children.

FURLOUGHS ARE TO HELP FARM WORK

WAR DEPARTMENT INTENDS TO LET ENLISTED MEN GO HOME TO SOW AND HARVEST.

HOW TO MAKE APPLICATION

Many Drafted Men Have Been Excused Under Vocation Provision—Trade Tests Used to Secure Skilled Workers for Army.

(From Committee on Public Information.)

Washington.—For the purpose of augmenting agricultural production it is the intention of the war department to grant furloughs to enlisted men to enable them to engage in farming during the present season. Commanding officers may grant such furloughs within prescribed rules whenever it appears they will contribute to increased farm production.

Furloughs may be given by commanding officers of posts, camps, cantonments, divisions, and departments. They will be for short periods, largely for seeding and harvesting time. They will not be granted to enlisted men of or above the grade of first sergeant, nor in an organization that has been ordered to move or is in transit from points of mobilization or training to a port of embarkation. All furloughs granted will be recalled and the men ordered to their organizations when they have received preparatory orders for duty overseas.

Furloughs granted for farm work will be without pay and allowances, except that enough pay will be retained in each case to meet allotments in force on the day of the order, war-risk insurance, and pledges on Liberty bonds.

For specially qualified experts in agriculture furloughs may be granted by the secretary of war upon application by the secretary of agriculture, providing such furloughs are voluntarily accepted by the persons for whom application is made.

Individual applications for furloughs submitted by relatives will be on a form to be furnished by local draft boards. Two sections are to be made out and presented to the local board, which can complete the form.

If the furlough is granted the application will be filed by the commanding officer and a certificate furnished the soldier. If not granted, the application will be returned with reasons for disapproval.

If the soldier initiated the application he will give the name of the person for whom he desires to work, from whom will be ascertained the need for farm service.

Furloughs may be granted en bloc to men who are willing to accept them, upon requests of farmers, when time consumed in traveling from the post to the place of labor will not exceed 24 hours. In making these applications farmers will use a form of the provost marshal general's office, also going to the local board.

Under provisions of the selective-service law making specified vocations a ground for exemption or discharge, apart from the "necessary industries" dealt with by the district boards, 67,716 men were excused from military duty.

Of the men exempted, 1,665 were federal or state officers; ministers, 3,976; divinity students, 3,144; in the military and naval service, 47,822.

County and municipal officials numbering 880 were discharged; custom-house clerks, 171; mail employees, 1,476; arsenal workmen, 2,358; federal employees designated by the president, 1,777; pilots, 1,772; mariners, 2,606.

The alien property custodian has been given power to sell, at private sale without advertisement, enemy-owned live stock, feed or food stuffs, hides and other animal products, agricultural products, fertilizers, chemicals, drugs, essential oils, lumber, cotton, tobacco, furniture, books, glass and china ware, wearing apparel, jewelry, precious stones, pictures, ornaments, bric-a-brac, objects of art, raw or finished textile materials, trunks, boxes, partially or completely manufactured metals, fabrics, rubber and rubber products, and all kinds of merchandise, in lots having a market value of not more than $10,000.

Such sales may be held at places and under conditions prescribed by the alien property custodian.

Federal reserve banks are to rediscount notes secured by farm tractors, according to the department of agriculture. Instructions have been issued to all federal reserve banks authorizing them to rediscount tractor paper presented by any member bank, provided it has maturity not exceeding six months and the tractors are purchased for agricultural purposes.

In Oklahoma, county councils of defense are securing pledges from automobile owners to furnish transportation to speakers for community councils. The pledge provides that the chairman of the county council may hire a car at the expense of any signer who fails to furnish transportation at the time promised.

Investigations by the department of agriculture in 15 states show that of a total of 6,836,492 sheep, 34,883 were killed by dogs in one year and were paid for by the counties.

To increase the accuracy of selecting skilled workers among the enlisted men a system of trade tests has been developed. Exact and comprehensive definitions of the more than 600 different trades represented in the military organization have been brought together in a 300-page book, "Trade Specifications." Tables have been prepared showing the detailed needs of each unit for skilled and semiskilled workers. Work has been done in refining methods of selecting and training men for special duties in the navy, special service regarding selection of aviators, assistance to provost marshal general on the questionnaire, and assistance rendered the surgeon general for general intelligence tests for enlisted men and officers.

The war-service exchange of the committee on classification of personnel answers inquiries of persons desiring to serve the army. It informs the department of labor of the needs which the war department has for men.

The committee on public information has made public editorial comment in the German press on the revelations in the Reichstag main committee in connection with investigations of the Daimler Motor Works. It was shown that the Daimler company was earning 173 per cent profit per annum, the company's sworn statement placing the profits at 11 per cent, and while the company was earning 400,000,000 marks monthly in excess of its peacetime profits it had threatened to reduce output unless higher prices were paid. The Berliner Tageblatt (Liberal), said:

"Energetic action of the authorities and the Reichstag is demanded. Such enterprises as the Daimler firm are not compelled to submit books for inspection, while every little trader selling vegetables must show his profits. We demand government confiscation of illegal profits and, if necessary, state control."

Vorwaerts (Government Socialist), said:

"The Raimler revelations will hardly occasion the same surprise in financial circles as among the masses. The Daimler company's purpose was not to deceive the financial world, but the authorities, so that its real profits might be kept from the public's knowledge. The company reckoned upon the commercial ignorance of the government and this experience shows that such reliance is usually justified."

Attention of fertilizer manufacturers and dealers has again been called to the necessity of taking out federal licenses.

All fertilizer manufacturers, including mixers, even though their output may be small, are required to take out licenses. Agents and dealers doing exclusively a retail business, whose gross sales do not amount to more than $100,000 a year, are not required to take out licenses or to make applications for blanks. However, any retail dealer or agent whose gross sales amount to more than $100,000, and who does not apply for a license, is liable under the provisions of the act of congress providing for the governmental control of the industry.

Application for license should be made to the law department, license division, United States food administration, Washington, D. C.

American soldiers and sailors in German prison camps prior to April 12, 1918, will not be deprived of their rights to war-risk insurance because of inability to make personal application, provided such application is made in their behalf.

According to a statement by the secretary of the treasury, applications for insurance may be made in behalf of such prisoners by persons within the permitted class of beneficiaries under the military and naval insurance law. This class includes wife, child, parent, brother, or sister. Application should be made to the bureau of war-risk insurance, at Washington, D. C.

The health of troops in the United States continues very good, according to a recent report to the surgeon general of the army by the division of field sanitation. Admission, non-effective and death rates are somewhat higher than last report, due chiefly to prevalence of influenza and bronchitis with complicating pneumonia, in many of our northern camps.

National Guard camps, as a group, continue with remarkably low rates. Very few new cases of measles and meningitis have occurred.

National army camps continue to have high sick rates as compared with camps of other groups, though the rates are lower than last report. Scattering cases of measles are reported from all camps.

Field and garden seed are unconditionally exempted from all embargoes, according to the department of agriculture. Instructions are issued to all railroads to do everything possible to expedite the movement of seed.

Over 200,000 applications for insurance by officers and enlisted men of the naval service had been filed by March 31. The average amount of insurance on each policy was about $7,800, making a total of more than $1,500,000,000. Payments on war-risk allotments are now about $1,000,000 a month.

Wednesday, April 3, was a peak day in sales of war savings stamps, when $4,120,332 was recorded at the treasury for the day's receipts from stamp sales.

RED CROSS NEWS

Your Red Cross is an all-American, largely volunteer organization, authorized by President Wilson, audited by the War Department, enthusiastically approved by your army, navy and your allies.

The work covers both military and civilian relief in every war-torn allied country, and full reports of all expenditures are continually being published, or are available through the Chapters.

It stands beside our boys in training here or "over there."

It watches beside the pillows of battle-broken men, and offers rest and sympathy of war-torn fighters on brief respite from the front.

It carries food and clothing to hungry mothers and little ones in the ruined villages.

It helps rebuild the scattered pile of brick and stone they once called "Home."

It brings back to the hopeless mothers' arms their long-lost child.

It helps care for the orphans of the men who died that civilization might live.

It helps care for the thousands that have fallen prey to dread tuberculosis, and nobly represents in deeds of mercy, relief and restoration the more than twenty million members that have made its great work possible.

Will you do your share to keep this "Hand of Mercy" at its work?

Every cent of every dollar received for the Red Cross War Fund is spent for war relief. All administration costs, relief work for other than war purposes (such as the Halifax and Guatemala disasters) are taken care of out of membership dues, and the interest accruing from the banking of the war fund has made available for war relief at least $1.02 for every $1.00 contributed.

FROM OVERSEAS THE Y. M. C. A. CALLS FOR 3,000 VOLUNTEER WORKERS TO HELP WIN WAR

With the Colors

"The leadership of a Y. M. C. A. hut in France has bigger possibilities of national service than most of the bank and college presidencies and big city pulpits in America."

It was with the above cabled statement that E. C. Carter, director of the overseas work of the American Y. M. C. A. in France, emphasized the seriousness of his appeal for men sent out from Paris headquarters. With all welfare, entertainment and physical work and the conducting of the post exchange stores among our soldiers in France, England and Italy in charge of the American Y. M. C. A. at General Pershing's request and the French, Italian and Portuguese governments appealing for trained American Y. M. C. A. workers to perform a similar service for their soldiers, it is obvious that an enormous number of Red Triangle men are needed "Over There"—3,000 new recruits within the next ninety days, or more. Y. M. C. A. secretaries that have been sent across during the previous twelve months.

"It is imperative that we meet our obligations to the American and Allied armies," continued Director Carter in his recent cablegram relayed to Southeastern War Work Council headquarters of the Young Men's Christian Association at Atlanta, Ga. "There are ninety-six important posts here without sufficient workers. Forty-seven of them are near the front and thirty-eight positions are under shell-fire."

Pratt Offers $100,000.00

Herbert Pratt, vice president of the Standard Oil Company, now in France as an American Y. M. C. A. worker, recently cabled to New York City national headquarters urging that hundreds of men be sent at once.

"Carter and staff are doing remarkably fine work," read Mr. Pratt's cablegram, "but often are too tired because of lack of assistants." Mr. Pratt has offered a personal gift of $100,000.00 to defray the expense of sending more secretaries overseas.

To fill this crying need, special efforts are being made by the National War Work Council at home to enlist secretaries for service under the Red Triangle "Over There." Every section of the country has been especially organized within the past few weeks for this purpose. Governor Whitman of New York, Governor Rye of Tennessee, Harry Linder and Gipsy Smith, famous British evangelist, are typical of the type of men heading the campaign committees and speaking at mass meetings to enlist Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. secretaries.

500 Men Southeast's Quota

Within the next ninety days, from the seven states of the Southeastern Department—Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee—approximately 500 secretaries must be recruited; 300 for service overseas and 200 additional to fill up the gaps in the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. forces in the cantonments and training camps in the southeast. Dr. W. W. Alexander, director of the Southeastern Department, war personnel board, is in charge of the campaign in this section with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga. Recruiting committees have been appointed in every state.

One of the reasons why it is so difficult to obtain men who are satisfactory for service abroad is described by A. G. Knebel, executive secretary for the War Personnel Board of the National War Work Council, in a recent interview.

"Nothing Tame About 'Y' Work"

"Thousands of applicants rejected include many who picked out the Y. M. C. A. as a nice soft branch of war service. The thousands accepted are those who are willing to face hardship and danger—often under a rain of shrapnel and machine gun fire.

There is nothing tame about the Red Triangle work in this world conflict. It is no task for a man faint hearted or of low physical vitality."

Not every secretary who goes overseas is sent to the front line trenches—but he may be. The Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. follows the flag and the fighting men of the Allies everywhere but over the top. The man who goes up to the trenches pitches a tent, erects a sheet iron hut or finds a deserted building, cellar or dugout in which to begin work.

Will Beat His Sons to France. Most admirable are the ambitions of many fathers of soldiers and sailors to enlist for Red Triangle service, and thus, perhaps, meet their sons in France or on the high seas. The Personnel Board has the record of a man who recently sailed for France, who has one son an officer and another an enlisted man. He is very proud of the fact that he will be "Over There" before his sons.

Recruits for American Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. service overseas need be "only ordinary men and good Christians," as described by Dr. Alexander of the Southeastern Department Personnel committee. Men of almost any profession or vocation are acceptable, but they must be over the draft age—thirty-one years—or have been rejected as physically unfit because of a noticeable defect, such as a deformity, loss of eye or limb, which at a glance will classify the secretary.

Absolute loyalty to the government and sympathy with the cause of the Allies in our fight to the end for a world safe for democracy, must inspire the Red Triangle worker. A man whose father or mother was born in any of the countries with which we are now at war cannot serve overseas. A secretary cannot be accompanied by his wife, no more than can an officer.

Recognized by Military

Wearing the regulation United States army or navy uniform distinguished by the Red Triangle insignia on the left coat sleeve overseas, but on this side uniformed in olive green of a cut not unlike the British uniform, the Y. M. C. A. secretary has been recognized as a part of the military and naval establishment vitally necessary to the winning of the war. An American officer recently home from the French front said: "Three forces will win this war on land, the army, the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A."

For full information, write to your State Recruiting Secretary, care Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. Recruiting Headquarters, located as follows:

SOUTH CAROLINA, CHARLESTON.

"Clean Up" Week For Red Triangle Collections In May

Atlanta, Ga., April.—"Clean Up" week has been designated from May 1st to 8th. This does not mean the furnishing up of municipalities or the date set for burning rubbish in back yards. It is the date set by the second Y. M. C. A. war work campaign fund organization in the Southeastern military department for boosting collections on the last campaign.

In a report by R. H. King, director of finance in the Southeast, issued on April 15th, it was shown that 73 per cent of the collections had been made. It is his aim to make that percentage climb to 85 per cent by the end of "Clean Up" week and local committees will act accordingly.

Two states have already exceeded the 86 per cent mark; Mississippi and Florida. Georgia comes next with 71½ per cent, the others are as follows: Alabama, 70; South Carolina, 68; North Carolina, 68; Tennessee, 60.

"The mobilization of dollars in direct gifts to be applied to national defense is a short-cut method of winning the war," said A. H. Whitford, national financial campaign director, when told of the "Clean Up" week plan of pushing collections of subscriptions

Food Facts

NEWS OF THE WEEK

From State Food Administration

—Montgomery.

WHEAT IS THE TEST.

Germany's war of starvation is a challenge most of all to America.

Against Germany's lust for domination, America's purpose is to establish the society of nations. Against destruction, America's aim is healing. Against mastery, America's ideal is service.

We cannot surpass the steadfastness of Britain, the courage of Italy, the exaltation of France.

We cannot excel the Allies in heroism, in endurance, in fortitude. Our force in battle—though it may be decisive—will not be as great as theirs.

We can hope to contribute most to the common cause from our larger resources. To relieve desperate privation, America can supply food.

Giving up wheat is a little thing compared to their death struggle—in which our soldiers are splendidly sharing.

A little thing—yet we can do it with greatness of spirit. Supporting our army and adding wholehearted service to humanity, it is in America's power to defeat forever the passion of conquest.

Now is the hour of our testing. Wheat is the test.

LET ALL WHO CAN DO MORE.

The best we can do, it will not be enough to meet all needs. We cannot make up the submarine losses nor replace the spent reserves.

Doing our utmost, not everyone in this country can keep within the allowance. Misses in crowded cities, with no proper kitchen outfits, depend on their bakery bread and ready cooked food. Their habits are controlled by their circumstances.

Those who can must do more to maintain the margin.

Some wheat in any case must be brought from Argentina, the less the better. For every voyage to Argentina is the same as taking two vessels from the short Atlantic ferry. Every vessel taken from that traffic keeps a regiment from the front.

Going without wheat adds directly to our forces in battle. Going without wheat loosens the shipping tension which limits our armed strength.

A splendid response comes instantly. Hundreds of hotels have pledged themselves to go without wheat until harvest. Households, communities, counties all over the land have cut down wheat to the limit or given it up altogether.

But the best we can do is too little. Let all keep within the allowance; let all who can, do more.

INSTRUCTIONS TO FEDERAL CORN MILLERS.

"This is to inform you that Certificate Form No. 3 may be issued to persons actually engaged in work on the farm, including tenants, share hands and wage hands, providing that corn has been furnished them by the landlord or the renter of the land from corn raised on the farm, place or plantation on which they are now working and that you exchange or grind this corn into meal."

"In no case can Certificate Form No. 3 be issued where you sell meal."

SELMA TO THE FRONT.

Hon. J. B. Ellis, County Food Administrator for Dallas County, writes the Food Administration as follows:

"Our merchants, both wholesale and retail, as well as the consumers, have entered into the spirit of conserving flour, sugar, etc., and as a result the merchants in Selma have today ready to be turned over to any place that the Government may designate, about 3,000 or more barrels of flour that can be delivered by or before May 1st. We have submitted to Mr. Leah, the Wholesale Grocers' Representative, a list of the different concerns that have this flour on hand, showing the prices and size packages that it is put up in, so that he can take the matter up and dispose of it wherever he desires."

"I believe that if the people of our state would all come up in a responsive way as we have in this connection that we would soon have the question of the flour supply for our allies in hand."

WHAT MARENGO HAS DONE.

"No more wheat flour will be sold in Marengo County until the new wheat harvest comes in." This is the message received by R. M. Hobbie in a signed statement from the merchants of Marengo County last Thursday morning. The written pledge of the merchants is to the effect that as soon as the stocks of flour now on hand are sold, no more will be purchased during the present season. The pledge winds up with these splendid words: "We call upon all true and patriotic men and women of this county to join us in this war measure, and we desire to go on record as proclaiming the lack of patriotism of those who will be selfish enough to object to an insignificant sacrifice which will mean the saving of the lives of millions of fellow beings."

"This pledge is made in the fear of God and out of fullness of hearts that have heard the cry of the distressed and the call of the God of love and tenderness."

Go to the Movie Theater "Over Here" and help the Boys "Over There"

Three quarters of a million dollars was the war tax for a single month, paid the United States Government, from the pennies collected on entrances to the picture theatres throughout the country. Our war tax on admissions was $35.00 for the month of April, running just a few days in the month.

There is one thing America has overlooked. It is not a big thing measured in terms of war measure, but it is a vital thing. It is like a meatless, wheatless, wasteless day—tremendous and dynamic in the aggregate. It is the need of encouraging the screen as a factor in the fight against the Hun. Like the weak unit in a giant bridge, it must not be underestimated.

To count the screen as a luxury is wrong. To stay away from it on the theory that money is being saved is misunderstanding a national obligation, for Uncle Sam has imposed a tax on every nickel and dime that goes into the picture show receipts. It is not a tax for policy, for extravagant expenditure or for stored revenues. It is a tax that will help win the war, that will bring victory, that will bring our boys back from the horrors of the trenches sooner than without it.

The boys who are lying out in the trenches need every ounce of aid America can give.

They need every cent we can raise for their comfort, their equipment, their assistance.

Every time you go to the picture show you are piling up pennies for an American lad in khaki.

Every cent of war tax brings victory just so much nearer.

Uncle Sam needs the dollars for war, but he needs the pennies more.

Don't stay at home.

GO!

Remember that every time you go to the movies you are helping take care of our boys "over there" and maintain a greater courage of living "over here."

Watch for our announcements and count on getting some good and lots of pleasure from every program we put on, and big values from the small amounts invested.

STATE CIVIC DEPARTMENT

Chairman's Letter.

Chester, Pa., Feb. 24, 1918.

I desire this month to emphasize from the civic standpoint the plan of the Federal Children's Bureau to make the twelve months from April 3, 1918, the anniversary of our entrance into the war, to April 6, 1919, "Children's Year," with all forces and agencies of society focused on the saving of child life and the freeing of the rising generation from the physical defects which the draft for the national army has revealed as far too prevalent today.

Readers of the Bulletin, of course, know that the woman's clubs, and the woman's division, council of national defense, are asked to take the lead, and that a definite goal is set of 100,000 baby lives to be saved. The quota of Pennsylvania, 100,000, as taken from the census of children under five and the child death rate, is 8,313 lives. In other words there must be over 8,000 fewer deaths of children in Pennsylvania this second year of the war than heretofore.

Dr. O. Gorman of Newark, N. J., where wonderful child welfare work is being done, says that the statement that the census of infant mortality are stomach and intestinal diseases, respiratory diseases and manition, is only a partial statement. That these things are themselves effects, and the real causes are ignorance and prejudice, poverty and its attendant evils of bad housing, impure milk and water, alcoholism, and the so-called social diseases.

So these are the things to be attached in any worth-while baby-saving campaign, not only that the children may be saved this year, when the war toll of human life is so appalling, but that, as they grow up, they may be better fitted to live and so serve, and to carry the economic load the war is laying on their shoulders.

This work is definitely civic, as improving the living conditions for the children will bring improvement all along the line. It is also definitely war work, and your Chairman is very earnest in her effort to show that every civic gain will enable this great commonwealth to meet with that much greater efficiency, the enormous demands which the war is making upon her resources.

So, I beg that all who have not received the advance material from the Federal Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, will write for it and we may make a united effort to save 8,313 babies and young children for whom we will be responsible.

Faithfully,

Elizabeth Lull Cochran.

The annual pay of the army now exceeds $90,000,000.

The navy ration in 1917 cost $0.438 as against $0.27684 in 1916.

DAMAGES TO COTTON CROP

WADE DISCUSSES SOME DANGER THAT COMES TO THE EARLY PLANTING OF COTTON.

Early Spring Damage.

When spring time opens unusually early as it did this year, farmers get the spirit of extra early planting. There are nearly always some adverse weather changes to follow. Sometimes it is frost or freezes but more frequently long cool cloudy weather does most of the damage by rotting the seed just as they are trying to germinate. By far the greatest damage is generally done to cotton seed, as they are more susceptible to cold when plenty of moisture is present and the temperature is low. They must either germinate or spoil and if the temperature remains low for a week, spoil and decay is usually the result.

How Seed Germinate.

There are three natural conditions necessary to cause seed to germinate. The three elements are heat, air and moisture—all acting in conjunction with each other. If moisture is not present, the seed will keep and wait for the moisture to come. If sufficient moisture is present, the seed will try to germinate. If the air is excluded by too much wet soil or the temperature of the soil remains less than forty-eight degrees for a week, the seed will spoil and decay instead of germinating. This condition can not always be avoided but can be materially helped by planting medium early instead of extra early. Planting shallow is the best means of protection. By having the seed near the surface the excess moisture soon sinks below and the sun's rays restore some heat to the surface between clouds or through the clouds when thin areas are passing. I have never known a stand to be lost when planted shallow to the extent of being barely covered. Late planting when the weather is dry and no indication of rain is the only time when shallow planting is not advisable.

Replanting Cotton

The recent cool cloudy weather has caused many poor stands of cotton. As a general rule farmers plant their best seed first and seldom have anything left for replanting but mixed gin run seed. Many times the stands are so poor that plowing up and replanting it over is necessary, if it can be done in due time. I have seen many thin stands plowed up that should have been left and cultivated. I would rather have what many people call sixty per cent of a stand of old cotton than to have two stands of late cotton planted with gin run mixed seed. Many people call ten times too much cotton a stand. A thin stand of cotton is tedious to work, but always makes the largest yield if it is anywhere near regular. What is meant by regular is not too many long skips. It is best to replant a few skips and save your old cotton if you have what most people call a sixty per cent stand. Some of the largest yields that I have observed were produced from skippy stands where the skips were planted with cow peas or peanuts. If your first planting of cotton is thin and seventy five per cent regular, keep it. Late cotton makes good boll weevil pastures.

MASSENGALE PRAISES NEWS-PAPERS FOR THEIR EFFORTS

Hon. St. Elmo Massengale of Atlanta, Director of publicity for the Third Liberty Loan Campaign in the Sixth Federal Reserve District, is pleased with the co-operation the movement has received from the newspapers.

The following are the contents of a letter received from him by The Union-Banner:

Atlanta, Ga., May 3, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

Dear Sir: The Third Liberty Loan is nearing a close. From official and unofficial reports obtainable, it is evident that the Sixth Federal Reserve District again has gone "over the top"—this time with a larger total and more individual subscriptions than in either of the previous campaigns. The actual figures will not be in hand until after midnight Saturday, and we feel confident our fondest hopes will be more than realized.

The great success of the loan could not have been achieved without the unrestricted support of the newspapers in this district. In presenting strong editorials, in the handling of news matter and in placing display advertising, our newspapers surpassed the wonderful records of the first and second loans. Your co-operation on the first loan was wonderful; on the second loan more so, and on the third loan perfectly marvelous.

The able assistance rendered your local Liberty Loan Committee by you was largely responsible, we believe, for the great total of sales rolled up in the counties in your territory. It is a pleasure to me to acknowledge on behalf of the government the debt of gratitude to you and to extend our sincere thanks for this noble and patriotic work on your part.

With very best wishes for your continued success and prosperity, I am, Yours very sincerely,

St. Elmo Massengale,

Director of Publicity.

DEWEY GILES, SOLDIER IN FRANCE WRITES MOTHER

Mrs. C. A. Giles of Clanton, sends a letter for publication from her son, Dewey, who is now with the American forces in France. Following is what he says:

Somewhere in France, Apr. 12.
Dear mother:

I will write you a few lines to let you hear from me. I came to the hospital the 5 of February, and have been in a bad shape a long time; but I am well now and having a good time.

Mamma, you know I have trouble with my ear every winter, but this time I had it operated on, and will not be bothered with that trouble any more.

I don't think the war will last much longer. I am going to the front before long; and when I get there you know it will stop soon.

I will close for this time and will write a gain soon.

Your soldier son,

DEWEY.

SINGING AT PROVIDENCE LAST SUNDAY EVENING

The editor of the Union-Banner has the pleasure of making a personal report of the singing at Providence Church, Beat 16, on last Sunday afternoon; and too, the matter of reporting it is not half as pleasant as was the listening to the songs that were sung.

The singing was called for the afternoon only, and was participated in mainly by the singing classes of Providence and Salem Churches. W. H. Robinson acted as chairman of the meeting, and with appropriate remarks as to the purpose and intent of the coming together, started off the afternoon program by singing a song and offering prayer.

The following directors of music led four songs each: L. F. Cleckler, R. M. Robinson, J. W. Cleckler, Lee Robinson, C. H. Robinson, Jasper Robinson, G. C. Powell.

The following persons acted as organists: C. H. Robinson, Lee Robinson, Miss Fannie Bell Robinson, and Miss Alice Wyatt.

At the close of the singing program a few words of interest and encouragement to the singers was spoken by Mr. D. S. Robinson, who had come from Coopers to hear the singing.

Appropriate closing was done by Riley Robinson, who sang "God be With you Till we Meet Again," followed with benediction by Mr. D. S. Robinson.

The editor of the Union-Banner desires to commend the efforts of these people in the conduct of their song service. They displayed marked efficiency in the technicalities of the music, and showed profound evidence of the sincerity of their hearts in the service of our master through singing His praises.

CHM. TILLEY CONGRATULATES CHILTON ON BUYING OF BONDS

Hon. John S. Tilley, Chairman of the Montgomery District in the Third Liberty Loan Campaign, has written the Editor of the Union-Banner a letter commending Chilton County for the spirit we made manifest in buying bonds.

Following is Mr. Tilley's letter:
Montgomery, May 4, 1918.

Dear Editor:

Nothing that has happened in the campaign has given me more pleasure than the news that Chilton has doubled her quota in the Liberty Loan Campaign. To put Chilton County on the nation's Honor Roll is a splendid achievement, and Chilton will appreciate the efforts of County Chairman Higgins and capable associates who have worked so hard to serve their government and to reflect credit upon their county. I have no words to adequately express my praise for all those who have helped in this great work.

John S. Tilley,

Chm. Montgomery Dist.

Of course Mr. Tilley is proud to see us subscribe our quota, and ever able it as we did, but we are sure it is not any more pleased with our record than we are ourselves.

UNCLE JIMMIE MIMS, CANDIDATE, BUYS BIGGEST BOND

Uncle Jimmie Mims, farmer of Collins Chapel, has gained himself another distinction aside from that which he may attain as a candidate or commissioner of Chilton County. He has bought the biggest Liberty Bond of any man in Chilton.

So it may be seen that while he is unning for office, he has not failed to see the right way in regard to the war situation. He realizes that in spite of all offices or anything, the prime effort must be put forth by American citizens to whip the Germans and he is doing a great big bit of the job in spending his money for Liberty Bonds.

Uncle Jim is just a farmer; one of those plain old Chilton County fellows who farms intensively, spends his money judiciously, and lives plentifully and happy.

CHILTON GOES OVER THE TOP

LIBERTY LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE COUNTY IS MORE THAN DOUBLE OUR ALL-LOTMENT.

Everybody in Chilton County is proud of the record we have made in subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan. Our allotment was considerably more than doubled.

In the county there were 541 persons who subscribed to the Loan and purchased bonds. The total amount subscribed was $65,800.00, and of this amount there was $60,000.00 fully paid. Chilton County's allotment was at first based on 10 per cent of the banking resources of the county, which would have amounted to $33,400.00. Later an adjustment of the matter was made in which our allotment was based upon 7½ per cent of banking resources for agricultural counties, and this made the final allotment for the county amount to $25,050.00.

The Third Liberty Loan was well supported by the farmers of the county. The largest amount of bonds bought by any single person was purchased by a farmer, Mr. James M. Mims, of Collins Chapel, Beat 9. Mr. Mims bought $3,500.00 worth.

Special mention is made by the Loan Committee of the work and assistance rendered in the campaign by the following persons: Mrs. W. C. Dyer, Stanton; C. M. Foshee and Mrs. C. N. Parnell, Maplesville; E. V. Speer, Mt. Creek; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Oliver, Verbena; G. C. Walker, C. F. Jones, J. B. Downs, the Banks and Newspapers of Clanton; C. R. Foss, Thorsby; Dr. R. B. McNeill, Jemison, and Mrs. Stewart, Clanton.

Thorsby is considered to have made the best record of any community in the county, having subscribed over $8,000.00. Verbena is entitled to credit for its subscriptions of over $14,000.00.

Clanton brought up her usual part in the Loan by subscribing and raising about $28,000.00 of the quota.

LARGE DOCKET OF CASES IN COUNTY COURT MONDAY.

The county court for this month looked rather like a real "big court." Judge Reynolds had a long list of cases to dispose of and he went through them on record time Monday finishing up in one day.

The following is the list of cases disposed of:
J. M. Mahan, T. L. McKee, W. E. Plier, charged with unlawful removing of telephone wire. The court rendered an opinion that this was a malicious prosecution, and assessed the cost against the complainants.

Charley Allen, colored, charged with cruelty to animals; fined $50 and costs.

G. W. Thomas, charged with violating prohibition laws; case continued to first Monday in June.

Frank Calloway, charged with violating the prohibition laws; plead guilty and fined $100; cost amounted to $42.20; all fines and costs in this case paid and defendant discharged.

Isaac Dennis, charged with assault and battery; plead guilty.

Adolphus Gordon, colored, attempt to ravish; waived to Grand Jury.

Ham Archy, obtaining money under false pretense; plead guilty and sentenced to 30 days hard labor. Cost $22.15; sentenced to hard labor for the cost; sent to Vredenburger Lumber Co.

Johnnie Clark, charged with train riding and disobeying parents; guilty and sentenced to Boys Industrial School at East Lake. The young man was carried to the school Tuesday by the Sheriff.

J. R. Burnett, Ira Huett, Jim Hamilton, charged with petit larceny; plead guilty and fined $25 and cost.

John Askins, charged with petit larceny; fined $100 and 6 months hard labor. Notice was given of motion for new trial.

J. P. Traywick, charged with using abusive language; transferred to juvenile docket till first Monday in June.

George Askins, concealing stolen property; case continued till Friday, May 10 at 9 o'clock.

The new road machine which the most economical pieces of machinery in existence, considering the amount and character of work which it does.

This week two days have been put in done an amount of work, which, if done by the old pick and shovel method, would be as big a task as building the pyramids.

The county court of Chilton is somewhat of a money-making institution for the county. It is operated with little expense to the county
compared with the cost of Circuit Courts, and relatively speaking it brings into the funds of the county
more revenues than the jury courts.
As an instance of this, we call atten-

May, which was disposed of by Judge practically nothing.

The Editor of the Union-Banner
did not go to the singing convention at Bethany last Sunday, but we are informed that the candidates did.
A certain candidate for sheriff was there, but as he is rather musically inclined anyway, we know he was not talking politics any. And we learn also that Beat 9 sent a delegation of candidates for Commissioner down to look the situation over. We hardly think they went hunting votes either,
for they are all good men and love to help out the good cause of sacred song. That's right fellows, go to it.
We don't blame you a bit for getting all the chicken pie and tater custard
you can, along with the splendid singing which we know they had for you to listen to. And also if you can rake up a few votes for use about next August, we suppose that is all right too. Most anybody would do it if he could when he is a candidate.

ACROSS THE SEAS THEY CALL

Across the seas from every war-torn nation in the allied cause there comes the call for Red Cross help.

It comes from soldiers who have grimly faced the gleaming bayonet steel and poison gas and screaming shells, and who now lie with parching throats and throbbing wounds.

It comes from soldiers sick with fever, pneumonia, tuberculosis.

It comes from soldiers crippled, mutilated, blinded, who can no longer fight and must be taught and trained for useful occupations.

It comes from the underfed, shivering, helpless prisoners in the German prison camps.

It comes from little children, orphaned, homeless, slowly starving day
by day, by tens and tens of thousands.

It comes from mothers in the pil-laged zones of war whose hearts and souls have been made numb with horror.

From all these millions of suffering human beings there comes across the seas the call for help—help that because of the frightful burdens placed upon our allies cannot be given unless it be provided by the American Red Cross.

Another hundred million is needed to "carry on."
What will America's answer be?

CAUSE OF HEADACHE

By knowing the cause, a disease
may often be avoided. This is particularly true of headache. The most common cause of headache is a dis-
ordered stomach or constipation, and
may be corrected by taking a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try
it. Many others have obtained permanent relief by taking these tablets. They are easy to take and are mild and gentle in effect.

The official review of the first year of war issued by the committee on public information contained the following description of the work of American engineers in France:

American engineers have gone into French forests and done the work of the pioneers of our own Northwest.
They have frequently been under fire.
One of their first tasks was the reconstruction and extension of a railroad 600 miles long to carry our products from ports of disembarkation to general bases of operation.

The First Engineers troops, 1,100 strong, arrived in France about three months after war was declared. Since then the number has been greatly augmented. These troops have been constantly engaged in general engineering work, including the construction of railways, docks, wharves, cantonments, and hospitals.

An American army locomotive was built in this country in 21 days and shipped to the Expeditionary Forces.
Many other locomotives, cars, logging trains, tracks, disassembled buildings and other equipment have been shipped to augment the output and facilitate the construction operations of American forces abroad.

The federal trade commission has issued orders to 98 lumber companies of the middle West and far West requiring them to stop certain trade practices in relation to mail-order lumber concerns. Among the practices which are barred by the orders are the following:

Obtaining from mail-order concerns,
in bad faith or by subterfuge, estimates of the prices of lumber and building material and obtaining catalogues and special information intended only for bona fide customers and prospective customers.

Through actual or threatened withdrawal of patronage, inducing manufacturers or wholesalers to refuse to furnish supplies of lumber and building material to mail-order concerns.

Following or causing salesmen of mail-order concerns to be followed from place to place with the object of hindering and embarrassing them in their negotiations with prospective customers.

The latest bread allowances in France, placing the ration at about two-thirds of that heretofore maintained, limit maximum consumption,
per day, as follows:

Children less than three years old,
3½ ounces.

Children from three to thirteen years old, seven ounces.

Persons from thirteen to sixty years old 10½ ounces (hard workers in this age class may receive 3½ ounces more.)

Persons over sixty, seven ounces.

Parents of soldiers in camps are warned by the war department of a swindle which has been successfully operated in various camps.

A telegram is sent informing that the soldier has a furlough, and requesting funds by wire to come home, valuing identification. The rest is a mere matter of detail.

Parents and friends should be warned of this game and of the similar one where the telegraphic request is to mail money to the soldier, care general delivery.

The total amount of foodstuffs shipped during March from the United States and Canada to the allies, according to the food administration, was about 1,100,000 tons, compared with 750,000 tons in February.

Representatives of the musical-instrument industry have agreed to a curtailment of their output to 70 per cent of normal during April and May.

Three landing fields have been obtained for the proposed Washington-
New York airplane postal service, at Washington, Philadelphia, and New York. According to the post office department, the service will start not later than May 15.

Red Cross workers at line of communication canteens in France accompany American soldiers on shopping trips, to see that they receive correct change and otherwise advise them in their encounters with French shopkeepers.

SUGAR DEALERS MUST
CUT SALES

Candy, Soda water, Soft Drinks, etc.
Make Way for Canning and Preserving.

Wholesale and retail dealers selling sugar have been notified by the U. S.
Food Administration that Rule 4 will be strictly enforced. This rule reads as follows:

"Rule 4. On and after May 15, 1918, the wholesaler and retailer shall not ship or deliver sugar to any person engaged in any business of manufacturing, bottling, packing or preparing products in which sugar is used, until he has received from such purchaser a certificate or certificates duly endorsed by the buyer and issued to the buyer by the Federal Food Administrator for the State in which the buyer is located, certifying that the total amount of sugar to be sold or delivered will not give the buyer more than his fair share of the sugar than available for distribution in the United States.

"This rule shall not apply to sales or deliveries to (a) hotels, restaurants, boarding-houses, or other public eating places whose products are sold for consumption on the premises;
(b) wholesale or retail dealers in sugar holding a license from the United States Food Administration; (c) bakers and cracker manufacturers holding a baker's license from the United States Food Administration."

Certificates are required by the foregoing rule in selling to any of the following classes: (a) manufacturers of apple butter, beverage syrups, candy, catsup, cereals, chewing gum, chili sauce, chocolate, cocoa,
condiments, confectionary, explosives,
flavoring extracts, fruit preserves,
fruit syrup, glycerine, honey, invert sugar, ice cream, jam, jelly, meat products, medicines, preserves, pickles, soda water, soft drinks, syrups, tobacco, wine; (b) canners, preservers and packers of every kind of vegetables, fruit, milk, and meat; (c) soda water fountains and dispensaries of soft drinks; (d) bottles of soft drinks.

Federal Food Administrator R. M.
Hobbie, in an interview given to the press today, announced that this rule would be strictly enforced. Any wholesale merchant who violates the rule will have his license revoked at once and retail merchants, not under license, will have their supplies not only of sugar but of all food stuffs stopped at once.

The Food Administration has found it necessary to put on these rules in order that there may be an available supply of sugar for canning and preserving and that housewives may be able to thus save a large amount of perishable food that would otherwise be wasted.

Proprietors of many small soda fountains, confectionary establishments, etc., seem to think that they are not embraced by these sugar conservation rules. But wholesalers and retailers are warned that no matter how small the business, it is embraced in this rule and they must not supply them with sugar unless the proper certificates are delivered to them.

Housewives who desire sugar for preserving and canning are not effected by this rule and may still purchase sugar under the plan already in force for them. By signing certificates, which all merchants handling sugar should now have on hand,
they can obtain 25 pounds of sugar
at a purchase just as they have been doing.

SUGAR RATIONING FOR MANUFACTURERS

"After May 15 no manufacturer, using sugar for manufacturing purposes, will be permitted to purchase sugar without the surrender of authorized sugar distribution certificates issued by the State Food Administration in the state where the manufacturing concern is located, and endorsed on the back by the buyer."

This announcement made by the Federal Food Administrator, R. M. Hobbie, is of vital interest to many manufacturing concerns in Alabama and they should at once take the necessary steps to enable them to secure the proper certificates in order that their business may not be interrupted when the rule goes into effect on May 15. The only exceptions to the rule are that hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and public eating places, whose products are sold for consumption on the premises and bakers and cracker manufacturers engaged exclusively in the manufacture of their products, are not required to have these certificates in order to purchase sugar. All other manufacturers must have them and can secure them with very little trouble, provided they follow the plans of the Food Administration and act promptly.

Manufacturers should at once apply to the Federal Food Administrator, Bell Building, Montgomery, Ala., for blank forms, which must be filled out and sworn to. When these statements are returned, the amount of sugar which the manufacturer will be allowed, is figured out from a table of percentages of the amount allowed each line of business which is uniform throughout the United States and which all manufacturers are compelled to abide by.

Non-negotiable and non-transferable certificates will then be issued by the Food Administrator to the manufacturer for the amount of sugar he is entitled to. These certificates must be signed and delivered to the seller when sugar is purchased. The seller then cancels the certificate and returns it to the Food Administration for record. Refiners, sugar brokers, wholesale and retail grocers, after May 15, will not sell or deliver sugar to any manufacturer except on delivery of these certificates. It will be readily seen that this plan will require a very large amount of clerical work in the office of the Federal Food Administrator and all manufacturers are urged to apply for blank statements at once and carefully read and study the instructions accompanying them so that there can be no confusion or delay in securing certificates for the amount of sugar the government will allow them to purchase.

ARMY AND NAVY NEED TRAINED MEN

THOUSANDS OF EXPERT WORKERS WANTED IN CIVILIAN BRANCHES OF SERVICE.

MEAT CAREFULLY INSPECTED

Every Part of the Supply for Army Use Is Scrutinized, From Stock Yards to Mess—Desertions From Camps Due to Discouraging Letters.

(From Committee on Public Information.) Washington.—The civilian branches of the army and navy are in need of thousands of highly trained workers, and before the end of 1918 these branches must be increased by at least 20,000, according to the civil service commission.

The ordnance department of the army needs large numbers of mechanical engineers, draftsmen, chemists, and metallurgists. Thousands of inspectors are wanted to pass on the quality of ordnance, ammunition, and other supplies. For office work statisticians, accountants, assistants in business administration, and specially trained clerks are needed.

The quartermaster corps wants several thousand examiners and inspectors, and passenger and freight clerks are needed. The signal corps is short of draftsmen.

The navy has an unlimited number of places for draftsmen, and a long list of positions for technical workers. Practically all branches of the service need stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, and clerks.

The army consumes about 2,000,000 pounds per day of fresh beef. This necessitates the slaughter daily of 4,000 cattle. Official inspectors scrutinize every part of this supply from the time it comes on the hoof to the abattoir until it vanishes from the mess tin of the soldier.

Inspection begins at the stock yards, where the living animals undergo the examination of an official for any evidences of physical defect which might be difficult of detection later. Where there is doubt the questionable animals are separated for closer examination. Where there is certainty of defect, the animal is rejected as unfit for food supply.

Next comes a rigid examination of the carcass. Only when found "sound, healthy, and wholesome" is the meat passed as acceptable for food and duly branded with a nonpoisonous vegetable ink. "United States Inspected and Passed." The unfit carcasses are destroyed.

Fresh meats thus indorsed go forward in regular shipments, but those which are to undergo curing, canning, or manufacture into sausages, lard, oleomargarine, etc., are subjected to re-inspections at each step. For these there is a final inspection just previous to their dispatch for army use. Samples are regularly collected for chemical analysis in the government laboratories.

When the meats arrive at the army stations they are again inspected either by inspectors of the bureau of animal industry or by veterinarian officers of the army. They must also obtain the approval of the officer of the quartermaster corps receiving them. And they undergo their final test when the soldier's immediate organization commander looks them over before he permits them to be served to his men.

Included in war department regulations regarding the employment of prisoners of war and interned enemy aliens are the following statements:

All classes of prisoners, excepting commissioned officers and such others as are physically not fit to labor, will be required to perform work necessary for their comfort or for the upkeep of their prison barracks. Interned enemy aliens will not be held for compulsory labor except as provided in this paragraph.

Prisoners of war, excepting officers, warrant, petty, and noncommissioned officers, may be required to work for the public service—they may be authorized to work on their own account. Under exceptional circumstances, when specially authorized by the secretary of war, they may, upon their written request, be authorized to work for private persons or for corporations. Petty and noncommissioned officers may be authorized to work on their own account, and, upon their written request, may be authorized to work in the same manner as other prisoners of war, except that they will be employed in a supervisory capacity only.

An order for labor will be regarded as a military command, and prisoners failing to obey such order will be punished accordingly.

When employed on work that is necessary for their comfort, or for the upkeep of the prison barracks in which they are interned, prisoners will receive no compensation. When the work is done for the government prisoners will be paid at a rate according to the work executed; when the work is done for other branches of the public service or for private persons the conditions of and the compensation for such work will be settled in agreement between representatives of said branches or persons and the adjutant general of the army.

In a recent statement the war department strongly advises against discouraging letters to soldiers:

"Recent reports from commanding generals of certain army divisions indicate that one of the fruitful causes of soldiers absconding themselves without leave is the discouraging letter from home. Such letters frequently give alarming and exaggerated reports of conditions surrounding the soldier's family, that some member is desperately ill, that all are starving, or that they are being in some way harassed. In instances such letters have so preyed upon the minds of soldiers that they have absconded themselves without leave to go home, only to find that conditions had been grossly exaggerated.

"Meanwhile the soldier had been absent without leave—a serious military offense. His problem then became one of facing the penalty or getting deeper into trouble by deserting. Sometimes a man's pride or fear has led him to desert.

"Every soldier wants to receive letters from home. They should be frequent, cheerful, hopeful, and appreciative of the sacrifice that he is making for his country. They should be full of family incidents and cheerful home gossip. They should protect him from the trailing alarms and the small annoyances of everyday life. They should encourage him by giving full confidence that his family and his friends stand behind him in the great enterprise he has undertaken.

"The value of such letters to soldiers is beyond estimate. The harm that discouraging letters from home do to him is clearly indicated by reports at the adjutant general's office. Here are some extracts from recent reports of division commanders:

"I find, also, that many of the families of the men write to them of unsatisfactory conditions at home, sickness of relatives, and how much various members of the family wish to see the soldier. These letters, so far as sickness, etc., are concerned, are often overdrawn, but, combined with the homesick feeling, often result in the man going absent without leave and finally being dropped as a deserter."

"I am now, through the newspapers of Indiana and through lecturers in Kentucky, whom we are able to reach through the office of the adjutant general of that state, endeavoring to advise the home people of these men of the seriousness of these offenses and that their efforts should be to assist every man in performing his duty that has devolved on him, to lighten his worries, and, above all, to regard desertion in its proper light. I shall also attempt to get the West Virginia papers to institute a campaign of education along similar lines."

"A division inspector submitted the following in this connection:

"While stationed at Columbus barracks, Ohio, last year I was a member of a general court-martial that tried approximately 400 enlisted men for desertion from National Guard regiments stationed on the border. I believe I am safe in saying that at least 90 per cent of them gave as their reason for desertion the fact that they had received letters from home to the effect that a wife, sister, or mother was either dying, very ill, or in destitute circumstances, and begged the man to come home at once. Many of the men admitted that when they arrived home they found that the writer of the letter had exaggerated conditions."

"Many young soldiers, fresh from home, suffer from homesickness, no matter how army officers may try to make their surroundings pleasant and comfortable and provide proper amusements. Extraordinary measures have been taken by the war department during the past year to keep the young soldier actively engaged while in camp with sports, amusements, and comforts that a wholesome psychology might be sustained. Still, a type of soldier will yearn for home and fall into a brooding mood. It is obvious how harmful to him and to the service a discontented letter from home might be."

The enrollment of more than 102,000 boys between sixteen and twenty-one years of age for farm work this season in the boys' working reserve of the United States employment service has been made by six states, according to an announcement by the department of labor. The states first reporting were: California, 22,000; Indiana, 18,845; Illinois, 25,000; Ohio, 18,000; Tennessee, 4,200; Wisconsin, 14,000.

In Rhode Island high school boys are being enrolled in the reserve, trained in handling farm machinery, and sent in groups by automobile to farmers to demonstrate their ability.

Men's colleges and universities are making prompt response to the request of Secretary of Labor Wilson that their students be enrolled in the public service reserve and placed on farms this summer to assist in food production. They will be placed with farmers through the United States employment service, with the aid of the county agents of the department of agriculture.

Swimming is to be taught soldiers in some training camps this summer as a military requirement, according to the commission on training camp activities. A statement by the commission shows that 118,000 soldiers in camps participated in organized basketball last season.

Money Unbanked is Money Unsafe.

Every day the want-ads in the newspapers tell the story of money that vanished because people carry sums in their pockets and purses which they ought to deposit in bank. Money kept about the person is in constant danger of loss or theft; money hidden away is in most cases stolen or destroyed. Countless instances prove that Money Unbanked is Unsafe. ## AMENDING THE NATIONAL CONSTITUTION IS A STATE'S RIGHT

(By Hon. Sidney J. Bowie.)
In 1899 Mr. Bowie was one of the foremost opponents of the State Prohibition Amendment. Today as an advocate of National Prohibition he presents a strong argument for the ratification of the National Prohibition Amendment.

Nationwide Prohibition is the most logical method of dealing with this problem. The war, itself, is a demonstration, but this is true if there had been no war. Formerly the argument against Prohibition was, not that it was wrong in itself but that it could not be enforced. Men who were the staunchest advocates of the licensed saloon said that Prohibition was a great ideal but that blind tigers were worse than the regulated saloon and that blind tigers were inseparable from Prohibition. There was a measure of truth in that argument, although the beneficial effects of Prohibition were so great as to cause a great improvement in the public welfare even when we had it only in local communities.

The question then arises: Why were blind tigers so common in many places where we had only local Prohibition? The answer is, simply: It was because the United States Government was getting a great portion of its revenue from the traffic, and, under the Interstate Commerce Laws of the Federal Constitution, liquor was protected until it had crossed State lines and got into the possession of those who intended and desired to use it for illicit purposes. It was the State policy, looking in one direction, and the National policy looking in another, this conflict between the two jurisdictions that made Prohibition a difficult thing to enforce in many localities. In consequence of this, there has arisen a widespread demand that the Government of the United States should not, either directly, or by indirectness, nullify or aid in nullifying the law and public policy of the different States.

It is unthinkable that in this Nation we should have two jurisdictions, one of great, the other of lesser, power, one exercising one will, and the other another. Co-operation, not conflict, is necessarily the true and just solution of the matter.

The argument that State's Rights are involved is a manifest absurdity. This is not an attempt to secure legislation from Congress in a matter over which it has no jurisdiction. This is a movement to amend the Constitution by the separate action of the States themselves. The right of Amendment was expressly reserved in the Constitution. The National Constitution was created by the States. This is an effort of the States to amend their own Constitution to serve their own ends and purposes, rather than to allow them to be defeated. This Agent of the States, which has grown bigger than its creator, has been nullifying the States' will, or impeding it. The States are now exercising their own inherent sovereignty and demanding that their Agent, instead of opposing their will, shall serve it. The right of amendment of the Constitution is a States' right, and he who would seek to prevent it is the true opponent of States' rights.

We have already adopted seventeen Amendments to the National Constitution, and, with one exception, they have all been improvements. When the Income Tax, the most just of all Revenue measures, was being agitated it took twenty years to secure an Amendment to the Constitution authorizing its adoption. It, too, was opposed in the name of States' Rights, but it was opposed by the men of great wealth, whose chief argument was that it could not be honestly enforced, that the men who owed the tax would not tell the truth about their incomes. But truth and justice at last prevailed, and we see now that, with out this measure of Federal taxation, we would have had the greatest difficulty in financing this war. In like manner, the chief opponents of the Prohibition Amendment, the Liquor Trust, are claiming to be the special guardians of the rights of the States. The people will deal with them just as they did with the owners of great wealth and their opposition to the Federal Income Tax Amendment.

Again, it is argued that the measure is undemocratic. To secure the ratification of the Amendment it will be necessary to secure favorable action from three-fourths of the States. I cannot see how or why, if more than three-fourths of the States want it, it is an undemocratic thing. As I understand Democracy, it is majority rule. I do not understand how a minority of less than one-fourth of the States of this Union should, in the name of Democracy, oppose the will of three-fourths. If majority rule is not the essence of the Democratic principle, what is?

Again, it is said, that if we adopt this Amendment the Federal Government will soon repeal all our State Suffrage Laws. This is a fear expressed without the slightest foundation. Ratification of this Amendment will make us friends, not enemies, in the North. It will strengthen, not weaken, our position there. The West, in one solid chorus, is ratifying the Amendment as fast as their legislatures meet. They are our friends. They are the people who elected the present Democratic Administration. They are the people who defeated the Force Bill of 1890. The South has nothing to gain by pursuing a policy of narrow provincialism. Her greatest security is, while obeying the voice of her own conscience, to keep step with the voice of the conscience of the balance of the country.

But, not alone is the movement sweeping the South and West, it is invading New England, it is gaining ground there, and, before the time limit has expired, we will see the great States of New York and Massachusetts, as well as Maine and others, joining the unanimous chorus of approval from the rest of the country that Prohibition is right and that there should be no dissension between our State and our Federal policies, but that both, shoulder to shoulder, should fight to the death this common enemy of mankind.

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owe to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of proper methods in advance of motherhood. Suffering, pain and distress incident to childbirth can be avoided by having at hand a bottle of the time-honored preparation, Mother's Friend. This is a penetrating external application that relieves the tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without painful strain upon the ligaments and nerves.

Thousands of women for over half a century who have used Mother's Friend tell how they entirely avoided nervous spells and nausea and preserved a bright, happy disposition that reflects wonderfully upon the character and disposition of the little one soon to open its eyes in bewilderment at the joy of his arrival.

By regular use of Mother's Friend during the period the muscles are made and kept pliable and elastic. They expand easier when baby arrives, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally less.

You can obtain Mother's Friend at any drug store. It is for external use only, absolutely safe and wonderfully effective. Write to the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable and instructive "Motherhood Book" of guidance for expectant mothers, and remember to get a bottle of Mother's Friend at the druggist's today. It is the greatest kind of help to nature in the glorious work to be performed.

UNITED STATES HAS ARMY OF PATRIOTIC PRODUCERS OF FOOD

By J. C. Ford, Alabama Extension Service.

The world is short of food. Millions of people are actually starving to death and millions more are on short rations. This condition is going to grow worse instead of better.

In order that the people of the United States and their friends may not starve, the Government is calling on every boy to enlist in the U. S. ARMY OF PATRIOTIC FOOD PRODUCERS. There is hardly a boy in Alabama who has not a brother, a cousin, an uncle or some near relative or friend now in the war or soon to be. The boys at home are as patriotic as those in the war. Let the FOOD ARMY save the world from starvation while the FIGHTING ARMY saves it from destruction by the Germans.

City and town boys can take part in this as well as those on the farm. Let every boy in Alabama ENLIST as a VOLUNTEER in the FOOD ARMY. If he is already a member of a corn, pig, or other agricultural club, well and good. If he is not, but is in a position to grow a pig or an acre of some crop, he should join at once. If he can not have an acre of land or a pig of his own, he should do anything to grow food for human beings or animals. A boy who grows part of an acre or even a bushel or less, of corn, peanuts, beans, peas or potatoes, or helps with the home garden, or hires to his neighbors for such work, is helping to save the world from starvation and to save the lives of our soldier boys.

Last year some people thought too many potatoes were being grown and others thought that there were too many velvet beans. Some farmers even hesitated to harvest their beans because they thought there would be no market for them. Some thought too much corn was being grown. But we now see that there was really not enough of any of those things. The world needs a bigger crop of all kinds of food this year than was produced last year. It is impossible to produce too much food or even enough. Grow Food.

Boys or girls who can not be members of the regular clubs but wish to enlist in the food army will not be required to keep records or make reports, but they will receive instructions concerning the work they wish to do. There are no age limits for enlistments in the food army outside of the regular clubs. Those who are interested should write to their County Agents or to the Junior Extension Department at Auburn for a card.

GARDEN INSECT CONTROL

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Ala. Exp. Station.

The Colorado Potato Beetle

Only a very few of the most important garden insects can be mentioned in this article. Among them being one of the most common and injurious is the Colorado potato beetle on Irish potatoes. This beetle eats foliage in both adult and grub stages. Therefore it may be easily controlled by dusting the potato foliage with an arsenical poison. The best poison is powdered arsenate of lead, because it adheres much longer and also checks the growth of the plant far less than does Paris green. The dry arsenate of lead may be applied alone by the "pole and bag method," as is commonly done for the cotton leaf caterpillar.

Only a light dusting is necessary and it is best applied while the air is still and either early in the morning while there is dew on the plants or late in the evening. While this treatment repeated two or three times during the season will control the potato beetle, it is far better to use arsenate of lead at the rate of 2 oz. per gallon with a fungicide as a spray so as to control both the beetles and a fungus disease known as potato blight. This fungus disease commonly causes the leaves to die and thus stops the growth of the crop before the potatoes are much more than half grown. Yields will usually be doubled where this treatment is properly and promptly used.

The Harlequin Cabbage Bug.

This insect is known also as the "calico bug," on account of its very striking orange and black markings. It attacks collards, cabbage and mustard especially and gets its food by sucking sap only. For this reason arsenical poisons on the surface of the leaves will not affect this species and it is also hard to kill with "contact poisons" without using them so strong as to injure the plants. The simplest remedy in the home garden is to jar the insects into a pan containing a little water with a film of kerosene on top. This treatment used beat while cool must be repeated occasionally to stop them. They may be repelled from the plant for a time by dusting them with fresh wood ashes where these can be used.

For further information relative to gardening and orcharding write the Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, Ala., for Extension Circulars No. 7, Common Orchard Pests; No. 11, The Fall Garden; and No. 14, The Spring Garden.

HOUSE & LOT FOR SALE—The two-story building and the lot formerly occupied by the Banner Office and the fraternal hall, adjoining the court house property on Sixth Street is now offered for sale. Anyone interested may call or write the Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala., for full particulars.

COMMUNITY DAY, MAY 11.

Saturday, May 11, will be Community Day of Children's year. No admission will be charged. The court house doors will be opened at eleven o'clock. Handsome prizes will be given to the mother and baby holding the lucky numbers. These cards, with the numbers on them, will be given at the door. Everyone invited to come.

Watch next week's paper for further announcement.

BETHANY

The Chilton County Singing Convention met in special session at Bethany church Sunday, May 5.

The day was a success in all ways. People began to gather about 7:30 and the crowd was estimated at about one thousand for the day.

The Convention was opened by the president at 10:00 a.m. (standard time.) Devotional exercises by Rev. S. D. Deloach.

W. Y. Keel, J. W. Lowery and James Franklin were appointed program committee.

The morning directors were R. A. Smith, J. M. Dye, Herbert Lowery, J. L. Gore, W. G. Culp and J. C. Jones.

For the afternoon R. T. Grant, James Franklin, J. W. Lowery, J. M. Williams, L. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn, Arthur Beard, J. W. Cagle, J. M. Dye and R. A. Smith.

Organists for the day were J. M. Dye, W. G. Culp and Miss Marietta Walker.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted, same introduced by J. M. Dye:

Resolved, that the Chilton County Singing Convention extend our sincere thanks to the good people of Bethany community for the splendid manner in which they have entertained this session of the Convention.

The president sang the closing song and we were dismissed at 4:00 p.m. by Rev. R. H. Long, pastor.

"Your Money's Worth or Your Money Back."

FATHER AT WAR,
TRAGEDY AT HOMEJust What Home Service Means
to a Soldier.

The father kisses his wife and kids goodby, shoulders his gun and marches away to war.

For a time the current of life flows smoothly for the soldier's little family. Then comes the tragedy. Mother is taken ill. The little brood of brothers and sisters is helpless. No father to turn to. A helpless mother!

To whom can the American soldier's family look at this critical period? Must a brave man's loyalty to his country mean desolation and suffering to those nearest and dearest to him?

No! Emphatically no! The American people will not permit the families of their soldiers and sailors to suffer because their breadwinners are fighting for their country. And so the Red Cross Department of Civilian Relief has created a nation-wide organization for home service for the families of soldiers and sailors.

Under the banner of "Home Service" patriotic men and women have enrolled and are devoting themselves to the noble task of helping soldiers' families to meet and adjust the problems of everyday life and aiding them to maintain the standards of health, education and industry.

Home Service—True Service.

Home service means keeping the soldier's children well and in school. It means tiding the family over financial troubles, arranging the household budget, meeting insurance premiums, adjusting a mortgage, bringing medical aid and legal advice to bear at the right moment. In short "Home Service" is true service, in that it provides the warm handclasp of friendship rather than the humiliation of charity. It calls for sympathetic understanding and intelligent consideration of the most vital needs of the soldier's family.

The Red Cross is pledged to "Home Service" wherever needed in the United States. In each chapter of the Red Cross there will be a home service section, under competent hands, whose mission will be to protect the welfare of the soldiers' and sailors' homes and to safeguard the normal development of their families in employment and in ideals of self help and self reliance.

CORPORAL WARNIE FOSHEE
WRITES FROM FRANCE
TO HIS MOTHER

Mr. J. W. Foshee of Beat 16 has handed to The Union-Banner a letter from his son, Warnie, who is a corporal with the United States Army now in France. The letter is one of the most interesting we have had from the boys over there. Following is what he says:

A. E. F. France, April 18, 1918.

Dear Mother:

I am well and enjoying life simply fine, and I hope this letter will find you the same. I would have written to you sooner, but I have been up at the front in the battle line, and believe me, one does not have much time to write when he is in the trenches; but there are plenty of other things to do. Although I really enjoyed it fine while up there. I enjoyed hearing the shells whistling through the air; and the sight of the air battles are the most interesting I have ever seen. I have had more fun here than I would have had at a circus.

I had a letter from Dewey not long ago, and he was fine and dandy. Who is helping papa with the farm now? I would enjoy being there to help him again. I saw Sie today and he is well and all right.

Suppose you think strange that I don't write often, but you must remember there are times when it is most impossible to take time to write a letter. I want to hear from you all often, so don't wait to get a letter from me, but write as often as you can.

We are at last having some splendid weather which makes it fine over here as we had an awful winter.

We went out patrolling one night and ran up on a German patrol. When we got after them they sure did ball the jack. I really believe they are still running. It was some fun to hear them run into the barb wire.

Mother don't spend any uneasiness about me, as I am having a good time and enjoying life. Write often, and tell me all the news.

LEWIS EASTERLING
ENDORSES MIDDLETON
FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Clanton, Ala., May 11, 1918.
Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to say a few words from Beat 16 in regard to what has been said in regard to Hon. J. Osmond Middleton for Representative in the Legislature from this county.

To begin with, I wish to say that if Mr. Middleton will consent to make the race, we should make a unanimous endorsement of his candidacy and send him down to Montgomery as the representative of all the people of the county. His ability is unquestionable, and his knowledge of the affairs of the state and the legislature is broad. We could not do better than elect him. It will be a distinct honor and credit to the county to do this.

What says the balance of the people? Let us hear from some of the other voters over the county.

Respectfully,
LEWIS EASTERLING.

TOWN WOMEN READ THIS FROM A FARMER'S WIFE.

And if You are Patriotic Take the Advice and Help Win the War.

"Cook your own food; nurse your own baby; dispense with a butler and chauffeur," says a farmer's wife to the women of Montgomery, "and send these people to the farms to make food for the soldiers."

Mrs. William Sample of Rockford, Ala., writes that the farmer's wife gets more advice than the women of any other class, and judging from her description the farmer's wife is contributing more service than any other feminine patriot.

She challenges the women of society and the woman of civic interests to match her in self sacrifice, and predicts that the war will be won soon if her advice is followed. Here is her argument:

Gets Much Advice

"We farmers wives are hearing a lot about economy, especially as it applies to the farmer and his family. We also hear a lot about how we should increase the supply of foodstuffs. Nobody in the world is more willing, both to economize and to add to the world's supply of food than the people of this section, but we need labor bad here in this section and while there are some negro loafers they can't be made to work for love nor money. It occurs to me that if Uncle Sam had them he could probably get something out of them.

"There is another class, too, that could be used to advantage on the farms and I am in favor of drafting them into the service; this is the city servant class. When our women of the cities let their domestics go and begin doing their bit by actual work around their own homes, in their kitchens and with the care of their babies they can well afford to preach economy to the women on the farms but not until then.

"We want to win this war and we must win; but it can't all be done by the economy of the farmer and his wife. Let some of the lectures and magazine articles that we see so much of be addressed to the city woman instead of addressing it all to us; we are willing to do our part, we farmer's wives, but we seem to be doing a good deal more.

"There are few farmer's wives who are not doing their part and have not done so all the time.

"Spring finds us farmer's wives in the fields helping with the crops for farm hands are scarce. It finds us nursing our babies for house servants are out of the question. It finds us cooking for our husbands and the hands because every negro we can get hold of must go to the field.

"Here is the picture you can see any time on the farm: We women take our babies to the field with us. While we hoe back and forth, the baby plays in the basket and the two or three other little ones play around it.

"And here is the scene you find in the city. The wife of the city man hurries off to her card party or club or reception, while the nursemaid takes the baby and the other youngsters out for an airing or amuses them in the back yard.

"I do not know much about 'society' but I read a lot in the papers that makes me know the service of many negroes is used in permitting the leisure class their social pleasures and that while the woman in town is busily having a good time or even doing the many good things that they undoubtedly are doing for the aid of the soldiers, they are leaving capable servants in their homes to attend to all the drudgery.

"My day is like that of the majority of farmers' wives. We often read 'Advice to farmers' wives,' telling how we can add to the comfort and strength of our boys abroad. We are glad to do all we can, but when you see how full the day is for us already you can tell how impossible it is for us to do more.

Work Never Ends

"When we have finished our breakfast, cleaned house, milked, churned, fed our chickens and pigs, we take our baskets and babies to the field, and hoe until 11 o'clock. Then we take up the baskets and babies, return to the house and hurry dinner to have it ready by the time the plowhands get in. Wash days come when it is too wet to work, and ironing is a Saturday afternoon chore.

"The women of the city are doing a lot to win the war they say, and may-

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

The Commencement Exercises of the Chilton County High School will begin next Friday evening. The faculty promises to present some excellent amusement which will surpass any that the school has yet produced.

The following programs will be presented on the dates named:

Friday evening, 8:30—Recital by Senior Music Class.

Sunday Morning, 11:30—Preaching of Commencement Sermon, by Rev. W. P. Hurt, of Prattville, Ala.

Sunday evening, 8:30—Preaching. Monday evening, 8:30—Undergraduates Entertainment, a play, "Valley Farm."

Tuesday evening, 8:30—Graduating Exercises by the Senior Class; Presentation of Diplomas; Closing of Session.

In spite of the many disadvantages caused by unavoidable reasons, the faculty is proud to say that this has been the most successful session of the high school.

LETTER FROM MR. DUKE

Clanton, Ala., May 13, 1918.
To the voters of Chilton County:

Having previously announced myself a candidate for Commissioner from the Second District, I wish to say that if I am nominated and elected, I shall work for a decent maintenance of the paupers of our county, but I am opposed to burdening the county with the support of anyone who is capable of earning a decent living.

I am in favor of keeping our jail in a nice sanitary condition, and in favor of good roads, but I am opposed to creating any new debts to build roads or anything else that can be reasonably avoided. I believe in using all the economy that can be used, so that there will be money in the treasury at all times to pay the county's obligations.

In making my announcement, I do so with a knowledge of the fact that I am not so well known as some of the rest of the candidates but will say I am 59 years old, lived in Coosa County all my life except eight years, which I have spent in this county. I have voted the Republican ticket all my life since I was old enough to vote.

I would like very much to see all the voters before the primary, but this will be impossible as I have a full crop planted and have no help.

Now, in conclusion, I wish to say again that if I am nominated and elected, I will do all I can to keep down the expense of the county. I wish to further say that I look on the people of Chilton County as being capable of casting an intelligent vote and for that reason I shall not run up to anyone and shake his hand in a hypocritical way and lead him around the corner and ask him to his face to vote for me, but I shall leave this to your own judgment.

Respectfully,
A. D. DUKE.

NOTICE SELECT MEN

All who are to go to training camps this month are hereby requested to attend a meeting at the court house Sunday, May 19 at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., for the purpose of receiving information in regard to their future welfare and duties.

This is by the order of the Chairman of the State Council of National Defense, and will be a meeting for men only, to which all men and boys above 16 years of age are invited.

V. J. GRAGG, County Chm.

DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

On Sunday afternoon, May 18 we will hold our District Sunday School Convention at Shady Grove, three miles east of Verbena. We urge everybody that is interested in church and Sunday School work to attend. We need you. W. A. Calloway, Pres.

"Send those colored nurses out into the country and nurse your own baby. I say to the patriotic woman who wants to help her government. Wash your own clothes, scrub your own kitchen. Put up your own corn or learn to drive it yourself and release your chauffeur for use on the farm. Dispense with your butler's services; he is needed more on the farm than you need him in your city home. Your country needs him to help feed our soldiers and the allies.

"There are thousands of men and women who are having a good time just as if there was no war. I am not trying to help run the government business—I have as much as I can do to keep up with my part of the farm work—but I think if all the nurses, maids, butlers, chauffeurs and corner loafers were sent to the farms and the soldiers to the front we could soon win the war and have plenty to eat at home and to feed the soldiers too. If I may return some of the advice gratuitously given, as to increasing our efficiency and the farm production for our government, I would advise the women of the city to try at least a part of our program for a few months. It will not be so difficult for you of the city with your conveniences of light and plumbing and corner groceries and delicatessen; and you will be able to give abundant help to your government."

W. F. DESHAZO WANTS MID-DLETON FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Will F. Deshazo of Mulberry was in Clanton last Saturday. He called on the Editor of the Union-Banner, and among other things he told us about what an interesting time he has been having for the past few days with a case of mumps.

Talking about politics in Chilton county, Mr. Deshazo had the following to say about choosing a man to represent us in the next Legislature of Alabama: "I have noticed the name of Mr. J. Osmond Middleton mentioned for this important place, and I wish to state that I am heartily in favor of sending him to the Legislature. He is a man who has stood by his political convictions through thick and thin, and I think we can depend on him to properly and completely represent us in Alabama's next body of lawmakers. I for one heartily endorse him for the place and believe Chilton county would do well to secure his services."

CLARENCE BICE WRITES FROM CAMP CORDON

Following we are publishing a letter to Mr. J. Bice, from his son, Clarence, who was at that time stationed at Camp Gordon, but is probably, as you will see in the letter, now on his way to France. The letter reads:

Camp Gordon, Tuesday afternoon

Dear Father:

By the time you get this letter another one of your sons will be on his way to New York and across the water to do his duty. I am proud to go father, and fight for homes and loved ones.

I am leaving Lila Mae, the one I love with my whole heart, and our little daughter, under your care. She will get enough money from me to keep her, but I want you to be a father to and console her in this hour of sorrow.

I am going like a man, as you would have me go, and if God wills, I will return after the war.

God bless, cheer, comfort and protect you, will be my prayer every night.

With a heart of love,
Your Son,

Clarence E. Bice,
Band Sgt., 319th F.A.W.

NOTICE TO RETAIL
DEALERS IN SUGAR

Judge L. H. Reynolds, Food Administrator for Chilton County, received a telegram late Wednesday afternoon from Mr. Hobbie, State Food Administrator giving instructions to all retail dealers in sugar. So all dealers of this class will do well to take special notice to what he says:

Montgomery, Ala.
Judge L. H. Reynolds, Food Adm.
Clanton, Ala.

Issue positive instructions to all retail dealers to sell no sugar to manufacturers without certificate from this office. This regulation applies to all users of sugar including candy makers, soda water fountains, dispensers of soft drinks, but not public eating places, bakeries, ladies' canning and preserving and for home use. This very important sugar certificate will be issued by this office based on sworn statements made at the close of business today on form. We will furnish on application. Please report by mail.

HOBBIE.

CHILTON ODD FELLOWS
HAVE ROUSIN

Last Saturday night and Sunday marked two meetings of Odd Fellows in Chilton county that were filled with intense interest both within and without the Order. On Saturday night at Clanton Lodge, Hon. Palmer T. Dauge, State Grand Master of the Order, was present, and performed some work aside from delivering a most enthusiastic address. The meeting was attended by representative from every Lodge in the county, and the total number was away over a hundred. The hall was packed to capacity. In the middle of the program, a recess was taken, when the entire body was served refreshment at Upchurch Drug Store.

On Sunday the other meeting was held at Cooper Lodge, in the form of an anniversary celebration of the founding of the order in the United States. Members of Cooper Lodge with several visiting brothers from other Lodges in the county, assembled at the Lodge Hall, from where they marched to the church. Upon arriving at the church, where a large congregation of people were in waiting for the public exercises, an appropriate historical program was enacted touching on the work and progress of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in America for its whole ninety years of existence.

At the sound of the gravel by Noble Grand, J. M. Grant, of the Cooper Lodge, the participating members of the order in regalia, were seated and Rev. W. J. Armstrong introduced the speaker, a well-known minister of this county, with his intimate knowledge of the spirit of Odd Fellowship, combined with the closely kindred subjects of the Holy Scriptures drew himself out into a free discussion of that part of the work which held up to public inspection, and nothing less than the plain truth to say that he made as fine an address as could have been delivered for the occasion.

These two meetings put a great deal of ginger into the spirit of Odd Fellowship in Chilton County, and the effect will not waste itself, but blossom forth in full bloom, ripening into precious fruits for the perpetuation of the principles of friendship, love and truth.

MR. JOHN MIMS ENDORSES
MIDDLETON FOR LEGISLATOR

Editor Union-Banner:
Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County.

I noticed in the Union-Banner prior to last week's issue where Mr. Jones names and suggests Hon. J. Osmond Middleton to go to the Legislature from this county. I don't think Mr. Jones could have named a man for this position that would please the voters of the county more than J. O. Middleton. Mr. Middleton has a firm character and his party loyalty and ability is unsurpassed. He is a man who has stuck to us in the past and I am sure he will be with us in the future.

I know we have some good men in office now, and too, many good men are now candidates for office, but none for representative yet. I must say that I am highly in favor of sending Hon. Middleton to the Legislature to represent our county, and I am quite sure the rest of the voters see it as I do.

Respectfully,
JOHN MIMS.

WANTS SIGNS PUT ON BARN FOR AVIATORS

Since it has been found necessary to locate suitable landing places near Taylor Field where aeroplanes may land in case of trouble, Major E. L. Hoffman commandant at Taylor Field, Wednesday signed contracts for three small auxiliary fields and several others will no doubt be selected later. The three fields for which contracts were signed Wednesday are at the Park farm near Mt. Meigs, the Merriweather farm and the Barnes farm.

Major Hoffman announced that they are depending upon patriotic communities to offer landing places. Troy Ala., has already provided such a place for landing and a number of other cities are expected to do so. A greatly increased force of aviators and aeroplanes are expected at Taylor Field soon.

Major Hoffman also expressed the wish that towns and communities with a radius of a hundred miles of Taylor Field paint signs on top of barns and buildings directing birdmen and giving the name of the place in towns. This plan has been followed by people around about other aviation fields in the United States and Major Hoffman would be much pleased to see the plan adopted here. The signs Major Hoffman states would greatly assist the flyers in finding their way about aerial roads.

The above is taken from the Montgomery Journal of a few days ago. It strikes us as a worth while scheme to have these landing fields for aeroplanes located in towns near Montgomery. Why can't Clanton provide one of them? It seems to us a good proposition for Clanton business men to figure on.

Harry Peterson and Einar Anderson of Thorsby went down to Montgomery Wednesday to enlist in the navy.

Speak a good word for Clanton

Recent contracts by the war department authorize the manufacture of 3,500,000 pairs of metallic-fastened field shoes for overseas use. The average price was about $7.75 a pair.

Contracts have also been awarded for the manufacture of 2,000,000 pairs of field well shoes for United States and overseas service, the average price being $6.50.

CHURCHES GET YOUR ASSOCIATION MINUTES

The Union-Banner still has on hand Minutes of the Chilton County Baptist Association for the following churches: Liberty Hill, Cane Creek, Sardis, Pleasant Grove No. 2.

These minutes ought to have been in the hands of the church clerks several months ago. It is nothing but pure neglect that allows the business of churches to lag in such a manner, and this is one of the reasons that many of our churches are always going down hill instead of the other way.

If the clerks of these churches will call for the minutes we will gladly deliver them; or if they will write us, enclosing ten cents in stamps we will mail them to them at once.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

Birmingham people are raising sand because the Sheriff of Jefferson county has undertaken to enforce the Sunday laws against the operation of drug stores, ice cream stands, cigar stores, and other such enterprises. Our city neighbors should not kick so big. They had as well do without the dope and cigar on Sunday as us fellows down here on the hot dusty roads. We are all subject to the same laws.

The President's daughter, in her tour of the country in the interest of war work has refused to participate in numerous social functions prepared for her. This is a splendid example of her good sense, and her devotion to patriotic enterprises. Pink tea and high society does not help win the war, and it is good that Miss Wilson is impressing this fact on women who are so engaged.

Everybody is acquainted with T. J. Dorminey's readiness to command witty expressions. He frequently turns a joke from himself on to the other fellow by his quickness to think and speak.

Last Saturday afternoon in Clanton he pulled off a good one on a fellow who first tried to work the joke on him because he is a candidate. Following is the words of the conversation:

A friend of T. J.—"Uncle Tom, have you got any cigars you can give me?"
T. J.—"No sir, I don't smoke. Why do you think I might have any cigars to give you?"

The friend—"Well, you are a candidate, aren't you? Candidates always have plenty of cigars to give their friends."

T. J.—"Yes, son, I am a candidate; but you see I haven't got any opposition."

WHAT CAN BE DONE?

This county has lost much farm labor in the last year or two. So has the next county, and the next State. The condition is Naion-wide.

What can be done about it?
There is no law to conscript labor; the Government can't create it; ship building and other war industries must be speeded to the limit.

Shall the county fail to produce her share of food? Must the town suffer in business by loss of farm prosperity at a time when farm products are so high?

Under similar conditions what have other communities done?

In many places all business houses have closed for a few days at a time in order that every town person fitted for such work might go to farms in the county to help cultivate or harvest the crops.

Many Chambers of Commerce have canvassed their towns and counties, listing all men of farm experience, securing their promise to go when needed and pledging their employers to give them leaves of absence for that patriotic work.

Many communities and counties are requiring every loafer and idler to go to work; urging every person engaged in work that is not of war importance to work on near-by farms during the rush seasons; organizing high-school boys; abandoning the Saturday half holiday on farms.

County Agents in a number of places have called mass meetings, resulting in a "county war council," as it were, composed of leading farmers and business men, organized to secure and utilize emergency town labor for the farms.

Some or all of these methods, or similar ones, can be applied in every town and county.

CAUSE OF HEADACHE

By knowing the cause, a disease may often be avoided. This is particularly true of headache. The most common cause of headache is a disordered stomach or constipation, and may be corrected by taking a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try it. Many others have obtained permanent relief by taking these tablets. They are easy to take and are mild and gentle in effect.

Mrs. C. V. Heath has come home from Macon for a few days.

WOULD YOU HELP?

If a letter came to Clanton from one of your boys now fighting in France, appealing personally to the town to do a certain thing easily within your power, and assuring you the army may be unable to win unless you do this—if that call came you'd shut up shop and every man, woman and child would be working on that job, whatever it might be!

If America fails to produce food, that appeal, literally, will come to every community in the Nation. If Clanton isn't sure of its food production, that appeal is applicable right now! To be sure of the food production means to have a sufficient farm labor supply, and to have a sufficient farm labor supply means that town people must work on farms in the county for a few days at a time, or longer periods if necessary, during the rush seasons of cultivation and harvest.

In every county and community the emergency farm labor needs must be supplied locally—by town volunteers and high school boys, by forcing all idlers to go to work, by applying to agriculture the effort used in non-essential work, work that doesn't help win the war.

"Oh," you may say, "this is just one little town, just one county, and the small amount of food we produce, compared with the production of all the Nation, can't amount to much one way or the other." But if other towns and counties all over Alabama say that it will mean that Alabama will fail in maximum food production; if in other States the same thing is said those States will fail; and if even a few States fail the results may be serious. It is perilous for any community to fail. What will Clanton do?

Will You WORK to help win the war?

DO YOU ENJOY LIFE?

A man in good physical condition is always certain to enjoy life, while the bilious and dyspeptic are despondent, do not enjoy their meals and feel miserable a good share of the time. This ill feeling is nearly always unnecessary. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets to tone up the stomach, improve the digestion and regulate the bowels is all that is needed. Try it.

TOE THE LINE

The line is drawn in our country. Those of us who are backing up our government in its efforts to knock out Kaiser Bill and his gang, are Americans. Those who live in this country and do not support our government and hold up its hands in every way are YELLOW DOGS.

"If a man talks against the government and can't prove what he says, he is a YELLOW DOG."

"The meanest Yellow Dog in the lot is the one that stands by and hears his country abused without protest."

"Which would you rather believe, Uncle Sam or Kaiser Bill?"

"The Income Tax dodger is a Yellow Dog."

"Any man that won't buy a bond, isn't willing to pay his share of the expenses of our boys in the trenches, who are risking their lives fighting for him. Con any Yellow Dog be yellower than that?"

"Anybody that says United States Bonds are not the safest investment in the world, ask him, ask him how he knows. If he can't answer you (and he can't), he is a Yellow Dog."

"Every calamity howler is a Yellow Dog."

"Anyone that talks peace by compromise is a Yellow Dog."

Thorsby, Ala.

NATION WILL PRAY FOR VICTORY ON MAY 30.

President Issues Proclamation Fixing Memorial Day for Event.

Washington, May 13.—President Wilson in a proclamation issued late Saturday afternoon, designated National Memorial Day, Thursday, May 30, as a day of public humiliation, prayer and fasting. The people of the nation are asked to gather that day at their places of worship and pray for the victories of the American armies which will bring peace founded upon mercy, justice and good will. The proclamation issued in response to a resolution by congress, follows:

"By the President of the U. S.

"A Proclamation.

"Whereas, the congress of the United States, on the second day of April last passed the following Resolution: 'Resolved by the senate (the house of representatives concurring), That it being a duty peculiarly incumbent in a time of war, humbly and devotedly to acknowledge our dependence on Almighty God and to implore His aid and protection, the President of the United States be, and is hereby respectfully requested to commend a day of public humiliation, prayer and fasting, to be observed by the peoples of the United States with religious solemnity and the offering of fervent supplications to Almighty God for the safety and welfare of our cause, His blessing on our arms and a speedy restoration of an honorable and lasting peace to the nations of the earth.'

"And whereas, it has always been the reverent habit of the people of the United States to turn in humble appeal to Almighty God for His guidance in the affairs of their common life;

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the thirtieth day of May, a day already freighted with sacred and stimulating memories, a day of public humiliation, prayer and fasting, and to exhort my fellow citizens of all faiths and creeds to assemble on that day in their several places and worship there, as well as in their homes, to pray Almighty God that he may forgive our sins and shortcomings as a people and purify our hearts to see and love the truth, to accept and defend all things that are just and right, and to purpose only those righteous acts and judgments which are in conformity with His will, beseeching Him that he will give victory to our armies as they fight for freedom, wisdom to those who take counsel on our behalf in these days of dark struggle and perplexity, and steadfastness to our people to make sacrifices to the utmost in support of what is just and true, bringing us at last to the peace in which men's hearts can be at rest and which is founded upon mercy, justice and good will.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this eleventh day of May, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-second.

"WOODROW WILSON."

"By the President:
"Robert Lansing,
Secretary of State."

Clanton Pastor to Have Prayer.

Clanton, May 20.—(Special)—Dr. Ernest C. Maye, pastor of the Clanton First Methodist Church, in response to President Wilson's nationwide call, will have services in his church all during the 30th of May, and a special service for prayer at from 5 to 6 p.m. Dr. Maye extends an invitation to all of the people in Clanton and vicinity to come and observe the day in fasting and prayer.

Miss Izora Callen is at home from Judson College. "Zoddie" is one of Clanton's most popular girls and everybody is glad to see her at home again.

NAMES OF STUDENTS WHO PASSED SEVENTH GRADE EXAMINATION

V. Watson, Kenneth Danforth, Eufala Mahan, Norman Roberts, Ralph Jones, Hubert Jones, Gladys Mae Nix, Agnes Kemp. There were eight who took the examination and failed.

AN ORDINANCE

Be it ordained by the Town Council of Clanton, Alabama, as follows:

Section 1. That on and after May 24, 1918, it shall be unlawful for any dogs to run at large in the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, without being muzzled.

Section 2. Be it further ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, that any owner or keeper of a dog allowing said dog to run at large after May 24, 1918, in the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, be fined for each offense not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars, and may also be sentenced to hard labor for the Town of Clanton for not more than thirty days, one or both.

Passed and approved this, the 20th day of May, 1918.

W. A. KEMP,
Acting Mayor.

Authenticated:
H. M. Simpson, Clerk.

CLANTON WILL PRAY ONE MINUTE EACH DAY

The people of Clanton have expressed a desire to devote one minute every day to prayer for the guidance and direction of God for the success of our country in the great undertaking in which we are now engaged across the seas.

The matter was put before the audience at the high school Sunday night and every person in the house stood for carrying out the plan.

At six o'clock every afternoon whistles will be blown or church bells will be rung, calling the attention of everybody that it is the time for prayer. Whereupon every person, no matter where he or she be, or what they may be doing, will pause for a moment, and breathe a petition to God to guide and direct our country in its course for what we believe to be right and just for all humanity, asking that we may be granted a triumphant victory for our ideals, to the perpetuation of the better interests of humanity the world over.

Let us all pray!

LETTER FROM FRED L. HENLEY AT UNIVERSITY TRAINING CAMP

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Thursday p.m.

Dear Home Folks:
Guess I had better write you all a few lines to let you know that I landed here all right.

I am just tickled to death over this place. We have the gymnasium building to stay in and are boarding at the University Dormitory. We are not doing any work as our trucks have not come yet. I got off the train this morning and met Haynie Cox, and went all over town with her. She lives up here and said that Hugh was working here also. I met with Mr. Huggins in Birmingham and he came down here with me.

I sure do like this place and don't think I would change back at all.

Well, don't you all worry about me for I am going to enjoy it all the time. We have some very nice officers. I am looking for Mr. Hale tonight, as I asked about him in Birmingham and they said he was coming here. Well, guess I had better stop.

FRED L. HENLEY,
University Training Camp,
Tuscaloosa, Ala.

FOR SALE—One Saw Mill complete with three-saw edger, and about one-half million feet of timber; and more timber can be bought near it. Also eighty acres of land in 4 miles of rail road. Half cash and rest on terms.

SHILOH

The health of this community is very good at present, and the people are getting along very well with their work.

The prayer service at J. T. Bice's Sunday night was good and well-attended.

I learn that President Wilson has sent out a proclamation for all protestant churches to meet at their place of worship the 30th of May, and fast and pray for victory. This has my endorsement, and I hope every church in America will do this. We will meet at Shiloh that day, if the Lord wills, and we will talk on three subjects: Unity, the Ignorance of God, and its Result and Reconciliation.

Mars Hill Church has declined to entertain the Fifth Sunday Meeting for the reason that they are not able to fix for it. They have my sympathy. The meeting will be held at Pate's Chapel, two miles west of Thorsby.

T. J. DEASON.

DR. HURT PREACHED C. C. H. S. COMMENCEMENT SERMON HERE

The annual commencement sermon of the Clanton County High School was preached here last Sunday by Dr. W. T. Hurt, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Prattville. And also Sunday night Dr. Hurt preached again at the high school auditorium. At both the morning and evening services the attendance was made up from the congregations of both Methodist and Baptist churches in town. Preaching at the churches was dispensed with in order to give everybody an opportunity to attend the school exercises.

Mere words are not sufficient to convey the description of the sermons that were delivered by this eminent master of God's Truth. To listen to his utterances and go with him in his vivid portrayals of the revelations of the beautiful spiritual scenes is the only way to gather the true spirit of his themes. For no words could be gathered that would satisfactorily compete with his superb though simple style of sifting out the truths of the Bible.

The management of the school are to be most highly complimented for securing for the people of this town the immense and glorious privilege of listening to such a man as Dr. Hurt on this occasion.

SQUIRE DENNIS WANTS TO HEAR FROM MIDDLETON

Clanton, Ala., May 20, 1918.

Editor Union-Banner:
I have noticed in your paper several endorsements of Hon. J. O. Middleton for Representative. I wish to add my approval to what has been said; and furthermore, I would like to ask Mr. Middleton to make public his intentions in the matter so that the people will be informed of the situation. I will be glad to see further comment from the people of the county too in regard to this matter.

Respectfully,
JOHN S. DENNIS.

WORKING FOR THE RED CROSS

Messrs Sid L. Gibson and H. B. Oliver of Verbena were in Clanton Monday morning getting things lined up for the Red Cross Drive in Clanton County this week. Mr. Gibson is Chairman of the Red Cross Campaign in this county and Mr. Oliver is Treasurer.

TO PRODUCERS OF AND TO DEALERS IN EGGS

The following questions have been asked of the State Department of Agriculture and Industry by several retail merchants over the state. The answer thereto by the Department is given for the information of other dealers or producers who may desire the same information.

Questions: Is it a violation of the law for a retail merchant to ship eggs to produce dealers to be candled and the loss in bad eggs to be deducted by them? If this practice is not permissible under the law, are retail merchants who buy eggs from the farmers required to candle them at the time of purchase or at any time prior to sale?

Answer: First, retail merchant cannot buy eggs "case count" and ship them to produce dealers to be candled without violating the law. The object of the law, requiring the sale of only edible eggs, their edibility to be established by candling, is to conserve the supply of this whole some but exceedingly perishable food by stimulating the producers to market their surplus eggs fresh and sound and requiring the dealers to rush them on to the consumers in a cool and sound condition. An effectuation of these objects will place the price of eggs to the producers and consumers on the basis of sound food and forever eliminate the doubtful "eight to ten sound" two to four rotten" basis. The result will be both an increase in the production and consumption of eggs and saving in the cost and space required for the transportation of the waste eggs, and, as well, release more of the non-perishable foods for the fighting forces in France. If retail dealers or hucksters were allowed to buy eggs from the producers on the old "case count" plan—thus providing a market for unsound eggs, and dump them into the cars and onto another dealer to become responsible for their character, the purposes of the law would be defeated. Retail merchants, hucksters, commission men, wholesalers and others engaged in the sale of eggs are held alike responsible under the law for the sale, offer or exposure for sale of any lot of eggs containing more than 5 per cent, or 18 eggs to a case of 30 dozen, unfit for food.

Second, all the retail merchants are required by law to buy only candled eggs, or, if they receive uncandled eggs, to candle them and pay for only the sound ones.

Respectfully,
J. M. Moore,
Special Food and Drug Clerk

STANFORD WANTS FARMER FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Editor Union-Banner:

I notice in your paper recently let ters from several voters endorsing Hon. J. O. Middleton for our representative in the Legislature. I wish to say that Mr. Middleton is a perfect gentleman, and I like him very much, but he is not the man for the farmers to send to the Legislature to represent our—the farmers—class.

It is now time for the farmers and laboring class of people to act together regardless of party, and send men to make laws for our own class. Lawyers, bankers, doctors and merchants and the professional men have not and will not give us justice and equity.

We, the farmers of this end of Chilton, will hold a meeting on next Monday night to take some action of whom we will support to represent us in the Legislature; and we ask every school district in the county to hold such meetings and join with us in naming some one who is a farmer to send to represent us. Bibb county will send a farmer to represent her; also will she elect a Sheriff who is a union farmer. Perry county will elect a farmer and many other counties are following in line to elect farmers. Organized labor with the organized farmers will elect the next Governor and the state officers.

I will let you hear from me again.

Respectfully,
W. R. K. STANFORD,
Lawley, Ala., May 21, 1918.

SPECIALISTS ARRIVE AT CAMP WHEELER TO EXAMINE SELECTS

A board of medical officers, all specialists, have arrived at Camp Wheeler to examine the select men, who are coming, for tuberculosis. The men are experts in this work and reported from Camp Greenleaf, according to orders from Washington.

They are: Major A. J. Block, Capt. B. S. Howowicz, Capt. J. P. O'Brien, Lieut. J. F. Howard, Lieut. C. J. Hisslop, Lieut. Arthur Johnson, and Lieut. Milton Shioe.

—The Macon News.

TRAYWICK AND MOATES ENDORSE MIDDLETON

Editor Union-Banner:
We wish to say a few words from High Land in regard to Mr. Jones' Mr. Mims' and Mr. Mr. Easterling's letters concerning Hon. J. O. Middleton for Representative in the Legislature from this county. We think that they could have named no better man than Mr. Middleton for this place.

Respectfully,
B. C. Traywick,
W. J. Moates.

Emmett A. Jones, candidate for State Commissioner of Agriculture, was in Clanton Monday.

LOOK OUT FOR FAKE FRUIT TREE AGENTS

Farmers are Cautioned by the Agricultural Department at Auburn—They are in Chilton County.

It has been reported to the office of the State Horticulturist that nursery firms have their representatives busy in certain parts of Alabama selling orchards of an acre or more to farmers with the promise that, for a given sum, probably $40.00, they will sell the farmer an acre orchard plant it, prune it and spray it for three years free of charge to the farmers.

We wish to say that particularly every selling plan of this character is a bare-faced fraud. We have never known of a single instance where such contracts were carried out in good faith and we do know of cases in which the trees sold on this plan are not only practically worthless but that, after the farmer's money was secured, the orchard was left neglected and it later proved a great disappointment to the purchaser.

Anyone contemplating the purchase of fruit trees should take the matter up with the State Horticulturist, who will be pleased to furnish a list of authorized nurserymen in the state, as well as nursery tree agents. We have also for distribution orchard plans which show the varieties we recommend for planting in Alabama and the approximate price which should be paid for the trees.

We would appreciate anyone reporting to this office the presence in his neighborhood of agents who are attempting to sell orchards on this plan.

G. C. Starcher,
State Horticulturist,
Auburn, Ala.

THEY ARE IN CHILTON

The Union-Banner has been informed that there have been in the past week some fruit tree agents in Chilton County, who probably come in the class of men named above. All persons are urged to be on their guard lest they become the victims of such malicious practices.

IN MEMORY

Died on the 17th inst., at her home near Macedonia, Mrs. Susan Hayes, wife of Mr. Greene Hayes. She was a descendant of the Nix family, one of the pioneer families of West Chilton. She lived to old age, a highly respected lady. Her life was spent around Macedonia, and her remains were laid to rest near her childhood home in the Cemetery at Macedonia. She leaves a husband, four children, one brother and one sister and many other relatives and friends to mourn her departure.

Sad thought! Mrs. Hayes is gone, but will we see her again? Yes. All will be made alive in the great Re-deemer. He gave Himself a ransom for all, that excludes none. We lost life through man's fall, but if obedient to Heaven's Law will regain life and an earthly paradise through the great ransom price. By and by people will cease dying. There will be no more death.

The present trouble and distress of nations will pass away and the happy golden day will burst forth in beauty and the grave will no longer be a victor.

Mrs. Hayes now sleeps in death, but she will come back to life. Now is a dark hour, but light is shining behind the cloud.

She is gone but not forgotten.

REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMM. TO MEET IN CLANTON JUNE 1ST

Notice is hereby given that the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County will meet at the court house on Saturday, June 1 at 11 o'clock, a.m., for the consideration of any business that may properly come before the body. All members of the Committee are urged to be present.

H. A. HARRIS,
Chairman.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

Fishing for "yellow cats" out at Lock 12 is a sport worth while; but "fishing" a dead dog out from under the house is not so pleasant. The Editor has tried both and knows whereof he speaks.

We are glad the Town of Clanton has set its foot down good and hard on the dog business. Dogs are a nuisance when allowed to run at large.
They are liable to "go mad" at any time and cause all sorts of trouble.
One in Clanton the other day pulled off a few stunts of that sort and bit
several other dogs and one person.
Don't just stop at muzzling your dog.
Keep him at home. That is the place for him.

We are glad to see President Wilson take such steps as he did in the appointment of Judge Chas. E. Hughes to aid the Attorney General of the United States in the investigation of the Aircraft charges. If this country is to succeed in the war (and we know it will) it must succeed as a whole country, and not as one political party to the exclusion of all other parties. Even though the administration is Democratic, there is a place in the prosecution of the war
that must be filled by Republicans.
Hence we are glad Mr. Wilson took the step he did in appointing Mr.
Hughes.

There is no act or deed so small and unpatriotic as the use of the Liberty Loan and other war measures as a prize-pole to open up old political sores and create anew the flames of personal political prejudice. The government on the other hand expects those in whose hands have been placed,
the management of such plans, to use these measures to smooth out the old political wrinkles instead of making them worse.

If there are those among our citizens who are prone to misuse the Liberty Loan and with it stir up strife and discord, let them either change their tactics or get out of the harness

MEETING OF SELECTMEN

Last Sunday afternoon at the courthouse there was a meeting of selectmen of Chilton County, who are to go to the national army this month.
The purpose of the meeting was to instruct and advise the young men
how to guard themselves from participation in evil practices when they are away from home in the service.

Dr. Gragg addressed the meeting on medical subjects closely touching their physical well being. His remarks were vital to the young men who will go out to take their chance away from the protecting influence of home and family.

Prof. McDonald spoke to the men and impressed upon them the need of adherence to principles of clean and upright lives while in the service.

The meeting was for men only, and was attended by a large number.

ALL DAY SINGING

There will be an all day singing at Pleasant Grove Church, seven miles south-west of Clanton, on the 4th Sunday in May. Books to be used in the forenoon, Harp and Harmony preaching at 11:00 o'clock by Rev.
A. E. Maddox, Pastor. 1918 books will be used in the afternoon.

All singers and lovers of music are invited. Bring your books and a well-filled basket, and help to make the day one of success.

COMMITTEE.

The "Cantrola" of the Chilton County High School for this year is being distributed. It is a very neat little publication, and is deserving of great credit for the Senior Class, and those of the school who contributed toward the work.

CAUSE OF HEADACHE

By knowing the cause, a disease
may often be avoided. This is particularly true of headache. The most common cause of headache is a dis-
ordered stomach or constipation, and
may be corrected by taking a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try
it. Many others have obtained permanent relief by taking these tablets. They are easy to take and are mild and gentle in effect.

REUBEN REYNOLDS WRITES FROM SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE

Judge L. H. Reynolds recently received the following letter from his nephew, Reuben L. Reynolds, who is in the Quartermasters Department of the American Expeditionary Forces
in France:

Somewhere in France,
April 25, 1918.

Judge L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Uncle Lewis:

I was just informed a few minutes ago that we were at liberty to tell of our experiences in the trenches, which is quite interesting to read about but not so interesting to participate in.
But it is all for our beloved country and I do not object to it more than I do eating fried chicken, so I will begin to tell of the trenches.

It was a dark and rainy night that we pulled out for the trenches. As usual it always rains in France leaving the billets that we were in it was so dark that one couldn't see three feet in front. Two boys had exclaimed "Farewell, Little Village. I might come back and I might not," continuing down the road, which we had three miles to travel. I marched along with my comrades with the determination of "licking the Kaiser,"
and returning to Chilton County.

As we were nearing on a crossroads that the Germans had a machine gun on that spot, something said to me, "Stop on that cross road," and sure enough we did. We got confused on which way to go, of course being so near the trenches I got excited a little. The downpour of rain camouflaged us until we reached the trenches. Arriving there two French soldiers escorted us to our "dug out," which was eight hundred yards behind the front trenches and about five-hundred yards from the German front line trenches. As you know I am in the common platoon of (Center). The dug out was nicely fixed up with a big French mirror and a stone at each end. The French soldier could speak a few words of English, and he began to tell us that we were in a good sector.

The two Frenchmen stayed with us three days but they had changed their minds about it being a good sector before they left us. Our artillery began to shell up things in Germany, which of course made them mad, and they began firing the shells back.
Was I scared when they were hitting around our dug out? I should say I was, for who wouldn't be the first time? It was a comical sight to see us dive into the dug out.

The seventh night our first gas alarm was given about 11:30 p.m., all of us being well instructed in that line had our gas masks on in a few seconds. Gas is the worst thing that the Germans have to fight with in this war. I was asleep when the alarm was given. I woke up trembling from head to foot, and believe me, I know what gas smells like for I got a dose of it while on guard duty one night.
It continued to come over for five hours, and you cannot imagine how one feels with something tight over his face for that length of time. It was 4:15 a.m. that we got the alarm of an attack coming off, and I began to think that they were quite right about it. The Germans were laying a barrage between our dug out and the gun emplacement which was 150 yards for us to go through the woods.
You can't imagine how one feels under these conditions, with high explosive shells bursting on and all around you. We got through that without any casualties. I was not scared until it was all over. I am sure it would have been interesting for anyone to have seen the expressions on our faces after it was over.
They were sending over shells at us that sounded like an earthquake
when they exploded. The bravest man on God's green earth would tremble when they fall close to him for the first time. After one gets used to them he doesn't mind them at all.
He just says "If Fritz has my number on this one he will get me, if not he won't." That is just the way most of our boys feel about it, and believe me, we have got the Huns quite nervous since we have been over here.

I could write you about my experiences all night, but I am afraid our lieutenant would not let it through.
Tell Grady and Claud to write me.
With lots of love to all.
Your devoted nephew,
Reuben L. Reynolds,
Headquarters Co., 167 Inf., Via, New York,
A. E. F.

Gentlemen:

I had cholera in my herd of hogs
recently and begun feeding the B. A.
Thomas's Hog Cholera Cure and stopped losing my hogs at once. I was losing from four to five each night until I began the use of this preparation. I raise about 200 herd of hogs per year and never expect to be without your remedy.

Yours very truly,

DO YOU ENJOY LIFE?

A man in good physical condition is always certain to enjoy life, while the bilious and dyspeptic are despondent, do not enjoy their meals and feel miserable a good share of the time. This ill feeling is nearly always unnecessary. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets to tone up the stomach, improve the digestion and regulate the bowels is all that is needed. Try it.

Do Not Get Careless
With Your Blood Supply

Impurities Invite Disease.

You should pay particular heed to any indication that your blood supply is becoming sluggish, or that there is a lessening in its strong and vital force.

By keeping your blood purified,
your system more easily wards off disease that is ever present, waiting to attack wherever there is an opening. A few bottles of S. S. S., the great vegetable blood medicine, will revitalize your blood and give you new strength and a healthy, vigorous vitality. Everyone needs it just now to keep the system in perfect condition. Go to your drug store and get a bottle to-day, and if you need any medical advice, you can obtain it without cost by writing to Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 25 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

THE SERMON OF DR. HURT

For a man who writes of little every-day local occurrences of the town and community it is not much trouble to gather a few appropriate words of description, or to form an adequate line of narration fitting to most any incident. But for that same writer, accustomed to dealing with these passing things and incidents, it is quite a different matter
when he grasps hold of a man like Dr. Hurt, and attempts to convey to his readers some idea of the becausion like that which was presented to the audiences at the high school Sunday and Sunday night. Of course we have the profoundest respect for all men who are going the rounds of this world and teaching the truths of life and character as advanced out of the Holy Bible. But in that glorious and most commendable profession it is like every other phase of human endeavor. Some will approach higher and more lofty places than others. Some will command a more ready and more easily perceptive manner of doing things than others.

In the natural geography of the world there are hills and mountains.
There are brooks and rivers. So in the sphere of human attainments
there are likewise what we might call hills and mountains. There too, are brooks and rivers.

And so it is with preachers of the Lord's Gospel. There are those who excel others in the same light that the mountains of the natural earth
tower above the surrounding hills.
There are those who surpass their fellow workers as the swift running river surpasses in power and splendor
the babbling brook.

But after all, they are of the same class of God's great creation, and likewise are to be measured out praise and admiration in due proportion to what the Almighty Power has endowed them with. They are all to be honored and revered by the common element of the populace.

When one approaches the mountain or the river, his thoughts naturally rise above the hill and the brook.
And no one would question this natural manifestation of what the diety has placed in human character.

Consequently, we are constrained to say only of Dr. Hurt's sermon here Sunday and Sunday night, that all who heard him realized that they had come within the touch of a tremendous mountain of God's Truth;
that they had been brought to stand by and dip their souls in a mighty river of purity and refreshing waters from the very throne of everlasting grace and perpetual Godly understanding.

E. B. WREN,
As Administrator.

STROUGHTON BICE WRITES HIS BROTHER AT HOME

Mr. J. Bice hands us another letter from one of his sons, Stroughton, who has been in France for some time. We are publishing the letter, which was written to Stroughton's younger brother at home:

"Somewhere," April 20, 1918.

Dear Brother:
Your letter reached me today. I was somewhat surprised to learn that you hadn't heard from me in such a long time. We can't expect up-to-the-minute mail service, and a letter is very easily lost. No doubt, things are rather dull at home, but when we get back things will begin to boom once more.

Wish I could write you all the details of things over here. As for the "big drive" that is raging at the present time, even if I were allowed I couldn't write you any more than you find in the papers, however, let us say that Germany's "goose" is cooked. They sacrifice thousands and thousands of men without the least accomplishments. Even if the big fight doesn't end the conflict the pep will be out of it as far as the Boches are concerned.

I noticed in the paper where the government is not going to send any more boys across. If that is the case, guess Clarence is very well pleased in spite of the war. Am having a plenty good time. No matter how well Uncle Sam feeds us, you know sometimes everyone likes a change. I sometimes pick out a house where resides a pretty little "lily of France" and ask for "hum de ze et def's" (eggs and French fry). So, as I have reached the point where I can talk a little French, I have a jolly time trying to tell the lady something about our wonderful country and bragging about how the Sammies are going to find the Boche. I would certainly like to travel over France in time of peace, for this is a very interesting and pretty country. Things of beauty and interest are too numerous to mention. Between villages a distance of a couple of miles or more the road is lined on both sides with apple trees about 15 yards apart. These trees are now blooming, so I will leave it to your own mind to make up the effect. Haven't received the box you mentioned in the other letter.

Your loving bud,
Stroughton M. Bice,
167th Inf. Band,
A. E. F., France.

COTTON FARMERS MISTAKE

The farmers of the South have made a mistake by increasing their cotton acreage more than a million acres as compared with last year. The New York Cotton factors have already figured it out and the price of cotton has lost $30 per bale. The average cotton planter may say that the cotton brokers' or speculators do not know how much cotton has been planted, and that their figures are exaggerated for speculative purposes. Does anyone suppose that a set of men would bet millions of dollars on the rise and fall of prices without knowing how much cotton has been planted and the growing condition from day to day? Every dry area, rain, storm or disaster is corrected on a chart every day. They have the best system of determining the acreage planted and prospective conditions that can be devised. They have expert traveling agents, and have their reporters in every community. The man who contends that the acreage planted to cotton and its growing condition are not known by the speculators from time to time, deceives himself. You cannot fool those who have the advantage of facilities for finding out things.

Plow Up Ten Per Cent.

Farmers should plow up their poor stands and grassy cotton and plant corn on the rich damp areas, and soy beans, peanuts and cow peas on the remainder. With the present price and scarcity of labor, you cannot afford to dig a heavy coat of grass out of a poor stand of cotton. If the farmers of the South would plow up ten per cent of their cotton and plant the land to other crops, the price of cotton would immediately advance fifteen per cent. This is the best business proposition you will have during the entire year and now is the time to take advantage of it. You are over-cropped in proportion to your labor. If the next few weeks are wet grass will overpower you. If the season is favorable generally throughout the South and fourteen or fifteen million bales of cotton are made, the price will be lower in proportion than your increase will make up, and you will have had all the labor and expense for nothing. You had better act wisely now and plow up and plant to other crops all extra grassy fields and poor stands.

Boll Weevil Fakers.

Do not spend your money for advertised boll weevil remedies. From long experience and observation, the writer is of the opinion, and all best authorities agree, that there is no such thing as an effective chemical boll weevil remedy. Thousands of remedies have been tested out and proved to be founded on ignorance, superstition, or intent to make money by faking. The only remedy for boll weevils, so far known, is good advantageous farming and catching the over-wintered weevils out of the crop before squares are infested with eggs. This can be done by hand picking the weevils, or hot mulch cultivation, and agitating the plants.

There are a few machines on the market which will catch weevils if used when the plants are from six inches to a foot high. If you buy a machine, get the one with demonstrated merit, that costs the least money, and requires the least expense to operate.

J. A. WADE,

Sequel To Love For Doll

Maternal Instinct Greatly Developed by Teaching Children to Love their Dolls.

The little child's doll is mother to the most romantic fairy. And in the years that pass, the doll fades into the petals of a June rose, to evolve the most wondrous of all transformations.

And now comes a more serious period when the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best efforts can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend. An external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate the myriad network of cords, tendons, nerves and muscles just beneath the skin of the abdomen.

It relieves the tension, prevents tenderness and pain at the crisis and enables the abdomen to expand gently. The muscles contract naturally after baby arrives and the form is thus preserved.

It should be applied daily, night and morning during the period of expectancy. By regular use it enables the abdomen to expand without the usual strain when baby comes. Naturally, pain and danger at the crisis is less.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at every drug store. It is prepared only by the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar, Mo., U. S. A.

Write to the "Motherhood Book" without charge. Write to mail it to you. Do not neglect for a single morning or night to use Mother's Friend. Obtain a bottle from your druggist today by all means, and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hart have returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends in Demopolis.

ABOUT RHUMATISM

Rhumatism causes more pain and suffering than any of her diseases, for the reason that it is most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that there is a remedy that will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. It is called Chamberlain's Liniment.

Money Unbanked is Money Unsafe.

Every day the want-ads in the newspapers tell the story of money that vanished because people carry sums in their pockets and purses which they ought to deposit in bank. Money kept about the person is in constant danger of loss or theft; money hidden away is in most cases stolen or destroyed. Countless instances prove that Money Unbanked is Unsafe. ## The Till Boll Weevil Catcher

From the information we have on the merit of the Till Boll Weevil Catcher we are convinced that if the farmers will begin using them when cotton is five or six inches high and continue until the plant is too large to pass through the Catcher, and go over the crop at least once every ten days, cotton can be grown successfully and profitably. It is estimated that one man using a Catcher can destroy more Weevils in the same length of time than twenty men can destroy picking the weevils off by hand.

We have only a very few and if you expect to buy one, please write or phone us at once so we can get more of them from the factory by the time they are needed.

The price is $7.50, and judging by the experience of farmers in other sections you can double the yield of cotton by using them as directed.

U. S. NAVAL FORCE DOING GREAT WORK

OUR DESTROYERS IN EUROPEAN WATERS COVER MANY MILES IN THEIR PATROLING.

WILL CONSIDER INVENTIONS

War Department Creates New Section for Investigation of All Devices—Use of Sugar by Manufacturers Curtailed by Food Administration.

(From Committee on Public Information.) Washington.—Some indication of the ceaseless watch kept on the high seas, in the path of American troopships, by United States naval forces operating in European waters, may be gained from statistics just compiled at the naval headquarters in London. These statistics show that a single force of American destroyers operating from one base had steamed almost 1,500,000 miles up to April 1. The maximum distance covered by a single destroyer was more than 580,000 miles from May 1, 1917, to April 1, 1918. This destroyer was one of the first to arrive abroad after war was declared.

It has been announced that Vice Admiral William S. Sims, commanding United States naval forces abroad, offered to send an auxiliary force composed of naval units to the French front at the beginning of the German offensive. The chief of staff of the French navy and General Foch did not consider that the circumstances demanded the presence of such a force at the front.

The French have had a naval division operating in the forces of the Lorraine sector for some time, and the naval units have made their part of the line as shipshape as possible, with everything from big naval guns down to sleeping hammocks and ships' cats.

The American soldiers billeted in England for temporary training or en route for France are more and more compelling the admiration and co-operation of the English people. The National Sporting club of London has started a series of weekly entertainments for enlisted men of the United States army and navy.

To secure prompt and thorough investigation of inventions submitted to the war department an "inventions section" has been created. All inventions of a mechanical, electrical, or chemical nature submitted for inspection, test, or sale are now considered by this section.

Any person desiring to have an invention considered should do so by letter, giving in order the following information: Name and object of the invention, any claim for superiority or novelty, any results obtained by actual experiment, whether the invention is patented, whether remuneration is expected, whether the invention has been before any other agency, whether the writer is owner or agent, the number of inclosures with the letter. A written description and sketches or drawings of sufficient detail to afford a full understanding of the cases should also be submitted. Should the invention be an explosive or other chemical combination the ingredients and processes of mixture should be stated.

The inventions section will not bear the expense of preparation of drawings and descriptions, nor advance funds for personal or traveling expenses by inventors.

Any matter submitted will be treated as confidential. The inventor will be notified of each step taken during the investigation of his invention. All communications should be addressed: Inventions Section, General Staff, Army War College, Washington, D. C.

All newspapers have again been urged by the navy department, through the committee on public information, to discontinue the publication of news items and advertisements which may in any degree indicate the location or movement of vessels.

This notice has not been issued because of new circumstances endangering ocean shipping—none has arisen—but because it is felt that voluntary censorship has not yet achieved the fullest measure of essential secrecy in the protection of merchant shipping. The notice asks that all references to names of ships, dates of sailing and arrival, information of routes, schedules, cargoes, location and movement of ships be deleted from news and advertising copy.

There are now 20 uniforms for women in war work in the United States. They are for munition workers, telephone and radio operators, yeomen, employees of the shipping board and the food administration, Red Cross workers, Y. M. C. A. workers, women's motor corps, girl scouts, and students of the National Service school of the woman's naval service.

Information regarding the hospitals of the United States. In process of compilation since 1916, is now collated and indexed in the medical section of the council of national defense. A central bureau of information concerning the hospital facilities of the country, under war conditions, is thus provided.

The bureau has not only the details of over 1,000 active hospitals, but is also gathering full data concerning nearly 8,000 other institutions, which include sanatoria, infirmaries, homes, asylums and dispensaries.

THE ASSOCIATED DOCTORS COMING TO CLANTON

Specialists will be at Wilson Hotel on Monday, May 27.

FOR ONE DAY ONLY.

Wonderful Results—Marvelous Demonstration in Chronic Disease Cases by their New System Treatment.

Offer Services Free of Charge.

Word has just been received that the Associated Doctors, specialists, licensed by the State of Alabama, and who have met with such phenomenal success throughout the entire South-east, will be in Clanton on Monday, May 27th, for one day only, to demonstrate their new system of treatment of chronic disease cases.

This will indeed be good news to those who find it convenient to visit the central laboratories in Birmingham, located at Suite 311-12 Lyric Theatre Building, where the organization has Southern headquarters. These regular, reputable physicians believe that the combined skill of several trained specialists in chronic disease cases can accomplish more than one doctor alone—in other words, in unity there is strength.

The offer to treat all who call on this visit absolutely free, is their original method of getting their system of treatment before the public quicker, and no one, rich or poor, white or colored, should neglect to take advantage of their very liberal offer—ABSOLUTELY FREE (medicine excepted). No Cutting—No Knife.

It makes no difference how many doctors you have consulted or how many patent medicines you have taken, you cannot afford to miss this opportunity of ascertaining your exact condition and honestly advised. No one should require further evidence of the skill of these specialists than the following letter recently received from a well-known Baptist minister:

"I can't thank you enough, Doctor," said the Rev. R. L. Fletcher, well-known minister, as he entered the crowded reception rooms of the Associated Doctors, and continued to speak words of praise to all those assembled. "I began suffering from general break-down November 28, last, and appeared to go all to pieces; my stomach, kidneys, heart, blood and nerves went back on me, and even though I consulted the best local doctors, they finally had to advise me no cure, and for me to consult an expert specialist. As soon as I noticed your announcement and learned from so many people of your cures, I came to your office.

"I had indeed about lost hope, but today—even after taking your marvelous treatment for only this short period, I am a new man; eat well, sleep well and feel like a man in my prime. I want to thank you, and my dear wife, for she is so proud of my improvement. I want you to publish this statement so that others may benefit the same as I have.

"Most gratefully yours,"

(Signed) "R. L. Fletcher."

Now that you know the truth, you have only yourself to blame if you continue to suffer from Piles, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Discharges, Bed-Wetting, Blood Poison, Skin Eruptions, Rheumatism, Epilepsy, Uric Acid Poisoning, Paralysis, Nervous Troubles and Debility, Neuralgia, Stomach and Liver Troubles, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Tumors, Indigestion, Constipation, Gall Stones, Ovarian and Female Troubles, Enlarged Glands or any reflex condition of the nervous system, and those diseases about which most people dislike to consult the general practitioner.

Bear in mind that this will likely be the last visit when the specialists extend their services FREE.

Hundreds have been restored to their perfect good health, with rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes—so may you. The specialists are too well known throughout the State to require further mention.

Married women should be accompanied by their husbands and children by their parents.

Remember the hotel, day and date—one day only.

Hours, 9:00, a.m. to 4:00, p.m. (Paid Advertisement.)

MEETING OF CLUB MEMBERS

There will be a meeting of all the members of all the clubs of farmer boys and girls at the High School Building in Clanton next Saturday at 10:30 o'clock. All members of the Boys Corn and Pig Clubs, Peanut and Calf Clubs and the girls of these same clubs are requested to attend. We will have Mr. Avery of Auburn and J. C. Ford of Auburn here to address the club members. Prof. McDonald and Others will have something to say to the boys and girls. Any boys or girls not already members of the clubs, who desire to join, can do so at the meeting here next Saturday, and will be given record books. Also record books will be furnished those present members who have not already received them.

HUSBAND GONE—SONS GONE— HOME AND RELATIVES GONE

A Fact Story Telling Just What the Red Cross Did for Mme. Pellier.

By an Eye Witness

MAUDE RADFORD WARREN

This is the picture I saw last January in France,—and you have mercifully changed it! Color enough there was—above, the eternal blue; in the background, fields of living green, which the German shells could not prevent from creeping back; in the middle foreground, a long village street so battered and burned that it was merely a canyon of cream-colored ruins. In front of one little broken house were four figures in black—an old woman, poking among the fallen stones in a vain search for something that could be used; a younger woman, seated on what had once been a doorstep, with her face hidden in her arms; and a little boy and girl, who stared, half frightened, half curious, at the desolation about them. The little boy held in his thin hand a Red Cross flag. All four were pale and gaunt; the faces and bodies of the children showed none of the round curves that make the beauty of a child.

This is their history: When the war broke out, Mme. Pellier, her mother and her four younger children were visiting her husband's mother in the north of France. Her husband and two elder sons were at home in Lorraine taking care of the summer crops. Then the war! The mother-in-law of Mme. Pellier was ill and could not be left. Her old mother was afraid to travel to Lorraine with the full care of the four children. Before they could all start together the Germans invaded. Bad news is allowed to come into northern France, and so as the months passed Mme. Pellier learned that her village home had been bombed and that her husband and two sons had been killed. Except for the Belgian Relief Commission, which operates in northern France also, she and her little ones would have starved outright. At the best they were undernourished. Then the great push began, and hopes for France grew high. But as the French soldiers advanced they had to bombard the northern towns. Mme. Pellier begged the Germans to let her go away with her children—even into Germany. This was refused. She tried to seek safety in some cellar whenever there was a bombardment. Nevertheless a shell killed two of her children.

Found Her Home Gone.

Home gone; husband gone; brave soldier sons gone; little, tender boys torn into shreds! That woman's face would have shown you what she had suffered—her face against the battered ruins the Germans had made. At last she and her mother and her two remaining children were repatriated. They knew the infinite relief of crossing into Switzerland and then into Haute-Savoie. From there they went to Lorraine. Mme. Pellier hoped that, even though her village had been bombed, her home might have escaped. She found nothing except her bare fields.

You changed that picture, you Americans, who can never be bombarded, who can never lose through war five out of the seven dearest to you. It was not your husband and children who died; not your wife who was widowed; not your little ones who came back, bony and tubercular, to a home that had vanished. Not yours, but only the grace of accident saved you; not yours, but it might have been and so you changed the picture. You could not build up with your own hands that heap of stones into a home, nor till the fields, nor bring Mme. Pellier back to hope and the children back to health. But through the Red Cross you saved the remnants of that family that had suffered as you might have suffered.

Things the Red Cross Did.

You took the mother of Mme. Pellier to a Red Cross hospital to be treated for anaemia. You took the little girl, who was in the first stages of tuberculosis, to a Red Cross sanatorium. You found a place which could be made habitable for Mme. Pellier near her fields which she was anxious to till. You gave her clothes and furniture; you got her seeds; you lent her implements. You sent a visiting doctor to watch over her health and that of her little boy. You sent nurses, who achieved the mighty victory of making her and the child take baths. Later you persuaded her to let him go to a refuge not far away where he might attend school and where she could often visit him. Through the help of your Red Cross hope and courage and ambition have come back to that woman, and she is rebuilding her family life. The biggest thing one human being can do for another you, if you are a helper of the Red Cross, have done for that mother.

Red Cross! I saw its work every-where in France—in fields and in blasted villages; in hospitals and schools and clinics; in refuges and vestiaires for widows and orphans and for the sick children of soldiers fighting to keep you safe from the enemy.

This symbol of help has a double meaning now for Americans, who have always taken for granted the blessing of safety. It stands for your willingness to pay the price of exemption, of pity, of sympathy. A bitter, black road this road of war, but across it, like a beacon of hope, you have flung the Red Cross.

COMMUNITY DAY OBSERVED AT CLANTON, ON MAY 11

"Community Day" was observed at the court house Saturday, May 11. A large number of people, both from Clanton and the rural districts were present.

An interesting program was carried out. Mrs. Hugh Jones represents the State Civic League, and in behalf of "Better Babies Week" gave a wide-awake talk. The principal theme of her address was "Why it is so necessary, during the world war, to preserve baby life, those who are to be the future citizens of the world." Interesting addresses were delivered by Dr. Gragg and Dr. Mastin, who brought out strongly how the lives of babies may be saved by merely being careful in handling the food and in the preparation of it.

Valuable literature on the care of children was distributed.

One of the most interesting features of the day was the awarding of the prizes to the mother holding the lucky number and to the child holding the lucky number. The fortunate mother was Mrs. R. A. Smith; to whom was given a beautiful georgette grepe waist. The child who received the handsomely illustrated copy of "Grim's Fairy Tales," was little Miss Letitia Genoa Powell, from the rural district. The book would gladden any child's heart.

All went home feeling that they had been benefitted and with a determination to have a more successful "Community Day" next year.

IMPROVEMENT AT COURTHOUSE

Some very distinct and beneficial improvements have been made at the court house this week. A re-arrangement of the Probate Judge's office has been made that will greatly facilitate the work of the clerks; and the outside windows of the offices have been screened.

B. E. Collum of Jemison was here Monday attending to some business.

LITTLE CHILD DEAD

A little child of Mr. Charley Baker died last Sunday and was buried on Monday.

It Helps!

There can be no doubt as to the merit of Cardui, the woman's tonic, in the treatment of many troubles peculiar to women. The thousands of women who have been helped by Cardui in the past 40 years, is conclusive proof that it is a good medicine for women who suffer. It should help you, too.
